Boss and Dr. Alvin Ranger of Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. both bid the job at 2.5 percent of construction costs, or about $5,000.

The council was swayed by a promise by Boss to be on the job whenever work is in progress. Ranger said he would personally oversee every "critical phase" of the operation.

When Alderman Richard Fochtman moved that Boss be hired, Ranger and Mrs. Mary Feindt objected on grounds that Boss is not a registered engineer, as is Ranger. Mrs. Feindt said the state would require a registered engineer to oversee the work.

Ranger said the whole idea behind registration is to protect taxpayers' funds on public projects.

Boss, who is a graduate civil engineer, said his brother, who also is a member of the company and a registered engineer, would put his stamp of approval to the job.

After a lengthy discussion, Mrs. Feindt checked with the state registration people and reported back that a registered engineer would not be required to act as resident engineer.

The council then voted unanimously to hire Boss.

Both candidates appeared to be thoroughly qualified for the job, since they have both supervised and inspected sewer projects in recent years.

Greg Shadko of Charlevoix also bid on the job if the council would agree to raise the line five feet and install a lift station. McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor, project engineers, said it would provide a resident engineer at a cost ranging from $3,000 to $3,500 a month. The job is expected to take about three and one-half months.

The general contractor, G&T Construction of Traverse City, expects to begin work on the sewer this week. All of the pipe arrived in town over the weekend and is stored on the east side of May-st.

Monday's meeting capped 11 hours of council deliberation in the past eight days on the sewer project.

Coloring Contest, Bargains Inside

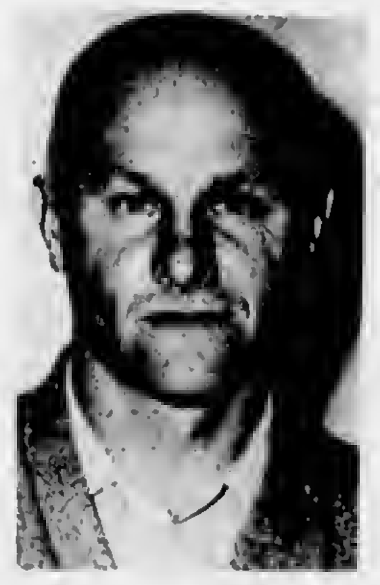
There's something for everyone – and Easter bargains galore – in this week's Charlevoix Courier.

On Page 2, you'll find a full page of Easter drawings for the little folks. They can color them to their liking and submit their entries to the Charlevoix by noon Friday, April 12.

A committee of judges will review the drawings over the Easter holiday and award prizes of $10, $7.50 and $5 for the most attractice entries. Winners will be announced April 17.

The coloring contest also will appear in next week's Courier.

On Pages 6 and 7, you'll find two full pages of Easter bargains offered by Charlevoix merchants, with emphasis on "shopping at home."



Donald Meggison

Meggison Defeats Osterberg

Republican Donald Meggison was elected 13th District (First Ward) county commissioner Monday in the only contest in the city's general election.

Meggison, 50, received 131 votes on the machine and six absent votes. His opponent Democrat Paul Osterberg, received 6 machine votes and two absent votes.

Only about 225 voters showed up at the polls, slightly more than 10 percent of the registered voters.

Aside from Meggison, all of the other candidates ran without opposition.

Mayor Edward P. Hansen received 107 votes in the First Ward, 37 in the second, 47 in the third and 12 absent votes for a total of 203.

City Clerk Ida Heise received 20 votes in the First Ward, 41 in the second, 47 in the third and 14 absent votes for a total of 222.

City Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham received 119 votes in the First Ward, 40 in the second, 48 in the third and 14 absent votes for a total of 221.

Ralph McRae, who defeated Tom Duke for the First Ward council seat in the primary, received 110 machine votes and six absent votes. Second Ward Alderman Timms, who defeated Robert Lieberman in the primory, received 38 machine votes and five absent votes. Gerald Selph, who defeated Mrs. Henry Borths in the primary, received 48 machine votes and two absent votes.

Meggison, who was appointed to the County Board of Commissioners in January to succeed the late Kit Carson, is a native of Charlevoix and graduate of Charlevoix High School. He served in the Pacific theater during World War II.

He and his wife, the former Helen Kaske, have three sons, Jerry, Tom and Bruce, and a daughter, Barbara.

Meggison is employed by Charlevoix Oil Co.

Marion Twp. Will Weigh Zone Changes

The Marion Township Board has called a public hearing at 8 p.m. April 10 at the town hall to hear comments on proposed changes in the zoning ordinance.

The session also will be the annual spring meeting of the Township Zoning Board.

The proposed changes would eliminate mobile homes from R-1 and R-2 zones, provide a greenbelt for gravel pits and exclude motels and cabin courts from land zoned agricultural.

Dad Looks on as Son Is Swept From Tug

The skipper of a Great Lakes tug watched as his son and another sailor were swept overboard into the icy waters of Lake Michigan Saturday morning. He was unable to save them.

Victims of the tragic accident aboard the tug Lauren Castle were crewmen Ron Smith of Ashland, Wisc., and Mel Selvick of Sturgeon Bay, Wisc.

Smith's father is captain of the tug and was aboard Saturday morning when a tow line parted, causing the vessel to heel over in the water.

Smith and Selvick were on deck and were swept overboard. Both men reportedly were wearing heavy foul weather gear and high boots and had neglected to put on life jackets.

Other members of the crew tossed a life jacket and a ring to the men, but they sank out of sight almost immediately.

Details of the accident were relayed to the Courier Monday by Capt. P.J. Bull of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew which participated in search and rescue operations over the weekend.

The bizarre series of events started Friday when the cement carrier F. T. Crapo broke her rudder in high seas about six miles west of Gull Island and 15 miles west of Beaver Island. The Sundew was asked to stand by until tugs arrived to take her into Sturgeon Bay.

The first tug, the John Selvick, arrived on the scene early Saturday morning and took the Crapo in tow. The Sundew left and headed for the Straits of Mackinac before the Lauren Castle arrived to assist the Selvick.

About 9 a.m., the Sundew received word via radio that the Castle's tow line had parted, two men were lost and the Castle was sinking.

Capt. Bull turned around and headed back toward Gull Island. He found that the Castle was in no danger of sinking but that the two crewmen had disappeared without a trace.

Members of the Sundew crew recovered the life jacket and ring which had been thrown to the men.

A Coast Guard helicopter from Traverse City was called to the scene and made repeated passes over the area to no avail.

Capt. Bull says the search was hampered by heavy fog most of Saturday, although the lake was calm.

The 'copter returned Sunday morning, but there was still no sign of the missing men.

The search was halted and the Sundew returned to Charlevoix Sunday evening. The two tugs continued to Sturgeon Bay with the Crapo in tow.

Capt. Bull said the scene of the accident was close to where the Bradley went down in the 1950's.

Cancer Goal Is $11,000

Cancer Crusade volunteers from around the county convened Wednesday at Boyne Mountain for their annual kick-off coffee.

The drive will be held in April, with a goal of $11,000—up $1,000 from last year's goal of $10,000.

The meeting was chaired by Mrs. Harvey Varnum of Boyne City, county chairman. She succeeds Mrs. LeRoy Sorensen of Boyne City, who has stepped down.

A large contingent of Charlevoixans attended the coffee, headed by Mrs. Albert Seger, city chairman.

Mrs. Varnum will handle the drive in Boyne City; Mrs. Ann Hite and Mrs. Jane Russell, East Jordan; and Mrs. Anthony Kullik, Boyne Falls.

Ron Chalker of Reed City, area representative of the American Cancer Society, showed a movie on "Reach to Recovery," a group of women who have undergone mastectomies and offer hope and encouragement to other cancer victims.

Dr. Harry Custer of Charlevoix, medical advisor to the local chapter of the society, discussed strides in the past 40 years in the search for a cancer cure.

MSU Hopes to Unearth Ancient Indian Villages

The Department of Archeology at Michigan State University has received a two-year grant of $75,000 from the National Science Foundation to do research into prehistoric Indian village sites along the inland waterway from Petoskey to Cheboygan.

Word of the grant was received from William Lovis of Michigan State who participated in the "dig" at the site of the present La Croft condominium at the foot of W. Dixon-ave. last summer.

The project was under the direction of Dr. Charles Cleland who has done considerable archeological work in the Charlevoix area in recent years under the auspices of MSU.

Lovis says the new project will be limited to the discovery of prehistoric village sites along the shores of Crooked Lake, Burt Lake, Mullett Lake and connecting waterways.

The MSU archeologists will arrive on the scene June 18 and work for 10 weeks. A similar schedule will be established next summer. All of the material undercovered will be returned to Michigan State for analysis and evaluation.

Here Are Rules for First Chamber Raft Race in June

A set of rules governing Charlevoix's first raft race has been drawn up by the Chamber of Commerce, according to Manager Vince Olach.

The race will be held at noon Saturday, June 15, beginning in Round Lake behind the Chamber of Commerce building. It will finish at East Park after the rafts have completed a circuit of Round Lake.

Olach says contest officials will begin lining up the rafts at 9 a.m.

Each raft will be assigned a card, which will be prominently displayed to viewers as the rafts cross the finish line. The raft with the best time will be declared winner.

Prizes of $100 will be awarded for the first raft in, $50 for the second and $25 for the third. There also will be a $25 prize for the most creative raft.

The entry fee is $10 per raft. Entry blanks and letters of indemnity are available at the chamber office.

Following are the rules as drawn up by the chamber:

RULES

1. No canoe or boat hulls may be used to support raft.
2. No commercial rubber life rafts allowed.
3. No motors, paddlewheels or sails allowed.
4. No fixed or attached oars or rudders.
5. Only paddles may be used for propulsion.
6. Raft may be as big or small as you wish provided all crew members can ride safely. Marshal's decision as to safety of each entry is final.
7. All crew members must wear a U.S. Coast Guard approved life preserver and tennis shoes sneakers.
8. After starting race all crew members must stay on raft at all times.
9. Each raft must have a designated crew captain. Each raft must have at least one adult over 18 years of age on board the raft during the race.
10. All crew members must sign form of indemnity on entry blank indemnifying the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and sponsors from all liability in event of accident or injury.
11. Crew Captain must pick up raft number form registrar's table. All numbers must be physically visible to scorer at finish line.
12. Crew members must pass inspection to be certain that approved life jackets are on all members.
13. After inspection the raft will be launched and go to the starting line.
14. At starting line rafts will line up according to numerical sequence
15. All rafts must follow course as laid out, passing each marker on the shore side. Rafts being passed may not interfere with rafts that are passing.
16. Be certain your raft complies to highway safety regulations and rules on size that can be transported on the highway.
17. Crew captains are responsible for the rafts removal from the water after the race.
18. Entry fee $10 per raft. Please don't throw litter into the lake.

County GOP Will Meet This Thursday

The Charlevoix County Republican Committee will meet Thursday, April 4, at 8 p.m. in the County Building.

An executive committee meeting will follow the county meeting.

On the agenda are nominations for the post of Finance Committee chairman and secretary, according to Robert L. Wise- jr., county chairman.

Members also will be briefed on new laws governing political parties and candidates.

Plans to raise funds for Cong. Phillip Ruppe also will be discussed, according to the chairman.

Frances Elizabeth Inman Wed in Methodist Rites

Frances Elizabeth Inman of Charlevoix became the bride of Gary Frederick Stewart of Grosse Ile in ceremonies March 30 at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix, the Rev. Elmer Faust officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary F. Stewart

Approximately 100 guests witnessed the double-ring ceremony which was performed before an altar decorated with candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and blue and white Shasta daisies.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry E. Inman of Charlevoix. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Stewart of 26026 East River-rd., Grosse Ile.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother in memory of the bride's father. A poem, "The Giving", written by Michigan's poet laureate, Max Ellison, was spoken by the poet.

The bride wore a floor-length gown with overlapping double layered skirt, Empire waist, wrist-length lantern sleeves and a fitted bodice. The white sheer organza was embroidered with tiny white flowers. The border was embroidered with white daisies with blue centers. She wore a Juliet cap of pearls and carried a colonial bouquet of daisies and baby's breath with wide streamers.

Mrs. Lee Moerland sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied on the organ by Debra Smith. Ben Duff accompanied himself on the guitar when he sang "Every Day of Our Life."

The bride's only attendant was Annette Hansen who wore a gown similar to the bride's of pastel blue dotted Swiss, with a matching bow for a headpiece.

Kenneth Stewart, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Ben Duff and Jeff Jarvis, a cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother hosted a reception in the church parlor after the ceremony, assisted by Mrs. Walter Jarvis, an aunt of the bride.

The couple will honeymoon in Florida and New England, returning to Michigan State University in June where they will resume their studies. The bride is majoring in Special Education and the bridegroom in communication arts.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Weathervane Inn March 29.

Out-of-town guests attended the ceremony from Detroit; Lansing, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Grosse Pointe and Ohio.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by District Judge Arthur Reibel.

Richard Sikorski, 26, North Point, plead guilty to charges of violating the controlled substances act and consuming an alcoholic beverage on a highway. He was assessed $120 and sentenced to 10 days on the work program.

Ray Carl Whitley, 18, Charlevoix, plead guilty to a charge of impaired driving, reduced from driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor at the request of the prosecutor. He also plead guilty to being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. A charge that he furnished alcoholic beverages to a minor was dismissed. He will be sentenced later.

Andrew Dale Sutton, 31, Boyne City, plead guilty to discharging a firearm not maliciously. He will be sentenced later.

John Thomas Pedersen, 19, Harbor Springs, had his bond reduced to $50 on a charge of breaking and entering (felony).

Guy Phillips, 45, Petoskey, was released on personal recognizance bond on a charge of rape. Examination will be held later.

A charge that Judith Pahkala of Boyne City cashed a not sufficient fund check was dismissed at the request of the prosecutor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry J. Walker of Sycamore, Ohio, announce the birth of a daughter, Jessica Jean, born March 19.

Mr. Walker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle J. Walker of R-2, East Jordan. His wife is the daughter of the Philip E. Ryckmans of Lake Orion, Mich.

Magistrate's Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by District Court Magistrate John Connolly:

Mary Thuss, Charlevoix, was assessed $15 for driving too fast for conditions.

Gwen Morgan, 31, Charlevoix, was assessed $15 for speeding.

Robert Casteleine, 23, Charlevoix, was assessed $15 for speeding.

Richard Lewis, 23, Charlevoix, was assessed $15 for not having a motorcycle endorsement on his driver's license.

Raymond Malec, 39, Petoskey, was assessed $10 for driving without valid registration.

Randall Chambers, 27, Charlevoix, was assessed $15 for speeding.

Good News Coming, Cancer Workers Told

Listening to Dr. Harry Custer last Wednesday morning as he addressed American Cancer Society volunteers at their crusade kick-off breakfast at Boyne Mountain, you got the impression that something big is about to happen in the war on cancer.

The mood was something akin to the hope and expectation experienced across the country 20 years ago when the University of Michigan was evaluating the effectiveness of the Salk vaccine against polio.

It was a beautiful day for mothers and fathers around the world when researchers reported that the vaccine was almost totally effective in warding off that terrible crippler and killer of children.

Today, science is on the threshold of new breakthroughs against another awesome killer --- cancer.

"There is a bright future in the near future," Dr. Custer told the volunteers.

He pointed out that if mankind's sum total of knowledge about cancer could be compared to one mile, medical science has traveled all but one inch of that mile in the last 40 years.

The strides taken in the last 20 years alone have been phenomenal.

Although the federal government has now joined the battle against cancer, most of the research to date has been financed and promoted by the American Cancer Society --- the same society which will ask you for your annual donation during the month of April.

The dollars you give when a volunteer calls at your home sometime in the next few weeks may be the very dollars which will mean a victory over cancer for all of mankind.

And it could happen in your lifetime.

Dr. Custer outlined some of the areas now under serious study, including some pretty heavy evidence that cancer is either caused or triggered by a virus.

One study in France shows that youngsters who received an anti-TB vaccine were seven times more immune to cancer than children who did not receive the vaccine.

Needless to say, researchers are trying to find out why and with your dollars they will.

When Cancer Society volunteer calls on you, give generously.

Your contribution will be an investment in the health and happiness of your loved ones. And there's no better way to spend your money.

'Scenery Bank' Plan Almost a Reality

(For several years, the Courier has proposed in its editorial column adoption of a "Scenery Bank" in Michigan which would give farmers and other holders of large, undeveloped tracts of land preferential tax treatment if they agreed to keep their land out of the hands of developers.

(Bills which would achieve just this end are practically through the House and Senate and will shortly appear on the desk of Gov. William Milliken. Following is a discussion of the legislation by State Sen. Robert W. Davis. Editor's Note.)

By Sen. Robert Davis

Q. When is the Legislature going to do something to alleviate the burden of farmers with regard to property taxes?

A. After a campaign which started more than a year ago when a bill was introduced in the Legislature, it appears that a move to save state farm lands and certain "open space" lands is about to pay off.

A bill, much amended by both Senate and House of Representatives, is considered likely to reach the Governor's desk soon.

The measure offers tax breaks at least 10 years. It was designed primarily to save millions of acres of farm land from being forced into commercial development by rapidly escalating land values and increased taxes.

Under this measure, farmers can enter into farmland development rights agreements with the state for 10 years that would limit development to improving the land for farming purposes. Such an agreement would have to be approved by state and local governments.

Under such an agreement, farmers would be eligible for credit on their state income taxes equal to the amount their property taxes exceeded 7 percent of their household income. The credit for owners of incorporated farms would be based on 7 percent of taxable, rather than household income.

"Open space" land owners would be able to seek an open space development rights easement, subject to local governmental approval. With the state holding the development rights, development would be limited to just what was needed to maintain the property as open land.

Under the bill, open space land is defined as undeveloped historical sites, land controlled under the Natural Rivers Act or Shorelands Protection and Management Acts, and similar areas approved by the local government to save natural scenic resources.

The three ways to end land agreement under the bill are: natural termination at the end of the ten-year period, requested by the state to the owner to take the land out from under the agreement, and requested by the owner to end the arrangement.

At the end of the natural termination, the farmer would pay back the last seven years of his credit or in the case of "open space" land, the woner would have to payu the last seven years of property taxes levied against the land. If termination ends by state request, no penalty or back payment would be required.

If an owner requests to be relieved, the state must approve the application and the owner would be required to pay the total amount of the credit received or property taxes at 6 percent interest compounded annually from the date of entrance into the program.

If all state farmers opted for the program, the cost would be at least $6 million, backers say, but only a small fraction of the state's 80,000 farmers are expected to apply.

Your questions and comments are always welcome and may be addressed to: State Sen. Robert W. Davis, State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48902.

Campaign Reform Can Unite Parties

R.F.D. No. 3 Box 241

Bob Clock
Editor
THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Dear Bob:

Last week's editorial on the need for public campaign financing and election reforms was excellent.

In order for all the people to be participants in government, we must insure that special interests cannot buy our elected officials. Both parties have allowed big money to buy campaigns. This is an issue all of us, Republicans, Democrats, Independents, can work to change.

Common Cause members of this area thank you.

People who wish to learn more about Common Cause and campaign reform proposals, are invited to participate in a meeting, Thursday, April 4, at the State Bank and Trust Co., Mitchell St., Petoskey, at 8:00 p.m.

Sincerely,
Sara Gay Dammann

He's Afraid We'll Give Canal Away

The editor, Charlevoix, Courier
Charlevoix Mi 49720

Dear editor:

The Panama Canal is as much a part of the United States as is Michigan, Alaska, or any other state of the Union. As in many other areas, the Nixon-Kissinger (or Kissinger-Nixon) administration has now openly committed us to surrender of the Panama Canal. The Kissinger-Nixon plan to surrender the American canal and the canal zone represents a direct challenge to anti-Communists in Panama and the sovereign people of the United States as well as our Washington representatives in both houses of Congress, who were elected by the people to protect our rights as Americans. This Kissinger (German-born Socialist) give-away will also directly affect our economy because of higher freight costs paid for shipping.

Soviet Russia is clearly trying to move into the Caribbean, and means to play a hand in Panama as well as in Cuba. The recent Kissinger kowtow in Panama City gives off a very familiar odor, this time of a Marxist, Communist Socialist, Torrijos-Castro-Kissinger pact. The loser, of course, as in all of Secretary Kissinger's peaceful operations, will be the United States.

The Kissinger plan to surrender our ownership of the canal and canal zone constitutes an unconstitutional abrogation of the responsibilities of the Congress, and is treasonous.

I urge you as our elected representatives to vote against any give-away, sellout, or modification of our land and our rights. If either Kissinger or the Panama Canal must go, let's make it Kissinger!

Respectfully yours,
Richard Friske

Looking Backward

By Bob Clock

Wednesday,
Sept. 4, 1974

Well, sir, the summer of 1974 has been one for the record books. If we knew back in April what we know now, there'd be fewer grey heads in town.

But who could have predicted last April that President Nixon and his family would have been kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army and are being held by their benevolent captors on island off the coast of Spain?

The President sends weekly letters back to his constituents, telling us how he spends his days fishing and relaxing in the sun. Occasionally we receive pictures showing the President and Pat, bronzed and healthy, picnicking under a palm tree. Mr. Nixon has lost the caged, wild-animal look that characterized him last winter when he tried to explain away Watergate to the American people.

Both Tricia and Julie are expecting early next year and Mr. and Mrs. President are anxiously looking forward to their new roles as grandparents.

Mr. Nixon assures us that he and his family have never been happier and we believe him.

After the President was kidnapped, Congress had no other course than to swear-in Gerald Ford as president. As expected, Mr. Ford has surrounded himself with a coterie of first-rate advisors and conditions at home have never been better. All of Mr. Nixon's campaign promises in exchange for contributions were declared null and void and the economy righted itself almost overnight.

Hamburger costs 59 cents a pound, homogenized milk 45 cents a half gallon, bread 35 cents a loaf and eggs 55 cents a dozen.

The price of gasoline has dropped from 60 cents to 35 cents a gallon and fuel oil from 34 cents to 17 cents a gallon.

Petroleum products are plentiful, even at the new prices, and everyone is pocketing his fair share of the proceeds.

As a result, Charlevoix has experienced a record tourist business this summer, with cash registers jingling all day, every day. Some gas stations are open all night to accommodate travelers.

With President Nixon out of the country, Congress also has been able to devote its full attention to pressing matters of state. The Watergate inquiry was dropped the day after the kidnapping and probably will never be reopened. Hordes of government attorneys moved out of the capital this summer and are now back in private practice, earning their bread and board by defending drunk drivers and petty thieves.

The House and Senate are spending a good deal of their time patching up environmental legislation which was riddled full of holes during the energy crisis. Money earmarked for pollution control has been unlocked from federal coffers and communities all over the country are getting ready to separate their storm and sanity sewers and do other good things to protect their water and air.

The stock market shows a modest, healthy increase every day and interest rates for new home construction have dropped to six percent, the lowest in years.

Of course, this means that Charlevoix along with practically every city and village across the country is bracing for a building boom of unprecedented proportions. And a good deal of the construction materials also has come down, in proportion to other segments of the economy. This is good news to many Charlevoix families who have wanted to build for years but have been unable to hack the high cost of money and materials.

The sale of Charlevoix's 159 condominium units also has come as a surprise to townspeople as well as developers. There are only a handful of units left and they probably will be snapped up during the fall color season.

Last April we asked ourselves: "Where are all the buyers coming from?" Today we know, because they are living among us: Retired auto company executives, the scions of old Charlevoix summer families who share an undying affection for the area, junior executives who find it is increasingly practical to live in Charlevoix and commute to their desks in the metropolitan areas, and a good number of long-time Charlevoix residents who simply like the convenience of condominium living.

So that's the way things are, this Labor Day, 1974. We regret that the President and his family were kidnapped, but he seems to realize that the country would have suffered terribly during an impeachment trial. Certainly being kidnapped is more honorable than being impeached or being forced to resign.

The captors assure us that the President and his family will be free to leave their island retreat on Inauguration Day, 1976. But the President is reluctant to leave. He already is negotiating to sell his properites at San Clemente and Key Biscayne, build a modest dwelling on his secret island and live out his days in the splendid isolation he and Pat have come to enjoy.

Whatever they choose, we wish them well and Godspeed. They deserve a long rest after the pressures of the past two years.

Cast Your Bread

By Jim Fitzgerald

Cast your bread upon the waters and it may come back spread with caviar. That's how I got this sunburned nose...

Many years ago I removed a thorn from the paw of a high school freshman: "Go forth and write me some school sports news," I told him, and he did. Thus was Chuck Werle launched on a career of journalism that took him from the Lapeer County weekly to the Milwaukee Journal.

And today he has realized the dream of every newspaper reporter. He is out of the newspaper business and is a public relations executive in Miami, Florida. He has a home with a pool and his name is engraved on hundreds of memo pads.

"C'mon down," he phoned the other week. "You can play in our Tony Lema Memorial celebrity-pro golf tournament on Marco Island. Enjoy a week of great fun and marvelous weather. You and your wife can stay in the most luxurious hotel you've ever seen. There'll be a big dinner-dance with Harry James playing."

Which sounded pretty good. And then he added the magic words: "Be our guest." My wife and I were on the next plane south, already telling strangers about the virtues of Deltona Corp, owner of Marco Island and Werle's employer.

We had to switch planes at the Miami airport and that's when I first began to fear my visit would make Chuck wish he'd taken his thorn to Blue Cross. We missed our flight to Marco Island. There was another flight a half hour later and we missed that one, too. The reason was a breakdown in the airport's electronic communication system. The Marco Airlines clerk was paging me loudly throughout the airport but I couldn't hear him. There was a busted loudspeaker in the bar into which my wife had dragged me.

Chuck had asked Bill Gentry, head of Marco Island public relations, to meet our plane. Fortunately, Bill used to work for the old Detroit Times so he naturally has a keen understanding of the pitfalls through which an intrepid newsman must often splash while pursuing an assignment. "Don't worry," he phoned Chuck in Miami. "He's a newspaperman and it's a freeload. He'll be here by cocktail hour." I was.

The next day, bright and early at 3 p.m., I went out to practice for the big golf tourney which was just 48 hours away. My first drive was so powerful it went over a fence surrounding a power plant. The gate was locked. My 2nd drive petered off into a lake where 2 haughty ducks didn't even flinch.

I switched to a pitch and putt course to practice the finer points of my game (and to protect my dwindling supply of golf balls). I blasted out of one sandtrap and into another - the Gulf of Mexico beach. While I was battling my way back on the course, chipping over sunbathers, 18 golfers played through. My wife fell down laughing when she noticed one of the athletes leaving me behind was an old man on crutches. "Yes, but he has his nurse caddying for him," I explained.

My dismay became complete when I learned people would be paying $7 a head to watch the tournament. And I would be playing with such touring professionals as Jerry Heard, George Archer and Bobby Nichols. And such celebrities as Joe DiMaggio, Joe Garagiola, Garo Yepremian and Don Shula. And each player would be introduced on the first tee, over a microphone, while hundreds watched. And I would have to get up at 6 a.m. the morning after Harry James....

I did the only honorable thing. I inserted a thorn in my paw and limped to Werle. "Get me out of this tournament," I said, "and I promise to tell the world to get marooned on Marco Island, the finest sun-fun community on earth."

He did and I am: Go to Marco. But if you play golf, be careful you're not trampled by that old man on crutches.

Recalls 1st Airmail Flight to Beavers

Editor of the
Charlevoix Courier

Received my Courier and read where Patrick LaFreniere stated about the airplane took mail to Beaver Island in 1925. I have to contradict that statement. The first plane delivered mail Dec. 18, 1930.

My father, W.J. Gallagher sr., got them airplane service for mail.

He never lived to see it. He passed away Dec. 15 in a Petoskey hospital. He was on his way to Florida when he was taken ill. The wenther was so bad his family never got to the Island until Dec. 17 with his body.

The plane delivered the mail the next day, Dec. 18, 1930. I came from Milwaukee, Wisc., so I know what day the plane came. I was on the Island.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Martha Zalusky,

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Before we became a 'shiftless' society, no college degree was required to teach driving.

In the good old days of clutch and floor shift, Driver Ed. was any dad, uncle or brother-in-law with the courage or foolhardiness to volunteer as co-pilot in a craft lacking dual controls and threatened to become airborne at every dip in the country road.

No 'Student Driver' warning topped the Model-A to offer the approaching driver the dubious choice of taking to the woods or continuing on a collision course with the oncoming vehicle bouncing diagonally toward him on the corduroy road, a projectile threatening to cross his bow at the last split second in that washboard channel running between high shoulders of loose gravel.

It behooved the instructor to devote his undivided attention to matters at hand. Any conflict between clutch, shift lever and student operator would either 'snap' the teacher alert or jacknife his lower extremeties into the cramped space beneath the dashboard. Thankfully, seat belts and shoulder harnesses were left for our saner age when there is no longer a need to vault out the door for safety.

Backup procedure was not taught as a clever maneuver to capture a contested downtown parking spot. We mastered the art when circumstances offered no other alternative, the aftermath of trying to shift down while thundering up a steep sandy grade. Invariably there was an unscheduled stop at the halfway mark due to the lack of coordination common to the inexperienced.

The perspring novice would weld his foot to the brake pedal while the left hand strained at the handbrake with a death grip prompted by fright bordering on panic. Calmly, like an air controller talking down a pilot, the unperturbed passenger would coach a descent from their cliff dweller perch.

At long last, with car and nerves a bit the worse for wear, solo day arrived a venturous drive around the neighboring block in that errie solitude which undermines confidence. All goes well until the driveway presents itself at an unfamiliar angle. As a rear wheel leapfrogs the curb the driver is thrust forward against the wheel resulting in a nerve shattering blast of the horn at which the rattled navigator veers off on an erratic course through Sis's flower bed.

After frantic overcompensation for error, the course is altered toward the orchard with two porch steps being demolished enroute. The pilgrimage terminates abruptly beneath a sizeable fruit tree in a clattering hail of ripening crab apples.

Wearing a dismayed expression, inappropriate to graduation exercises, the tutor addresses his pupil.

"That is a sure way of stopping, but what happens if there is no tree handy?"

It was this droll humor which enlivened the life of my sister.

My Neighbors

"Heck, I've tried everything else..."

Miss Rica Postma, local Christian school teacher left by bus Monday to visit relatives and friends in Muskegon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rubingh spent the weekend with their sons Allen and family in Grandville and Gary and wife in Big Rapids.

Coming this weekend to Ellsworth from Grand Rapids for the baptismal service, held Sunday afternoon for Ilsa Vania, infant daughter of Pastor and Mrs. Marvin Vander Vliet, were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Zoerhof and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Zoerhof. The pastor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vander Vliet and his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Vander Mier and three children also attended.

Neighbors honored Alice Ruis on her birthday Thursday.

Friday evening, a group of men and women came to the home of Helen Jansen to celebrate her birthday which was March 21 and the birthday of Mattie Vander Ark, which was March 2.

Miss Betty Petter, who is a student at the Reformed Bible College in Grand Rapids, came Friday to spend a few days with Fannie Koster, Dena Otte and the Bill Petters. Miss Petter is from India and is the adopted daughter of Anna Petter Grundy, who spent her life as a missionary to India.

Mr. and Mrs. Corneilius Van Vaalkenberg of Grand Rapids were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vander Ark. They are the parents of Mrs. Ronald Vander Ark of Phoenix, Ariz.

Everyone was in high spirits last Tuesday night at the Community School P.T.A. meeting, which was well attended.

Supt. Robert Gaunt, reported, it was the best P.T.A. meeting since he came to Ellsworth. Mrs. Elzinga's first graders sang "God Bless America" for an opening number. The band, under the direction of Mr. Ringlenberg, also played. Gaunt then answered questions on the building program; which will come to a vote soon. $119 was given to the band class. The government class will be going to Lansing soon and received offers of gasoline and cash to make the trip. Everyone stayed for the coffee hour.

Mrs. Dorothy Rood returned Tuesday after spending a week with her daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Berkshire in Addison.

Spending the weekend with her aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Drenth, was Miss April Meadows of Norwood.

Eugene Drenth of Grand Rapids spent the weekend with his parents and brothers, the Gerrit George Drenths. Mrs. Alan Vanniman and children rode back with him Sunday afternoon to spend this week with her folks in Byron Center.

Our school children have spring vacation this week. Spring is by the calendar alone. Outside its real winter weather.

Wilson Heads Kiwanians

William (Bill) Wilson has assumed the presidency of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club following the death of Dale Fassett.

At the March 16 meeting, Glenn Kenney was elected vice president, succeeding Wilson.

Miss Janet Langeland was speaker at last week's meeting. She told about the work being done in the field of Special Education in Charlevoix schools.

Power Firms Win Bouquet From MSU

Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Co. of Boyne City and Consumers Power Co. of Jackson were two of 15 Michigan electric power suppliers which were cited in East Lansing March 20 for their major contributions in a 50-year effort to supply rural areas of the state with electricity.

The 15 power suppliers each received a 1974 Agricultural Engineering Distinguished Service Award at the Agricultural Engineering banquet at Michigan State University. The banquet was held as part of "Farmers' Week" at MSU.

Dr. Bill Stout, chairman of the Agricultural Engineering Department, hailed the utilities for their role in extending power to most of Michigan's rural areas by the late 1930's.

In addition, Stout said the power suppliers had played supportive roles in grain drying research, educational radio programs for Michigan citizens and a course in "Electrical Technology for Agriculture" which was offered to train farmers and rural electricians.

SINCE 1884 CHARLEVOIX Michigan 49720
BRANCH OFFICE IN ELLSWORTH

FIRST STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

Co. Will Get $169,934 City $16,885 in Taxes

Charlevoix County stands to receive $169,934 and the City of Charlevoix $16,885.83 in the most recent distribution of gasoline and tax revenues to counties and municipalities, according to State Rep. Ralph Ostling.

The City of East Jordan will receive $10,003.71; Boyne City $17,755.88; and Ellsworth, $3,662.23.

The gasoline and weight tax money is issued to local governmental units on a quarterly basis by the Michigan Department of the Treasury, Ostling explained. The present formula used for distribution allocates 35.7 percent of each gas tax dollar to the county road commissions and 19.8 percent of each dollar to cities and villages. The remainder is retained by the state Department of Highways and Transportation.

"The local government keeps the money in a fund earmarked for road maintenance and construction," Ostling said. "This fund also can be used as a financial base for selling bonds for local road construction."

The figures quoted are for the period ending Dec. 31, 1973.

John P. Woodford, director of the Department of State Highways and Transportation, said net receipts of the Highway Fund for the October-December period totaled $116,800,421, an increase of $12,467,681 over the fourth quarter of 1972. The increase amounts to 12 percent.

Woodford pointed out that anticipated declines in revenues because of gasoline shortages and reduced driving were not apparent through the end of the year. He added, however, that part of the increase is attributable to a two-cents-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax which went into effect Feb. 1, 1973. One half cent of the increase goes into the state's new General Transportation Fund for public transportation purposes.

Received Honorable Mention

Susan Jean Boss of Charlevoix has received honorable mention in the Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow contest.

Ernest G. Smith Claims Bride in Florida Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Smith

Jean Pauline Reif became the bride of Ernest G. Smith jr. in ceremonies March 8 at the North Miami Baptist Church, the Rev. Wallace P. Rivers officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Kathyrn Reif of Plantation, Fla. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Nellie G. Smith of Charlevoix.

Approximately 300 guests attended the double-ring ceremony which was performed in a setting of palm trees, roses, carnations, lilies of the valley and candelabra.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roger Reif, the bride wore a full-length white wedding gown and carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids.

Organist was Patti Uhle. Mrs. Arlene Ghawi was maid of honor and Mrs. Joan Northcut and Miss Kimberly Montie were bridesmaids. The bridal attendance wore full-length dresses of baby pink.

Miss Michelle Judd was flower girl and Donald Northcut was ringbearer.

Best man was Harold Wienberger of Miami Beach, Fla. Eli Ghawi and Don Northcut were ushers.

The bride's mother hosted a reception at the Holiday Inn in Miami.

Following a wedding trip to Disney World and the Bahamas, the couple are making their home at 13219 Memorial Highway, N. Miami, Fla. 33161.

The bridegroom is district manager for TIF Instruments, Inc., of Miami. The bride is a student at the School of Interior Design in Miami Shores.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Nellie G. Smith of Charlevoix.

Grandvue Patients Feted on Birthday

Jeanette Harris, Josephone Alexander, Pearl Staudenmeyer and Effie Reid, all patients at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, were feted at a birthday party at the facility March 24. All of the women have birthdays in March.

Entertainment was provided by Terry Hauff, Darlene Smalley, Lee Michael and Ronnie DeMitchel.

Decorated cakes and ice cream were served from a table decorated with a spring-like centerpiece.

Mrs. C.J. Fiedler of Charlevoix presented gifts to the four patients.

Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Edna DeMitchel and Mrs. Erwin Smalley.

The Common Council met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the March 11, 1974 meeting and the March 18, 1974 (Special Meeting) were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The application of Wanda Scheff to place a 14' x 65' mobile home on her lot at 310 W. Lincoln was discussed. The Acting Administrator was instructed to grant the permit No. 101 according to Ordinance 203, Article VII, Residential District III.

The request of Josh Barnes on behalf of the Charlevoix Yacht Club to obtain the consent of the City Council for temporary use of a suitable parcel of waterfront property was discussing briefly and referred to the Marine Committee for further study.

Alderman Timms offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Selph.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is desirous of providing stand-by power to its sewage disposal stations; and has hired Daverman Associates, Inc., of Grand Rapids, Michigan to study its needs; and

WHEREAS, Daverman Associates, Inc. have outlined their solution to the City's problem.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix accept the plan of Daverman Associates, Inc., dated March 6, 1974 No. DA 7402-1.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Supernaw asked that the National Flood Insurance Program of Housing and Development be referred to the City Attorney for his selection of the best sample Resolution for the City's use.

Motion was made by Alderman Fochtman and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the City Attorney draft an application for the Flood Plan Insurance Program for the City of Charlevoix, using Resolution (B1). Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Fochtman offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is desirous to provide emergency electrical power to the Waste Water Treatment System and to make the necessary sewer separation, now

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Common Council authorize the Acting City Administrator to apply for federal assistance (low interest) funds to provide these services, through the Federal Housing Administration.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace offered the following Resolution and moved its motion, supported by Alderman Supernaw.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is desirous of platting a certain parcel of land, now

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix give their approval of plat plans for the Norman D. Ance Subdivision as prepared by the Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Company, according to Plat SP5930.

A motion was made by Alderman Supernaw, and supported by Alderman Fochtman, to adopt the following Ordinance (as corrected). ORDINANCE NO. 341. An Ordinance creating a parks and recreation department for the City of Charlevoix, a parks and recreation board and a parks and recreation director and defining their powers and duties.

The Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman Fochtman and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the Mayor's appointment of Mrs. Lorraine Warner to fill the unexpired term of Jerrald Redeker to the Regional Planning Commission be accepted. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman Fochtman and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the City of Charlevoix apply for the Master Planning Grant from the Federal Aviation Administration. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council asked that the City's budget requirements for the grant be included in the 1974-75 budget.

Mayor Hansen announced that a tentative meeting with a representative of McNamee, Porter and Seeley was set for Wednesday, March 27, 1974 at 1:00 p.m. to discuss possible changes to the May Street Sewer Project and to decide if the City will hire a local resident engineer or use one from the engineering firm. The Acting City Administrator was instructed to get bids from local engineers, and to invite them to attend the meeting. Council did not wish to act on this until after a meeting was held with the representative of McNamee, Porter and Seeley.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $56,023.47 find them correct and recommend that the bills be allowed. Motion made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Selph that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Supernaw reported for the Parks and Recreation Committee, informing Council that the Committee had reviewed applications and are waiting for an acceptance or rejection from one of the applicants. They are hopeful to have the greenskeeps position filled by April 1, 1974.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Supernaw that the Mayor send a letter of congratulations and Best Wishes to the Harbor Springs basketball team, complimenting them on their fine ball club and their excellent representation of Northern Michigan with their good sportsmanship.

The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, Plumm, Selph, Supernaw, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace asked that the Committee meet soon to choose garden plots for people interested in raising their own vegetables.

Moved by Alderwoman Wallace that the meeting adjourn, supported by Alderman Fochtman.

The Council adjourned.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk.

ORDINANCE 341

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT FOR THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, A PARKS AND RECREATION BOARD AND A PARKS AND RECREATION DIRECTOR AND DEFINING THEIR POWERS AND DUTIES.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 1. There is hereby created for the City of Charlevoix a department to be known as the Charlevoix Parks and Recreation Department.

Section 2. The city shall have the power to employ personnel to maintain, improve and supervise such parks and recreation facilities that may be possessed or acquired.

Section 3. There shall be created an advisory parks and recreation board, consisting of five (5) members of which one (1) shall be the Parks and Recreation Director as a non-voting permanent member, and four (4) electors of the City of Charlevoix who shall have evidence of interest in the development of park and recreation services for public use. Said members, other than the director, shall be appointed by the City Council for a term of three (3) years, commencing with January 1, 1974, or until their successors are appointed and have qualified; however, the first appointments shall be as follows: two (2) members shall be appointed for a term of one (1) year; one (1) member shall be appointed for a term of two (2) years; one (1) member shall be appointed for a term of three (3) years.

Members of said board shall serve without compensation; shall meet at the instigation of the chairman or three (3) or more voting members of the board and shall elect a chairman at the first meeting in January of each year.

Section 4. The Parks and Recreation Board shall adopt its own rules of order and procedure not inconsistant with the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 5. A copy of the minutes of all Parks and Recreation Board meetings shall be filed with the City Clerk for transmittal to the Council.

Section 6. The Parks and Recreation Board shall act solely in a fact-finding recommendatory and advisory capacity to the City Council and it shall be its duty to consider and study the reasonable needs of park and recreational facilities and activities in which the city might properly participate, to formulate and to report to the City Council estimates of public requirements for park and recreational facilities and for the costs thereof and the amounts which might properly be appropriated by the City Council to provide and maintain such park and recreational facilities.

Section 7. Neither the Parks and Recreation Board nor any member thereof may incur any expense or create any obligation or liability upon the City of Charlevoix. In the event any expenditure of City funds may be required in connection with the functioning of the Parks and Recreation Board before such funds shall be expended, approval of such expenditures shall be first obtained from the City Council.

Section 8. Three voting members of the Parks and Recreation Board shall constitute a quorum and a lesser number may adjourn any meeting at which a quorum is not present.

Section 9. A Director of Parks and Recreation, shall be appointed by the Recreation Committee with the approval of the City Council, who shall be the executive officer in charge of the use of parks, properties, and buildings owned by the city and assigned to the Department of Parks and Recreation, and be responsible for the parks and recreation program in buildings or on properties of other public or private institutions that may be used by the city through rental, lease or by gift, and who shall serve as secretary of the board.

Section 10. All other ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

City of Charlevoix
Ida Heise
City Clerk

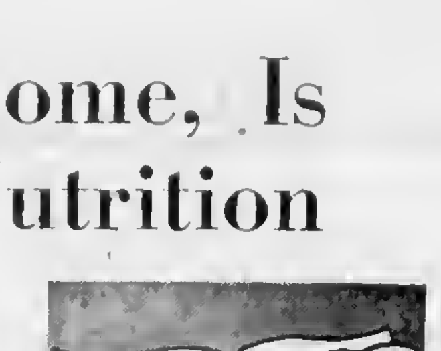
Selection, Not Income, Is Secret of Good Nutrition

By LELORD KORDEL

Number Twelve of a Series



Good nutrition is not a matter of income. Rather, it's a matter of selection. Proper foods actually cost less than many that are woefully lacking in nourishment. Many an expensively provisioned table is tragically poor in nutritional values because of poor selection and improper preparation.

Yet no mystery surrounds planned high protein diets. The only basic dietary rule is simply this: Increase your daily protein intake to at least 150 to 165 grams (more if you've been ill, are planning a reducing diet or indulge in strenuous physical activities); limit the starches and sugars to natural carbohydrates found in vitamin-and-mineral-rich fruits, vegetables, honey, unrefined raw sugar or molasses, whole grains and seed cereals.

RULE OF THUMB GUIDE

The following charts give you a rule-of-thumb guide as to the adequacy or inadequacy of each day's meals from the standpoint of how many grams of protein are consumed:

First, I shall list the animal proteins, that is, the high grade or complete proteins; then the incomplete or vegetable proteins. At least 50 to 75 percent of your total daily protein consumption should be selected from animal proteins. The remainder of your daily protein intake may come from vegetable sources.

ANIMAL PROTEINS

	Protein Grams
1 Cup beef broth	4
4 Ozs. lean beef (rib, rump, pot roast)	22
4 Ozs. beefsteak	23
4 Ozs. corned beef, canned or fresh	16
4 Ozs. beef tongue	16
4 Ozs. beef heart	17
4 Ozs. beef liver	20
4 Ozs. lamb roast	22
2 Average lamb chops	20
4 Ozs. lamb's liver	20
4 Ozs. mutton	20
4 Ozs. veal cutlets	20
2 Veal chops	19
4 Ozs. veal, roast leg	23
4 Ozs. chicken	18
½ Cup chicken livers	20
4 Ozs. duck	21
4 Ozs. goose	22
4 Ozs. turkey	24
4 Ozs. codfish	16
⅔ Cup crabmeat	16
4 Ozs. fresh-water fish	21
4 Ozs. herring	19
½ Cup lobster meat	16
7 Medium oysters	6
4 Average sardines	13
½ Cup salmon	22
4 Ozs. scallops	16
6 Medium shrimp	8
¼ Cup tuna, canned	9
4 Ozs. whitefish	22
4 Ozs. rabbit	20
1 Whole egg	6
1 Egg white	3
½ Cup egg custard, fortified with 4 extra tbsp. powdered skim milk	15-18
Cube: 2x1x1 inches Cheddar cheese	12
2 Tbsp. Italian cheese, grated	12
½ Cup cottage cheese	20
1 Tbsp. cream cheese	2
1 Slice Swiss cheese	10
1 Qt. buttermilk	30
1 Qt. Yogurt	30
1 Qt. fresh whole milk	33
1 Qt. fresh skim milk	34
½ Cup powdered skim milk	53
½ Cup evaporated milk	8
1 Cup cream vegetable soup made with fortified milk	12
1 Cup cream soup, containing eggs or cheese and made as above	20 to 24
½ Cup ice cream, made with eggs and fortified milk	8 to 10
½ Cup ice cream, commercial	2
1 Tbsp. gelatin	8
1 Tbsp. honey	2

VEGETABLE SOURCES

The next chart lists the vegetable sources providing the highest number of protein grams per serving. By this I do not intend to imply that no other vegetable sources are worth considering. Since these vegetable proteins are not high grade, or "complete," no more than 25 percent of your daily protein intake should be chosen from this list:

VEGETABLE PROTEINS

	Protein Grams

PEAINE TOWNSHIP

ST. JAMES, MICHIGAN 49782

Exactment of a Township Planning Commission

WHEREBY, the Peaine Township Board wishes to promote public health, safety and general welfare; to encourage the use of resources in accordance with their character and adaptability; to avoid the over crowding of land by buildings or people; to lessen congestion of public roads and streets; to facilitate provision for a system of transportation, sewage disposal, safe and adequate water supply, recreation and other public improvements; and to consider the character of the Township and its suitability for particular uses judged in terms of such factors as the trends in land and population development.

WHEREBY, the Peaine Township Board wishes to form an advisory body to assist in fulfilling the above;

THEREFORE, LET IT BE RESOLVED, a Peaine Township Planning Commission is hereby established under the provisions of Act 168, Public Acts, 1959

FURTHER, LET IT BE RESOLVED, the Planning Commission shall consist of four (4) qualified electors and property owners and one (1) member of the Township Board; and

FURTHER, LET IT BE RESOLVED, the Planning Commission shall have the powers, duties and responsibilities provided by Act 184, of the Public Acts, 1943, as amended.

New Phone Books Due; Only One to a Customer

Michigan Bell has announced it will begin mailing its 1974 Charlevoix County - Emmet County telephone directories Wednesday, April 10.

Kenneth T. Harrold, local manager, said one new directory will be mailed to each household in Petoskey, Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Pellston and Walloon Lake.

"Because there is a critical paper shortage," he explained, "we are mailing only one telephone directory to each Michigan Bell residential customer."

A similar policy is being applied to business customers who will be limited in the number of copies they will receive. Many will be mailed only one copy, Harrold said.

"However, if a business customer, or a resident, requires extra books," Harrold explained, "he may request them from the company's business office."

The company has been consulting in recent years with most businesses to determine their actual needs, Harrold said. "Under this policy, we've achieved significant reductions in the number of books provided to businesses and we assume we'll continue to make such savings in directories," he added.

When the new edition arrives, it will be noted that Michigan Bell again is stressing "Please look in the book first" before dialing information, Harrold pointed out.

He said the new directory contains all the new numbers and any changes in listings up to Feb. 27 for the communities included in the book.

SMALLER THAN FULL-SIZE
'74 MERCURY MONTEGO
BIGGER THAN SMALL-SIZE

Montego 4-Door Sedan shown with optional WSW tires.

Here's how you can combine mid-size gas economy with six-passenger comfort.

If a small car is too small and a full-size car is too big, come drive our mid-size Mercury Montego.

It runs on regular gas. And based on our estimate of national average costs, the '74 Montego is designed to reduce scheduled maintenance costs by as much as 22% in 50,000 miles of normal driving when compared to last year's models.

You'll find our Montego roomy and comfortable ...with the ease of handling you want in a mid-size car. Its ride is smooth and quiet on an extra-wide stance with the same type of suspension system as our most expensive luxury car. Today, more than ever, our mid-size Mercury Montego makes sense for a whole lot of people. At the sign of the cat.

DELIVERED WITH:
- 302 2V V-8 engine
- Select-Shift automatic transmission
- Power steering
- Power front disc brakes
- Deluxe wheel covers
- White sidewall tires
- L.H. remote control mirror
- AM radio
- Deep loop carpeting
- And much more

Only at Erber's $3169
Includes freight and dest. chgs.

See you at the sign of the cat! It's the sign of the times!

State Aid Payment Is $50,720

Charlevoix School District was to receive its second quarterly state aid payment for the 1973-'74 school year of $50,720 on or about April 1, according to State Sen. Robert W. Davis.

The Twin Valley District was in line for $193,730; the Beaver Island Community School 130; and the Boyne Falls Public School $7,720.

The funds are taken from state tax revenues and are based on a formula which enables each school district to provide equal educational opportunities for all school children.

Amounts vary depending on enrollment and the amount of evaluation behind each child.

LaFreniere

Funeral for Mrs. Joseph M. LaFreniere, 51, was held Monday at Holy Cross Church in St. James the Rev. Herbert Graf, O.F.M., and the Rev. Edward Donahue officiating.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

The Rosary was recited at the family home Sunday evening.

Mrs. LaFreniere died at her home on Beaver Island Saturday after an illness of eight months that followed brain surgery at a Chicago Hospital in September.

Born in Chicago Sept. 15, 1922, the former Alberta M. Cronke was married to Mr. LaFreniere in Chicago Nov. 18, 1961. They had made their home there until three years ago when they built a home here and returned to Chicago only during the sailing season, spending the remainder of the time here.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two brothers, Edward of Chicago and Otto of Atlanta, Ga.

meeting, Mayor Edward P. Hansen proposed that the sewer be moved several feet to the west to protect a water main serving the area. He also proposed that a more shallow trench be used and a lift station installed at the junction of Eaton-ave. in order to cut construction costs.

At a pre-construction meeting last Wednesday with Richard Force and Roy Smith of McNamee, Porter and Seeley and John Cianci of G&T Construction, it was agreed that the sewer line could be moved to the west without difficulty. However the engineers said changing the elevation and providing for a lift station would result in a long delay. They said their original gravity flow system was the best from an engineering standpoint.

Faust

Funeral for Mrs. Charles (Grace) Faust, 79, mother of the Rev. Elmer J. Faust, of the United Methodist Church, were held at Memphis, Mich., on Friday.

Mrs. Faust died Tuesday following a week's illness.

Surviving are five sons, including the Rev. Mr. Faust; two daughters and several grandchildren.

In Memphis for the service were the Rev. and Mrs. Faust and their family.

So as to read: Any house trailer, trailer home, mobile house car, or similar vehicle used or so constructed as to permit being used as a conveyance or to be conveyed upon the public streets or highways, licensed or licensable as such, including any self-propelled or non-self-propelled vehicle, so designed constructed, reconstructed, or added to by means of accessories in such a manner as will permit the occupancy thereof as a dwelling, a sleeping place, or the main body being supported on the ground by a foundation. blocks, jacks or other means of support. For the purpose of this Ordinance a mobile home shall mean a trailer coach which is ten feet or greater in width and is not generally moved from location to location by a passenger car. Mobile homes situated on a permanent site shall have generally approved skirting installed.

CHAPTER XXIII Section 23.7 Filing Fees "Administration and Enforcement"

(c) Be changed from present reading to include at the end of paragraph. If construction is started prior to application, this fee shall be doubled. Permits obtained are valid of one (1) year, renewable at the discretion of the Building inspector. Fees shall be the same for renewal as for original permit. So as to read: The Township Board shall annually set the amount of the Building Permit fees. The amount of such fee shall accompany each application for a Building Permit. If construction is started prior to application, this fee shall be doubled. Permits obtained are valid of one (1) year, renewable at the discretion of the Building Inspector. Fees shall be the same for renewal as for the original permit.

CHAPTER VII Section 7.4 Area Regulations "R-4 Planned Residential Zone"

(1) Be changed from present reading to delete, within two years after such public utilities become available within 500 feet of the zone. So as to read: (1) Utilities; Private Water supply and sewage disposal systems shall be connected to public systems. All utility lines (power and telephone) servicing the area shall be placed underground.

The Zoning Board text is available for inspection at the home of Robert Wasoski, Marion Township Zoning Board Chairman.

High scorers were: Medusa, Paul Perrish, 12; First State, Glenn Taylor, 31; Condit Drury, 18; Muna, Bill Gengie, 18; Scott Blanchard, 15; Kenney, Jack Danbert, 28; Max Belser, 18; Rick Van-Stedum, 18; Dale Shooks, 15; and Paul Stanfield, 10.

In the Jimmy Bogart tournament, Freedman defeated Hess, 71-66; Medusa A defeated Kenney, 102-56; Topside defeated the Head Shop, 87-82 and the Village Milk House defeated Hess, 77-68.

Villages

Lovis emphasized that the archeologists will work strictly at the site of ancient villages and burial grounds will not be disturbed.

Anyone with information as to where such villages might have been located is asked to contact Lovis or Dr. Cleland at the Michigan State Museum in East Lansing.

Pat Miller To Speak

Pat Miller of the Char-Em office will be speaker Monday, April 8 at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Charlevoix-Emmet Association for Retarded Children.

Miss Miller is compiling a roster of residents aged 0 to 25 who are in need of special education services.

Donkey Game This Friday

Alumni and faculty of Charlevoix High School will participate in a donkey basketball game April 5 at 8 p.m. at the high school gym.

Sponsor is the Senior Class. Tickets are available at Olesons, Staley's Hardware and from members of the class.

Mollie Takes Two Firsts

Diane Haggard, 15, took firsts at the Battle Creek Kennel Club Show and the Detroit Kennel Club Show in March with her eight-month-old Newfoundland puppy, Mollie.

At Battle Creek, Mollie also won "winner's bitch" and "best of winners" awards, for championship points. At Detroit she was selected first in class.

Civil Service Jobs Open

The Department of Civil Service is seeking applications for maintenance mechanics, meat inspectors and unemployment claims clerk, state Representative Mark L. Thompson (R-Alpena) reports.

Applications may be obtained from the Department of Civil Service office, 320 S. Walnut, Lansing, 48913.

45 Girls Out for Track

Forty-five Charlevoix High School girls are working out after school in preparation for the 1974 track season, according to Coach Marie Osterberg.

Daily work-outs began in the gym in mid-March and the girls will move outside as soon as weather permits.

Track activities have been held to a minimum the past two weeks because of very unspring-like weather.

The track schedule in the Michigan-Huron Shores league begins Monday, April 22, with a meet at Cheboygan with Charlevoix, St. Ignace and Cheboygan. Other events are:

Monday, April 29: At Charlevoix. Charlevoix vs Boyne City and Cheboygan vs Petoskey.

Monday, May 6: At Cheboygan. Rogers City, Gaylord, Charlevoix and Cheboygan.

Friday May 10: At Charlevoix. Charlevoix, Petoskey and Rogers City.

Wednesday, May 15: Conference meet at Boyne City.

May 17 or 18: Regionals. Site to be decided.

June 1: State meet at Alma College for Class C and D schools.

The girls also hope to host an invitational and to attend the Alpena Invitational between the regional and state meets.

Returning veterans this year are Seniors, Marion Staley, Tori Alger, Nine Lundteigen, Sue Potter and Terry Morris.

Juniors: Cheryl Pence, Lee Steelman and Beth Egier.

Sophomores: Denise Boss, Kathy Wheeler, Dona Dellows, Linda Smith, Sue Westenbroek, Debbie Krueger and Nanette Christ.

Mrs. Osterberg expects her track team to be as successful as girls volleyball and basketball teams during the past season.

Girls' events include the 80-yard low hurdles, 880 medley relay, 880-yard relay, high jump, long jump and shot put.

The coach says a strong turnout of Freshmen "bursting with enthusiasm and potential" will give the team the girth and depth needed in all events.

The CHS track team last year placed first in the regionals to bring home the trophy. However the team was runner-up to Rogers City by 1 and one-third points in the MHS conference meet.

Nine of the members participated in the first state girls' Track and Field meet in East Lansing last May. They were: Denise Boss, Tori Alger, Cheryle Pence, Sue Westenbroek, Terry Morris, Debbie Krueger, Dona Bellows, Marion Staley and Elaine Carr.

OIL FROM an undetermined source was discovered seeping into Lake Charlevoix at Ferry Beach last week and city employes hurriedly built a coffer dam to contain it. Hal Forbrig's crane (above) also was moved into position to remove chunks of ice saturated with oil from the lake. Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff says the No. 2 fuel oil apparently entered the lake from a storm drain leading from the old power plant. The drain was sealed off, but the source of the oil remains a mystery.

Nathan Boss Appointed To Fill Board Vacancy

Appointment of Nathan Boss to the Charlevoix Board of Education to fill the unexpired term of Rev. Duane Imig highlighted the meeting of the board Monday night which was attended by approximately 150 school district residents.

In other action, the board approved a policy on the purchase of material for the Charlevoix school libraries, approved the appointment of driver education teachers, approved the purchase of a portable video tape recorder, tabled the purchase of gymnastic equipment until April 22, set April 22 as the date to accept the report by the Citizens Study Committee, accepted an offer made by the Charlevoix Garden Club and heard several reports.

The appointment of Boss to the board came late in Monday's meeting with Max Novak making the recommendation and Charles Elzinga seconding his motion. Boss, a former member of the Charlevoix city council for several years, will fill Imig's vacancy until the June 10 election when a successor will be elected.

Jerry Puhl, Ray Carr, Dale Burge and James Jensen were appointed as driver training instructors for the summer of 1974. Vane Smith, high school principal, said that every other year, the school builds up a backlog of students which requires extra hours of driving. He said that Puhl and Jensen had agreed to take on the additional teaching duties.

Approval of the purchase of the portable video tape recorder was made by the board. The recorder, the necessary attachments plus the protective carrying case will cost $1,900. The new equipment is compatable with the existing equipment which is too large and too costly to be taken to outside events.

The purchase of basic gymnastic equipment in order to start the Middle and High Schools in the program was tabled until the next meeting in order to make further inquiries into safety equipment for the trampoline.

The board gave its approval to a request by the Charlevoix Garden Club to plant a tree as a gift to the school on Arbor Day.

In other action, the board:

–Heard a report from Supt. James McKimmy relating to the Michigan Assessment tests. He gave the history of the tests and said that this year the tests, given to fourth and seventh grade students, were criterian Reference tests in which Charlevoix fourth grade students rated from 10 to 15 percent higher than the overall average across the state and the seventh grade students had rated approximately 10 percent over the state average in all but four objectives. In these they were approximately two percent below the state average.

--Heard from McKimmy that the policy committee was studying the details of confidentiality of students files and will be prepared to present a policy at a later date.

–Learned from McKimmy that a textbook committee is working on proposed changes.

–Heard Sue Smith and Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor present the Alpha I program of phonetics which they are now teaching in the lower elementary grades.

–Heard Gayle Boss and Anita Potter, both members of the debate team, present the details of the program to the board and to thank the board

WHY ARE we celebrating Easter this year on April 14 instead of April 7. For years we have been told that Easter falls on the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox. Normally this would make Easter fall on Sunday, April 7, since the full moon will occur at 5 p.m. Saturday, April 6. But this is not the case this year, according to Hazel M. Losh, University of Michigan astronomer. It seems the "Paschal full moon" also plays a part and the Paschal moon doesn't necessarily coincide with the astronomical moon. This year, the Paschal full moon occurs on Sunday, April 7, so Easter will be observed the following Sunday. At least that's the way Prof. Losh explains it. Happy Easter.

POLICE Chief Jack Mol has returned from a three-month course of intensive study into police procedures at the FBI Academy at Quantico, Va. Heavy emphasis was on constitutional law, with some of the top experts in the country delivering the lectures. Chief Mol says he also learned plenty during after-hours "bull sessions" with other police officers from all parts of the country. There were 250 in Mol's class. The chief was impressed by the wilderness terrain around Quantico, a scant 32 miles from the nation's capitol. White-tailed deer roam at will on the sprawling Quantico Marine Reservation, where the FBI Academy is located. Mrs. Mol drove to Virginia for the graduation ceremonies.

Blue Flu? Nobody Knows

Was there an epidemic of "blue flu" among Middle School faculty members Friday? Nobody seems to know for sure.

Eleven of the school's 26 teachers were absent, most of them calling in sick Friday morning. Four had made prior arrangements to be absent.

On a normal day, only two or three teachers would be sick.

Supt. James McKimmy asked the missing teachers by letter to return to school Monday with certification of their illness by their family physicians.

Following a meeting of Middle School teachers Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Barbara Bump, William Murray, chief negotiator for the Charlevoix Education Association, reported that all of the missing teachers had bonafide excuses.

But as of mid-morning Monday, none of the excuses had been submitted to school administrators.

Monday afternoon, all Middle School teachers met with the Board of Education at the board's request to discuss school problems, most of which appear to center around student discipline.

No details of the meeting or the "blue flu" epidemic were reported at a meeting of the Board of Education Monday night, attended by 150 residents.

Maundy Rites

A traditional Maundy Thursday service will be held at the First Congregational Church April 11 at 7:30 p.m., according to Rev. Ray Giffin, pastor.

106 Residents Sign Petitions For Parking

A downtown parking authority almost became a reality Monday night after John Haggard of the Regional Planning Commission submitted petitions to the City Council signed by 106 Charlevoix residents who favor such a move.

However, the council postponed action until it gets some idea how much money will have to be earmarked for such an authority the first year.

The planners envision the creation of four downtown parking lots paid for by special assessments against merchants and meter revenues.

However, initial financing will have to be borne by the city.

Specifically, the planners have proposed creation of a three-man Building Authority which will be empowered to draw up plans, purchase property and build parking lots. The lots will then be leased to the city to operate.

In other action the council:

–Gave Ron Pair of St. Clair Shores the go-ahead to establish a plant for the assembly of air pollution control devices in the former Manthei building on Stover-rd. The council re-zoned the building site from Commercial-2 to light Industrial, although there was some doubt that the change was absolutely necessary. C-2 provides for such operations as machine shops and blacksmith shops. Pair was represented by Bob Seli.

–Granted a variance to Mrs. Vida B. Richardson which will permit her to build a home at the corner of May and Lincoln-

Court Orders Pickets To Keep Drives Open

Circuit Judge Edward H. Fenlon Friday signed a restraining order enjoining strikers at the Will-Flow plant on U.S. 31 North from preventing free access to and from the plant by customers, vendors, employes and others.

The order was sought by the company after vandals released the air from one of the company's trucks Thursday night.

Fifty-three hourly rated employes at the plant struck April 1 after negotiations for higher wages and improved fringe benefits reached an impasse.

The restraining order also limits the number of pickets at each entrance to the plant to three and established a 20-foot wide unobstructed corridor on driveways leading to the plant.

Strikers are specifically warned against "shoving, striking or in any way physically interfering with" persons or motor vehicles entering or leaving the premises.

A show-cause hearing on the restraining order will be held at 1:30 p.m. April 19 at the Charlevoix County Courthouse.

The strikers are represented by Local 475 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

Board Opens Meetings

Members of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors voted last Tuesday to make all meetings of the board open to the public and the press, unless so many persons attend that they interfere with the normal work of the board.

Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger said that "technically and legally" the meetings do not have to be public.

The board is seeking a residence for Dr. Dennis Jay who is completing his residency at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul.

Dr. Jay, who is a general practitioner, would like to settle in Charlevoix if he can find a place to live. He needs plenty of room for storage, according to Kreuger.

The board was to interview two other doctors from Akron, Ohio, and three from Lansing last week in an attempt to beef-up the hospital staff.

The board also is looking into the erection of modular office buildings which will accommodate the new staff members.

Churches Join Hands For Good Friday Rites

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association will sponsor a Community Good Friday service April 12 from 1 until 3 p.m. at the First Congregational Church.

Theme will be "The Seven Last Words of Christ on the Cross" and messages will be given by ministers of the community.

Rev. Ray Giffin of the First Congregational Church will give the first message on the word, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

At 1:20, Rev. Alan Mettler of the Church of the Nazarene will give the second message on the word, "Today you will be with me in Paradise." A musical number will be presented by the church.

At 1:35, Rev. Donald Schorsch of the Assembly of God will give the third message on the word, "Woman, behold your Son...behold your Mother."

At 1:50, Rev. Albert Mansen of the Community Reformed Church will give the fourth message on the word, "My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" A musical number by the church follows.

At 2:05, the Rev. William Seibert of the Community Church of God will give the fifth message on the word, "I thirst."

At 2:20, Rev. Elmer Faust of the United Methodist Church will give the sixth message on the word, "It is finished," followed by a musical number by members of the Congregational Church choir.

At 2:35, Mr. Giffin will give the last message on the word, "Father, into Thy hands I commit my spirit."

Hymns and scripture readings will be interspersed with the messages and musical numbers.

Mrs. Charles Lehman will be organist.

49 Percent of '73 Graduates Choose College

Forty-nine percent of the Charlevoix High School graduating class of 1973 went on to colleges or universities, according to Dr. William Ratigan, CHS counselor.

Dr. Ratigan said the 104 graduates included 56 women and 48 men. Of these, 18 men and 33 women went into higher education, with 17 percent enrolled in community or junior college and 32 percent in senior colleges or universities.

The 49 percent figure is one percent fewer than the 50 percent who normally go on to higher education, Dr. Ratigan said.

Fourteen of the graduates entered North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, the most popular school among the last batch of graduates.

Grand Valley was second with eight, followed by the University of Michigan, five; Michigan State University, four; Northwestern Michigan, Ferris State, Northern Michigan University and Western Michigan University, three each; and Central Michigan University, Aquinas, Lake Superior, Alma, Genessee Community, Wesleyan University (Connecticut), Emerson (Boston) and Bob Jones (South Carolina), one each.

Not a single private trade or technical school was chosen, reflecting the fact that programs once confined to technical schools are not being offered on various college campuses.

"Today's students seem to prefer to get their vocational training in a campus setting where they will be exposed to a variety of people seeking occupational paths in all walks of life and backgrounds," Dr. Ratigan noted.

Another vocational trend noted by Dr. Ratigan is the increase in graduates who find on-the-job training more to their liking than a campus education. Some graduates have become inhalation therapists, dental assistants and military policemen.

Three of the graduates went into the armed forces.

The mechanical-technical field drew at least 14 graduates, followed by the medical field and business. Three graduates are studying to be physical education teachers, three music teachers, one n special education teacher, one an elementary school teacher and one a high school teacher.

Following is a list of graduates and what they're doing:

Diane Alexander, Grand Valley State College, language major; James Ance, traveling; Marty Anders, planning a career in radio-TV in Phoenix, Ariz.; Craig Barnum, pilot training at Northwestern Michigan College; Debra Bartlett, Northeastern Michigan College, exploring phys ed; Deborah Bascom, NCMC, RN nursing program; Richard Bascom, carpenter's helper, Delta Construction Co., Kalkaska; Catherine Begrow, Grand Valley State College; and Alvin Bergmann, world of work.

Clint Berlage, MSU, pre-law, majoring in business; Clinton Blanchard, tool and die worker, Aurora, Ill.; James Borths, stock clerk, Oleson's Food Store; Dale Boss, self-employed builder; Wilson Boss, NCMC, engineering; Tim Bradley, steel grinder at Will-Flow; Anne Carey, Ferris State College, legal assistant program; Elaine Carr, MSU, liberal arts; Donald Clark, military policeman in the USAF, Omaha, Nebr.; and Jeff Coen, warehouse attendant, Charlevoix Chemical Co.

Alfred Corp, automotive mechanic, Muma's; Cecelia (Corp) Borths, housewife, clerk at Oleson's Variety Store; Dennis Crain, NCMC, liberal arts; Jean Crosier, Juilleret's Restaurant; Marilyn Cummings, Ferris, data processing; Marc Custer, NMC, pre-professional program; Charlene DeYoung, Ferris, medical assistant; Janet Dinwiddle, Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., liberal arts, exploring careers. Kathryn Lynn Blissett, David W. Plumm Wed

Kathryn Lynn Blissett became the bride of David William Plumm in ceremonies April 6 at the United Methodist Church, the Rev. Elmer Faust officiating.

The double-ring ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with candelabra and baskets of yellow carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Blissett of Charlevoix. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Plumm of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of dacron polyester organza accented with wide Chantilace and sequins. The gown featured an Empire bodice, sheer bishop sleeves, an A-line skirt and lace cuffs. Her veil of imported illusion was secured by a Juliet cap of Chantilace accented with a white satin ribbon.

Organist Mrs. Charles Lehman, accompanied Mrs. Doyle Warner who sand "A Time for Us."

Hilary Anne Jones was maid of honor and Sharon Wertman and Mrs. Terry Blissett, all of Charlevoix, were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow dotted swiss with V-necks, puff sleeves and white lace trim.

Tricia Lynn Blissett, a niece of the bride, and Brent Norman Cole, a cousin of the bride, were flower girl and ring-bearer.

James Plumm, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Another brother, Carl Plumm and Terry Wayne Blissett, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. A third brother, Bobby Plumm, and Mark Peterson were ushers.

Reception was held at the Rod and Gun Club, hosted by the bride's parents. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Marie Blissett, cut and served the wedding cake.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will live in Bay Shore.

The bride is employed at Birdie's Beauty Shop in Charlevoix. The bridegroom works for American Mold.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Hastings, Lowell, Cape Coral, Fla., and Sault Ste Marie. (Photo by Don Smith)

City Offers Classes In Cake Decorating

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will offer two classes in Cake Decorating this spring.

Beginning Cake Decorating will be held on Mondays, beginning April 15, at the Middle School in the Home Economics Room.

The session will run for six weeks and will be held between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. each Monday night.

Beginners will be required to purchase a starter kit for the class, which may be obtained from the instructor, and pay a registration fee of $15.

Advanced Cake Decorating will be held on Wednesday evenings at the High School Home Economics Room, beginning April 17.

This class will cover the various techniques of cake decorating including figure piping (making pink elephants, clowns, dragons, etc. out of frosting) and making a small wedding cake to include all techniques of assembly.

The class will last for six weeks and will be held on Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Registration for this class is also $15.

Each class will have a maximum of 15 students. Those interested may register by sending a check or money order plus name, phone and address and choice of class to The Charlevoix Recreation Department 210 State St. Charlevoix, Mich. 49720. Registrations must be received by the recreation office no later than April 9.

Succulent Morels Wait Just Below Frozen Turf

Some search for sunken treasure beneath the seas, others for lost gold mines and ancient artifacts while a few still seek the reward of eternal youth. Then there are those who make an annual pilgrimage into Michigan's woodlands in quest of the elusive Morels, monarch of the state's more than 2,000 varieties of wild mushrooms, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Morels fall into the classification of a gourmet delicacy with a unique flavor unlike other mushrooms. Like all mushrooms, however, Morels require somewhat specific conditions of moisture and temperature. A warm spring with plenty of moisture is best while a dry, cold spring usually means failure of the crop. Although they can be found from late April through June, May is considered the peak month. As for locality, there's good hunting in both southern and northern Michigan.

All species of Morels found in Michigan have one distinctive characteristic in common: their caps, or tops, are pitted with little hollows. Nevertheless, they are extremely elusive sprouts even to the most experienced eye because they blend so astutely into their background of last fall's leaves and dead grass. For this reason, the hunter should be prepared to do a considerable amount of hiking in pursuit of his prize. And, don't expect a seasoned hunter to direct you to good hunting ground. Such information is definitely, "top secret".

The best guide for the novice is a good book that provides pictures as well as descriptions of the edible and poisonous species that the amateur is most likely to encounter. As for equipment, about all that is needed is a basket, knife, a comfortable pair of sturdy walking shoes or boots and a lot of patience. A paper bag can be substituted for the basket but plastic bars are taboo. Morels packed in airtight plastic will begin to spoil before you arrive home.

If you're looking for a different kind of fun with delicious rewards, try "mushrooming" for Morels in Michigan. There's good hunting in the Gaylord area from May 6-20 and the National Mushroom Festival is scheduled for May 11-12 at Boyne City.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE
HAYES TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

A public hearing will be held May 13, 1974, at eight o clock p.m., in the Hayes Township Hall. The purpose of this hearing is to hear comment regarding the proposed zoning ordinance for Hayes Township.

Copies of the proposed zoning ordinance may be obtained by contacting Blanche Smith, Boyne City Road, Charlevoix, Michigan, phone LI 7-2116, after April 17, 1974. A copy of the proposed zoning map may be examined at the Bay Shore Food Market and the McArts Mart, Bay Shore, Michigan.

Written comments concerning the proposed zoning ordinance and the proposed zoning map will be accepted into the hearing record if received on or before May 20, 1974. Written comment should be submitted to the above address.

Window Breakers Have Lost Their Marbles

No matter how you look at it, there can be no valid excuse for the malicious destruction of windows in the Charlevoix area in recent weeks.

Among the latest victims are Charlevoix High School and the Chamber of Commerce office on Bridge-st.

Police Chief Jack Mol reports that the damage was apparently done by marbles and steel balls propelled by sling-shots.

He expects to issue warrants shortly against those responsible for the damage at the high school, which is estimated at $1,900.

Damage at the Chamber office is estimated at about $400.

It is bad enough when private homes and businesses are the targets of vandals.

It is even worse when public buildings are damaged, because it is the taxpayers who must stand the gaff, either through outright replacement costs or higher insurance premiums.

We don't pretend to know who is responsible for the senseless damage.

But we do know they must have lost their marbles. No rational person commits such acts.

Max Ellison Merits 'Poet Laureate' Title

The state of Michigan has often gone for decades on end without an official poet laureate – simply because we have had no one around to fill the post.

Such is not the case today, since the rise of northern Michigan's own Max Ellison, a poet of growing renown the country over.

A native of Bellaire, Ellison knocked around the country, saw service in World War II and worked at race tracks in the south before settling down as a pig farmer near Plymouth in the 1940's.

It was during his days in Plymouth that Mr. Ellison started writing the poetry that has won him acclaim at colleges and universities from California to Maine.

Ellison's poetry is of the earthy variety that smacks of country things. It also is laced with reminiscences of days gone by when life was simpler and less sophisticated than it is today.

Yet he is a modern poet in every sense of the word, touching the humanity in all of us.

Mr. Ellison served as poet at Gov. William Milliken's last inauguration, reciting his poem in praise of Michigan. At the time, the press referred to him as Michigan's "poet laureate."

Yet to date there has been no official action by the governor or either house of the Legislature to make the title official.

We are confident Mr. Ellison is deserving of the title.

Michigan should claim him before some other state does.

Dear Students, Faculty and people of Charlevoix,

My typewriter finally arrived. "It's a beauty". It will take me a while to get used to it, but it will be very useful to me in many ways.

There will be enough money left that I thought I would spend it for a stereo system.

I again thank everyone for your thoughtfulness, and if ever you are in Rogers City-you know where I live!

He Has To Go

By BOB CLOCK

Tax dodgers the country over suddenly found themselves traveling in pretty elite company last week with word from the Internal Revenue Service that our own President Richard Nixon owes almost a cool half million dollars in back taxes and penalties.

A joint House-Senate committee on Internal Revenue Taxation reported last Wednesday morning that the president owes $476,431 in back taxes and interest for the years 1969 to 1972.

Through a series of unfortunate oversights, the President and his tax advisors claimed a deduction of $482,018 for the gift of Mr. Nixon's vice presidential papers and $91,362 for furniture depreciation and business use of Nixon's San Clemente palace.

They also somehow missed $27,015 for flights on government airplanes by family members, with no business purpose claimed, and a whopping $92,298 for government-paid improvements to San Clemente and Key Biscayne which have no possible connection with the functioning of the American government.

Perhaps the most surprising facet of the report is unreported capital gains of $117,836 on the sale of excess San Clemente acreage, $151,848 from the sale of his New York apartment and $19,362 from the sale of lots in Florida.

There were only two pluses in the committee's report — $1,007 in sales tax deductions and $10 on 1972 gasoline taxes.

The question I have asked myself ever since the report was made public is how could Mr. Nixon, who is an attorney by trade, and his battery of tax lawyers have made so many "errors" on his tax returns?

It just doesn't seem possible that such experts could have overlooked income of $119,313 and capital gains of $289,046 and tacked on deductions of $573,618 all with a straight face.

Attorney Frank DeMarco allegedly went over the returns with the president page by page and Mr. Nixon is reported to have said "that's fine" after almost every page. Then he complimented the attorneys on doing such a "competent job" on his returns.

Of course, the President has agreed to pay the back taxes and interest without hassling the IRS. With his other Watergate-related problems he has no other choice. He is in deep enough without a tax rap hanging over his head.

Only a simpleton can possibly believe that the President and his attorneys didn't know what they were doing, but that is exactly what you and I are being asked to believe and I, for one, can't buy it.

About a month ago, Sen. Wilbur Mills predicted that a bombshell was about to drop that would force Mr. Nixon's resignation. The report by the joint committee certainly has to be that bombshell. Things can't possibly get any worse.

But will the President resign? I doubt it. I am coming to believe that the President is incapable of acknowledging any wrong-doing on his part. I would not be surprised if he doesn't take to the air waves in a few days with an American flag in his lapel to try to convince us that he simply was playing that grand old American game of trying to outwit the tax collector. He'll try to pass himself off as "one of the boys", but, brother, I don't think the American public is ready to buy that song and dance again.

If nothing else, Mr. Nixon has so seriously undermined the orderly collection of income taxes in the United States that the nation could well find itself on the brink of economic paralysis before too many months pass.

If the President gets away with his tax shenanigans without paying a severe penalty, then the poor IRS doesn't have a leg to stand on when it goes after any lesser citizen for fraud.

Fortunately, impeachment proceedings are continuing apace. And certainly the President's income tax "errors" should be included in the bill of particulars, regardless of whether he pays up.

He has so violated the spirit of the American government that he should not be permitted to remain in office one second longer than is absolutely necessary.

The Husbancy Is Sacred

By Jim Fitzgerald

When my wife asked me why I was two hours late for dinner, I told her I couldn't tell her because I had to protect the confidentiality of the husbancy.

I don't care about myself but it is my duty to think of the future. I don't want to set any precedents that will shatter the happiness of husbands yet unborn and unvowed.

It is important to the security of the husbancy that wives not be allowed to go on fishing expeditions. Wives must be required to specifically describe the information they are seeking. They must not be allowed to paw through a husband's entire day on the pretense of investigating 1 alleged tardiness.

I cannot be influenced by what the polls show concerning my loss of popularity in the bedroom. Oh, it would be easy for me to tell my wife everything I do when she is not looking. But this would be cowardly. This would be breaking faith with the husbancy.

Let me make one thing perfectly clear. I have done nothing wrong. I am not a philanderer or a loiterer on street corners. I have nothing to hide. But when my wife askes me such a general question as "Where were you?" I cannot answer her without endangering the peace of every man who, in the thousands of years to come, will shoulder the grave responsibilities of the husbancy.

A husband could miss the 9 a.m. train to work. This would set his entire day's schedule back one hour. The ultimate result is he arrives back home at 7 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. And his wife asks: "Where have you been?"

That is the type of fishing expedition which, if allowed, could destroy the husbancy.

The wife really wants to know where the husband was at 6 p.m. when she expected him home. But this is not what she asked. Instead she asked for an irrelevant review of his entire day. This type of haphazard investigation gnaws away at the very foundation of the husbancy.

The husband cannot risk responding to such a scatter-gun inquisition. His answer would be subject to too many different interpretations. To explain why he was late for dinner the husband would also have to explain why he was late for every appointment that day including lunch. The wife was not a party to this lunch and it has no bearing whatsoever upon her inquiry. It is none of her business that it took three hours. Besides, the finest husbands, including Abraham Lincoln, always took long lunch hours.

Wives must clearly define the scope of their investigations. A proper question would be "were you late for dinner because you had to stop to save 16 orphan babies from drowning?"

To protect the confidentiality of the husbancy, the husband should answer no questions that can't be answered with a simple yes or no.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Mrs. Normand's unplanned family numbered 14, for which blessing she expressed her gratitude at early morning Mass every day she was able.

She spoke only French and us alien youngsters soon became familiar with certain phrases which came as a prelude to a whack on the seat merited by our behavior.

She was a short, jovial extrovert, talkative without being garrulous, directing her often explosive French at the dog, cat, chickens, pig, and every bird and chipmunk. Most of her onesided conversations were with her plants, in the garden or on the window ledge. They responded to her heresy with those age old instinctive feelings now being 'discovered' by scientists armed with galvanometeres.

On one occasion we heard her conversing in the basement. When she came up, her son Russell asked:

"Who were you talking to, ma?"

"To my potatoes," she answered.

"What did they say?" he asking jokingly.

"They will answer me in the fall," she replied.

Talking to plants yet unborn gave her an edge over conventional plant lovers and this thoughtfulness was rewarded with year-'round vegetables from a plot no larger than a tennis court. She started her plants from seed and planted according to the cycle of the moon, leaving her eager-beaver neighbors to reap a frosty reward for their haste.

Departing from generalities, consider an incident involving our high school biology teacher. He was college-trained and, if nothing else, knew every shrub by its Greek or Latin name. One Friday he absentmindedly left a plant near the radiator and on Monday morning it was a shriveled distortion.

"It is dead," he informed us solemnly.

"No it ain't," challenged Russell to the astonishment of his classmates. Russ's botanical talents, as all were aware, bordered on failure, a fact substantiated by his report card threatening his elegibility for football. Goaded by this pending academic disaster, Russell broached a proposition to the man of science.

"If I can bring that plant back to you green and healthy will you count that as my term paper?" he asked.

"Agreed."

The pact was sealed in the presence of 36 dubious witnesses. When he brought it to his mother she began crooning to it softly, all the while threatening to drown the poor darling with her tears. Since the art of plant revival seems to be restricted to diminutive, grey haired, stubby fingered French ladies, an eye-witness account of her methods might be of interest.

First she transplanted it gently into a larger pot containing rich soil. Then she sprinkled it with rain water, collected for that purpose, while pleading,

"Drink what God intended for you."

She then placed in a darker corner away from drafts and several times each day she would chat with it while attending to its needs. She would often sit nearby softly humming a French folk tune to her dormant charge to the accompaniment of clicking knitting needles.

After a week of this companionable therapy she observed a green leaf tip with the pride of a mother watching her infant's first tuttering step. In slow stages she brought her child of nature into human environment and recovery was completed in the kitchen midst the babble of a dozen voices.

Russell's (?) homework presented a slight problem in grading: his mother insisted on first talking with the teacher who was to benefit from the following advice, via interpreter.

"Loneliness frightens plants. They need the attention and affection of people. They rely on us for safety as well as food."

There were some who insisted the traumatic experience unhinged the teacher's mind. He was observed talking into the leafy ears of the plant while correcting papers after school hours. As further proof of his departure from the realms of reality they cited his newly acquired eccentricity. He took the plant home with him each weekend, shielding it in a paper sack as fussily as a doting mother adjusting her baby's sun bonnet.

Let us not judge too harshly the affectionate horticulturists of any age or, in their harmless way, they serve a worthwhile purpose in a world which offers us mortals less and less to be joyous about.

They surrounded us with happy vegetation to which the menfolk can contribute by hanging up the hoe and shouldering the golf bag. Their wives, after carefully weighing the back-breaking advantages of a garden in these inflated times, should ask themselves this question:

"Is not my man deserving of the same happiness of a common garden weed?"

Vegetable Gardeners Invited to 'How-to' Meet

Charlevoix County vegetable gardeners are invited to a special meeting next Monday evening, April 15, Ed Rebman, county extension director has announced.

The meeting will be held at Whiting Park starting at 7 p.m.

James A. Porter, retired soils specialist from Michigan State University, and now assisting the Horticulture Department, will be in the county to present information on vegetable gardening. This will include material on soils, fertilizers, kinds of vegetables, varieties, cultural methods, insects and disease control.

This year many people will have a garden for the first time.

"I would like to have them attend this meeting so that they can obtain the most value from their garden," Rebman said.

Several bulletins are available at the Extension Office in Boyne City and will be passed out to those attending the meeting. They include, "The Home Vegetable Garden", the "Variety Recommendations", and the "Insect Control".

If you cannot attend this meeting, you may pick up a copy at the Extension Office.

Rebman reminds everyone-the experienced gardeners, the new gardeners, senior citizens, 4-H and other youth groups and all interested, to attend.

Good Friday P.M. Only Break Coming

We have just completed our spring recess at school. Will the students have any time off at Easter?

The students and teachers will have Good Friday afternoon off and return to school on Monday, April 15. School will be dismissed at 11:15 on April 12 for Good Friday.

The calendar for school set the fourth week in March for a spring break. We expect that this week will become the regular spring break in future years.

The tradition of setting the spring break around the Easter holidays caused a great deal of variance in the number of weeks of school between Christmas and Easter. When the Easter date is early, the time is short with a longer period between and the close of school. When Easter is late, the amount of time between Christmas and the break becomes excessive.

The attempt to plan on regular date for the spring break will regulate these times periods and also allow parents to plan with more degree of certainty when the schools will be closed. A side benefit to those who plan to travel will be a chance to avoid the crowds, which go to vacation spots during the pre and post Easter breaks.

School Superintendent James McKimmy will be happy to answer your questions about Charlevoix schools. Questions may be sent to the Courier office, 111 Bridge-st., or to Mr. McKimmy at the school.

Area Hosts Needed For Foreign Guests

Charlevoix area families are needed to entertain English-speaking European teachers as guests in their homes for a one or two week period this summer, it has been announced by the American Host Program.

According to J. Stuart Perkins, board chairman of the host program and president of Volkswagen of America, American Host is one of the few non-governmental programs designed to show the American way-of-life to foreign teachers by pairing them with American families.

Now in its 12th year, American Host has opened doors to better understanding for more than 5,000 European teachers who have passed on their new understanding of America to their students, colleagues and friends.

Perkins said that being a "Host Family" is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Americans and Europeans. Host Families are required to provide a private room, meals for their guest, the opportunity to meet their friends, neighbors and perhaps fellow teachers and to see some of the points of interest in the area.

American Host arranges all transportation. Host Families are asked to meet their guest upon arrival in their area. Teachers and Host Families have an opportunity to correspond for at least a month before meeting.

Arrangements for participating as a Host Family can be made by writing to: The American Host Program, Hotel Commodore, Suite 2100, New York, New York 10017 or call (212) 683-6567.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by District Judge Arthur Reibel:

Joseph Myers, 27, Petoskey, plead guilty to two motor vehicle violations (driving without a Michigan operator's license and speeding) and was assessed $100. Charges of possession of marijuana and eluding a police officer were dismissed at the request of the prosecutor when the complaining witness (State Police) failed to appear in court.

William Terry Hardy, Boyne City, was found guilty of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors. He will be sentenced later.

Dennis Skrocki, 23, East Jordan, plead not guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. His attorney requested a jury trial.

Claude Vermillion, 40, Ellsworth, requested a court-appointed attorney to represent him on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Case continued.

Andrew D. Sutton, 31, Boyne City, was assessed $120 for discharging a firearm without malice. His game licenses were suspended for three years and he was ordered to make restitution for injuries suffered by David Behling.

Ross Tisron In Colorado

Airman Ross E. Tisron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Tisron of 1015 Water, East Jordan, has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

Airman Tisron graduated in 1971 from East Jordan High School and attended Central Michigan University.

Mrs. Thomas Harrison is a medical patient at Charlevoix Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas are busy making maple syrup.

We had one lonely Robin in our backyard last week feeding on the fruit still hanging on the Flowering Crab trees, but Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moses have been having a flock of 14 come to their orchard each day and feed on the apples that are still hanging on the trees. Those on the ground are covered with snow and hard to find. But once again the snow is gone and we have a cold east wind. The ice in our lake has not started to move.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nielsen spent this past weekend with their daughter, Terry, and son-in-law, Geoffrey Enlund and family, in Coldwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Niel Woodbury have had a new well driven and are having their house covered with green aluminum siding. Looks real nice.

Eat and Grow Younger

Healthy Glands Keep Old Age From Tearing Down Your Body

By LELORD KORDEL

Number Thirteen of a Series

Ben Bald treats his thinning hair to a series of expensive scalp treatments, while Susie Sallow spends plenty of hard earned money for creams and lotions. Both believe that hair and skin can be "nourished" from the outside. Nothing could be farther from the truth!

A youthful appearance begins inwardly — with healthy, properly nourished endocrine glands.

Before my efforts to help you recover your lost youth can progress any further, you must realize that endocrine glands are the dictators which determine whether or not your all-out campaign to look and feel younger will succeed or fail.

Your glands must be nourished with the proper food elements or you can't depend on them to lend you much aid in the effort to regain your vanishing youth.

If a part of the human body could be described as "temperamental," then I would say the word was coined to fit your endocrine glands and their hair-trigger sensitivity.

NEED NOURISHMENT

They hold unlimited power over every human being, keeping one person young and vigorous despite the passing years, condemning another to a premature old age and thrusting a third into a morass of depressed thoughts and nagging ill-health.

The names of these glandular despots are pituitary, thyroid, adrenals, pancreas, thymus, pineal, parathyroids and gonads.

How do these eight glands hold such vast control over your life? Hormones are the answer —a word that has become headline news in recent years.

When it came time to name secretions of these all-powerful endocrine glands, some imaginative scientist chose the appropriate Greek verb "Hormon" meaning "excite." For that, in brief, is the intended function of all hormones—to excite your bodily organs into performing at maximum efficiency so you may possess all the vitality, all the magnetism, all the radiance of a healthy, happy person.

No person can say with authority that any one of these glands is the "most important," because each one has its work so closely tied in with the other seven that a slight upset in one member of the endocrine family reacts almost immediately on the efficiency of the others. What one gland does, or does not do, is registered without fail in the entire clan's activities.

The only way you can tell when your glands are not functioning up to par is when you begin noticing the effects of their suffering. These effects often put in an appearance in spots quite remote from the seat of the original trouble.

For instance, the two adrenal glands (each about as large as a bean) are suspended one above each kidney. When these adrenal glands are not behaving as they should, the skin becomes dark and sallow, with deep lines. Note, please, that they don't advertise their upset by a pain in the small of the back where they are located.

VIBRANCY OF YOUTH

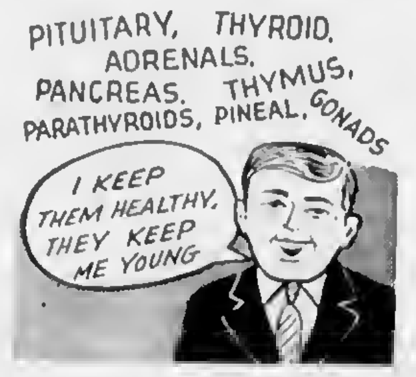
Let's consider the glands which perhaps should rank first in your effort to retain the appearances and sensations of youth.

What qualities or attributes make people say of a certain man or woman: "He (or she) is so young for his (her) age?"

My first answer would be sexual vibrancy—for in these two words are contained the confidence, inward feeling of power, energy, vitality, enthusiasm, mental alertness, sense of attractiveness, assurance, stamina and radiant glow which are gifts to the young of any age.

The hormones secreted by the gonads exert a tremendous influence on your physical health, as well as on your ability to retain a youthful appearance and to live a long, useful life.

As a further example of the devious ways in which the endocrine glands proclaim their unhappiness, there is the unpredictable thyroid, located at the front of the neck. Frequently any change in the normal functioning of this well-known gland may bring on ulcers in the stomach or in the upper intestine.



PITUITARY, THYROID, ADRENALS, PANCREAS, THYMUS, PARATHYROIDS, PINEAL, GONADS
I KEEP THEM HEALTHY, THEY KEEP ME YOUNG

Here is the outstanding fact you need to keep uppermost in mind as you read on:

Your endocrine glands, as well as their youth-giving hormones, are made of protein.

MADE OF PROTEIN

Protein foods are hormone builders and conditioners. Therefore, a continued lack of high-grade food protein in your diet can weaken these glands so seriously that old age has gained a head start in you almost before you realize it. Feed your glands —not your stomach—if you want to look and feel younger than the calendar says you are.

In addition to protein foods, iron and copper are important to your glands. Rich sources of iron are beef liver and other organ meats, dark poultry meat, lean beef and lamb, egg yolk, apricots, prunes, raisins, molasses, whole grains, lettuce, beet tops, leeks and radishes.

Copper is usually present in the foods containing iron, but especially in almonds, dried beans, whole wheat, prunes, calf and beef liver, shrimp and egg yolks.

And then there are the vitamins. Vitamins and hormones are interdependent. The regular use of a good vitamin-mineral supplement makes nutritional sense—and protects your glands.

You can't be any younger than your glands. And your glands can't stay young and healthy if they are starved. Foods that befriend your glands are the best youth insurance you can buy.

Scuba Diving Class Slated at The Lodge

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will conduct Scuba Diving lessons beginning Tuesday April 23, 1974, at the Lodge Motel pool from 6 p.m. 'till 9:30 p.m.

The class will meet for nine weeks which includes two "checkout" or open water dives.

A qualified instructor from Scuba North of Traverse City will teach the course and students passing the qualifications will receive National Certification. A minimum of ten students is required to hold the class. Students must be accomplished swimmers.

A registration fee of $42 is required from each student. Those wishing to rent equipment may do so through Scuba North at $3 per week or $18 for the entire course.

Students must furnish their own mask, fins, and snorkel.

Those interested in the course must have their registration fee along with name and address into the Charlevoix Recreation office by April 15, 1974. Checks or money orders must be made out to the City of Charlevoix and mailed to: Charlevoix Recreation Department, 210 State-st., Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720.

Injured in 1-Car Crash

Cecelia Jean Obptande, 43, of Muskegon was reported in serious condition at Charlevoix Area Hospital Monday following a one-car accident on Old 31 in front of the James Gallagher home Sunday at 5:10 p.m.

Ms. Obptande apparently was a passenger in a car driven by Carl George, 33, of Lansing which went out of control and hit a tree. Ms. Obptande was reportedly thrown through the windshield.

George was treated for injuries at Charlevoix Hospital and released.

Sheriff's deputies are continuing their investigation.

Michigan Con Slates Open House April 17

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. will host an open house at its new Petoskey Area Office and Service Center April 17 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Richard A. Seguin, area manager for Michigan Consolidated, said hot coffee and doughnuts will be on hand for visitors to the utility's new 7,715-square foot building, located at 1500 North U.S. 31 at the U.S. 131 intersection.

In addition to coffee and doughnuts, Michigan Consolidated will also be giving away a new General Electric gas dryer as a door prize to celebrate the office opening, Seguin said.

The new building, a single story brick facility in a contemporary design, will combine the company's commercial and service offices as well as provide display space for gas appliances. It will also contain a large conference room that will be available for civic and public use. Off street parking is available.

Prior to opening of the new center, Michigan Consolidated's business office was located at 216 Petoskey-st. and its service offices at 426 Bay-st.

On hand to welcome visitors to the new building will be Seguin, James C. Preston, general manager of the company's Northern and Upper Peninsula Districts, and Raymond J. Biziorek, manager of the Northern District.

Mrs. Ice Is Cited For Work With CF

Mrs. Gilbert Ice of Charlevoix has received a service award from the Greater Michigan Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Mrs. Ice is chairman of the local fund raising drive for CF.

The award was made by Thomas A. Basil, president of the state chapter.

Michigan volunteers collected more than $217,000 last year to assist lung-damaged children.

"The real key to our success is a person such as yourself who cares enough to volunteer your time and your leadership skills to organize a campaign for CF children," Basil wrote in his letter of commendation. "More than 25,000 Michigan volunteers made this past year a success, but as a campaign chairman for your community, you are among 104 key leaders throughout the state who truly made this year happen."

Spring Frolic Planned by Shriners

The Northwest Shrine Club met at Nubs Nob recently. Seventy-seven Nobles, their wives and guests attended cocktail hour and a buffet dinner, according to President Keith Annear.

Plans were made for a Spring Frolic at Boyne Mountain April 20. Reservations must be made by April 14 by contacting Annear.

The Northwest Shrine is composed of Shriners from Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Kalkaska counties who hold a dinner meeting every month for husbands and wives.

Door prize at the March meeting was won by Daisy Borden of Charlevoix.

He came to Charlevoix 11 years ago and, at the time of his death was a manufacturer's representative for the J. Malcolm Flora Co. Inc.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Electronic Representatives Association.

Born in Steward, Ill., May 19, 1918, Mr. Beitel was married to the former Mary Hughes at Fort Worth, Tex., in 1941. He had attended North Central College at Naperville, Ill.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Brian (Jeanne) Seymour of Charlevoix and Betti of Lansing; a son, Gary, of Lansing; one grand-daughter; his mother, Mrs. Perry A. Beitel of Steward, Ill.; a brother, Donald of San Diego, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Bernard Fuchs of Steward, Ill.

Miller

Funeral for Mrs. Earl E. (Margaret) Miller, 87, who died Wednesday at River Park Hospital in McMinnville, Tenn., was held at St. Mary's Church Monday, the Rev. E. Francis Denay officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home Sunday evening.

Born on Beaver Island May 23, 1886, the former Margaret Donlevy came to Charlevoix as a young woman. She was married to Mr. Miller at Grand Rapids in 1915. They returned here to make their home until going to McMinnville 18 months ago. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and its Rosary Altar Society.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edward S. (Marjorie) Radle of McMinnville, Tenn.; six grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. James McDermott of Chicago and Mrs. Katherine McCallum of Charlevoix and a brother, Frank Donlevy of Muskegon.

Purdy

Word has been received of the death of Paul B. Purdy, 84, at St. Joseph Hospital, Flint, on March 22. Funeral was March 25 at the Floral Chapel, Dodds-Dummanois Co. Funeral Home, the Rev. Michael Schulenberg officiating. Burial was in Sunset Hills Cemetery.

Mr. Purdy was born in West Superior, Wisc., July 31, 1889, and lived in Charlevoix before moving to Flint in 1914.

He was general manager of the Flint Mortgage and Guarantee Title Co. from 1919 until 1941. In 1946 he founded Flint Concrete Products, Inc., and was president of the company until his retirement in 1959.

He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Elks Lodge No. 222, the Flint Downtown Optimist Club, the Flint Geneology Society, Friends of the Library and the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include his widow, Lila S. Purdy, 1115 Lafayette-st., Flint; two sons, Robert B. and Thomas S. Purdy, both of Flint; four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Ockrant

Funeral for William Ockrant, 78, a long-time summer resident of Charlevoix, was held March 22 at the Weil Funeral Home in Cincinnati, Dr. Victor E. Reichert and Rabbi Harold D. Hahn officiating. Interment was in the United Jewish Cemetery, Walnut Hills.

Mr. Ockrant was president of the William Ockrant Corp., dealing in cotton.

He was a member of Rockdale Temple, the Rotary Club and the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his widow, Babette; two daughters, Mrs. Elaine Liebschutz and Mrs. Marvin (Suzanne) Padway, and seven grandchildren.

In Charlevoix, the Ockrants stay at the Hillside Cottage on Michigan-ave.

Wegener

Funeral for Mrs. Eric (Roberta Swanson) Wegener, 36, a former local resident and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swanson, was held in Damaskus, Ark., Monday with burial in Damaskus.

Mrs. Wegener died unexpectedly at her home at Damaskus early Friday.

Born in Charlevoix Aug. 1, 1937, the former Roberta Swanson was a graduate of Charlevoix High school and, during these years, was a member of a vocal trio known as "The Teensters" with the former Fay Meggison and Mona Davenport.

She was a graduate of Western Michigan University and taught at Benton Harbor prior to her marriage to Mr. Wegener in 1963. They later went to Damaskus, Ark., to make their home. She continued to teach in the schools there. Mr. Wegener died two years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Adam, eight, and Hans, seven, both at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swanson of Charlevoix; two sisters, Jean of Petoskey and Mrs. Thomas Davis of Grand Rapids and two brothers, Guy and Carl, both of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Agency
Insurance

THE CHARLEVOIX Agency was cited last week by the Hartford Insurance Co. for being a Hartford representative for more than 50 years. The first contract with Hartford was granted to Myrtie Young & Son in 1921. Several representatives of the Hartford Regional office in Grand Rapids were on hand to present a model of the Hartford symbol -- a stag -- to Richard Martin, manager of the Charlevoix Agency. From left are Russ Baird, marketing representative; Bob Adams, general manager; Martin; Bob Bridges, assistant general manager; and Ed Johnson, marketing manager.

Bud Kohler Contributes Recorder to Historians

Bud Kohler of Saginaw has presented a tape recorder to the Charlevoix Historical Society in hopes of launching a "vocal history" of the area through the recollections of old-timers.

The gift was presented at the April 2 meeting by Kohler's mother, Mrs. Carl Kohler. Mrs. Kohler says her son still considers Charlevoix "home."

Chamber of Commerce Manager Vincent Olach was principal speaker. He discussed the possibility of establishing a local museum, one of the goals of the society. He pledged his full cooperation toward the project.

The society also displayed some of the wooden signs it is having made to designate older homes in town as part of the nation's bi-centennial celebration.

Any home still in use which was built prior to 1900 qualifies for a marker. Those built before 1876 will be designated as "Centennial Homes." Those constructed between 1876 and 1900 will be designated "Pioneer Homes."

If you are unable to determine the age of your home, contact Mrs. Kohler at 547-2963 or Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff at 547-2200 for assistance.

The signs will be sold for $5 each, which will give the society a profit of $1. Provision will be made for persons whose homes qualify for signs but are unable to afford them.

Several downtown business buildings also deserve recognition, according to the society, including Murdick's Fudge Shop and Colwell Realty. Memorial plaques will be ordered for such businesses if the owners contact the society.

Meetings of the society are held the first Tuesday of every month at 8 p.m. at the library. Everyone interested in local history is urged to attend.

Alma College Plans Courses at NCMC

Alma College will offer courses at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey this summer, according to Dr. Ronald O Kapp, college provost.

Courses also will be offered on the Alma campus and at West Shore Community College in Scottville.

The NCMC program will include upper level courses in history, political science and sociology, taught by Alma faculty members.

Alma also will accept credits earned this year at the Bay View Summer Conservatory of Music at Bay View.

Dates of the NCMC courses are June 24 to Aug. 16. The Bay View program begins June 30 and ends Aug. 25.

The Petoskey courses will be History 333, the Anatomy of Power (four credits), Sociology 443, Deviant Behavior (two credits); and Sociology 444, Crime and Delinquency (two credits).

Additional information about the summer study program may be obtained from Paul S. Storey, director of the Summer Session, Alma College, Alma, Mich. 48801. Telephone (517) 436-2141, extension 248.

Persons interested in the Bay View program should contact Dr. Ernest G. Sullivan of Alma College, who is director of the Bay View Music Festival and Summer Conservatory of Music (same address and phone number, extension 242).

Will Seek 2nd Term

State Rep. Ralph Ostling has announced that he will seek another term in the Michigan House of Representatives from the 103rd District, which includes part of Charlevoix County.

"My first year here in Lansing has been a busy and gratifying one and I am looking forward to another term in office because there are many issues facing us that need to be resolved," Ostling said.

Ostling is a member of the Social Services and Corrections, Mental Health and Conservation and Recreation committees.

He has worked for increases in the so-called "swamp tax" and also has been involved in campaign financing reform.

Vehicles, Vandals Hurt Hill

Motorized vehicles and vandals are raising havoc at Mt. McSauba, according to director Chuck Meier.

Meier says that since the snow has left, motorized vehicles have caused considerable damage to the slopes.

When the ground cover is disturbed, erosion results. Every year considerable sums of money are spent putting the area back in shape, Meier says. Eroded areas must be graded and re-seeded.

Meier says that vandals also removed one of the tow ropes and dragged it until it was torn apart. A door on one of the buildings also was torn off its hinges.

the sheriff's department is investigating the two incidents.

Ellsworth

Mrs. Anne Osterbaan
Phone 588-2433

By Anne Osterbaan

For nearly 30 years Gerrit and Arthur Drenth have been in partnership and doing business under the name of the Ellsworth Hardware. As of March 31, this has been changed as Cornell Aloffs, son-in-law of Arthur Drenth, has taken over the business in Gerrits place.

They will continue using the same name, provide the same service and offer the quality merchandise as before.

Gerrit and Arthur bought the then "blue store" from the late K. Klooster and now Rev. Harry VanderArk in September, 1944. In late years, the Drenths have remodeled the store, removing the upper story and paneling the outside.

Aloff and his wife, Sharon, and son Brian, came here from Marion, Iowa, and have bought the former K. Klooster home on Park-st.

Aloffs will be in charge of the service department. Arthur's wife Jean will be clerking in the store. Gerrit and his wife Cora (who also spent many hours in the store) will have a well-earned rest. They live on their farm a mile south of Ellsworth.

Dessie Farrell returned Tuesday after spending three months in Florida this winter. She spent half of the time at Trinity College at Dunedin and half with her sister Rose Bearss in Ellenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gebott and daughter Stacy and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Alward and children Billy Lee and Amy were Tuesday evening supper guests of Anne Osterbaan and Mattie Vander Ark at the latter's home.

From the Holland Sentinel, we learned that the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nienhuis, of Holland, a resorter to Ellsworth for many year, has been named and chosen as envoy to Rivanda, Africa.

Robert E. Fritts, married to Audrey Nienhuis of Holland, was recently sworn in as ambassador to Rivanda. A career foreign officer, Fritts has served as deputy chief of mission at the American Embassy at Kharton since March, 1973.

Fritts was born in Chicago and began his foreign service career in 1959 and served in economic capacities in Luxemberg, Tokyo and Djakarta. He assumed charge of the Khartoum embassy after the former ambassador and his deputy were slain.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritts have three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nienhuis attended the swearing in ceremonies at Washington, D.C. March 8.

The Nienhuises are well known in Ellsworth as well as their parents the Veldmans. They spent many years as resorters in the Peter John Drenth cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carpenter and three sons of Grand Rapids were up this weekend to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Carpenter and the Jacob Vanden Bergs.

Richard Ruis and wife Helen and month-old daughter Amy from East Lansing were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ruis. This was Amy's first appearance in Ellsworth and Grandpa says, she sure is a "cutie." "Could he be prejudiced?"

Mrs. Richard (Marcia) Patterson of Winston Salem, N.C., and her sister Mrs. James (Charlotte) Patterson of Troy, visited their folks, Mr. and Mrs. Claude White, a few days last week. They also called on their aunt, Maude Patterson.

A bridal shower was given for Jan VanderBerg, Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mike (Nancy) McGardy of Norwood. About 20 women enjoyed the party of visiting and playing games, as well as seeing the many beautiful presents received by Jan. Jan and Dennis Drenth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Drenth are planning their wedding May 4. Worthy of attention, at this shower eight VandenBerg sisters were present as well as their mother, Mrs. Jake Vanden Berg. Hostesses were Mrs. McCardy and Carol and Barbara VandenBerg.

Miss Artis Drenth of Detroit also came for the shower and visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Art Drenth and family.

Spending the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Aloffs and Brian were his folks, Mr. and Mrs. John Aloffs and his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Perrin, all of Grand Rapids.

Kate Bronkema recently burned her leg with scalding coffee and a few days later fell and cracked three ribs. Her sister, Jen Goeman, is caring for her.

Mrs. Anthony Kuiper and John Klooster have been released from the hospital. Mrs. Fred Van Stedum had the cast removed from her arm last week.

GREG LOPER won a 3-2 decision over Jim Elzinga in Middle School tournaments last week. Referee was Mike Carland.

IT WAS 0-0 going into the final seconds when Andy Keller racked up three points to defeat Dennis Whitley in the Middle School Tournaments. Referee was Coach Norm Probert.

Middle School Matmen Get Awards at Assembly

Middle School wrestlers were honored at an awards ceremony at the school Monday at the conclusion of the annual intramural Wrestling Tournament, conducted by Coach Norm Probert.

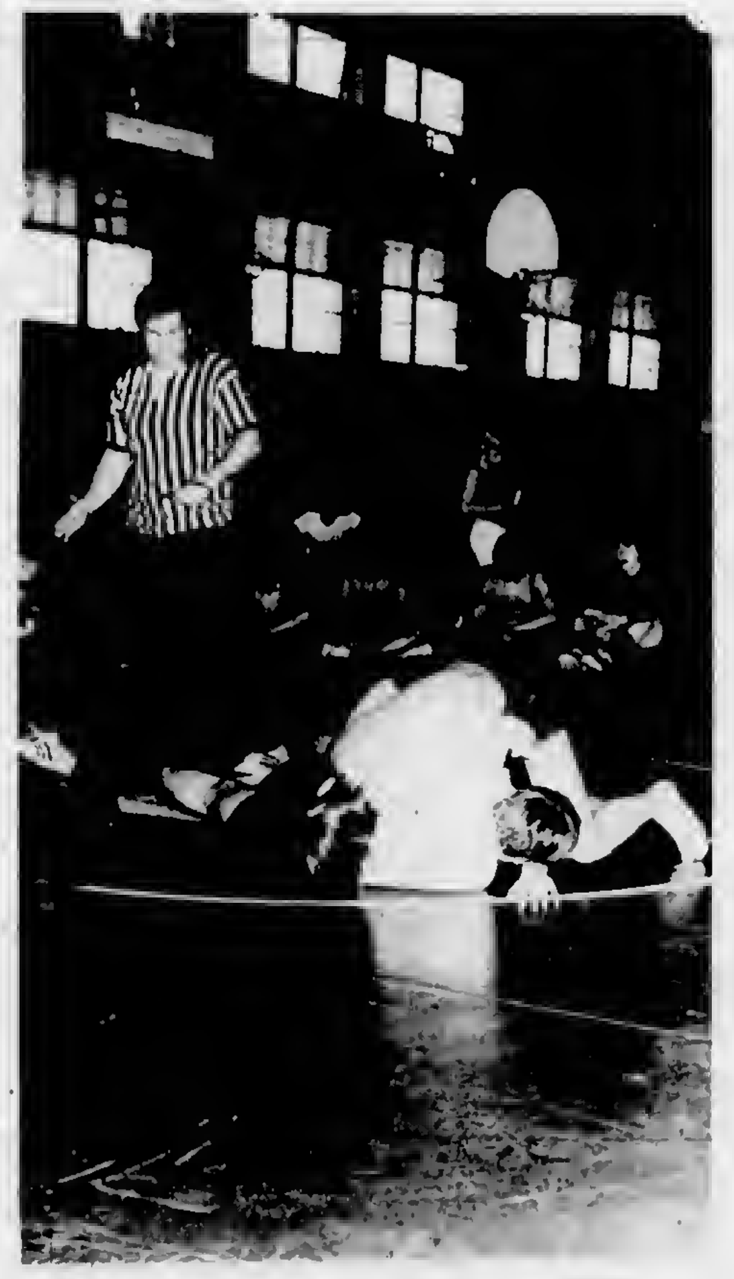
"Most Valuable Wrestler" trophies were to Dennis Morgridge, 5th grade; Phil Morris, 6th grade; Dennis Whitley, 7th grade; and Jim Elzinga, 8th grade.

Champions in their divisions were Morgridge and Eric Mays, 5th grade; Morris, Mark Drenth and Jerry Sladek, 6th grade; Dan Monteith, Andy Keller and Whitley, 7th grade; and Elzinga, Greg Loper and Barry Potter, 8th grade.

Special awards went to Jerry Sladek for the most pins, Dan Monteith for the most points and Dennis Morgridge, the greatest pin (41 seconds).

Special "hardship" awards went to Larry Nunemaker and Tim Zeitler for appearing in the most matches and wrestling out of their class.

Assising Coach Probert in the two-day run-off last Thursday and Friday were Mike Carland, Mike Snizik, Gary Probert, Pat and Tim DeYoung and Jerry Puhl.



ALL BOYS at the Middle School had an opportunity to participate in the annual Wrestling Tournament, last week, culminating an introductory program conducted by Coach Norm Probert. Here Greg Loger (white shirt) and Jim Elzinga square off.

Mixed V-Ball Results

Following are the results of Mixed Volleyball games last week:

Stutzman expressed his gratitude to those who accompanied the musicians including Mrs. Robert Tollas, Mrs. James Fiedler, Corine Ranger, Darlene Smalley, Robin Boeck, Kim Blanchard, Pam Boss, Lisa Redeker, Mark Gallagher and Sue Winchester and to those students who worked as room chairmen and runners during the festival. He also acknowledged with gratitude the band parents who were in charge of the concessions stand and sold meals throughout the day.

Republicans Fill Two Vacancies

Charlevoix County Republicans last Thursday night elected Backy Harris of Horton Bay as new finance chairman, although Harris said he would take the job only after he determines how much organization must be done.

If he accepts, he will replace Dawson Way, who has resigned due to the press of business.

Also elected at the meeting was Mrs. Oscar Stroud, who will serve as secretary. She will replace Mrs. Dale Boss, who also resigned because of the added demands of her church work.

The County GOP plans an all-out drive to recruit more paid-up members during the coming months. Only a handfull of members have paid their dues so far this year, mainly because recruitment activities have been negligible.

County Treasurer Anah Potter pointed out that it is "still early" for many members to pay.

Ornamental Trees, Shrubs Available

The Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce is once again offering a wide variety of trees and shrubs to area residents for spring planting.

The chamber is accepting orders for six varieties of flowering crab, five different lilacs and eight specialty numbers, including mountain ash, birch and red maple; and 10 varieties of Easter bushes, including burning bush, mock orange and spirea.

Orders will be taken on a first-come, first served basis during April.

Trees will be distributed to purchasers at the Parker Motor Freight terminal at 126 Fulton-st., Petoskey, on Arbor Day, May 1

Dr Del Andrews is chairman of the annual beautification project.

The 1,530 trees to be made available this year will bring to 10,230 the number of trees and shrubs sold by the chamber in the past eight years.

For specific information and to place your orders, call the Petoskey Chamber at 347-4150

Jazz Group To Perform At Dinner

The newest musical group in the Charlevoix public schools music department, a Jazz Ensemble, will make its initial appearance during the annual spring band dinner to be held at the high school cafeteria May 2, Gary Stutzman, director of the group has announced.

The concert will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue until 8:30 p.m. to allow those who are attending the dinner to enter the gym and hear the group during the early evening.

Fund-Raiser

The local Republicans are planning a fund-raiser for Cong. Phil Ruppe Sunday, April 28. Time, place and details will be announced later. Ruppe reportedly will be a candidate for Congress, although there has been some talk of his seeking the post of lieutenant governor.

Busy Easter Planned By Church of Nazarene

Members of the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene will begin the observance of Easter by attending the Sunrise Service at the Community Reformed Church at 7 o'clock.

Breakfast will be served, followed by a devotional program led by Rev. Alan Mettler.

At 10 a.m., classes of the Junior Department will present a short program during the opening exercises. The superintendent, Mrs. Erwin Smalley, is director. An Easter treat will be given each boy and girl.

During the 11 a.m. worship service, a Cantata, "Risen and Returning", by Bill Ingram will be given by the 13-member youth choir.

The singers are Lee DeMitchel, Mike DeMitchel, Ronnie DeMitchel, Andre Fiedler, Erik Fiedler, Kristinn Fiedler, Terri Hauff, Brenda Honeysette, Bruce Honeysette, Debbie Shores, Darlene Smalley, Carol White and Linda White.

Mrs. Erwin Smalley will direct the cantata. Mrs. James Fiedler will accompany at the piano. The narrator will be Kathy Hauff. Flute solos by Lisa Fiedler, and accompaniment during part of the singing will be included.

Rev. Alan Mettler will conclude the 11 o'clock service with a brief devotional message on "The Marys-The Faithful Few."

At the 7 p.m. worship, Julia and Kay Herman will sing a duet. Special seasonal instrumental numbers will be played.

Rev. Mettler will close his series of sermons on the general theme of "Persons of Passion", with one entitled, "Thomas–I Want to Believe."

A nursery staffed with capable attendants will be open during the worship services.

Other meetings are the Bible study class at the home of Penny Johnson, 118 East Upright, at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Revelation 6 will be studied. The mid week devotional meeting is on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Mettler will be on radio WMBN all week for the noon and evening devotionals.

Ralph Hamilton Named To Tax Allocation Board

County Clerk Clarence F. Rabach has notified the members of the Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board for 1974 of their organization meeting in his office at 1 p.m., Monday, April 15. There will be one change in the membership as far as is known at this time.

Ralph S. Hamilton of Charlevoix has been appointed to the Commission in place of Mayor Edward P. Hansen of the City. This appointment was by Judge of Probate John T. Murphy. Hamilton will serve as a representative of the cities.

Two other members were reappointed by the judge. They are Melvin C. Howard of Boyne City, representing the Twin Valley School Board, and Robert C. Sherman of East Jordan, representing the county at large.

Three members will serve because of offices they hold. They are Intermediate School Superintendent James Shepard or someone designated to act for him, County Board of Commissioners Ways and Means Committee Chairman I. Lee Moerland, and County Treasurer Anah H. Potter.

The seventh member of the Commission will be Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix Township, who will represent the interests of townships. He was appointed by a committee made up of Clerk Rabach, Treasurer Potter and Sheriff Philo E. Sumner.

The commission determines what part of a statutory 15 mills will be paid to school districts, the Intermediate School District, townships, and the county.

for making the program, taught by Mrs. Connie Ford, possible.

–Heard McKimmy outline the elections procedures from the deadline for advertising (May 2) to deadline for registration for the June 10 election (5 p.m. May 13), deadline for filing nominating petitions (5 p.m. May 13), May 16 as the deadline for withdrawing from the election to May 30 as the final date for posting notices. He also advised that a petition must have no less than 20 and now more than 26 signatures.

–Heard McKimmy offer the use of the school parking lot to those residents on May street who will be shut in by the construction of the May st. sewer which started Monday.

--Heard a report from Manson Jackson and Kane that it would cost from $20,000 to $26,000 to bring the existing football lights up to desired strength, using existing poles.

–In answer to a question regarding the annual trip to Greenfield Village, Miss Stanko said a committee of teachers and parents was working on the project and would make a decision at a later date.

--Heard Mrs. James Lieberman, president of the board, announce that the board, at its request, had met with Middle School teachers Monday afternoon to hear the teachers comments on the school.

–Heard from Mrs. James Williams the need for a Pep Club. She offered to assist with such a program.

–Heard April 22 set as the date for the next meeting.

–Heard McKimmy report that he had received a letter from Rabbi Dr. Samuel Karff thanking him for the use of the school facilities during the summer plus a check which was turned over to the Materials Center fund.

--Agreed that the "condominiumizing" of the Weathervane Terrace is in accordance with the city's zoning code. An opinion on the question was sought by Art Bond of Ski & Shore. Attorney Barbara MacKenzie of Petoskey explained that a change in the method of ownership in no way effects the use of the structure. Permanent residents will not be permitted to occupy units in the building, although no one was able to define "permanent resident."

–Sent to committee a bid from the Beaver Island Boat Co. for Berths A and B at the city dock. The bid totaled $8,100 for three years, to be paid by Sept. 1, 1974, after remodeling of the dock building is completed. The boat company was the only bidder. Alderman Jeannine Wallace relayed a complaint to the council from Art Reibel that he did not feel all potential bidders have been given the same opportunity to bid.

–Sent to committee a bid on Berth 4 for $310 submitted by Gordon W. Peterson and a bid by John Haggard for Berth 3, $205.

--Agreed to let the Charlevoix Yacht Club use a newly acquired portion of Depot Beach for the summer. The club will construct a temporary shelter and docks to be used for boating instruction until it secures property of its own. Josh Barnes of the Yacht Club stressed that the club wishes to use the property on a temporary basis.

–Reassured the Environmental Protection Agency that no industrial waste is being treated at the Charlevoix Sewage Plant. The council also said that if such waste ever is treated, a cost recovery system will be adopted.

–OK'd a dance license for Leutheusers restaurant.

–Agreed to meet with civil engineer Dan Shanahan, a new resident of Charlevoix, next Monday night on plans for constructing a seawall from Clinton-st. to the city dock and installing floating finger piers. Shanahan estimated the cost of the project at $60,000 half of which (the seawall) may be paid for by the Soil Conservation Service.

--Paid bills totaling $109,942.74.

Horton Has Tickets For Jeff-Jack Fete

Howard Horton of Charlevoix had been named local ticket chairman of the Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner planned by the Michigan Democratic Party April 27 at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

Tickets cost $35 each, or $50 for a couple. You may reserve yours by contacting Horton at 547-2359.

Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Washington) will keynote this year's Jeff-Jack dinner.

Kindergarten Sign-Up Slated for April 18, 19

Pre-schoolers who will enter kindergarten in the fall should be registered at the K-4 building on Division-ave. April 18 and 19, according to Glenn B. Snider, principal.

Parents of children whose last names begin with any letter from "A" through "K" are asked to report to the school between 9 a.m. and noon, Thursday, April 18.

Parents of children whose last name begins with any letter from "L" through "Z" should register between 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Friday, April 19.

Parents are asked to bring to school only the child to be registered and the child's birth certificate.

Mrs. Marge Davenport, the school nurse, will be on hand both days to confer with each parent and to begin the child's school health record. She also will explain state health requirements.

A date will be given in August for parents to supply the school with the needed information to qualify their child for entrance into kindergarten.

To be eligible for enrollment, a youngster must be five years old by Dec. 1, 1974.

Morning kindergarteners will be excused from class Thursday morning and afternoon kindergarteners will be excused Friday afternoon, April 18 and 19.

Parents of pre-schoolers who will attend kindergarten in the fall are urged to mark the time and date of their registration appointment on the calendar – and then keep the appointment.

Curreys Honored On Anniversary

Neighbors and friends gathered at the Barnard Grange March 26 to celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Currey.

A short program was enjoyed with an original poem written and read for the occasion by Mrs. William Parsons.

The wedding anniversary cake was made by Mrs. Lloyd Cummings.

The Curreys moved to northern Michigan one year ago from Almont and own the former Warner Brothers farm. They are now raising sheep and making maple syrup.

The Curreys have three sons, Allen a student at the University of Michigan; Arthur, a student at Michigan State University; Kirk, a student at Central Michigan University; and one daughter, Kay, a student at Charlevoix High School.

Reports Due

Reports by the Citizens Study Committee investigating school needs will be finalized April 17. They will be submitted to the Board of Education at its April 22 meeting.

It's Freedman

began operations in the Petoskey area in 1963.

The company's customer rolls in the area have steadily grown since and in addition to Petoskey, Michigan Consolidated now serves Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Central Lake and Bellaire and surrounding townships.

The 8,000 customers in those communities last year consumed 2.33 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

The new building, for which ground was broken last August, was designed by the architectural firm of Barber-McCalpin Associates of Anchorville and constructed by the Thompson-Phelan Construction Co., also of Anchorville.

Hurry less. Worry less.

One of the best ways to stretch your gasoline is to keep the speedometer at a steady 55 m.p.h. on the highways. You can get approximately 20% better gas mileage at 55 than at 70 m.p.h..

And speaking of driving, make sure your car is running right before you go. A tune-up, clean air filters and correct tire pressure can increase your gas mileage even more!

Just relax, drive steady and accelerate smoothly. Take in all the beautiful countryside along the Michigan highways! The tall trees, forests and woods, dozens of quaint villages, open farmlands and historic sights. You may even see things you've never seen before!

So take your time, reduce your speed and enjoy all the beauty of Michigan.

City-Wide Clean-Up Starting on May 6

City crews will assist you in cleaning up your property once again this year, according to Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff.

City trucks will pick up refuse on curbsides throughout the city on a schedule that starts May 6 and continues through May 17.

Pick-up on the North Side has been scheduled for May 6, 7 and 8.

On May 13, 14 and 15, trucks will forage throughout the Second Word west of Bridge-st.

Pick-up in the Third Ward east of Bridge-st. will be made May 16 and 17.

City residents are urged to have their refuse ready for pick-up on the assigned days for their neighborhoods during the annual clean-up drive.

The pick-up scheduled was approved by the City Council at the April 8 meeting.

Kindergarteners Must Be Enrolled

Parents of pre-schoolers who will enter kindergarten in September are reminded that enrollment days are this Thursday and Friday, April 17 and 18.

To be eligible for kindergarten in September, a child must be five years old by Dec. 1, 1974.

If your last name begins with any letter from "A" through "K", your child should be enrolled between 9 a.m. and noon on Thursday.

If your name begins with any letter from "L" through "Z", your child should be registered between 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Kindergarten classes will not be held Thursday morning and Friday afternoon to allow teachers to assist with the registration. The school nurse also will be on hand to start the child's school health record.

Parents are asked to bring only the child being enrolled.

Fr. Denay Named Regional Vicar

Bishop Edmund C. Szoka of the Diocese of Gaylord has announced that the Rev. E. Francis Denay, pastor of St. Mary's in Charlevoix, has been elected Vicar of the Northwest Region of the Diocese of Gaylord.

In his letter of confirmation, Bishop Szoka stated, "Father Denay, I want to express my very best wishes and congratulations on your election as vicar. The priests of your region have given you a great vote of confidence, and I join them in sharing that confidence."

The duties of a regional vicar are, above all, of a pastoral nature. His primary objective will be to assist the people, priests and religious of his region to realize and attain their identity as God's family in the bond of a common faith and love.

In a word, therefore, the Vicar has a dual role: to help draw the priests together in their service to the people of the region; and, to provide leadership in the work of the parishes and institutions of the region.

The Vicar will also serve as a special channel of communication in the region. He will be able to reflect the

Ellsworth Calls Meet on School Plans

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 17, at the Ellsworth Community School to explain a proposed $890,000 school building program, according to Supt. Robert Gaunt.

Ellsworth School District voters will be asked to vote on bonding for the improvements at a special election April 29.

With an eye toward economy, the board has agreed on a steel, pre-engineered addition to the high school which would house a science lab, home economics room, shop and cafeteria.

The 1917 portion of the high school would be demolished because it is virtually impossible to bring it up to modern standards without vast outlays of money.

KELLY MC ALISTER poses with two of the wall plaques which won her first prize in the Courier's Easter Coloring Contest.

Kelly McAlister Winner of Courier Coloring Contest

With entries coming for the Courier's Easter Coloring Contest from as far away as Woodstock, Illinois, the final decision on winners was extremely difficult to make. Many of the entries were worthy of prizes.

First Place, with a prize of $10, was awarded to Kelly McAlister, 11, of Charlevoix for her entry mounted on tiles and painted. Difficulty, as well as ability, determined the first place vote. Kelly selected the Oleson's Sewing Center as the Courier advertiser where she would prefer to spend her prize money.

Second Place, with a prize of $7.50, was awarded to Deanna Skrocki, 10, of East Jordan for her entry of an Easter Basket of construction paper with beautifully colored pictures cut out and mounted on the sides of the basket. This entry challenged strongly in the difficulty department. Deanna elected a cash prize.

Third Prize of $5 was awarded to Mike Spence, 10, of East Jordan for his water color entry mounted in a folder. Mike likes fishing equipment from Portside Sports.

Due to the large number of excellent entries, the judges have determined to award a $1 Special Mention Prize to: Karen Lemon, 12, of Charlevoix; Debbie Thomure, 12, Charlevoix; Steve King, 8, Ellsworth; Lorrfe Paul,, 12, Charlevoix; and Mary Horton, 11, Charlevoix.

It should also be pointed out that many of the entries from younger children in the 5-8 year old range, were of very fine workmanship. These children from all of the surrounding area are to be commended for their abilities. The judges sincerely hope they will continue to develop their artistic talents.

Honored

Ned Henley of Charlevoix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Henley, was among 104 Ferris State College athletes honored at the school's annual Winter Sports Banquet April 9.

Report Cards

High School report cards for the first marking period of the second semester will go home with students Wednesday, April 17, according to Principal Vane Smith.

County Budget Is Up Quarter of a Million

It will cost a quarter of a million dollars more to operate Charlevoix County in 1975 than it did in 1974, according to a tentative budget approved by the County Board of Commissioners April 10.

The budget calls for expenditures of $1.32 million, some $258,779 more than the 1974 budget of $1.06 million.

The budget was approved by a 13-1 vote with one member absent. Lee Moerland, chairman of the finance committee, dissented because of last-minute additions which he felt could have been added earlier.

The original budget called for expenditures of $1.28 million, but the commissioners agreed to add $10,000 for a dog pound, $5,000 for the Ironton Ferry which is losing Federal Act 51 monies, $1,000 requested by the courthouse committee and $20,000 to pay for property adjacent to the courthouse.

It will not be known how much of the 15-mill county allocation will be needed to meet the new budget until this year's State Equalized Valuation is finalized April 24. It is expected to increase by several million.

The 1974 budget required an allocation of 4.3 mills.

In other business, the commissioners:

–Accepted a report by the County Bureau of Social Services which showed Grandvue Medical Care Facility hod a balance of $99,558 on Dec. 31, 1973. It costs $22.86 per day per patient to operate the facility, at a net cost to the county of 96 cents a day per patient. Richard Tillen, Social Services director, says a proposed 30-bed residential-type facility for persons who do not require complete hospital care is still in the talking stage.

–Backed Senate Bill 175 asking that a bonus for Vietnam veterans be placed on the ballot.

–OK'd $808.65 for six new chairs in the jury box. Six more will be purchased in 1975.

–Named Harry Griffin to represent the commissioners on the Tax Allocation Board.

–Approved salaries for Ironton Ferry operators. The chief operator will receive $8,100 a year and the deputy operator $7,500 to start and $7,800 after six months. They will be paid in 26 installments a year. The ferry will operate from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. Starting time Sunday is 8 p.m. July 1 until Labor Day the ferry will operate until 11:50 p.m. Toll will be 50 cents for most vehicles, with a special rate of 20 tickets for $6. Pedestrians and bicyclists will pay only if a special trip is required.

Still Early, Myrl Keller Tells Anglers

Myrl Keller of the Great Lakes Fisheries Station warns that it is still too early to go after the big ones on Lake Michigan.

He urges fishermen to wait another week or so until the ice floes disappear completely.

Keller doesn't want a recurrance of the tragic boating accident that took the lives of three fishermen in Grand Traverse Bay last week.

Although some fishermen have ventured into Lake Michigan and returned with their limit, of lake trout, Keller believes the risks involved aren't worth it.

He added that there has been some action with steelhead on the Boyne River, but it seems to have subsided.

Although a few fishermen have cast their lures among the ice floes in Pine River Channel, only one brown trout has been caught to his knowledge. The trout apparently haven't started moving upstream with Lake Charlevoix still frozen.

Mel Howard Elected By Allocators

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board elected Mel Howard of Boyne City as chairman at the group's organizational meeting Monday.

Clerk Clarence Rabach reported that the only budgets not in are those of the Beaver Island School and Wilson Township. He said the school budget reportedly is in the mail.

The board ordered Rabach to make copies of the budgets for perusual by members before the May 20 meeting.

Federal Funds Released for Sewage Plant

An Environmental Protection Agency grant for the City of Charlevoix totaling $371,100 has been released for that community's sewer system, Congressman Philip Ruppe has announced.

The grant is part of a $1.9 billion reimbursement allocation recently received by EPA. These monies are for sewer systems already constructed and built with the promise of Federal assistance.

VFW, Auxiliary to Fete Charter Cadre April 27

Members of Charlevoix VFW Post 1153 and its Auxiliary are planning a party for charter members Saturday, April 27, at 8 p.m. at the post home of U.S. 31 North.

A pot-luck lunch has been planned and a band will be on hand to provide dance music.

Only two of the original 25 charter members of the post are still living. They are Coryell Sevrey and Samuel E. King, both of Charlevoix. The post received its charter in 1937.

The auxiliary was formed in 1945 and boasts 17 charter members. They include Barbara Allard, Shirley V. Ashden, Arletta Bergmann, Gertrude Brant, Mildred M. Coblentz, Lydia Coblentz, Edith Douglas, Bernice Elzinga, Josephine Hamlin Boar, Audrey Warner, Dorthea Kelly, Eva King, Evelyn King, Alma M. Kuliander, Mary Louise Novotny and Pauline Russell.

The post was started in 1936 by Sam King and the late Lee Allard, with the help of Ira Hart of Oden, a double amputee of WW I.

As soon as 25 charter members were signed up, the new post received its charter in 1937 and King was elected first commander.

Meetings originally were held at the American Legion post home. Later they were held in the basement of the Allard home, the basement of the city hall and a room over the Kroger store in the old Charlevoix Hardware building.

Finally the group raised enough money to build the present post home after World War II. Clarence Goldstick drew up the plans, purchased all the material and was instrumental in obtaining the land from the city.

Mrs. Samuel King was elected first president of the auxiliary when it was chartered in 1945.

Softball Organization Slated Next Week

The organizational meeting for the 1974 Charlevoix Recreation Department Softball Program will be held Monday, April 22, at 7 p.m. for all Men's Leagues and Tuesday, April 23, at 7 p.m. for all Women's Leagues at the Recreation Office, 210 State-st. (City Hall) in the club room.

At this meeting, all decisions will be reached regarding the league rules and regulations and dates for the season.

168 Co. Residents Have Chance at Big Money

Charlevoix County will have 168 qualifiers in the State Lottery elimination drawing Thursday, April 18, at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield.

They are among 120,000 recent winners of $25 weekly lottery prizes who have a place in the running for the 11th Millionaire drawing, scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 30, at Olympic Arena in Detroit.

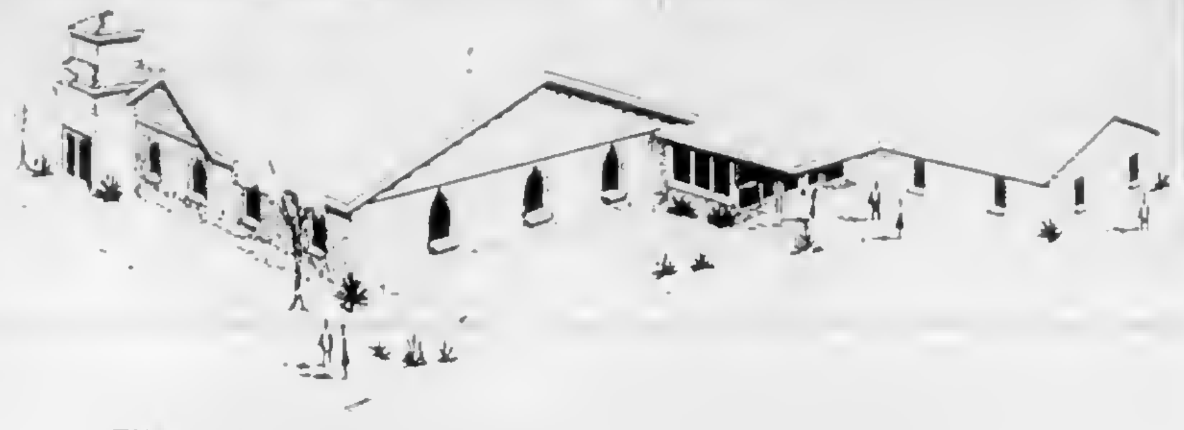
Thursday's draw will narrow the field to 120 finalists, each of whom will win at least $1,000. In addition there will be five $5,000 prizes, two $10,000 prizes, a $50,000 prize, a $100,000 prize and the top lottery prize of $1 million.

Emmet County will have 176 names and Antrim County 101 names in Thursday's drawing.

Wayne County has the largest number of semi-finalists, 43,147. Keweenaw County has the smallest number, 20.

WORK IS moving ahead rapidly on the May-st. sewer, in spite of cold, wet weather. By Monday, G & T Construction had moved as far south as the May-st. driveway in front of the high school.

APR



THE COMMUNITY Church of God, Charlevoix, is having a banquet, at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, April 20, at the Church Fellowship Hall, to accept gifts and pledges towards a proposed addition to the present structure, located at 202 W. Hurlbut-st. The proposed addition will double the sanctuary seating capacity, and will include a spacious foyer, several new Sunday School class rooms and other interior improvements.

Mrs. Klooster to Host Hospital Guild 'Coffee'

By Peg Driggett

It is the time of year to think about joining your Area Hospital Guild or renewing your membership. Mrs. Conrad Klooster, 522 Meadowlane, will open her home for the annual "Membership Coffee" on Wednesday, May 15, from 10 a.m. until noon.

The guild urges everyone who is interested in supporting hospital activities to attend the coffee. If you are unable to attend, dues of $1 may be given to any guild member or mailed to Mrs. James Driggett, 602 Norwood-rd., Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

Remember, if you can't actively participate in the guild, you can still support Charlevoix Area Hospital by becoming a member.

Mrs. E. Darrell Dinwiddie is chairman of the coffee and Mrs. Fay Davis will assist her.

The following people plan to attend the District meeting scheduled for May 1 at the Walter and Mae Reuther Family Education Center at Black Lake: Mrs. Anthony Stabnick, Mrs. Floyd Chamberlain, Mrs. Richard Bassett, Mrs. William Squire, Mrs. James Gallagher, Mrs. Floyd Brown and Mrs. James Driggett. They will tour the center, which was built by the United Auto Workers and is operated by the Sheraton Hotel chain.

At the meetings, hospital guild members from around the district share ideas and learn what is happening at the state level.

Mrs. Marlene Stevens was in charge of making tray favors for Easter. Mrs. Carolyn Snizik is in charge of the Mother's Day favors and Miss Frances Milner the Father's Day favors.

If you are interested in working on favors (perhaps your group is?) contact the guild president.

Mrs. Robert Hoffman, chairman of the Scholarship committee, reports that a number of applications already have been received from schools in the area.

The Gift Shop is in operation afternoons and evenings and chances are you can find exactly what you are looking for in the hospital lobby.

A survery of hospital auxiliaries was made recently by the American Hospital Association. The local auxiliary received a very complimentary letter on our report — thanks to the efforts of all the members.

Mrs. Clifford Riley, chairman of the layette committee, reports tht 10 complete outfits have been finished and will be given to needy mothers.

It Helps to Be Deaf If You Teach Phys Ed

This week's featured teacher is probably one of the healthiest teachers in Charlevoix Middle School. She is Mrs. Toni Felter, girls' physical education and health education teacher, girls' basketball coach, and Charlevoix's Girls' Athletic director.

Mrs. Felter grew up in Three Rivers and attended the Kensington Public Schools. In high school, she became involved with the Pep Club and G.A.A. (Girls' Athletic Association) and was president of the association for two years.

As a student, she received a three-week scholarship from Michigan State University to attend "Operation Bentley". This session provided Toni the opportunity to participate in the formation of model governments on the state and local level.

It was perhaps this experience that aided her in later becoming the secretary for the student government at Central Michigan University. While she attended the university, Mrs. Felter belonged to an association entitled P.E.M.M. (Physical Education for majors and minors). She, along with others, helped to encourage students to become involved in physical education activities. She also participated extensively in the intramural program at the university.

Her involvement with intramurals extended beyond college. She has operated a successful girls' intramural program at the Middle School this year. The program included various activities such as basketball and gymnastics open to all students in the fifth through eighth grades.

She feels that after-school activities provided a "good building program" for sports played later on in the high school.

Not only does Mrs. Felter participate in sports with children, but she belongs to three independent adult teams - volleyball, basketball and bowling, and therefore spends most of her waking hours involved in sports.

When asked if her teaching is any different than any other, Mrs. Felter replied, "To be a P.E. teacher, you must be partially deaf, immune to pain, and must act as both a counselor and a nurse?"

MIDDLE School Phys Ed Teacher Toni Felter supervises high-flying activities on trampoline.

Charlevoix, East Jordan Scouts Plan Day Camp

"I'm OK, You're OK" is the theme in the combined Charlevoix-East Jordan Day Camp planned for June 17-21, according to Mrs. David Tisron, camp director.

Mrs. Tisron also named Mrs. Francis Peppin as her assistant director.

A Day Camp meeting was held recently at Elm Point on the South Arm.

The meeting was attended by Mrs. Norman Boeck of Charlevoix, who is in charge of the planning committee, and Day Camp workers from East Jordan.

Mrs. Boeck named Mrs. Ethel Gruneh as chairman of registration in Charlevoix and Mrs. Louise Everts as site and equipment chairman.

Girls from Charlevoix's three Brownie troops, three Junior troops and one Cadet troop will camp at the Brown Creek site with girls from East Jordan.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for an overnight campout for older Scouts and an open house for parents.

A staff training session is planned the middle of April.

Anyone wishing to donate time to the Scouts should contact Mrs. Jack Zoulek in East Jordan at 536-2646 or Mrs. Boeck in Charlevoix, 547-6972.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Over a span of three years, Dirty Dugan erected the prototype of the presently popular pole barn in the U.P, more than 50 years ago. Although the time involved might indicate lack of know-how or ambition on Dugan's part, the delay resulted from his limited budget which dictated a 'nail as you go' policy.

The 'bee' which raised the framework, was an historic occasion in the cherished memories of living oldtimers, Including those who recall Dugan's famed sauna.

In those days before building inspectors and overly inquisitive lawmen, Dugan artfully incorporated copper coils into the plumbing to provide refreshments for just such purposes as bees, weddings, and wakes.

The product was of such heady bouquet, that most participants put faithful Dobbin on the "iron mike" and navigated home in the safest manner ever known to man.

After considerable deliberation, Dugan chose his barn site downwind from his neighbor to the North, Nels Mikelson, who was destined to contribute indirectly to Dugan's cause. To say theirs was a silent partnership would be untrue. It had been, in fact, a mute relationship since a transaction three years previous, involving the Model T which Dugan sold to Nels. It was unique in that it ran on leather connecting rod bearings - for a brief period, that is, after title was transferred.

The metal barn sheathing came as an act of Providence, according to Dugan, and by the perfidity of Satan, according to Nels whose dislodged barn roofing was wafted by periodic 40-knot winds onto Dugan's property. Ever safety conscious, Dugan would gather up these potentially dangerous missle hazards and anchor them securely-to his barn walls.

When asked why he didn't roof the barn first in conventional fashion, Dugan would explain that the roof must be first quality and not rejects.

When the watertight integrity of Mikelson's barn precluded further patching, Nels let it be known through an intermediary that he was having a new roof installed and would donate the old roofing to his obviously Indigent neighbor. Dugan acknowledged the proffered table crumbs by 'allowing' he'd find appropriate use for them.

The new roofing was delivered one Saturday afternoon in those bygone days when merchants scheduled their hours to accommodate the working man. It was unloaded beneath threatening skies and within the hour small craft warnings were hoisted.

Snatching up hammer and nail apron, Dugan hastened to receive his needed materials due to arrive via airfreight, while Nels dashed frantically about in search of weights to assure continuing ownership of his merchandise.

When the wind reached proper velocity, the corrugated panels became airborne and arrived on schedule at Dugan's structure. Dugan assumed ownership by nailing down the errant roofing in proper sequence to the rafters which he had pre-cut to the dimensions of Nels' roofing. As a result of this foresight, the work went expeditiously and a total of 28 panels changed hands before late afternoon.

Realizing the futility of legal action (remember the leather bearings), Nels retaliated spitefully by purposely stacking the old roofing to insure its distribution, in a hopefully mangled state, on Dugan's premises.

True to his word, Dugan found use for it. At a distance from his barn, it's new roof glistening like a jewel, Dugan built a comfort shelter for those who abide in brotherly love.

He built a pig pen!

Nixon Comes Calling

By the time you read this, you'll know whether President Nixon called my bluff.

Just the other day I said I wouldn't listen to a Nixon speech if he gave it in my backyard. Now, as I type these words, it appears I might get the chance to close the drapes on my President. But would I really do it?

Jim Sparling, an ex-newspaperman who should know better, wants to be Congressman from my district. He's a Republican, the same as Nixon, and there's no getting out of it. Jim was even a Nixon aide for a while last year. He distinguished himself by escaping indictment.

This district has had a Republican Congressman for over 30 years so, naturally, the nation's eyes are upon us. If Sparling loses, it will be because Nixon is a burglar and should be hung. But if Sparling wins, it will also be a victory for Bebe Rebozo, a defeat for Dan Rather, and proof positive that Julie Nixon Eisenhower does not belong on the list of endangered species.

That's what the political pundits say. Sparling doesn't agree, and I don't blame him. He has a perfect alibi for Watergate and he wants to run for Congress on his own merits. But the lousy Democrats keep flogging him with a smelly albatross. So what can a guy do?

Sparling Invited Nixon to come to Michigan and fight for himself.

It wasn't a friendly invitation. Sparling didn't exactly open his spare bedroom to Nixon. He simply pointed to the "shadow of guilt" on Nixon's brow and suggested he "come out of isolation and lay it right out." In other words, come battle the bullies in my block. If I'm home that day, I'll wave at you through the window.

But the GOP committee in my home county was much more magnanimous and specific. They sent Nixon a telegram, urging him to make a speech at Lapeer High. They have reserved the school cafeteria, gym and football field for him. And there's a clean cot in the lockerroom.

At this writing there has been no RSVP from the Oval Room. But just in case Nixon does come to my hometown, I probably should decide now what I am going to do about it. Will I thumb my nose at him? Or will I genuflect before the built-in majesty of the presidency?

Two U.S. senators, Griffin and Jackson, spoke in my hometown last week and I took great pleasure in not listening to them. I have an inbred aversion to speeches, especially political. Put a politician on a podium and he automatically becomes a phony. Phonies give me indigestion plus a widespread itch. So I avoid them whenever possible.

But my apathy for Richard Nixon goes much deeper than a simple dislike of verbal baloney. Impeachment or not, I am convinced he is either dishonest or sick with some sort of royal fever. The only other explanation would be incredible stupidity and I can't buy that.

I don't at all like feeling that way about the President of the United States. But there it is.

But c'mon to my house, Richard. You can help me figure my income tax.

Clockwise

Vrooming!

By BOB CLOCK

Judy and I have come to the conclusion that little boys are born with a built-in mechanism that makes them go "Vroom, vroom, vroom" whenever they get their hands on a wheeled vehicle.

At least that's been our experience with two-year-old Danny.

Although our three girls played with their share of wheeled vehicles in their formative years, they always did so without sound effects.

With Danny, it's a different story. When he plays with a toy tractor, truck or automobile, the sound is always the same: "Vroom, vroom, vroom." All of his toys run on high octane gasoline and none of them has a muffler.

The same sound accompanies the hours he spends astride a toy horse with wheels on it. He propels his wooden dobbin from room to room, vrooming down hallways and crashing into unsuspecting woodwork.

The mystery is that no one ever taught him to say "vroom". He picked it up himself, and I'm beginning to suspect that he was born with the uncanny knowledge that anything with wheels probably has a motor that should go "vroom, vroom, vroom" whenever it's in motion.

I also have found him from time to time seated at the driver's seat of the family bus, hands firmly on the wheel, "vroom, vroom, vrooming" down an imaginery highway to some imaginary land of lollipops.

You can tell from the sound of his "vrooms" that he is breaking the speed limit, but he doesn't give a damn.

I would like to know why only boys are born with the "vrooming instinct?" Certainly our girls, all of whom ride tricycles and bicycles, have just as much reason to "vroom" as Dan. But they don't.

I would also like to know for how many generations boys have been "vrooming."

Did it all start with the birth of the automobile 75 years ago, or have they been doing it since the days of the cavemen?

If the practice does go back to ancient time, can't you imagine the consternation of our progenitors as they watched junior tool around the cave on a home-made contraption with stone wheels sounding for all the world like an internal combustion engine? It must have driven them crazy.

How did little junior know in 25,000 B.C. that the era of mechanized transportation was coming?

In ancient Rome when boys were given toy chariots to celebrate the birthday of Caesar Augustus, did they play with them to the sound of thundering hooves or did they throw in a few "vroom, vroom, vrooms" in anticipation of Henry Ford?

I can't imagine little boys in any age playing with their toys without sound effects, but for the life of me I can't guess what other sounds they could have used aside from the familiar "vroom, vroom, room" that echoes through the Clock household from dawn until long after dusk every day of the week.

I see by the Northland Press that Clockwise is taking the summer off. The story, which we had planned to offer (and still will) in the May 1 issue, is substantially correct. My replacement will be Ken Winter, presently with the Petoskey News-Review. Incidentially, he is 23, not 24, as the NP would have you believe. But he is a fine newspaperman despite his tender years.

Several weeks ago I discovered that my blood pressure is considernbly higher than it should be. Medication has brought it down to the normal range, but Judy and I decided that we both need a break from the week-in, week-out routine of putting out a weekly newspaper. With a small staff, it is extremely difficult to break away for more than a long weekend. And even those are few and far between.

So on May 1, I'll be turning over the editorship of the Courier to Ken Winter. The Clocks plan to spend the month of May getting the house in shape to rent for the summer. And about June 1 we plan to leave for Beaver Island for three months.

Any occasional reader of the Courier knows that we have had "a thing" about the island ever since our first visit to those hallowed shores in 1965. We are looking forward to spending a full summer among the sights, the sounds and the people we have come to love.

Of course, a newspaperman never quits. I'll still be writing "Clockwise" for the Courier, along with a few editorials.

So you're not rid of me. Not by a long-shot.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by District Judge Arthur Reibel:

William W. Hadix, Petoskey, was bound over to the next term of Circuit Court on a charge of rape after probable cause was shown at his examination.

John Peterson, Boyne City, plead guilty to a charge of use of LSD and was assessed $200. The charge was reduced from possession of LSD at the request of the prosecutor.

Ted Davies, 26, Petoskey, changed his plea to guilty on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Case was continued for sentencing.

Myrtle Michalski, 46, East Jordan, plead innocent to a motor vehicle violation involving a stop sign. Trial will be held later.

Thompson Freeman, 43, Boyne City and Elmira, requested a continuation on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor so he can get an attorney.

Donald Howard, Boyne City, plead innocent to charges of assault and battery and trespassing. He requested a court-appointed attorney.

Michael E. McCleese, 29, Ellsworth, plead innocent to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He requested a court-appointed attorney. Case continued.

Pamela Sue Parsel, 20, Charlevoix, demanded examination on a charge of malicious destruction of property (felony) and requested a court-appointed attorney. Miss Parsel is charged with breaking windows with a sling-shot at the Methodist Church, Top Drawer, Charlevoix High School gymnasium, Ski and Shore and Hess Furniture. Damage is estimated at $3,500.

E.J. Gets $90,000 In U.S. Sewage Funds

An Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grant of $90,000 for the East Jordan sewage system has been released by the federal government, according to Cong. Phillip Ruppe.

The funds were included in $1.9 billion in reimbursement allocations released to the EPA.

The funds have been earmarked for sewage already completed with the promise of federal assistance.

"I would like to emphasize that these reimbursement funds are not for additional construction," Ruppe stressed. "These monies will repay local communities for money promised by the federal government when the projects were started."

Ruppe noted that the new grant will bring to $161,500 the amount of money East Jordan has received from the federal government for its new lagoon-type sewage disposal system. More money may be forthcoming.

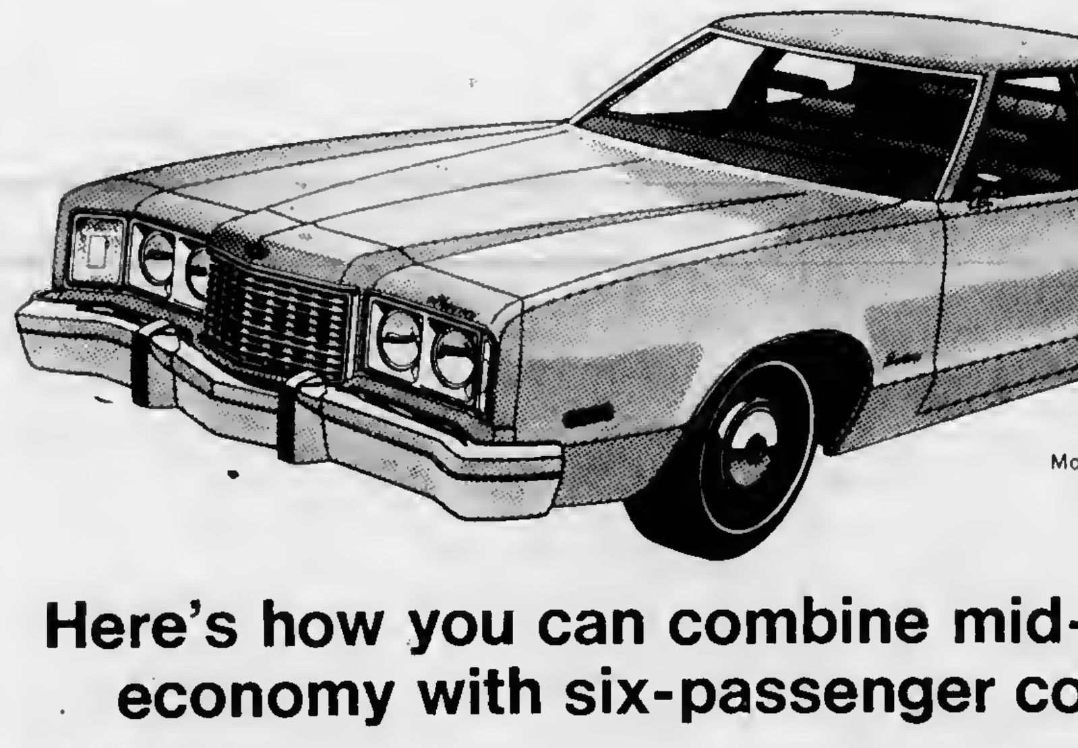
'74 MERCURY MONTEGO
BIGGER THAN SMALL-SIZE



Montego 4-Door Sedan shown with optional WSW tires.

Here's how you can combine mid-size gas economy with six-passenger comfort.

If a small car is too small and a full-size car is too big, come drive our mid-size Mercury Montego.

It runs on regular gas. And based on our estimate of national average costs, the '74 Montego is designed to reduce scheduled maintenance costs by as much as 22% in 50,000 miles of normal driving when compared to last year's models.

You'll find our Montego roomy and comfortable ...with the ease of handling you want in a mid-size car. Its ride is smooth and quiet on an extra-wide stance with the same type of suspension system as our most expensive luxury car. Today, more than ever, our mid-size Mercury Montego makes sense for a whole lot of people. At the sign of the cat.

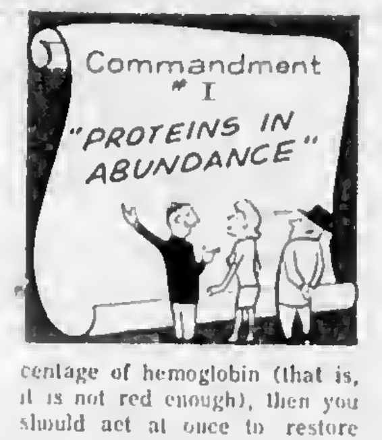
Eat and Grow Younger

Longer, More Youthful Life Is Reward of Planned Diet

By LELORD KORDEL

Number Fourteen of a Series



Your great desire is to live a long, useful life, all the while looking and feeling far younger than your years. Certainly this is a goal worth aiming at. But are you prepared to abide by the Commandments? Because everything worth attaining has a price. And the price of a long, youthful life is planned diet.

At first, the careful and judicious selection of youth-protecting foods will be a novelty you'll enjoy. But after that may come the danger period when the novelty provided by a new regimen begins to wear off, and you are tempted to lapse into the "oh, it's too much trouble" kind of defeatist thinking.

Yet I promise you that once you have successfully weathered this period of temptation to return to the old haphazard way of eating, you'll subconsciously begin accepting, or rejecting, each food on the basis of its contribution to your youthfulness and long life, with the same skill as that exercised by a trained nutritionist. Instinctively, you will avoid the old "gooey" meals with which you formerly insulted your body.

FOOD COMMANDMENTS

The food commandments I shall lay down are those that will afford you taste pleasures and adventures in good eating the like of which you have seldom enjoyed before.

Let's take these six general rules — commandments I have called them—one by one, in detail, as they pertain to your goal of attaining a long, youthful, enjoyable life.

My first commandment is high-grade proteins in abundance.

The protein story has been developed rather fully for you in the preceding chapters, so there is no need to repeat at length the fact that protein is essential for feeding, repairing and rebuilding your muscles, nerves, tissues, glands and vital organs.

In case of illness or convalescence, protein is the rebuilder of your health.

Life insurance companies have an unsentimental, dollars-and-cents interest in keeping you well and alive for a long time. For that reason they issue series of pamphlets and booklets loaded with sane advice on how to avoid illness and early death. I quote from one of the pamphlets directed at the 40-and-over group:

"An ample, nutritious diet is as important to adults as to growing children. Learn to like and to choose foods that are good for you. Well-balanced meals of vegetables, meats and fresh fruits are health-building meals. The impression that people in the older ages should avoid eating meat is entirely erroneous. In fact, some diseases are due to lack of protein which is contained in such foods as meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cheese."

Let's see what nutritional science has been doing to fight these "disease enemies of your youth."

BLOOD DISORDERS

First, we'll take blood disorders. One of the most common of these in persons past 40 is anemia. The paleness which has come to be associated with growing older is often nothing except a visible symptom of nutritional anemia. There's no reason why a person shouldn't possess a healthy, glowing complexion in later years, provided his blood is rich with red coloring matter. But healthy blood cannot be formed without protein any more than it can be maintained without the minerals iron and copper. You can't build good red blood on tea and toast.

Anemia at any age cannot be shrugged off as "not serious." But in middle life anemia is an ailment that can shorten your years of useful, vigorous living.

If you suspect you may be anemic, go at once to your doctor or to a reliable laboratory and have a blood count taken.

If a blood count reveals too few red cells and a low percentage of hemoglobin (that is, it is not red enough), then you should act at once to restore your blood to normal. How?

By immediately converting to high-protein meals (those containing lean meat, liver, kidney, heart, dark meat of poultry, eggs, cheese and low-fat milk products. Eat generously of iron-rich apricots, molasses, prunes, raisins, whole grains, beets, parsley, radishes, citrus fruits and pineapple, to mention but a few foods highest in iron content

MINERAL SUPPLEMENT

As a safety measure, your doctor will probably also prescribe a mineral supplement containing organic iron to rebuild your blood as quickly as possible.

As an added iron tonic which you can prepare for yourself at home, buy some unbleached apricots (usually found in health food stores). If apricots can't be had, the next best fruits are dried peaches or raisins.

Put a handful of the fruit in a glass, cover with lukewarm water, stir, let stand overnight. Next morning stir the mixture again, drain off the water into another glass, adding to it one tablespoon of black molasses. Prepare and drink this iron tonic several times a week (the fruit should also be eaten).

I have, of course, been speaking exclusively of simple, iron-deficiency anemia which comprises about 95 percent of all anemia cases.

How K-4 Principal Will Be Selected

By Supt. James McKinmy

How will the principal for the elementary school be selected? (Principal Glena Snider is retiring at the end of the school year.)

The superintendent has met with the elementary faculty to discuss the criteria to be used in reviewing candidates. Their discussion focused on the progress that has been made in the elementary program to date and what it would require to keep the program growing and moving forward.

The superintendent is reviewing and interviewing candidates with this criteria in mind and will select candidates based on their experience and leadership capacity to be considered as finalists for this position.

A committee of teachers from the elementary building has been appointed to meet with the final candidates. This committee will report to the superintendent on the strengths and weaknesses that they observe by their discussion with the candidates.

The Board of Education will meet with the final candidates to review the candidates experience and leadership activities and to be presented with the academic history and training of the candidate.

The superintendent of schools will then receive reports from the teachers. Together with the report from the Board of Education and the summary of academic experience, preparation and personal interview with the candidate, a final recommendation will then be forwarded to the Board of Education.

The Charlevoix Elementary School has grown and developed in recent years since its construction in 1968 to be an outstanding operation.

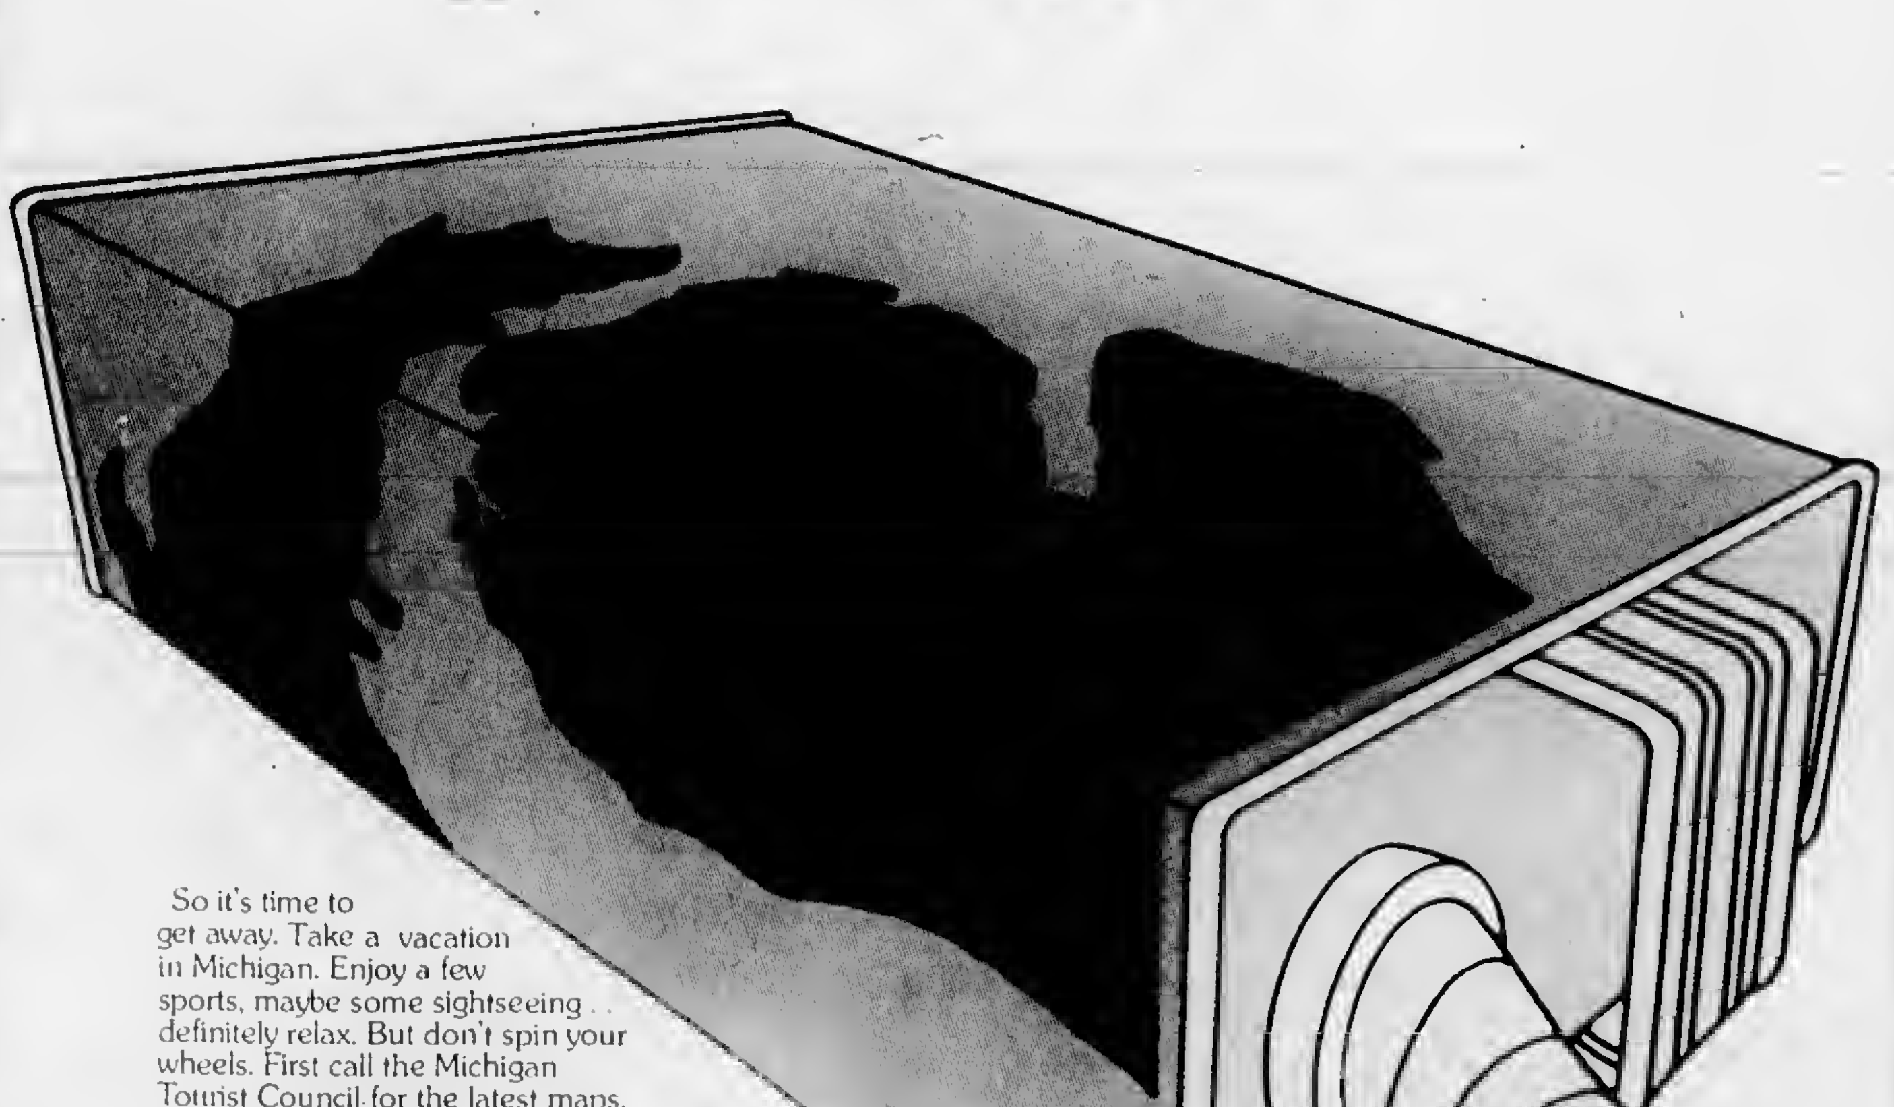
First know, then go.



So it's time to get away. Take a vacation in Michigan. Enjoy a few sports, maybe some sightseeing . . definitely relax. But don't spin your wheels. First call the Michigan Tourist Council for the latest maps, brochures and pamphlets on traveling in Michigan during the energy crisis. They'll help you pick just the right spot and the gas-saving route to take.

Know exactly where you want to stay. Then play it safe, figure out how many gallons you'll need before you go. With a map and your car owner's manual, you can determine how many tankfuls your trip will take.

A little planning and figuring before you go will make your vacation much more carefree. So first know, then go.

Energy-Saving Tips for Michigan Vacationers:
☐ Enjoy the fun close to home—Finding fun on one tankful is the smartest way to go.
☐ First know, then go—Phone, visit or write to the Michigan Tourist Council.
☐ Play it safe—Figure out how many gallons you'll need for the miles you want to drive.
☐ Unplug at home—Shut off all unnecessary appliances and lower the thermostat before you go.
☐ Tune-up to keep your tank filled up—Clean air filters, correct tire pressure and radials improve gas mileage, too!
☐ Pool your fuel—Travel with family and friends in private cars or on public buses.
☐ Hurry less, worry less—Accelerate smoothly and keep the speedometer at a steady 55 miles per hour.
☐ Pick a spot and set a spell—Choose a place with more of what you want. Then stay there and stay longer. One or two extended vacations consume less gas than five or six short ones.
☐ Run on human energy—There's more fun naturally in Michigan. Walking, bicycling and hiking is the way to go.

For more information, write to the Michigan Tourist Council, 300 South Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48926. We'll be glad to send you free energy-saving vacation information.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rubingh and two daughters of Grand Rapids visited the Postmus and Rubingh families over the weekend. They were house guests of Aunt Mettie VanderArk.

Corneilius Klooster spent several days in Charlevoix Hospital last week, following an accident at the farm of Mr. Bowman at Chestonia. Cornie was helping put a roof on the building, when he broke through and fell several feet. He sustained one broken rib and three cracked ribs. He was released from the hospital Saturday and is recovering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit George Drenth.

Our community extends its sympathy to Mr. Gaunt, our school superintendent, in the death of his mother Mrs. R. Gaunt of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Fieistra and Mettie VanderArk spent the past week visiting relatives in the Grand Rapids area.

Visiting her sisters all last week, Kate Bronkema and Mrs. Solomon Goeman was Grace Kalkhoven of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Sitzema returned to their home in Ellsworth after being at their camp on Beaver Island the past three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Keillor of Detroit were weekend visitors with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harty.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zoerhoff of Hamilton, came Thursday to spend a few days with Pastor and Mrs. VanderVliet and infant daughter Lisa Vania.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Carpenter went to Hudsonville this weekend and visited their children Mr. and Mrs. Harold Osterbaan and three children and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carpenter and two sons. The occasion was the birthday of their daughter, Mrs. Osterbaan.

Ray DeVries, who visited his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Siebe DeVries and sisters from Monday to Friday, has returned to his studies at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

Mrs. Siebe DeVries who was a patient at Charlevoix Hospital nearly three weeks, was happy to return home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shooks were in Troy this weekend. They attended the baptismal services of Kendra Lynn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Goeman on Sunday. Also attending were his sisters, Mrs. Charles (Arlene) Cartwright and children from Orchard Lake and Mrs. Robert (Marilyn) Courtright and children from Mt. Pleasant and his brother Carl and his wife from Battle Creek, also Mrs. Goeman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Cramer and son, and her sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gasman and two daughters both families from Fostoria, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Whiteford and two children from Traverse City were Sunday visitors with her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanderArk and brothers Peter Jay and Keith and families.

3 Groups to Give Concert Thursday

The Charlevoix High School Music Department will present three of its musical groups in concert at the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. Thursday, C.A. Odmark, director of all three groups, has announced.

Featured at the concert will be the high school vocal ensemble, a small group of girls who will present a program of contemporary tunes including two original compositions by a member of the ensemble, Jeannie O'Leary.

The Charlevoix High School Symphony and Concert bands, both of which qualified for the State Band and Orchestra Festival at Flint April 27 will appear in concert with each featuring numbers to be played in state competition.

Tickets for Thursday's concert may be obtained from any band member or at the door, Odmark said.

In the State Festival at Flint on April 27, the Concert band composed of ninth and tenth grade students will play in the Class D division at 10:15 a.m. at Flint Beecher High School and the Symphony band has been scheduled for 2 p.m. at Flint Atherton Junior High School.

4-H Achievement Day Set for CHS on Saturday

The Charlevoix County 4-H Spring Achievement Day will be Saturday, April 27 at the Charlevoix High School gym. Evaluation of 4-H members will begin at 9:00 a.m.

All 4-H members will either receive a blue ribbon for first place, a red ribbon for second or a white ribbon for third. At 12:00 noon evaluators will decide trip and ribbon awards, according to evaluation information.

Projects on display will include rock collections, clothing, recycling, crocheting, knitting, conservation, small engine, fur, leathercraft, bowling, weaving, electric, woodworking, candle making, arts & crafts, horses, rabbits, beef, home design and teen leadership.

The Dress Review will be in the evening with Mrs. Sue Gennett as Chairman. Assistants are Mrs. Judy Clock and Martha Fisher.

Decorating Committee Chairman is Mrs. Nadine Penny, 4-H members assisting her are Donna Fisher and Carla Wells.

There will be a trip award for each division, including Young Miss-12 years and under; Jr. Miss-15 years; and Sr. Miss-16 years and older; and a trip award to a 4-H boy member. Flowers will be given for the best modeling performance.

Open House will begin at 1 p.m. The evening program will begin at 7:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and look at the exhibits.

Ed Rebman, County Extension Director will be master of ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. Carrie Edson, Charlevoix County 4-H Program Assistant.

Art Show Thursday

An art exhibit featuring the various art forms taught in the Charlevoix public schools will be held at the Charlevoix Elementary School on Division-ave. Thursday.

Beginning at 7 p.m. Thursday the work will be on display in the corridors and rooms of the school district's newest school for the residents of the school district and friends to view.

On exhibit will be the art work of the Elementary School under the direction of Marty Mathers; the Middle School students taught by Roxie Loding and High School students under William Murray.

Worker Hurt On May-st.

Bryan House, 25, of Rosebush, suffered a hairline crack of the pelvis April 16 on the May-st. sewer project. He was taken to Charlevoix Hospital where he was a patient for several days.

The accident occurred while House was attempting to assist job foreman John Cianci of Traverse City who was trapped by a cave-in outside the construction box at the bottom of the 18-foot trench.

A second cave-in pinned House against the side of the steel box. Cianci was not injured.

Mixed V-Ball

Championship game in the Charlevoix Mixed Volleyball Tournament will be played Tuesday, April 30, at the K-4 school.

Council Creates Authority To Build Parking Lots

The City Council moved Monday night to do something about parking conditions in downtown Charlevoix with the creation of a three-man Building Authority with specific responsibility to create more parking spaces.

Only dissenting vote on the motion to file articles of incorporation with the state was cast by Second Ward Alderman Robert Timms who feels the council itself is in a position to handle the parking problem.

The Building Authority route was recommended to the council by the Charlevoix Regional Plannning Commission several months ago.

Members of the Authority probably will be named at the May 6 council meeting after prospects are checked out on their willingness to serve. The Planning Commission has recommended that a downtown businessman, a banker and an architect serve on the authority. They will serve for staggered terms of one, two and three years.

The authority will have the power to acquire land and construct parking lots, which will then be leased to the city, with financing derived from special assessments on downtown property and parking meter fees.

A similar system has been in operation in Gaylord for several years and has proved highly successful.

The first major project tackled by the authority probably will be rejuvenation of the present parking area between Clinton-st. and the city dock. All of the land fronting Round Lake presently is owned by the city.

Three other sites between Bridge-st. and State-st. also have been recommended for parking development by the Planning Commission.

In a related move, the council also earmarked $2,500 for a 60-day option on 125 tons of sheet piling presently stored on the old Jesse Penn property on Carpenter-ave. The steel was used in Consumers Power Co. coffer dams at Ludington in connection with construction of the new hydro-electric plant. The steel was purchased by Douglas Bathey and brought to Charlevoix. Alderman Ralph McRae and Richard Fochtman voted against the option.

Engineer Dan Shanahan has recommended that the steel be used to build a revetment on the west shore of Round Lake from Clinton-st. to the city dock, adjacent to the proposed parking project.

United Associates of Cheboygan has estimated the cost of the job at about $100,000, with part of the cost shared by the state. United, however, says construction will have to be some time in the distant future because of a shortage of steel.

Shanahan recommended the purchase of the Bathey steel for $25,000 — or 10 cents a pound. He estimates the cost of the entire project, including materials, at $35,000.

Shanahan, who recently moved to Charlevoix from Northport, also has recommended that the south wall of Pine River Channel be extended into Round Lake to provide dockage for the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew and other boats.

In other business the council:

–Approved construction of 15 finger piers 20-feet long and three-feet wide into Round Lake, as requested by the Belvedere Club and approved by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

–Heard a request by Mrs. Julius Gilbert and William Ohle that the city provide a site or building to the Charlevoix Historical Society for the creation of a city museum. Mayor Edward P. Hansen suggested the water tower property on Park-ave. as a possible location.

–Learned that a regional meeting of the Michigan Municipal League will be held in Alpena May 15.

–Discussed, but did not act, on a request by the Chamber of Commerce to hold a raft race on Round Lake June 15. About 30 persons have asked for entry blanks to date.

--Referred possible increases in city dock rates to committee.

–Discussed the Shorelands Protection and Management Act, which would require a building set-back of 1,000 feet from the Great Lakes and adjoining waterways.

--Discussed the national Flood Plain Insurance Program.

–Named George Lusk and Fay Alger to one-year terms, John Swanson to a two-year term and Marie Osterberg to a three-year term on the Recreation Advisory Commission.

–Named Donald Seelye to the Planning Commission, replacing Mrs. Lorraine Warner.

–Discussed adoption of a zoning ordinance similar to the one recently adopted by Petoskey.

City Officials Get Pay Hikes

Pay increases for the city's elected and appointed officials have been recommended by the newly organized Compensation Commission, Chairman Ralph V. Hess reported to the City Council Monday night.

Unless the council rejects the recommendations, the raises will become effective in 30 days.

The commission recommended six percent increases in the pay of City Clerk Ida Heise and City Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham. The clerk's salary will now be $9,100 a year the treasurer's salary $8,268 a year.

Mayor Edward Hansen's base salary has been boosted from $300 a year to $450 a year. His travel allowance remains the same, $300. The mayor's stipened for weekly meetings was increased from $7.50 to $10. He also will receive $10 per committee meeting, up to 20 committee meetings a year. Formerly there was no remuneration for committee work.

Base salary of council members will remain the same, $150 a year. However they will receive $7.50 for each council meeting and $7.50 for each committee meeting, with a ceiling of 20 committee meetings. Council members formerly received $5 a meeting and there was no remuneration for committee meetings.

The commission also recommended that the council as a whole be allowed $25 a day for 14 out-of-town meetings a year, plus meals and mileage. In the past there was no provision for reimbursing council members for out-of-town meetings.

In addition to Hess, other members of the commission are Conrad Klooster jr., Harvey Cole, Fay Davis and Dr. Robert Tollas.

The commission will meet again next year to review the salaries of elected and appointed officials. Thereafter it will meet every other year.

Middle School Must Go, Council Decides

(Following is a summary of the Citizens Advisory Council's recommendations on school needs as presented to the Board of Education Monday night. The report was signed by Bob Wasoski, chairman; Bill Wilson, secretary; Gerry Brady, Lou Hollow, Fran Tollas, Barb Wilson, Ed Buday and Dick Martin, all members of the Steering Committee.)

After reviewing the reports and recommendations of the subcommittees, it is apparent that the major area of concern is utilization of adequate facilities to provide the best environment for our children to obtain their education.

The individual reports represent substantial effort and time. Moreover, the participants in the study certainly deserve recognition and commendation for their work. Although these reports deal rather extensively with specifics in each area, it is not our purpose to reiterate the specifics; clearly the individual reports are to be considered an essential and important part of the overall study. However, it is apparent that significant changes are required in our present physical facilities in order to obtain our goals of a quaity education.

Many alternatives to provide adequate facilities have been reviewed and discussed. It is the conclusion and recommendation of the Steering Committee that serious consideration be given to the construction of a new facility with the concurrent discontinuation of use of the present Middle School for educational purposes. Moreover we recommend that the present Middle School grades 5 through 8 be located in the present High School. This conclusion was reached after consideration of many criteria which are discussed in the reports.

It appears that the present location of classes K through 4 in the present K-4 Building is a satisfactory arrangement and should be continued. However, there are differing opinions whether the 5th level should be located at that site also, although there do not seem to be compelling reasons to support either the position of keeping the 5th level with the 6th through 8th level or permanently incorporating it with the K-4 site. Clearly, even using conservative enrollment projections, the present Middle School Building cannot house this level. As a result, this level must be located at another site. It should be noted that the addition of a "pod" of 5 classrooms to the K-4 building would cost approximately $629,000, exclusive of considerations regarding the adequacy of increased use of special classes and services, including the gymnasium and cafeteria.

Continued use of the present Middle School will require extensive remodeling and modification. It will also mean that our students will be restricted to a three-acre site which, by present standards, is not desirable. Estimates for adequate remodeling and modification appear to be in the cost range of $2-3,000,000 including $5-600,000 to overcome physical barriers. Even if this project were undertaken, it is doubtful that this would represent a permanently satisfactory alternative on this site and in the foreseeable future of 5 to 10 years. Consideration would again have to be given to alternatives for this facility. In our opinion, continued use of this building with the desired changes, represents an uneconomic use of taxpayer's funds.

The present High School is crowded. Five hundred ninety students is the projected, maximum capacity of this building. We presently have 554 students enrolled. At this level the preferred capacity of the building is 470 students. With a projected enrollment of 700 students at the High School level, this is inadequate space. To continue its present use will require additional space either by enclosing the area between buildings A and B and / or by construction on the West side of the present building. Moreover, when this facility was constructed, it was apparently contemplated that it might be used as a Middle School at some time in the future and was scaled accordingly. It is our recommendation that consideration be given to locating grades 5 through 8 at this facility. This would still require some modification and the addition of 5 or 6 additional classrooms. They could be located in the area between buildings A and B and would cost approximately $216,000 including about $6,000 for furnishings.

This realignment would then necessitate construction of an additional facility to house either the High School students if they were displaced by the Middle School students or to house the Middle School students if use of the present building were discontinued. No recommendation is made regarding a site, but it would seem that the school system does not presently own an adequate alternative site. However, expansion of the present Middle School site appears prohibitively expensive.

Cost to construct a new facility including site acquisition cost is approximately $4,655,000. Although there is obviously every reason to believe that no taxpayer will be wildly enthusiastic about the prospect of increased taxes, it should be noted that this does seem to be the best use of taxpayer funds for several also obvious reasons. This cost would negate many of the costs for modification of present facilities, including: (1) Addition of classroom space to the K-4 Building at approximately $629,000 plus modifications to special classes and services; (2) Remodeling and modification of the present Middle School Building at costs in the range of $2-3,000,000; and (3) Changes and additions to the present High School Building although some costs will be encountered at that site with any alternative.

As nearly as we can determine, construction would require approximately 30 months lead time in addition to a probably 12 months for financing. Consequently, the School Board and Administration ought to consider more immediate, temporary alternatives also, such as the "45-15" program or the 5-quarters program. However, we would recommend such a measure as only a temporary expedient and not a permanent solution. Our information shows that the costs of constructing a facility and using it for a probable forty-year life expectancy, represents about 5 percent of educational costs during that period. It does not seem wise nor responsible to reorganize the entire school system and fabric of the Community to delay a change in facility that can only further our goals of a better education for our children of Charlevoix.

We respectfully submit these recommendations for your consideration and will endeavor to provide the Charlevoix schools or interested individuals with whatever additional information or assistance is requested. We would be happy to continue our studies to help determine possible methods of financing and timing for such future financing. This present study is not recommended for immediate action at the June 1974 election. Clearly, this report is a preliminary study and requires much additional work and consideration to bring to fruition.

Historians Will Be Told

13 Boyne City Saloons Slaked Pioneers' Thirst

If you would like to travel backwards in time to the days of the lumbering era in Boyne City, mark May 7 on your calendar.

That's the night 7th Grade history students from Boyne City will present a slide program to the Charlevoix Historical Society, meeting in the Community Room at the First State Bank at 7:30 p.m.

The program has been prepared by the students under the direction of their instructor, Robert Morgridge.

Included in the program will be pictures of the first residents of Advance, Hortons' Bay and the arrival of the Miller family in Boyne City.

Slides taken from old post cards and pictures will trace the growth of Boyne City from a pioneer settlement of three villages to the booming lumbering town it became at the turn of the century.

The commentary will include sketches on the lives of George Beardsley, the "Father of Boyne City", and W. H. White, the community's most prosperous "lumber baron."

During the lumbering heyday, more than 6,000 people lived and worked in Boyne City. The hearty jacks and mill hands slaked their thirst at 13 saloons and a half dozen hotels.

Before the pine ran out, enough lumber was shipped out of Boyne City to circle the globe 10 times at the equator.

Narrator Kerry Wilkinson will guide viewers up and down the streets of Boyne City, describing buildings of by-gone days and telling anecdotes about the storekeepers.

The presentation will be followed by a question and answer period and a variety of historical pamphlets and artifacts will be on display.

Teacher Feacher

HIGH SCHOOL science teacher Jim Jensen carries his enthusiasm for flying and aeronautics into the classroom. Some of his students have become model plane builders.

Flying, Model Airplanes And Kids Keep Him Busy

(This is the 10th in a series of articles on Charlevoix faculty members prepared by the Charlevoix Education Association.)

On a clear day, you can usually find Jim Jensen flying airplanes. Jensen, who has a private pilot's license, may be in the air himself, or piloting a model airplane from the ground by radio control. Although many of his friends claim that Jensen has crashed more than his share of model airplanes, he continues to look forward to those clear days.

Jensen has been a high school science teacher in Charlevoix for eight years and this year, his teaching assignments range from Chemistry and Physics to a ninth grade Mini-Science class, which he developed from a survey of the student's interests. His enthusiasm for model airplanes and environmental issues is evident in his classroom.

During the summer, Jensen is a Driver Education instructor. While many people would consider this a hazardous and unpleasant experience, Jim thinks of it as an opportunity to have more personal contact with high school students.

Hailing from Lakeville, Ind., Jensen attended Huntington College for his Bachelor of Science degree and Central Michigan University for his Master of Science degree.

Before coming to Charlevoix, he taught high school science for four years in Coleman, Mich.

He, his wife Jeannne, and three children moved here from Coleman because of Charlevoix's geographic location. At that time, the family bought a home close to Lake Michigan, on Palmer-st. which Jensen is now remodeling.

Since moving to this area, Jensen has taken up fishing and snowmobiling. He is very active in his church and serves as Sunday School superintendent. As a self-taught ventriloquist, he and his friend "Yogi" have provided a great deal of entertainment for youngsters at the church this past year.

Jim has also been actively involved in the Campus Life program in this area since it began about five years ago. Presently, he serves as chairman on the board of directors of the organization which involves 14 schools.

When asked about why he was so involved with education in so many areas, Jim said, "I really like to see kids learn and be challenged. I like to see them grow and that is what makes teaching fun!"

With that outlook, it is understandable why teaching and an active involvement with kids is a major part of Jim Jensen's life.

Six Ellsworth Couples Pick Up School Buses

By Anne Osterhaan

Six couples from Ellsworth took a combined business-pleasure trip during the Easter holidays to pick up new school buses for Ellsworth at Lima, Ohio.

Making the trip into the middle south were Supt. and Mrs. Robert Gaunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Daining, Mr. and Mrs. William Wynsma, Mr. and Mrs. Keith VanderArk, Mr. and Mrs. Jerroll Drenth and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Drenth.

The couples drove to Grand Rapids where they picked up a motor bus for the trip south. They drove directly to Mammoth Caves, Ky., where they toued the caves and headed for Nashville where they took in the Grand Olde Opry for two nights.

Sunday they attended church services in White House, Tenn., and returned to Lima, Ohio, where they picked up the buses. In addition to the Ellsworth buses, they delivered buses to Suttons Bay and two mini-busses to Grand Rapids.

Friends and relatives took care of their 21 children while they were away.

2 CHS Bands Prepare For Festival at Flint

The Charlevoix High School Concert and Symphony bands will travel to Flint this weekend to participate in the annual State Bank and Orchestra Festival.

The concert band will play at Flint Beecher High School at 10:15 a.m. Saturday after spending the night in a Flint motel. The group, accompanied by its director, C. A. Odmark, Mrs. Odmark and other chaperones, will depart for Flint after school on Friday. The van carrying all the instruments for both bands will also leave Friday evening. The Concert band will remain in Flint to hear the Symphony band play before leaving on the return trip.

The Symphony band, scheduled to play at Flint Atherton Junior High School at 2 p.m. Saturday, will leave here at 6:30 a.m. Saturday where they will be met at Flint Atherton Junior high school by Odmark for its 2 p.m. appearance.

The band will spend the night at Midland motel before departing for home after church services Sunday.

Gary Stutzman, Middle School band director, and Mrs. Stutzman and other chaperones will accompany this group to Flint Saturday morning.

Humane Unit Announces Poster Contest

In recognition of "Be Kind to Animals Week" early in May, the Charlevoix County Humane Society will sponsor a poster contest open to all fifth grade students in Charlevoix County, Mrs. Rick Wiles, president of the sponsoring group, has announced.

The posters using the "Be Kind to Animals" theme must be returned to the students' teachers by April 26. A representative of the Humane Society will pick them up for the judges.

Judges will be Mrs. Wiles, Mrs. Anthony jr., Mrs. Thomas Merta and Mrs. Carl Rothenberger.

Winners will receive framed certificates.

Firm Lauds LaBlance Agency

La Blance Insurance Agency of Charlevoix, has been cited by Time Insurance Company of Milwaukee for its five years of affiliation with the firm as an independent agency.

In a letter recognizing their anniversary, the company's vice president and director of agencies, W. E. Jordens, noted that the agency's years with the firm have proven it to be an exceptionally experienced Time representative.

"I hope your association with Time has been as pleasant for you as it has been for us," wrote Jordens to the agency.

Ask Senator GRIFFIN

By cutting through red tape, members of Congress can often lend a hand to those with problems involving the federal government. Through the columns of this newspaper, Senator Griffin answers questions of general interest. He will respond personally to all communications addressed to: Senator Robert P. Griffin, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

I'm absolutely infuriated, but I don't know what to do about it. I received one of those silly chain letters outlining a get-rich-quick scheme which ends up (I'm sure) with everyone getting ripped-off but the guy at the top. There are even vague threats made in this letter if I don't pass it on. Isn't this fraud or something? What can I do?

—T. B., Ludington

As you describe it, it appears that there has been violation of law, and I urge you to call it to the attention of the proper authorities. Along with your own letter describing the circumstances, send the letter you received (and the envelope in which it came, if you have it) to: Mr. J. D. Nicholas, Regional Postal Inspector, Room 400, General Post Office Building, 1401 West Fort Street, Detroit, Michigan 48232. If you hesitate to part with the evidence at this point, then call 313-226-6732 and talk with him.

I've heard my uncle's banker-type friends refer to a lady in Washington named Sallie Mae who, apparently, is in charge of government student loans. How could I get in touch with her?

—T. C., Monroe

The "lady" won't be available for a date. "She" is the Student Loan Marketing Association—nicknamed Sallie Mae. It is a government-sponsored private corporation that guarantees student loans which in turn helps to make more money available for educational purposes.

A student does not borrow funds directly from Sallie Mae, but he will have a better chance of getting a loan because "she" exists. More information is available from: Student Loan Marketing Association, 1750 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Forensics Team to Send Pair to Finals

The Charlevoix high school forensics team qualified two members for the State Finals in Ann Arbor Saturday, May 4, Mrs. Connie Ford, coach of the group, has announced.

They are Denise Boss who placed first and Sue Boss second in the Story Telling category. This is the second consecutive year that Charlevoix students have qualified for state competition in this category, Mrs. Ford said.

Donna Bellows, a first year participant in forensics, advanced to the finals in regional competition before losing. She was in the girls' extemporaneous category.

The fourth participant was Sharon Montieth, another first-year student, in girls' oratory.

Charlevoix was among 24 schools in all classes in the tournament.

Have Dog Checked Now For Heartworm Disease

A "significant" number of dogs in Northern Michigan have become infected with heartworm disease, according to local veterinarians.

They say that now is the time to have your dog put on preventative medication so that it will not get the disease during the mosquito season.

Although the disease is not as serious yet in northern Michigan as it is in the southern part of the state (the incidence in the Flint area is running as high as 30 percent), several cases have been discovered by local veterinarians.

Heartworm disease is caused by a blood parasite (worm) that lives as an adult in the heart and adjoining blood vessels of dogs. The long, white worms clog the heart chambers and major vessels in the lungs.

Severe heartworm infections cause damage to the dog's heart and other internal organs before visible signs or symptoms develop, the veterinarians say.

However, presence of the disease may be detected by a blood test before symptoms become apparent. Dogs who are free of heartworm are placed on oral medication which will keep them free of the disease during the mosquito season.

The heartworms are transmitted by the mosquito from one dog to another as tiny microscopic larvae in the blood.

Complicating the problem in northern Michigan is that fact that many resorters from areas where the disease is prevalent bring their dogs north with them unaware their pets are infected.

A blood test to determine whether heartworm larvae are present should be performed before the onset of the mosquito season. If the dog is free of infection, the veterinarian prescribed medication which is given from the beginning of the mosquito season until two months after the season ends.

Inflation Is a Symptom Of Nixon's Problems

The Department of Labor confirmed last week what most of us have known for some time: The inflation which put a strangle-hold on the American economy last year is getting worse -- not better.

Consumer prices went up another 1.1 percent in March, further eroding the purchasing power of American wage earners from coast to coast.

Food and gasoline prices, as usual, led the advance, but a wide range of goods and services weren't far behind, notably clothing and doctors' fees.

The Labor Department reported that consumer prices in March were 10.2 percent higher than they were a year ago and the inflation rate was the worst since January, 1948.

When pay increases are taken into consideration, real spendable earnings last month were 4.7 percent lower than they were in March of 1973 -- the worse yearly drop since the government adopted the present index 10 years ago.

Garly L. Seevers, acting chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, predicts, however, that the steep climb in food and fuel prices is about to taper off.

That's the same line the government has been feeding us ever since the current round of inflationary price increases began about one year ago. But from where we sit the end is not in sight.

Although students of economics cannot agree on what causes sky-rocketing inflation in a peacetime economy, we believe that the entire mood of the country resulting from the Watergate mess is largely responsible. The nation is without effective leadership. Pessimism and distrust abound.

It's every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost.

There is a frightening feeling abroad in the land that the economic pot is about to boil over and no one wants to get scorched if he can help it.

The answer, of course, is a speedy resolution of the President's myraid problems. The House must bring the impeachment question to a vote as quickly as absolutely possible. And if it decides to impeach, the Senate must act with alacrity and dispatch in bringing Mr. Nixon to trial.

Regardless of the outcome, the shadow of economic panic that has been stalking the Nixon administration will be laid to rest.

Once the air is cleared, the nation will be in a position to tackle its pressing internal problems -- including inflation.

Chinese Restaurateurs Lament High Cost of Rice

All is not gung-ho in the Chinese restaurant business these days.

Rice, the staple of every Oriental meal, has become so costly it threatens to wipe out profits.

"Still, there's no way I can serve chop suey and egg foo yong with mashed potatoes," laments one restaurant owner in Washington's Chinatown district.

So, along with his colleogues, he reluctantly pays $40 each for the 100-pound sacks of rice that cost $15 earlier this year–even though he can't raise menu prices enough to absorb the increase and still keep his customers.

DIAMOND HIGH

More than half the world's population eats rice every day of the year, the National Geographic Society says. Despite the development of high-yield "miracle rice" in the 1960's, demand exceeds supplies.

Although twice as much acreage now is planted in wheat, rice is the world's leading food crop and has been since earliest history. More than 7,000 varieties of the grain are cultivated today–4,000 of them on the Indian subcontinent alone.

Uncounted thousands of rice recipes range from the plain boiled rice that is the staple of Southeast Asian diets to elaborate Indonesian rijsttafels, or rice tables, where more than 40 dishes of assorted sauces, spices, meats, fowls, seafoods, vegetables, and fruits may be served with rice.

Rice cultivation probably originated in India more than 5,000 years ago. It quickly spread throughout Asia and the Middle East.

In 2800 B.C., the emperor Chin-nung established an annual ceremony of sowing the seeds of the five principal foods grown in China. He personally sowed the rice, as the most important grain. Princes of lesser rank planted the wheat, soybean, sorghum, and millet.

Rice was being cultivated in Indonesia and the Philippines by about 1500 B.C., and Japan acquired the technique from China by 100 B.C. Alexander the Great found rice being grown in what is now Pakistan in 328 B.C. Neither Greece nor Rome planted rice, but both civilizations imported it.

SPREAD BY ISLAM

Arab armies brought rice cultivation to the Mediterranean, including the African coast, Spain, and Sicily, as Islamic conquests spread in the 7th and 8th centuries. By the 15th century, it was cultivated in Italy, the Bolkans, and France.

Columbus carried rice from Spain in 1493 on his second voyage to the New World. Despite his efforts and the attempts of later colonists, rice cultivation in the Americas foiled.

In 1685, however, a brigantine returning to New England from Madagascar was buffeted by storms and put into the colony of Charles Town–now Charleston, South Carolina–for repairs.

Her captain gave a bushel of unhusked rice from Madagascar to planter Henry Woodward, who distributed it among his friends. The seed flourished. Known as "Carolina gold," it was the money crop on which many of the South's most prosperous plantations were built.

The United States today ranks 11th among the 74 major rice-producing countries of the world. Most American rice is grown in Arkansas, California, Louisiana, and Texas.

Lead singer of the pop music group, "Carpenters," 23-year-old Karen is the American Cancer Society's National Youth Chairman. She will appeal to teen-agers to kick the cigarette habit. Karen and her brother, Richard, are donating proceeds of the sale of souvenir programs to ACS to help in the fight against cancer.

Clinking Coins Made Him Smile

(The following tribute to Fr. Allan Wait, 47, a step-brother of Robert Trost of Charlevoix, appeared in a recent issue of the Appleton, Wisc., newspaper. It was written by Jim Harp and appeared in his column "Single Shot." Fr. Walt died March 15 after a short illness.)

He tried not to smile, but when he heard the clink of the silver dollars as they hit the bottom of the collection basket you could see a grin on his face.

He wasn't smiling over the sound of the coins. He was smiling because he knew his friends from "down south" were in church and he got a particular kick out of chatting with the tourists after services.

That smile is gone now and that healthy, hefty voice has been stilled by death.

The Rev. Allan Wait served the parishes of St. Joe's at Crandon and St. Mary's at Argonne for the past seven years. In that short space of time he made an unending list of friends, contributed to both of these small northern communities in many ways and also found time to enjoy the out-of-doors.

It didn't take long for our deer hunting bunch to come to know Father Walt. He loved to talk about the outdoors and would carefully describe how he had spotted a couple of bucks on a given weekend or knew a beaver pond where there were some big brook trout. He had the knack for making you feel you were right there in the woods or along the stream with him, but he never revealed any of his secret spots.

The bit about the silver dollars started one deer hunting weekend. One of the fellows had a couple of silver dollars which he dropped in the collection basket and the "clink" they made caused heads to turn. That started things off and from then on, whenever anyone from our Shangralodge went to church in Argonne it became customary to have silver dollars for the collection

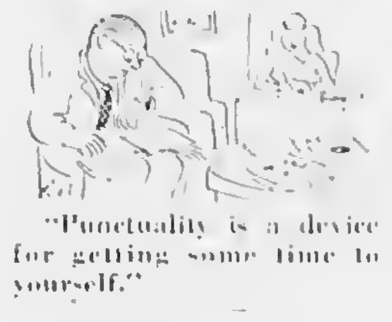
On a deer hunting weekend, all 10 of us would march into church together and take pews in the same area. When Matty King would come around with the basket, Father Walt would be busy with the wine and water at the altar. When the basket came to our section and the "silvers" started clinking together, that little grin would come to the lips of the good padre and we would have to smile too. It wasn't much, but it was one of those things that make you feel good inside and it seemed to form a sort of bond between the priest and his "silver dollar boys from the valley."

Father Walt was only 47 when he passed away on March 15. He had been a priest for 22 years and served parishes in Green Bay and Manitowoc before going to Crandon and Argonne on June 13, 1967.

People by the hundreds turned out for his funeral which was held at Crandon.

"He was a wonderful priest and everyone here is sure going to miss him," Matty King said over the telephone Thursday. "He loved the outdoors, he liked to hunt, fish and snowmobile. He also was a good bowler, in fact he bowled with us yet just three weeks before he died. He was only here a short time, but he did a lot of things for these communities."

One of Father Walt's proudest moments came on opening day of the past deer hunting season when he bagged two bucks. He told the hunters all about it at church that evening For most of us, that also was the last time we saw him smile when the familiar "clinks" were heard.



"Punctuality is a device for getting some time to yourself."

WELCOME

"I was just passing by when I saw your sign...."

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

For a week now, political commentators have been hashing over the results of the 8th Congressional District election April 16 which saw Democrat J. Robert Traxler defeat Republican James M. Sparling jr. by a margin of 59,918 to 56,898.

The election drew nationwide attention because President Nixon paid a personal visit to Michigan's Thumb to stump for Mr. Sparling, a former member of the White House team and a personal friend of the President.

The election therefore became something more than a race between a Republican and a Democrat. Political observers viewed the balloting as a vote of confidence for or against Mr. Nixon.

Since the district has voted Democratic only once in this century, Mr. Traxler's slim margin of victory has been hailed by Democrats as a walloping repudiation of the Nixon Administration.

Republicans, on the other hand, view the narrow margin as a victory of sorts for their side, simply because their man could have been defeated so much worse – but wasn't.

I won't pretend to choose up sides in the Traxler-Sparling elections. Probably either man could have done a competent job in Congress and it is a pity that the voters weren't allowed to weigh each man on his merits rather than strangle poor Sparling with the Nixon albatross.

But I do hope that the Nixon impeachment business is settled one way or another before the Congressional election in November or a whole slew of Democrats are going to be swept into office, not because they are so all-fired competent but because they are on the opposite side of the fence from Mr. Nixon and his unsavory palace guard.

Since Mr. Nixon did become the central figure in the Traxler-Sparling election, I am surprised that Mr. Sparling did as well as he did. The margin between the two candidates was only 3,020, which means that if 1,511 voters had changed their minds, the Republican Sparling would have won.

The President still has strong pockets of support around the country that are often difficult to understand in light of mounting evidence that Mr. Nixon is not a fit skipper for the ship of state.

It appears that Mr. Nixon's main strength lies in the agricultural areas where farmers feel they have done better under his administration than any other. In the Thumb, for example, farmers are getting 60 cents a pound for their navy beans this year, which is better than five times more than the 13 cents a pound they received last year.

Watergate aside, they're not willing to risk a change in administrations when things are going so well on the farm front. And I can't say I blame them, although I sure wish that I could buy beans for something less than 67 cents a pound.

The President also is pretty strong in the South, where he doesn't hesitate to play footsie with that old demigog, Gov. George Wallace, whenever he has a chance. Nixon also is an avowed foe of cross-district school busing, which is a big plus in the South as well as in metropolitan areas of the North.

Pockets Of Support

Busing, of course, is a gut-issue with many voters, several leagues more important than Watergate, the Ellsberg break-in, the bombing of Cambodia and a little hanky-panky with the Internal Revenue Service.

Other voters simply refuse to believe that anyone elected to the high office of president could get himself into so much trouble. They feel that Mr. Nixon is the victim of a bitter and vindictive press and nothing more. They adhere to the doctrine that "the king can do no wrong" and that is that.

They are the Tories in our midst who shy away from impeachment today just as their ancesters balked at taking up arms against King George. The group includes many feather-weights in the thinking department as well as a few fairly intelligent, well-read individuals who still can see no danger in the course this country has taken under Mr. Nixon.

However, there is a definite place for Tories in our system of government, since they tend to constraint hot-heads and reactionaries from acting precipitously.

The President also has considerable support among certain religious groups who lean toward the conservative side on political issues. This group is probably the hardest to explain, since so many of the acts of the Nixon Administration have been in direct violation of Christian doctrine and the Ten Commandments.

One private religious school in northern Michigan actually trucked some of its students down to the Thumb two weeks ago so that the youngsters could catch a glimpse of Mr. Nixon.

I'll never be able to explain that one, and I'm glad I don't have to.

Calling Dr. Brothers

By Jim Fitzgerald

During one lunchtime, Dr. Joyce Brothers should be force-fed all the cheeseburgers I haven't eaten in the past year.

Also, Congress should reopen its investigation of TV quiz shows. There may still be a chance to prove Dr. Brothers is really Max Schmeling in drag.

Joyce Brothers is known today as the psychologist who regularly appears on TV talk shows with her knees locked together. She talks about sex as if it were something delivered to your home once a week in a plastic bag.

We oldtimers remember when Dr. Brothers was the world's greatest expert on prize fighting. Around 1955 she appeared on a TV quiz show and won thousands of dollars by remembering how many beers Tony Galento drank the night before he decked Joe Louis. Nobody could understand how a little lady who looked like a 3rd grade school teacher could possibly know so much about the violent world of boxing.

Then it was revealed that the quiz show was rigged. Several of the contestants admitted they were given the answers backstage before they were asked the questions on camera. TV viewers couldn't have been more shocked if they'd learned Walt Disney's Mouseketeers were a Communist plot to put a rat in the White House.

Nothing was ever proven against Joyce Brothers, although the boys at Stillman's Gym could certainly be excused for making insulting accusations. She simply took her thousands and disappeared for several years. Then she returned to public view with a doctor's degree in psychology. She somehow gets paid for writing a newspaper column and appearing on TV. Her specialty is giving obvious answers to stupid questions, sort of an Ann Landers for people who can spell psychology without looking it up.

("Doctor, I have a college degree and a nice figure so why does my husband say I have no sex appeal?" "Because you wear your cap and gown to bed.")

By now you have probably caught on that I am miffed at Joyce. Why? Because she recently decreed that the sexiest men today are those with paunches and short hair.

I had a brush haircut for 20 years before my wife and kids finally convinced me I'd become an artifact in danger of being cast in bronze or embalmed. Now my hair brushes my ears and I must wash my lousy head every morning to make sure it really isn't.

I had a marvelous paunch but I got sick of hilarious friends asking me whether I wanted a boy or a girl or a beachball. So I quit eating lunch and candy and everything good. I lost 20 pounds and I had to buy new clothes. Now every time I see someone eating ice cream I kick them in their fat stomachs. I drag complete strangers in off the street and insist that they measure all the room left when I put on my old pants. I no longer have to worry about my friends insulting me because I don't have any.

So now comes Dr. Brothers saying today's women like chubby men. "The phallic symbol is being replaced by the status symbol," she said, and nothing gives a man more status than a paunch and short hair.

Her theory is that times are tough and money is short. "Serious times call for the man with the look of authority and stature," she said, and worried women "are drawn to a father figure."

No one is giving Dr. Brothers the answers ahead of time, so her theory is probably baloney. But women will believe it and there I am...the skinny guy alone at the end of the bar with my hair hanging in my beer. All the dollies are at the pizza parlor, kissing crumbs off sexy guys named Fatso and Tubby.

It is people like Dr. Brothers who make it difficult for people like me to proceed Onward and Upward.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

"The best laid schemes of mules and men..."

Upon these immortal words, Jenny based her Mules Code of Conduct with but one reservation. She felt that 'schemes' applied solely to her wily master, Uncle Charlie, whom she was often forced to 'gang aft agley' for violations of their working agreement - a pact as ambiguous as the phrase 'private' enterprise over which they were hopelessly deadlocked. Noting nothing "private" about her toils in his vineyards, Jenny maintained that his ventures should be confined to individual capability rather than a joint effort.

Her pet peeve was Charlie's insinuating habit of holding frequent consultations with his pocket watch, forever concerned about 'tempus fugiting'. This silly obsession with the passage of time (Latin or otherwise) was as productive as doodling in her opinion since she regulated her working hours with an inherited mental chronometer tuned to the Greenwich Meridian.

Charlie's duplicity was clearly revealed under overcast skies one day in early Spring when he attempted to tack on a bit of involuntary overtime in the mistaken belief that mules tell time by the sun as do fork-tongued double-crossing humans.

According to her chronology that day began at 7:20 a.m. in the frosty dawn. With an hour for lunch, her shift ended at precisely 4:20 p.m. Therefore at 4:22 p.m. on this day, self interest prompted her to jog Charlie's memory. After deliberating several available options, she decided to volunteer a bit more time and take Charlie on a scenic tour of the countryside north of the comfort station, more commonly known as a privy.

With a start befitting the Kentucky Derby, she took off across the frozen tundra with Charlie bouncing on the spring seat like an animated puppet manipulated by the reins blistering his flailing hands.

Jenny changed course abruptly to avoid more favorable terrain, a maneuver which splintered the comfort station except for the seating accommodation on which attached itself rumble seat fashion to the wagon tailgate. A split second later the right front wheel vulted over a charred stump. Charlie's dislodged upper plate joined his riding cap in flight, both to be demolished by the pursuing wheel which struck with such force that the aforementioned pocket watch ricocheted into a muddy pothole where it continued undaunted to tick away its last service to mainkind.

While rounding the turn into the home stretch both front wheels struck a half buried log causing Charlie to abdicate his precarious throne with an Olympic backflip and become an exile in the asylum of the wagon box filled with fertilizer of animal origin.

Mercifully, Jenny shortened his humiliation by thundering for the creek where the transport immediately bogged down to its axles in the unpercable shoreland.

The abrupt stop broke the hames and Jenny sauntered off nonchalantly meditate on man's follies in less odorous surroundings.

A badly shaken Charlie abandoned further agricultural pursuits to fire up the sauna, employing richly scented denim as kindling. His first intelligent act that day mused Jenny, snug in the coziness of her humble shrine.

To give the devil his due, snow and frigid weather prevailed for the next four days and the wagon, frozen solidly in the mire, became a thing of beauty to Jenny's artistic soul–an imaginative, decorative centerpiece topping a frosted cake.

By conceding the superiority of mule over man in time-related science, Charlie recouped the cost of those coveralls by never again investing in a timepiece.

Shaking Nixon's Hand Thrill for Don Rozema

Donald and MaryJean Matz and children from Saginaw were weekend visitors with relatives in our community. MaryJean and children stayed this week to visit her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Essenberg.

Jack and Judy Kooyer and son Aaron of Moline spent the Easter holiday with their respective families, the John Kooyers and the Fred Van Stedums.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Taylor and four children came from Saginaw this week to spend the weekend in their home here. Mr. Taylor and daughter Patty and her fiance David Frick left again Monday afternoon. Betty Rose and three daughters will stay here this week. Donald Mutz accompanied the Taylors back to Saginaw.

Seeing the President of our country, in person, is quite something but when you get to shake his hand, that's bliss for a child. Mr. Paul Krause, principal of the Ebenezer Christian School, took his 8th grade pupils to Bad Axe Wednesday to see President Nixon. The group left Ellsworth at 5 a.m. and had to wait 2½ hours before the President arrived. They sighted the helicopter and watched as he got off and then heard him speak. Mr. Krause and Don Rozema had the thrill of shaking hands with Mr. Nixon. Other Members of the class who went were Colleen Bascom, Debbie Colton, Lou Ann DeVries, Mark Postmus, and Tom Van Stedum. They arrived back in Ellsworth at 5:15 p.m. We were told that Don was quite excited about his thrilling experience and that hand is special now!

A 60 piece wind ensemble from the South Christian High School of Grand Rapids has scheduled a concert to be given in the Ellsworth Community School auditorium on Friday, April 26, at 8 p.m. Donald Drenth who for the past eight years has been in charge of the school's instrumental program, is a 1957 graduate of Ellsworth High. He received his B.A. in music education from Calvin College, Grand Rapids, in 1961 and his M.M.ED. from VanderCook College of Music in Chicago in 1965. The band's appearance in Ellsworth is being co-sponsored by the Community School P.T.A. and the Christian School, P.T.A. and with High School Seniors assistance in carrying out of arrangements. Members of the band will be guests of local families Friday night and will return to Grand Rapids on Saturday morning. Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit John Drenth.

Miss Marcia Drenth of Grand Rapids spent her spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter John Drenth.

Mrs. Donald (Cornelia) Battjes and children spent last week with her mother, Maggie Reamsma, brother Ben and sister Jennet. Her husband came the latter part of the week and all returned home to Grandville Saturday, taking their daughter Conna Lee with them. She had spent three weeks with Grandma.

Mrs. Clarence N. (Shirley) Tornga was in Charlevoix Hospital from Monday to Friday, where she had surgery.

Mrs. Dorothy Rood spent Easter Sunday with her sons Albert and Bill Maxon families in Mancelona. Her granddaughter Keli is spending a few days in Ellsworth.

Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Petter were, their son Bill and children Randy and Matt from Saugatuck. Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Sue) Donahue of Rochester, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl (Shirley) Petrie of Durand.

Isabelle VandenBerg of Six Mile Lake, flew to Towaco, N.J. to attend the wedding of her granddaughter, Cathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin VandenBerg on April 20.

John Burns was admitted to Little Traverse Hospital the past week for observation and tests.

Officers elected by the Christian School P.T.A. for next year are Tom Wynsma, jr., Atwood, president; Wayne Daining, vice president; Versile Veldkamp, vicar; Mrs. Roger Rozema, Norwood, secretary; and Mrs. Andrew Veenstra, Atwood, treasurer Another teacher for the Middle room will be needed to take the place of Mrs. Terry Vanderslik of Petoskey, who has resigned because of the distance involved.

Mr and Mrs. Garrett McDowell and daughters Gala and Wenda spent a long weekend with their son Gary and family in Ortonville and their daughter Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stegar and daughter in Oxford.

Mrs. Robert Swaney and her three sons of Grand Rapids and a friend of the boys were visitors last week, during their spring vacation with her mother, Hatti Kuiper and her sister, the Martin Rubingh family. Bob joined the family for the weekend.

Mrs. Herman VanStedum and Mary Balach went to Grand Rapids Thursday with Mrs. Stoel of Atwood. They returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rubingh and son Glenn, Clara Rubingh and Anne Osterbaan were Sunday dinner guests of Mettie VanderArk.

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Baker of Muskegon were weekend visitors with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fielstra.

Visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarence Tornga this week were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Tornga and two sons from Muskegon.

Mr. and Mrs. David Storer (Norma) and daughter Sara from Leslie spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit John Drenth.

POLICE Chief Jack Mol (right) of Charlevoix receives diploma from FBI National Academy at Quantico, Va., from FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley Graduation was March 28 of the 96th Session of the Academy, an intensive three month course for police officers.

To Quiz Motorists In Area This June

Crews of interviewers representing the Department of State Highways and Transportation will be conducting origin and destination surveys in and around 11 Michigan cities, including Charlevoix, this summer.

Department personnel, many of them college students hired for temporary summer work, will set up interviewing stations on each state highway and major county road into and out of the designated area for study.

Interviewers will question motorists on the origin of their trip, their destination, the purpose of the trip and where their vehicle is garaged. The interviewer also will note the number of persons in the vehicle and the vehicle's type.

The data is used for forecasting future traffic patterns through the development and continuous up-dating of a computerized statewide traffic model. The information is vital to planning future highway networks.

Interview stations will be operated from 6 a.m. through 8 p.m., Monday through Friday. They will not be operated on Saturday or Sunday. The Charlevoix area interviews will take place in June.

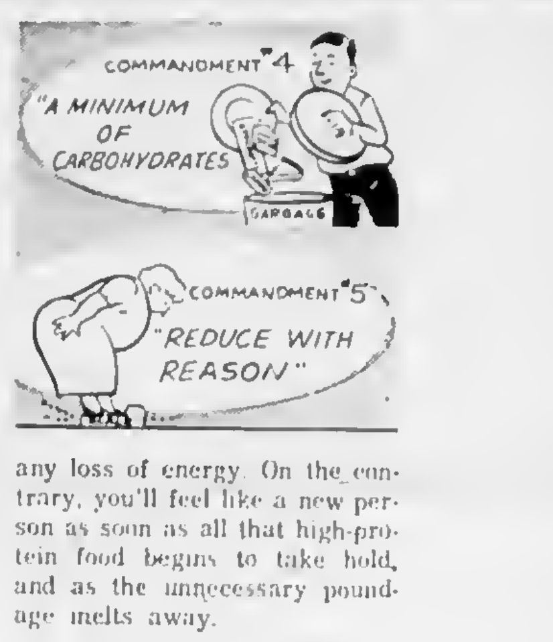
Eat and Grow Younger

Lose Weight in Safety as You Enjoy Delicious Foods!

By LELORD KORDEL

Number Sixteen of a Series



The nutritional folly of gorging yourself on starchy and sweet foods was fully discussed earlier. But I want to make sure that you do not confuse natural carbohydrates with the artificial, devitalized carbohydrates that find their way into "civilized" stomachs in such appalling quantities — white breads, cakes, pastries, spaghetti, white rice, processed corn meal, dry cereals (many cooked cereals, too), candies, and carbonated beverages.

"A minimum of carbohydrates," which is my fourth commandment for nutrition, means: Eliminate all those artificial starches which bear small resemblance to carbohydrates found in natural foods.

Half your planned campaign to regain lost youthful appearance and energy will be won when you throw artificial, devitalized sugars and starches out of your daily eating. Then reward yourself for this commendable step by turning instead to the delicious, health-building natural sweets.

REDUCE WITH REASON

My fifth commandement is "reduce with reason."

Everyone agrees these days that overweight shortens life—certainly it prevents your looking and feeling as young as you would desire. Nothing is more aging or more inimical to youthful appearance than obesity.

Therefore, if you are seriously overweight, begin a sane reducing program at once—for the sake of your health, as well as your youthful appearance. But you must reduce with reason.

HIGH PROTEIN MENU

The following high-protein reducing menu is designed to produce a weight loss of no more than five to eight pounds a month. To lose more quickly than this is unwise.

You may vary or adapt this menu as you wish, interchanging one high-protein meat, fish or fowl with another; and alternating eggs with cheese. But you should confine the major portion of your fruit and vegetable consumption to those listed as 5 percent and 10 percent carbohydrates in the list which follows this menu:

BREAKFAST

1 small orange, or half grapefruit, unsweetened

1 slice cold meat, fish or chicken; or 1 pan-broiled minute steak

1 boiled, poached or shirred egg (also scrambled over hot water); or 1-inch cube of cheese, or ¼ cup of cottage cheese

Small bowl of whole grain porridge eaten with fortified milk

1 cup hot skim milk sweetened with ¼ teaspoon of honey; or black coffee or tea, sweetened with a little honey if desired

MID-MORNING

1 small glass skim milk, buttermilk or yogurt; or tomato juice fortified by whipping in a little cottage cheese.

LUNCH

1 cup clear, skimmed broth

1 slice broiled or roasted meat, fish, poultry (don't overlook liver in this diet)

1 green salad, dressed either with lemon juice and very little salt, or with ¼ cup of cottage cheese, seasoned with minced chives

1 serving of fresh 5 percent or 10 percent fruit

Hot beverage, sweetened with honey only.

MID-AFTERNOON

1 small glass of skim milk, either hot or cold and flavored with a little crushed fresh or cooked fruit.

DINNER

1 cup skimmed beef or chicken broth

1 serving meat, fish or poultry

1 serving cooked green vegetable such as asparagus or broccoli; or a tossed green salad, as at lunch

1 slice whole-grain bread (but only if you must)

1 serving egg custard or milk sherbet made with skim milk or buttermilk, and fortified with extra powdered skim milk.

NO GNAWING FEELING

This is far from being a "starvation" menu, and I promise you won't have a lank, gnawing feeling in the pit of your stomach while following this reducing diet. Nor will you suffer any loss of energy. On the contrary, you'll feel like a new person as soon as all that high-protein food begins to take hold, and as the unnecessary poundage melts away.

CARBOHYDRATE VALUES

Now here are the more common fruits and vegetables classified as to their carbohydrate content, that is, to the proportionate number of calories they contain:

Five percent vegetables and fruits: Asparagus, bean sprouts, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, endive, greens, kohlrabi, leeks, lettuce, mushrooms, okra, olives, peppers, pumpkins, radishes, string beans, summer squash, Swiss chard, tomatoes, watercress, cantaloupe, honeydew melon, lemons, watermelon.

Ten percent vegetables and fruits: Beets, carrots, onions, oyster plant (salsify), rutabagas, squash, turnips, blackberries, cranberries, currants, gooseberries, grapefruit, limes, oranges, peaches, strawberries.

Fifteen percent vegetables and fruits: Lima beans, green parsnips, fresh peas, apples, apricots, blueberries, sour cherries, grapes, loganberries, mulberries, pears, pineapple, plums, raspberries.

Twenty percent vegetables and fruits: Beans (dried or canned) lima, kidney, navy; corn, potatoes, bananas, cherries, sweet grape juice.

Many Plants Mentioned In Bible Abound Today

By Hilda Alexander

Gardening is the oldest occupation in the world, Mrs Arla Saublin told members of the Charlevoix Garden Club at the group's April meeting.

The club met at the home of Mrs. Marge Dinwiddie, with Mrs. Jennie Gibson as co-hostess.

In her lesson "Gardens of the Bible," Mrs. Staublin pointed out that the Bible is filled with references to gardens and gardening, starting with the Garden of Eden.

That first garden, inhabited by Adam and Eve, was a gardener's dream, since there were no thorns or thistles, wild grasses or weeds.

Most of the spices used by modern man are mentioned in the Bible as a means of flavoring, perfume or medicine. Anise was raised for its medicinal properties. Cinnamon was used as a perfume and a flavoring, along with cassia, cumin and caraway. Myrrh was used both as a perfume and as an embalming ointment.

The frankinseense carried to the baby Jesus by the Wise Men was the gum of a tree much like the mountain ash of northern Michigan and had a strong lemony scent. The word "frank" means freely, indicating that frankincense burned freely when used as an incense in the temple.

Although there are few Biblical references to flowers, lilies of the field and water lillies are mentioned, along with roses, narcissus and jasmin. Everyone is familiar with the story of Moses and the bullrushes.

There are several references to the aromatic myrtle bush, as well as hyssop, ceratia and pomegranate, which were used in various ways.

Trees also are mentioned in numerous passages. Varieties dating from Biblical times are the almond, acacia, oaks, walnut, sycamore, castor, mulberry and cedar. Cedars of Lebanon were used in the construction of Solomon's Temple. Moses cultivated camphor trees and balm of gillad trees were planted along the banks of the Jordan River.

The fig tree also played a prominent role in the story of Adam and Eve. They used fig leaves to clothe themselves after they became aware of their nakedness.

Mrs. Staublin suggested that club members might think back on the long history of gardens when toiling in their own yards this spring and summer. It was God himself who commanded his flock "to dress and keep the gardens of the world."

She also recalled a quotation by Dorothy Gurney: "One is nearer to God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth."

During the business meeting, plans were made to plant a tree on the High School grounds on Arbor Day, May 4. Cards and stationery from the Federation of Garden Clubs were displayed and sold by Mrs. Gail Stebbins.

The next meeting will be the afternoon of May 14 at the home of Mrs. Virginia MacLean. Mrs. Adgate Santek will be co-hostess and Mrs. Jean Michael will present the lesson on "Edible Wild Plants."

Julia Sage and Willis' Return From Asia Trip

Mrs. Julia Sage and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis returned recently from a three weeks tour of northwestern Asia and Russia.

As a part of a 25 member tour group, they flew directly to Tehran via London, Frankfort, Germany, Istanbul and Beirut.

In Iran they visited the ruins of Persepolis and saw the Royal Tent City in addition to visiting three major cities, Tehran, Isfahan and Shiraz.

Their next stop was Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, from where they flew to Bamiyan, Valley of the Great Buddhas, and later made a bus trip to Peshawar, Pakiston, a spectacular scenic drive through the Kabul Gorge and over narrow twisting rock roads of the famous Khyber Pass.

The Soviet Union was the next stop with a visit to Tashkent where they visited a cotton factory, a tea packing plant and the usual museums and ballets. A stop at Samarkand where Persian and Indian architects have made this one of the most beautiful cities in the world was followed by a bus ride to Aphrsiab, an ancient city dating back to Alexander the Great and where archaeological discoveries are among the most important in the world.

An evening flight took the group to Moscow where they stayed at the 6,000 room-Hotel Rossia and visited Red Square and the Kremlin, a Russian Circus which was delightful and the massive buildings and thousands of apartment houses.

Another evening flight took them to Leningrad, a picturesque city of canals and the Nova river with its many bridges, opened only at night for freighters to pass through.

A night sleeper train returned the party to Moscow from where they departed for the return trip home.

Mrs. Sage, who has traveled widely, wrote this thumbnail story of the trip after returning home last week.

Middle School Years Troubled Time for Kids

Principal Explains How New Concept Helps Them Cope

"Erratic and inconsistent behavior is prevalent – either happy or down in the dumps evidenced by giggling, loud laughter, pushing or spurts of intense anger or pouting...Wants and needs sympathy, some degree of success and recognition as an individual...Outside pressure to succeed is keenly felt and will often lead to cheating to compete successfully. Seeks love objects outside of family. Indulges in hero worship. Possesses a great many fears, real or imagined."

Although the above description reads like a psychologist's evaluation of someone ready for the funny farm, nothing could be further from the truth.

This is the way the Michigan Association of School Boards sums up the emotional posture of the typical Middle School student – a youngster going through the often turbulent transition from childhood to adulthood.

Charlevoix has 582 such youngsters this year, most of whom are doing their best to learn their three-R's and cope with their burgeoning emotional problems while students at the rambling old Middle School on Grant-st.

Their mentor for the past eight months has been Miss Geri Stanko, school principal and chief advocate in Charlevoix of a new and hard-to-pin-down doctrine called the "Middle School Concept."

Miss Stanko is the first to admit that the concept is "an idea, an abstraction."

"There can be no model middle school because each school must be unique to the community, the environment and the students it serves," Miss Stanko says.

Pressed for a definition, Miss Stanko says the middle school is a "bridge" between an effective elementary school and an effective high school.

And the more gradual the change, the better, according to Miss Stanko.

In the Charlevoix Middle School, for example, Fifth Graders still are pretty much in self-contained classrooms, just as they were in the Elementary School. In the Sixth Grade, they experience some departmentalization. In the Seventh Grade, schedules become more involved and the youngsters take both required and elective courses. In the Eighth Grade, they specialize in fields that interest them the most.

One of the key features of the Middle School that distinguishes it from both elementary and high schools is the concept of a "home base" room replacing the old "homeroom." Each home base room has students from all four grades who stay with the same home base teacher during their years in the Middle School, with new junior classmen joining as older students move on to high school.

The home base teacher in effect is the child's guidance counselor from the day he enters the Middle School until the day he leaves.

To Miss Stanko, this is the one overriding "plus" of the Middle School concept since, in effect, it reduces the pupil-counselor ratio from one to 500 to about one to 25.

Although 5th graders are sometimes apprehensive about sharing a classroom with 8th graders, Miss Stanko says the system works. She points out that grouping youngsters of different ages together is more natural than segregating age groups, since it simulates the age make-up of family units.

In the home base room, the teacher has an opportunity to follow a child's development from start to finish. She reviews his report card with him, helps him sum up his strengths and weaknesses, and is in a position to offer the personal and educational counseling that is simply beyond the capabilities of a single counselor charged with guiding the educational careers of hundreds of youngsters.

Miss Geri Stanko

Home base rooms also hold "problem solving sessions" whenever needed to seek answers to common problems.

Needless to say, the Middle School concept is not something that happens easily in any school system. Some teachers accustomed to the lock-step of working with one age group and one body of subject matter have found that the middle school concept is more demanding of their time and talents.

Dr. George Mills of the University of Michigan spent one day working with the building staff in April. He will be back May 7 for another session. And the last week in August, Miss Stanko hopes to invite him back to Charlevoix for a week-long workshop on the middle school concept.

She admits that the Charlevoix staff did not have sufficient in-service training in the concept before it was started last September.

"Instituting a new idea is always difficult. And when it comes to schools, the community must be convinced as well as the teaching staff," she says.

Miss Stanko said that most of the parents who call the school to inquire about the new system "are satisfied with the answers they get."

One of the most frequent inquiries has to do with why the Middle School has abandoned its traditional honor roll.

Miss Stanko explains that the school has three marking systems, ABCD, Pass-Fail and Satisfactory-Unsatisfactory.

"Frankly, I wouldn't know how to draw up an honor roll, since every child finds success somewhere along the line," Miss Stanko says.

Unlike many educators whose main concern is curriculum, the physical plant, teacher salaries and school finances, Miss Stanko's main concern are the 582 youngsters who have been committed to her care.

One of the first things she did upon her arrival in Charlevoix is to learn the names of all of her youngsters, using their class pictures as flash cards and going over them again and again until she had attached a name to every face.

"I wouldn't be able to run a school any other way," she admits.

She also has rearranged her office so that the door facing the corridor is always open. "I want them to know that I'm here and that they are free to stop in with their problems," she says.

Among the innovations at the Middle School this year is a series of non-credit "fun" courses three and four weeks in duration which meet one period a day. The courses expose youngsters to a wide variety of activities that is lacking in a strictly academic curriculum: Fishing, knitting, drama, model building, first aid, how to play games, chess, cribbage, bridge, flower identification and wild animal identification.

Teachers pick the courses they want to teach – usually it's their avocation or hobby – and youngsters select the courses they want to take.

Miss Stanko also plans to expand the Middle School concept to suit more of the needs of Charlevoix's young people in the future.

--She wants to offer youngsters more positive alternatives in their educational careers.

–She wants to get parents more actively involved in day-to-day classroom activities.

–She wants to investigate the use of computer services for "banking" data on each child so that teachers and administrators will be able to tell at a glance where the child stands in relation to where he wants to go.

–She wants to expand her present staff of office aides and student aides, as means of on-the-job training.

A native of Grosse Ile, Miss Stanko graduated from St. Joseph Academy at Adrian, received her B.S. from Siena Heights in Adrian and her masters degree from Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn., on a National Science Foundation grant.

She studied school administration at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan and presently is working on her PhD summers at the University of Florida.

She taught in Chicago, Royal Oak, Flint, Wyandotte and East Lansing and was principal of the Jackson Middle School in Jackson, Mich., before moving to Charlevoix last year.

Teen Coffee House Needs Equipment

Charlevoix's new coffee house—Effort North—will be headquartered in the basement of Kentucky Fried Chicken, with the entrance from the Round Lake parking lot.

The building space will be rented to Action North for a nominal fee by Herm Sizemore, proprietor of Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Headed by Cindy Fassett, the coffee house is in need of a variety of furnishings and building materials to make Effort North a going concern.

Items needed include tables, chairs, couches, commercial-type coffee makers, paint, brushes, carpeting, ceiling materials, paneling, barn siding, silverware, coffee cups, a cash register, empty egg cartons, and arts and crafts supplies.

Anyone with items to donate should contact Miss Fassett at 547-9095.

Action North is in the process of being incorporated as a non-profit organization designed to meet the leisure-time needs of Charlevoix young people.

Emphasis will be on arts, crafts and music, with classes planned.

Booklet Tells How To Vacation During The Energy Crisis

You can save energy and still have a great vacation in Michigan, according to the Michigan Tourist Council. And the Council has a new booklet with an energy-saving check list to help you do it.

"The energy shortfall remains with us despite the lifting of the Arab oil embargo and the removal of the ban on Sunday gasoline sales," declared Richard J. Allen, Council director. "However, we feel that everyone needs and should take a vacation, but a vacation that is closer to home."

The Council suggests you "first know, then go"--determine your destination and make reservations in advance. This saves gasoline which otherwise would be used in searching for accommodations.

"Pool your fuel"–travel with family and friends in private cars or on public busses. You get more miles per person per gallon this way.

"Pick a spot and set a spell"–choose a place with more of what you want, then stay there and stay longer. One or two extended vacations consume less gas than five or six short ones.

These and many more tips are contained in the new energy-saving vacation booklet. Write today for your free copy of this booklet and other vacation literature, available from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 48926.

Nancy Fochtman Helps at Film Fete

The Michigan State University Union Activities Board, with the help of Nancy Fochtman of Charlevoix, hosted the Third Annual Midwest Film Festival April 17-20 at MSU.

The largest student-run, nonprofit film festival in the United States, it featured more than 150 motion pitcures produced and directed by students, amateurs and professionals from across the U.S. and Canada.

Animated, live action, documentary and feature films competed for more than $1,500 in prize money.

The festival attracted leading film critics and filmmakers as judges. Among this year's panel was: John Simon, film critic for Esquire magazine; John Boundy, the U.S. general manager of the National Film Board of Canada, and Buster Crabbe, film's first space hero as Flash Gordon and Buck Rogers.

Miss Fochtman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fochtman of 304 Meech-st., is an MSU junior majoring in radio and television and a 1971 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

She is on the staff of WMSN, an MSU radio Station.

Mol Tells Lions About FBI Academy

Jack Mol, Charlevoix police chief, showed a film to the Charlevoix Lions recently describing the FBI National Academy where he completed three months of advanced training.

The facility accommodates 600 men and his class included officers from the 50 states and four foreign countries.

The only cost to Charlevoix was his regular salary. The age limit is 50 and small communities receive equal consideration with metropolitan areas.

Classroom sessions are for 40 hours a week and 24 additional hours are spent in research.

The various courses earn college credits and Chief Mol earned 16 credits with the University of Virginia.

Chief Mol conducts weekly in-service training for his department but stressed that his assistance is available county wide.

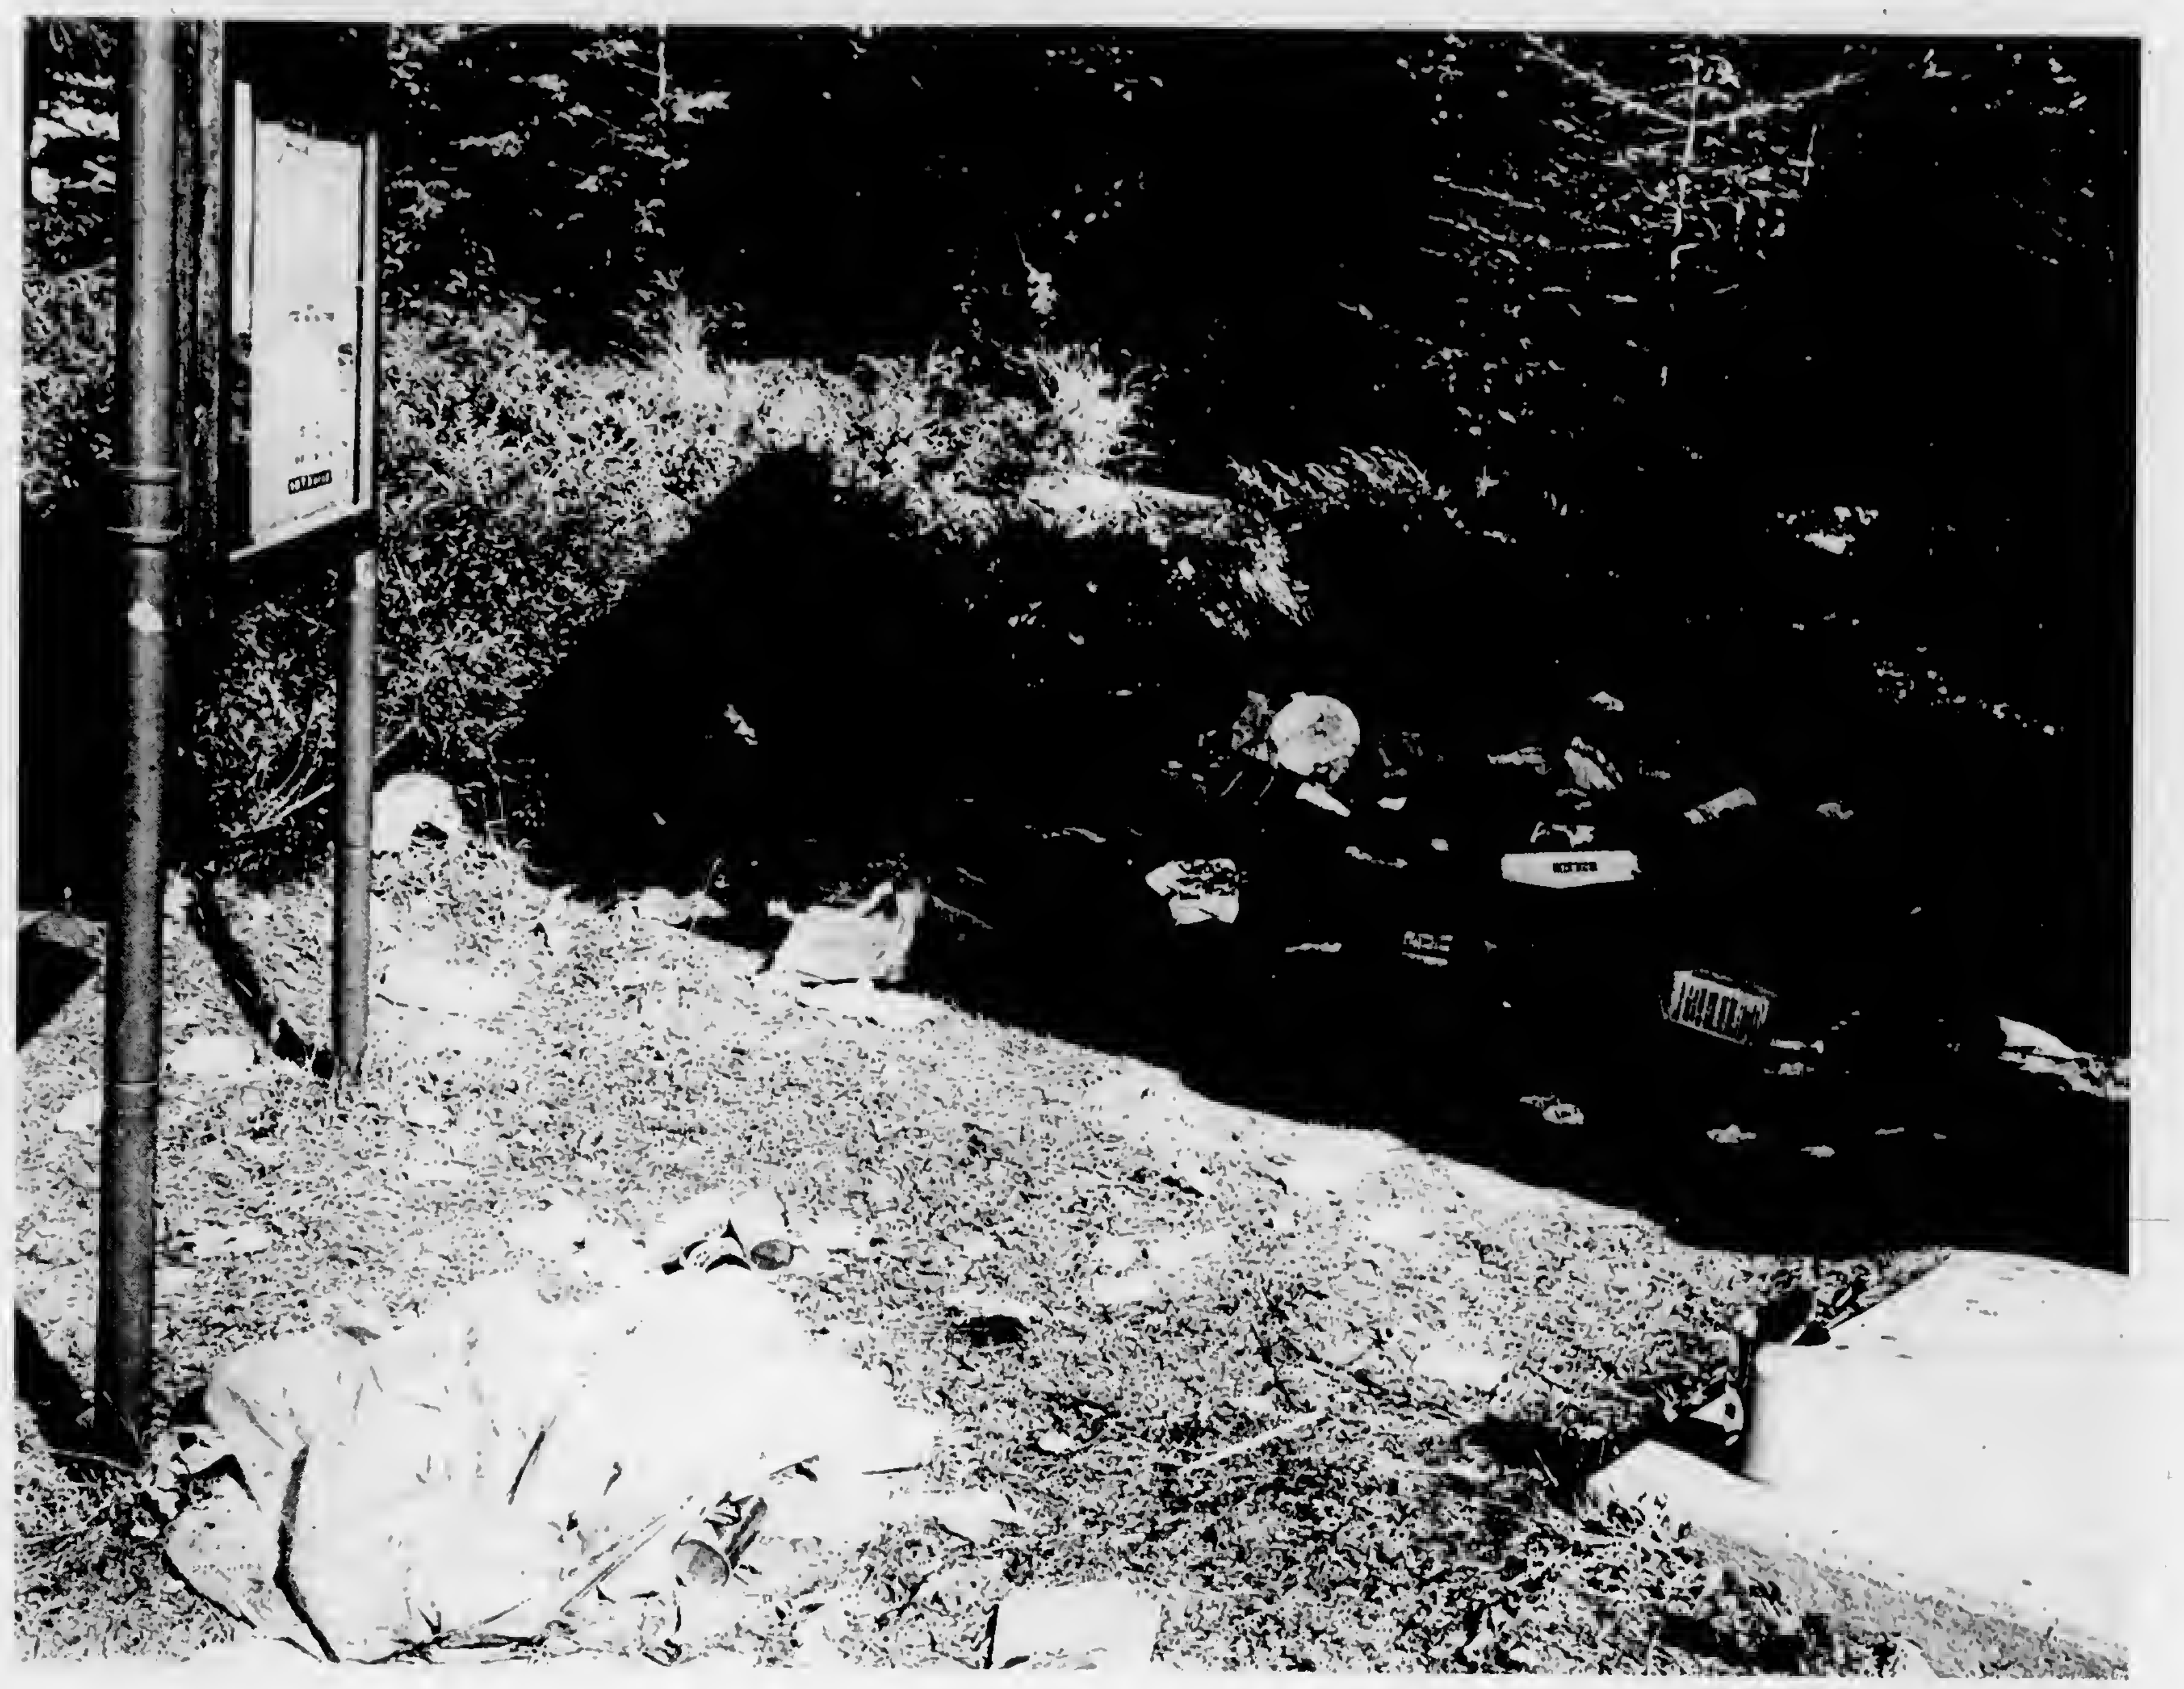
THIS is Charlevoix the Beautiful?



Kennedy Park, April 16, 1974

The Month of May is the traditional "Clean-Up, Fix-Up Month" across the nation. May 6 marks the official date in Charlevoix.

Citizens of other communities spend hundreds of dollars in order to spend some time in one of the most naturally beautiful areas of our nation. We are fortunate enough to live here year around. Unfortunately, some of us don't appreciate what we have.

We believe our Community-County Pride needs a shot-in-the-arm. Let's all begin now to Clean-Up, Fix-Up, Paint-Up and Beautify the entire Charlevoix Area....AND KEEP IT THAT WAY!!

KEEP CHARLEVOIX BEAUTIFUL!!

Area Students Qualify For State Competition

Charlevoix Industrial Arts students captured a total of 53 awards at the annual Michigan Industrial Education Awards program for Region 14 ad 15 held at Cheboygan Friday.

The Charlevoix Senior High School students, taught by James Jinsky, won 42 awards while Middle School students, taught by Jerry Puhl, returned home with 11 awards.

First and second place winners are eligible for competition in the state convention to be held at the Michigan Mart building at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit this weekend.

One Ellsworth student and three East Jordan students also qualified for state competition.

Robert J. Cook of Charlevoix and Loyd Gouine of Cheboygan, veteran Industrial Arts instructors now retired, who were instrumental in organizing the regional chapter of the M.I.E.S.A., were honored at Friday's meeting.

The categories in which Charlevoix won recognition and the places each received are as follows:

Architectural Drawing: Chris Begrow, a first place and an honorable mention; Dan Key and John Scharenbroch, a second and an honorable mention all qualifying for state competition.

Mechanical Drawing: Joe Early, two firsts; Lee Begrow, a first and a second; Chris Wimmer, a first; John Sneothen, a second; Kevin Spear, a third and Jim Sladek, two honorable mentions.

Machine Shop: Casey Culbertson, a first; Tim Coen, a second and Dave Peterson, an honorable mention.

Sheet Metal: Jeff Lutz and Jeff Papenhagen each received firsts; Tim Matchett, a third and Loren Purvis, an honorable mention.

Wrought Metal: Jim Sladek, a first and second; Tom Werden, a first and honorable mention; Chris Wimmer and Randy Williams, firsts; Ron Wilson and Bob Timms, seconds; Jeff Lutz, George Baldwin and Jeff Papenhagen, thirds; Loren Purvis, Tim Matchett, Ralph Muma, Greg Mort, Bob Hilton, Frank Olach and Ron Smith, honorable mentions.

Woodwork: Jim Moore, a third and Jack Niswander, an honorable mention.

The elven award winners in the Middle School where Jerry Puhl is the instructor were:

Woodworking: Anthony Moses, a third and Steve Schuch, Paul White and VBrad Warner, honorable mention.

Metals: Matt Stangis, a first; Paul White, a second; Steve Schuch, a third and Ken Campbell, Ron Hilton, Gene Morrison and Dennis Whitley, honorable mentions.

Ellsworth qualified one and East Jordan three for state competition.

At Ellwroth, Debbie Toulber placed second in the OD-1A category (miscellaneous) with a plaque. Her instructor is Hugh Campbell.

At East Jordan where Norman Cook is the instructor, three students qualified for state competition.

In Woodworking Shawn Hauck won a first; in Wrought Metal: Loren Barnes won a second place as did Marlin Sweet in the OD (miscellaneous) category. His entry was a mechanic's creeper. Barnes had a free-form dish and Hauck a coffee

THIS LICENSE FOR TEMPORARY USE, shall expire at the close of the 1974 boating season, on or about October 31, 1974, This License Resolution is conditional upon the Charlevoix Yacht Club meeting the following conditions:

1. That the requirements for membership in the Charlevoix Yacht Club shall be non-discriminatory in nature and membership shall be available to any citizen of the community.
2. That the Charlevoix Yacht Club shall furnish evidence of liability insurance covering its activities on the subject property in an amount not less than $500,000, with the City of Charlevoix a named insured.
3. The Charlevoix Yacht Club shall agree to maintain the premises in a neat and orderly manner, and to police the activities thereon to ensure against any illegal or objectionable behavior.
4. The Charlevoix Yacht Club shall agree to cease and desist activities on the property as of October 31, 1974, and vacate the property, leaving it in a condition at least as neat and orderly as it presently is, unless the City of Charlevoix meanwhile shall have extended, renewed, or entered into another agreement for the extended use of this property by the Yacht Club.
5. The City of Charlevoix reserves the right to revoke this license at any time.

THIS LICENSE for temporary use is ONLY that, and does not convey any other interest in the property, nor does it imply an approval of any specific activities of the Yacht Club by the City of Charlevoix.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Art Bond addressed Council to express the wishes of Ski and Shore to convert the Weathervane Terrace into a condominium and operate as a motel. Attorney Ms. McKenzie explained further the legal aspects and asked that Council or the City Attorney draft a resolution that they could send to the State of Michigan stating that their request conforms with C-1 Ordinance.

Mayor Hansen directed Acting Administrator Wexstaff to write a letter to the State of Michigan stating that the request of Weathervane Terrace conforms to the City's Zoning Ordinance 203, as amended, and is in conformity with present regulations.

Alderman Timms offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Plumm.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is not presently receiving industrial waste for treatment in the City's Waste Water Treatment Plant, and

WHEREAS, it is not anticipated in the near future that there will be industrial waste received at the Treatment Plant, and

WHEREAS the Environmental Protection Agency requests that they be assured that when industrial waste is treated there will be proper and adequate cost recovery procedures initiated,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the City of Charlevoix, prior to receiving industrial waste will take all necessary steps to implement proper cost recovery ordinances, regulations and rules in compliance with directives of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman McRae that the request from Heinz and Irene M. Leutheuser for new Dance Permit to be held in conjunction with 1973 12 Month Class C and SDM licenses, located at 218 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan be considered for Approval. Adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

By proclamation Mayor Hansen proclaimed the week of May 6 through May 17, 1974 "Annual Clean-up Week" for the City of Charlevoix. Pick-up by the City will be as follows:

First Ward	May 6, 7, and 8
Second Ward (West of Bridge St.)	May 13, 14, and 15
Third Ward (East of Bridge St.)	May 16 and 17

Nothing to be picked up by the City after these dates.

John Haggard presented a petition for the Planning Commission bearing 160 signatures, requesting the City Council to act on establishing a Building Authority in order that parking can be increased in the business district. Attorney Berlage advised that he has reviewed the previously prepared draft and statute and finds it is in order. It was suggested that Mr. Olach of the Chamber of Commerce be contacted to determine what he can do for the Authority on behalf of the City.

The correspondence dated March 26, 1974 regarding Shorelands Protection and Management Act was discussed briefly. No action was taken.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Selph that Council accept the Board of Canvassers canvass of votes cast at the General Election of April 1, 1974. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mr. Dan Shanahan, Civil Engineer, addressed Council and advised them that he would be willing to sketch plans for a sea wall and a small boat facility project into Round Lake without any cost to the City. It was agreed that he would meet with the Committee Monday April 15, 1974 at which time he will present his credentials and sketches, and suggestions for financial assistance.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $109,942.74 find them correct and recommend they be allowed. Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Selph that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

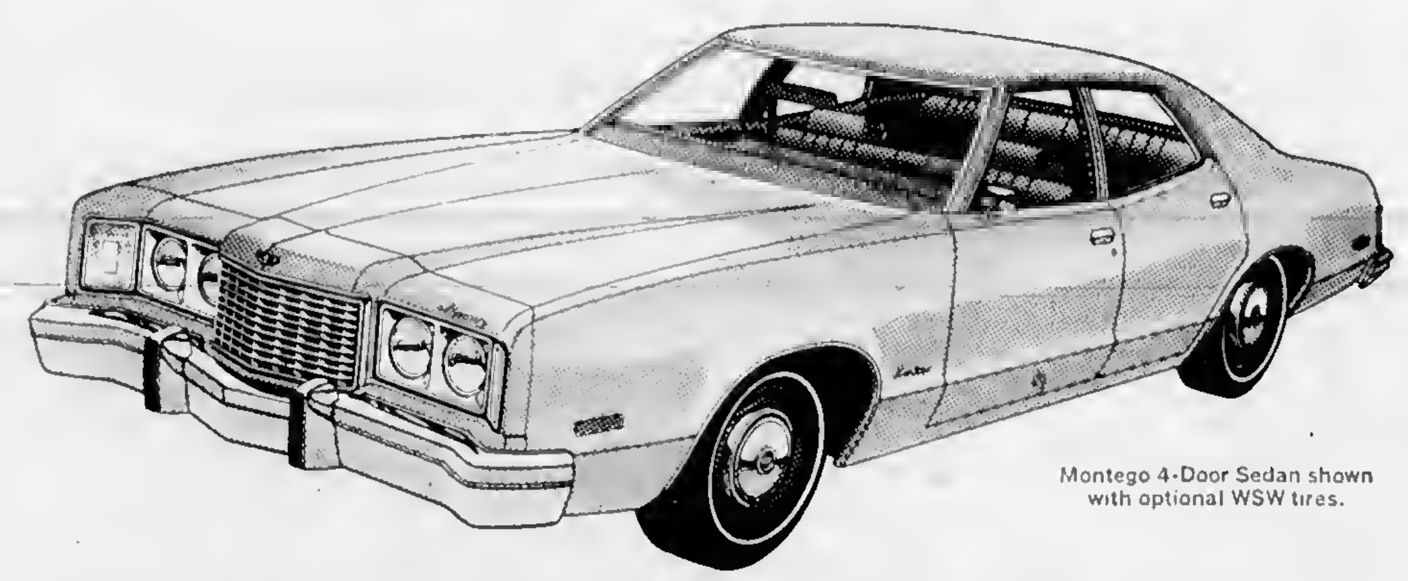
'74 MERCURY MONTEGO
BIGGER THAN SMALL-SIZE



Montego 4-Door Sedan shown with optional WSW tires.

Here's how you can combine mid-size gas economy with six-passenger comfort.

If a small car is too small and a full-size car is too big, come drive our mid-size Mercury Montego.

It runs on regular gas. And based on our estimate of national average costs, the '74 Montego is designed to reduce scheduled maintenance costs by as much as 22% in 50,000 miles of normal driving when compared to last year's models.

You'll find our Montego roomy and comfortable ...with the ease of handling you want in a mid-size car. Its ride is smooth and quiet on an extra-wide stance with the same type of suspension system as our most expensive luxury car. Today, more than ever, our mid-size Mercury Montego makes sense for a whole lot of people. At the sign of the cat.

It is hoped the new construction will remedy problems caused by the fluctuating lake level.

Medusa Earnings Down As Sales Rise Slightly

Despite a six percent increase in sales to customers, there was plenty of red ink on Medusa's financial ledgers for the quarter ending March 31, according to the company's financial statement to shareholders.

Sales to customers increased from $20,748,000 in the first quarter of 1973 to $21,941,000 in the first quarter of 1974.

However the company reported an earnings loss before taxes of $1,237,000 and a net earnings loss of $751,000. Both losses were greater than for the first quarter of 1973, which was also in the red.

The picture was considerably brighter for the 12 months ended March 31, with sales to customers up 12 percent ($127,245,000 to $143,124,000); earnings before taxes up 12 percent ($11,750,000 to $13,188,000); net earnings up nine percent ($7,367,000 to $8,060,000); and earnings per common share up 10 percent ($2.90 to $3.18).

Robert W. Fort, president and chief executive officer, blamed the first quarter slump on a decline of shipments by 13 percent resulting from somewhat less favorable construction weather in some areas, spot shortages of cement at three Great Lakes terminals, and a partial withdrawal from certain low-profit cement markets.

Fort said the six percent increase in sales to customers reflected a cement price increase of about 10 percent in January and other factors.

He closed his report on an optimistic note, observing that the decline in housing starts "seems to have bottomed out." He added that substantial tonnages of new business were added to the company's backlog recently.

The Medusa brochure which was mailed to shareholders carried a picture of the new clinker cooler dust collector at the South Point plant in Charlevoix which cost $470,000 to install and will cost $60,000 to operate each year.

Gun Safety Class Is Under Way

Thirty Charlevoix Middle School students in the 12 to 14 year age group are presently receiving training in Gun Safety under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Police Department Chief Jack Mol has announced.

The students will meet at the school for six sessions during a four seeks period in order to become certified. A prospective hunting license-seeker must be certified in order to obtain a hunting license until his or her 18th birthday, Mol said.

This is the second series of Gun Safety classes taught this school year.

Reports Show Court Keeping Up With Load

Although the 90th District Court which serves Charlevoix and Emmet counties has come under fire recently on charges that the presiding judge doesn't spend enough time on the bench, reports filed with the state indicate that the number of dispositions reached by the court in 1973 show a substantial increase in all categories but one over the preceeding year.

In view of increasing court activity, District Judge Arthur Reibel does not feel that the number of cases pending is either unreasonnble or unwieldly under the circumstances.

In the civil area, the court finalized 178 dispositions in 1973, compared to 354 in 1972, an increase of 124. Small claims dispositions jumped from 169 to 323.

In the criminal area, 5,578 dispositions in cases involving violations of state traffic laws were filed in 1973, compared to 2,946 the previous year, an increase of 2,632.

Non-traffic criminal dispositions were down last year from 866 in 1972 to 652 in 1973.

However, traffic ordinance dispositions increased from 1008 to 1,307 between 1972 and 1973 and non-traffic ordinances violation dispositions jumped from 85 to 110.

The number os cases pending at the end of each month in each category does not appear to change markedly from month to month or year a year.

The 90th District Court was featured in the March, 1974, issue of Focus magazine, published by the office of the Court Administrator. The magazine contained an article on the work program instituted by Judge Reibel and his chief probation officer, George Lasater.

Under the program, misdemeanor offenders spend time on public works project as an alternative to time in jail.

Defendants are sentenced to work without pay a predetermined number of Saturdays for the county in which the offense took place. The defendants work at care facilities, county buildings, the Ironton Ferry or one of the state parks located in the area.

The work crews are under police supervision and are covered by insurance in the event of accidents.

According to Lasater, the program:

Serves as a strong deterrent for the defendant not to return to the court as a repeat offender.

Is in the best interest of the defendant and his family in that it keeps him out of the county jail so he can continue to work and support his family.

Provides a service to the community in providing manpower for worthwhile community projects.

Saves the county tax dollars by eliminatng the expense of jail lodging and feeding.

"The attitude of the defendants participating in the program has been mostly of a positive nature," according to Lasater. The defendants feel that being sentenced to work without pay on their days off is enough of a deterrent to make them more conscious of potential criminal acts and to use more restraint and better judgement."

It's the Kids that Count!

5 ways our teachers upgrade their skills.

Our teachers keep on learning too. The kind of experiences teachers provide students during their school years greatly influences living patterns and lifestyles. So it is extremely critical for educators to keep current in their field. Here are ways teachers stay abreast of the latest trends in education.

Graduate School--The National Education Association (NEA) estimates that 44 percent of the nation's teachers take at least one class at a university each year, usually at the teacher's own expense.

Workshops-Seminars--Workshops and visits to other schools provide new ideas for teachers to take home and use in their classroom.

Curriculum Change--Teachers in many schools work together to bring about curriculum changes to improve learning opportunities and provide more relevant educational experiences for students. This is frequently done on the teachers' own time.

Evaluation--Teachers, together with school administrators and school board members, develop evaluation programs designed to help individual faculty members identify strengths and weaknesses, and therefore improve teaching performance.

Travel--Through efforts of the MEA and NEA, hundreds of Michigan teachers participate in specially designed travel programs throughout the world. These teachers bring back new cultural experiences to share with their students.

Building Trades House Pegged at $39,900

The Charlevoix Board of Education acted on several issues at its regular meeting Monday before hearing the report of the Citizens' Advisory committee headed by Robert Wasoski.

Among the items on the agenda was the adoption of an election resolution, the establishing of a sale price for the Building Trades house, approving the payment for band instruments, the purchase of several items and accepting the resignation of a teacher.

Approval was given the election resolution which set the annual school election for June 10; the last day for registering for the election as May 13. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The price set on the Building Trades house at No. 6 Hampton-rd. was $39,900. The price includes an allowance of $1,603 for the sewer and $1,000 for floor covering and sale expense. The two story frame house with aluminum siding is located on an 111-foot by 125-foot lot. The sale price was recommended by the realtor, Ski & Shore, and an independent appraiser.

The board voted to pay the bill in full in the amount of $11,216.52 to the Hanna Music Co. for instruments purchased on a contract basis over a period of years. By paying the account in full, the school saved $1,955.16.

Approved the purchase of 150 stack chairs and chair trucks and fabric for the high school cafeteria from the Dew-El Corp. at a cost of $2,884 and the purchase of 25 tables from Michigan School Services at a cost of $2,319.70. The cost of the furnishings is to be paid with "added cost" money available to the school through its Commercial Foods program from federal sources.

The board also approved the purchase of 14 bulletin boards and 208 feet of display rail for the K-4 building at a cost of $1,099 from Dew-El Corp. and two pieces of playground equipment, heavy duty swing set and slide for use at the K-4 school at a cost of $684.

The resignation of Carolyn Fhaner was accepted with regret and the secretary was advised to send her a letter of appreciation for successful completion of her probationary period and her service to the Charlevoix Schools.

The board also approved the purchase of basic gymnastic equipment for the Middle and High Schools at a cost of $7,029 from the Nisser Corp. plus two safety suspension units, two spotting belts and an additional transporter for parallel bars at an additional cost of $487.

TM Lecture Is Wednesday

A free public meeting of Transcendental Meditation will be held in the community room of the First State Bank Wednesday, April 24, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Lecturer will be Henry Clark of Traverse City.

TM is a method of achieving deep rest through meditation. More than 19,000 persons are taking up TM throughout the United States every month.

CHS Presents 'Witch' Drama

The Charlevoix High School Forensics team was to present its annual "Evening of Entertainment" at the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 23.

The program featured a presentation of the one act play "To Burn a Witch" which took the local team to the State Finals and the best individual events including the humorous, serious, story telling and multiple reading categories.

Island Picks Zoning Chief

Paul Welke of Beaver Island has been named zoning administrator for St. James and Peaine townships, according to Miss Vivian Visscher, St. James township clerk.

Welke was appointed by both township zoning boards last week.

A graduate of the University of Detroit, Welke is a commercial pilot and does construction work.

Both townships recently passed zoning ordinances.

Records Topple as Girls Sweep Cheboygan Meet

The Charlevoix girls Track and Field Team won its first meet of the season at Cheboygan Monday tallying a total of 64 points while Cheboygan racked up 41 and St. Ignace, 11.

Charlevoix will host a meet here at 4 p.m. Monday when the local girls take on Boyne City and Petoskey and Cheboygan meet.

The Charlevoix girls outdid themselves in the field events as three members broke their own individual and school records. Cheryl Pence jumped 4'8½ inches in the high jump and threw the shot 34'4½" bettering former records of 4'8" and 31' feet, respectively to also set new school records. Denise Boss took a first in the long jump with a distance of 34'4½" bettering her former record of 31'. This also is a new school record.

Charlevoix took 10 firsts out of an 11 events.

Other point winners in the field events were Kay Currie who placed second and Amy Potter and Beth Elger who tied for third place in the high jump; Jodi Alger who placed third in the shot put and Mo Cudd fourth in the long jump.

Both relay teams took firsts running the 440 yd. relay in 57.8 and the 880 yd. relay in 2:06.4. Donna Bellows, Jodi Alger, Terri Morris and Tori Alger make up the 440 yd. relay and Torri Novotny, Bellows, Amy Potter and Mo Cudd the 880 yd. team.

in the track events the winners were:

100 yd. dash: 1. Jodi Alger; 3. Donna Bellows. Time: 13.3.

220 yd. dash: 1. Terry Novotny; 3rd place tie, Alger and Morris. Time: 31.2.

440 yd run: 1. Denise Boss. Time: 1:06.1.

Half mile: 1. Boss. Time: 2:44.3.

Mile: 1. Terry Hufford; 4: Rita Wasoski. Time: 6:45.

Charlevoix placed third in the 80 yard run.

5 Trackmen Will Compete in Relays

Five members of the Charlevoix Rayder Track and Field Team will be in Mt. Pleasant Saturday to participate in the annual Central Michigan 'Chip' Relays, Coach Gary Stutzman has announced.

They are Randy Faust who will run in the high and low hurdles and participate in the pole vault; Jerry Skippergosh, the low hurdles, high jump and the 440 relay; Joe Kaufman, the 440 and 880 relays and Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin, the 100 yard dash, 440 and 880 relays and the long jump.

Assistant Coach David Moyer will accompany the team members to Mt. Pleasant where they will be joined by Coach Stutzman who will accompany the Symphony band to Flint before going to Mt. Pleasant to join his team.

Till Taken

City police are continuing their investigation of a break-in at Muma's Sunoco Station on Bridge-st. last Wednesday night.

A cash register containing between $20 and $30 in coins was taken from the building.

Glass in a door was broken to gain entry.

Obituary

Bergstrom

Funeral for David Bergstrom, 90, was held at the Winchester Funeral Home April 18. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Bergstrom died April 16 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility where he had been a patient since last June.

He was born in Sweden Dec. 1, 1883, and came to the United States as a young man. He married the former Frida Larson in Chicago in 1912. She preceded him in death.

A carpenter by trade, Mr. Bergstrom moved to Charlevoix in 1950.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Eleanor) Neff of Charlevoix, two granddaughters and one great-granddaughter.

Charlevoix's Biggest Heist

Gems and Watches Stolen

Jewelry Store Loss $15,000

THIEVES littered the floor with ring and watch boxes at the Charlevoix Jewelry over the weekend, making off with between $14,000 and $15,000 in merchandise. In background is Police Chief Jack Mol.

City and State Police are continuing their investigation into what is believed to be the biggest heist in the city's long history.

Diamond rings and watches with a retail value of between $14,000 and $15,000 were taken over the weekend from the Charlevoix Jewelry Store on Bridge-st.

Entry to the building was gained by pulling the hinge pins on a rear cellar door. Other doors leading to the shop proper were secured only with latches and were forced open.

Mrs. Ann Hufford discovered the break-in about 9:30 Monday morning when she reported for work.

Ring cases and watch boxes were strewn behind the glass counter on the sales room.

Mrs. Hufford says she normally locks her expensive jewelry in the safe at night.

"But Saturday was my birthday, and I was in a hurry to leave," she said Monday, sadly surveying the mess behind the counter. "I didn't take the time to put everything away."

Mrs. Hufford, who runs the business with her husband, Walt, of Hufford Industries, said the loss was not covered by insurance.

Hufford said such merchandise is insurable, but the rates are fairly steep.

Mrs. Hufford said the loss represented about one-third of her entire inventory.

Police Chief Jack Mol, who investigated the break-in, believes the robbery was the work of professionals who knew what they were doing.

Only the most expensive watches with brand-names like Seiko, Longine and Wittnauer were taken. Their prices range from $75 to $150.

The thieves only bothered with the most expensive diamond engagement rings, with price tags of $500 and $600.

"Of course, thieves can read tags as well as anyone else," Mol observed wryly.

Mrs. Hufford said the till was left open but there was no money in it. The intruders apparently tried the safe from the position of the handles, but they didn't attempt to force it open.

Ironically, they overlooked a small box of diamond rings valued at $4,000 on the floor next to a desk in the back room. The merchandise arrived Saturday and hadn't yet been tagged and placed on display.

State Police from the Petoskey Post were on the scene Monday afternoon, dusting ring boxes for fingerprints.

Chief Mol is uncertain when the break-in took place. It could have been any time between 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Ellsworth Bonds Win by 12 Votes

Ellsworth School District residents Monday approved $890,000 in school building bonds by a vote of 243 to 231.

Despite the narrow 12-vote margin, members of the Board of Education were jubilant over the results of the election in a year when school building bonds are being rejected on all sides.

Approval of the issue means that demolition of the old Ellsworth High School building, constructed in 1917, may begin as soon as school lets out this spring.

The present elementary school and gymnasium will remain as part of a new high school addition housing a shop, science room, home economics room and library.

Also in the building plans is construction of a new elementary school on a 40-acre site on White-st. just outside village limits.

Hopefully, all of the new construction – probably pre-fab – will be finished in time for the start-up of school in September.

Supt. Robert Gaunt said Monday that bids probably will be asked for both standard on-site construction and pre-fab construction.

However it is no secret that the board has been looking seriously into pre-fab buildings and based its proposed bond issue on pre-fab construction costs.

Architect Philip Mapes of Traverse City has been working closely with the board on the building project.

Demolition of the old high school building is a must. It can no longer meet requirements of the State Fire Marshal and cannot be adapted to provisions of a new state law which insists that all levels of a school building be accessible to handicapped youngsters.

ENTRY TO Charlevoix Jewelry was gained by forcing open a cellar door at the rear of the Bridge-st. property.

Church Safe Yields $500 in Break-in Approximately $500 in cash and checks was taken from a safe at the community Reformed Church of Charlevoix sometime Sunday night or early Monday according to Charlevoix Police.

Rev. Albert Mansen reported Monday afternoon that a safe containing Sunday's collection was taken from a cabinet in the church office and broken open in an adjoining washroom.

Entry was gained by breaking a window on the south side of the building.

Charlevoix police are investigating.

Have Breakfast With Solons

State Sen. Robert W. Davis and state Rep. Ralph Ostling will meet with Charlevoix civic government leaders and other interested citizens on Friday, May 3, at Leutheuser's Restaurant for a Dutch-treat breakfast, starting at 8:30 a.m.

Anyone with state-government related problems they would like to discuss with either Sen. Davis or Rep. Ostling is urged to attend.

The local representatives have found that the breakfast sessions are a productive way of meeting with constituents in an informal setting.

City Budget Hearing Scheduled for May 20

The City Council has scheduled a public hearing on its 1974-'75 budget calling for general fund expenditures of $489,257.00 for May 20 at 8 p.m. at the Charlevoix City Hall.

A copy of the proposed budget appears on page 5 of this week's Courier.

Major sources of revenue are property taxes, $188,550; shared revenue from the state, $66,100; charges for services, $29,166; sale of services, $13,500; fees, $32,465; rents and royalties, $148,876; and refunds and rebates, $4,400.

Among the major expenditures are police, $83,000; fire department, $49,100; golf course, $40,457; airport, $26,000; city administrator, $23,000; common council, $20,500; and cemetery, $31,000.

The Major streets budget is $87,600 and the Local Streets budget $56,500.

The electric fund anticipates revenues of $906,449, of which some $82,976 will be transferred to the general fund in lieu of taxes. A total of $88,000 is budgeted in the water fund, against anticipated expenditures of $76,100. Some $99,600 has been estimated as sewer fund revenue and expenditures.

City Leads County In Value Growth

Property valuations in Charlevoix County have jumped $18.4 million in the past year, according to an equalization report adopted last week by the County Board of Commissioners. The report was prepared by Joan Blanchard, equalization director.

The report shows total county valuation at $172,290,352, up from $153,314,200 last year.

About 5.4 percent of the increase results from new construction, with the balance, 8.7 percent, representing higher valuation on existing property.

The city of Charlevoix, which is experiencing a condominium boom, showed the biggest increase $3.3 million. However, most of the condominiums are not completed and have not been pegged at their full value.

The city's valuation rose from $18,897,850 last year to $22,291,590 this year. Boyne City rose from $11,623,900 to $14,881,440 and East Jordan from $9,314,200 to $10,505,700.

Charlevoix Township rose from $18,727,850 to $19,914,000; Hayes Township, $14,971,900 to $15,784,600; Marion Township, $3,945,300 to $4,671,400; and Norwood Township, $2,777,950 to $3,416,700.

On Beaver Island, St. James Township rose from $2,827,068 to $3,552,950 and Peaine Township from $2,827,500 to $3,027,600.

Hospital Brd. Eyes Pre-Fab Offices

Charlevoix Hospital is looking into plans for prefabricated doctors' offices near the hospital.

Marvin Wiehe of Marshall-Erdman and Associates of Madison, Wisc., met with the hospital board last week to discuss new concepts in medical office design, based on pre-fab construction.

The board is attempting to attract new doctors to the Charlevoix area.

The board also learned that hospital occupancy is rising. For the eight months ending March 31, the rate was 58 percent, compared to 52 percent one year ago.

Charges to patients and total operating expenses also showed substantial increases.

OB, however, continued to show a decrease. Some 108 babies were born in the eight months ending March 31 last year, compared to only 79 this year.

Channel Rights Sought

Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff reminds owners of property on Pine River Channel to return their easement forms to his office as soon as possible.

Wexstaff said he sent the forms to property owners April 18 asking their permission to allow the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers access to the channel to complete work on the channel beautification project.

The project will include construction of a concrete bench along the entire north side and the construction of lights, guard rails and walkways on both sides of the channel.

The temporary easements would give the Corps temporary access to the property until Dec. 31, 1975.

Wexstaff pointed out that the improvements will be made at no cost to the city, so long as the city agrees to cut the grass and maintain shrubs and trees.

He added that the easement forms must be signed and returned to his office within one week so the work can be scheduled.

Ken Winter Named Editor of Courier

Ken Winter, 23, former Charlevoix County reporter for the Petoskey News-Review, has assumed the editorship of the Charlevoix Courier, effective May 1.

Winter succeeds Bob Clock, who has been editor of the Courier for six years. Clock is taking a four-month leave-of-absence but plans to return to the Schaller newspaper organization in September.

A native of Lansing, Winter graduated from Lansing Everett High School in 1968 and attended Adrian College and the American University in Washington, D.C., before receiving his degree in journalism and social science from Michigan State University in December, 1971.

During his school years he worked for the Lansing State Journal in both news and circulation.

After graduation, he worked for the Petoskey News-Review for eight months, returning to the State Journal as an area reporter and later as the newspaper's director of public service. He also taught journalism at Lansing Community College.

While in Lansing he was vice chairman of the city's River Development Board.

Winter returned to Petoskey last July as an area reporter covering Charlevoix County.

He is a member of the Charlevoix Lions Club and the Central Michigan Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism fraternity.

While a student at Michigan State, Winter did geographical research for the university in Central America. He returned Sunday from a week's vacation in Spain.

Winter is single and makes his home at Michigan Shores near Bay Shore.

Marian May Married To Airman Doug Hawley

The First Baptist Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Marian May and Douglas Hawley, U.S. Air Force, stationed at Bay Shore.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert May of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Max Hawley of Jackson.

The Rev. Elmer J. Faust of the United Methodist Church officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 150 guests. Arrangements of yellow mums formed a setting for the ceremony. Mrs. James Jensen, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a gown of nylon organza and Chantilace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and bishop sleeves of lace, the gown featured a bouffant tiered skirt which ended in a chapel length train. A Juliet cap accented with seedpearls secured her veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white dasiels, pink roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. William Cousineau assisted her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Donald Ward, Marlene Dixon and Robin May, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identical Empire gowns of flowered crepe in blue, pink, green and yellow, respectively, and carried bouquets of white daisies and baby's breath.

Philip Thelan assisted the bridegroom as best man. Timothy May, brother of the bride, Arthur Brong and Robert Eby were groomsmen and also seated the guests.

Mrs. May chose a floor-length turquoise knit A-line gown for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Hawley wore a full length orchid gown. Their corsages were of spring blossoms.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed in the church hall.

After a tour of Michigan, the couple will return here to make their home.

Wedding guests were present from several Michigan cities and Hawaii.

The bride is employed at the First State Bank. The bridegroom is stationed at Bay Shore with the U.S. Air Force.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hawley hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

I've always had a thing about machines. I can't stand them.

Judy and I got to talking about my hang-up the other night and she thinks I'm a candidate for the funny farm. Perhaps she's right, but I still can't get over the idea that we have let machines take over too many of the chores that we once did by hand. We even derived a certain amount of satisfaction if we did them well.

In fact the whole age of mechanization, to my way of thinking, has reached the point of lunacy. You turn on a machine to shave in the morning. And another machine to brush your teeth. Your scrambled eggs are mixed with an electric beater and your grapefruit juice comes from a can opened by an electric can opener. Your toast pops out of an automatic toaster operated by electricity and your butter and jam stayed cool overnight in an electric refrigerator.

You drive to work in another machine and work all day with power-operated tools and equipment--typewriters, calculators, cash registers, photo copiers, power saws, electric drills, lathes, you name it. The list is without end. And it's getting longer.

At home, your wife has a machine to wash and dry her dishes, another machine to wash her clothes and still another to dry them. She has automatic hot water at her disposal and her home is kept comfortable by a complicated system of motors, fans and electrical gadgetry in the basement called a furnace.

She sweeps her carpets with an electric vacuum cleaner, does her mending on an electrical sewing machine and presses sheets and pillow cases with an electric mangle.

Most home entertainment comes from still another machine--the television set.

Yet with all these labor saving devices, I cannot believe man is one bit happier than he was a century ago before machinery started making such deep inroads into our daily lives.

In fact I would venture to say that most people generally were far happier because they didn't have time to dwell on the things that make them unhappy.

This is a question I posed once to the late Laura Courier at the end of a long conversation about "the good old days." Laura had been telling me about the fun she had as a girl.

"Do you think people were happier then than they are today?" I asked.

Laura thought that one over for several seconds before she answered.

"Yes," she said. "I think we were happier then, but I don't think we would have been if we had known what was coming."

Judy thinks that part of the reason why I am dismayed by the mechanization of living is that I associate the simple life with my boyhood, which was certainly a happy time in my life.

She also believes that because I am a mechanical stumble-bum, I feel threatened by the growing number of things that I must live and work with that have a proclivity for breaking down or blowing up.

And of course she's right. There are many of us in the world today who can only wring our hands and head for the yellow pages when something goes wrong with anyone of the hundreds of mechanical do-dads on which our survival in the modern world depends.

What throws me into a near panic is an electrical power failure, and in this respect I am no different than the most nimble-fingered handyman-about-the-house. There is little he can do about the situation, either.

Without electricity, the furnace goes out and the house gets cold. Candles and oil lamps give us some illumination, but the kids balk at going to bed in the dark. Dinner is impossible unless you have a gas, coal or wood range. You don't even know what time it is because all the clocks have stopped. If the power is off for any length of time, you had better prepare to throw out the contents of your freezer.

I suppose what it all boils down to is that I abhor being totally dependent upon so many mechanical devices. I like the convenience of modern living, but I live in perpetual fear of the whole system collapsing around my ears. I would prefer a simpler life that I could control and manage.

I also object to the term "labor saving" in connection with the accoutrements of modern living. True enough they save labor in the execution of specific tasks, yet we never think of the labor involved in acquiring them, supplying them with electricity and paying for their repair and maintenance.

The amount of time modern man spends to support his "labor saving" devices is astounding.

These ideas, of course, are not new. More than 100 years ago, Henry David Thoreau became concerned with the complexity of life and moved to his little house on Walden Pond to prove that the "simple life" was still possible. He lived a totally self-sufficient life for two years before declaring his experiment a success and moving back to town.

It bothered Thoreau that farmers in his neighborhood maintained stables of horses to till their fields when a goodly percentage of the land they worked was used to feed the same horses that pulled the plow. He rationalized that if they sold their horses they could support only themselves with far less effort. And I suspect he was right.

Yet modern man has learned little, if anything, from Thoreau. Our pursuit of gimmicks to make life more comfortable and glamorous ends only with the grave.

Too many of us, I am afraid, come to realize too late that we have frittered away our days on earth without having lived.

All of which is prelude to this last column I will write as editor of the Courier. "Clockwise" will continue to appear regularly, but the editor and his family plan to take a four-month sabbatical from newspaper work starting May 1. We hope to spend most of our time on Beaver Island, if we can ever find a place to live.

Although we originally planned an extended leave for health reasons, I believe the middle years are a good time for a fellow to stop and take stock of where he has been, where he is heading and what new goals, if any, he should set for himself, and what old goals should be abandoned.

More than anything else, I want my kids to learn that there are other places and other ways to live. I want to find out that you can heat a house with a pot bellied stove, bake biscuits in a wood range and take a bath in a wash tub.

If they don't learn these things now, how will they ever learn to appreciate the world we have brought them into?

Beaver Island, of course, enjoys all of the modern conveniences. But I believe that the island still offers a fellow an opportunity to come to terms with basic living. At least I hope so. I'll let you know.

Local Businessmen Attend 'Stag' Show

To The Editor:

Rumors that stag entertainment was recently featured for many of our local business and professional men at a well-known inn, prompts me to write this letter based on eyewitness facts.

At noon on Monday, April 22, I saw more than forty of our community pillars enter this lofty frame building through the side door and vanish up a short flight of red carpeted stairs.

They arrived singly, in pairs, and in groups; under the scrutiny of a man at the door keeping the street under surveillance. He was readily recognized as a manufacturer of custom machinery in a plant on US-31 north.

A car cruised slowly past, turned around and parked across the street. The lookout walked to the car and removed a screen and slide projector from the rear seat. The driver, a ranking Charlevoix County attorney, carried a shoulder strap pouch and a large carton of magazines.

After the shades were drawn, the awed exclamations of the assembled merchants, professionals, and tradesmen, rivaled the audience reaction at the Venetian fireworks display. Longer intervals between some frames indicated the demands of the viewers for additional time to dwell on the graceful lines and the entertainment was obvious from the familiar booming voice of a local surgeon who gasped,

"There's a beauty if ever I saw one!"

As would any concerned citizen, I checked with Harvey Varnum. He assured me that he has all the necessary evidence in his possession and will present it at the appropriate time--a collection of fascinating slides accompanied by a live commentary on antique cars!

Emergency Staff on Job Weekends

The local Concerned Citizens Committee for the Charlevoix Area Hospital would like to call to your attention the fact that our Charlevoix Area Hospital now has a 36-hour weekend emergency service.

The hours covering from Saturday at 10 a.m., until Sunday at 10 p.m.

The service will be extended to a 14-hour daily coverage commencing July 1.

This information has of course been publicized locally, but our reason for again bringing this to your attention is to urge its use by the residents of your area.

It is our feeling we are fortunate in having such a fine hospital and this service further benefits us all.

Get a Saginaw Savings bike flag now!

Every boy and girl who rides a bike should have one of these bright orange bike safety flags. They're designed for one very important purpose: to give bike riders some vitally needed visibility on our car-crowded streets and roads.

We think they can play an important role in helping to turn back the alarming rise in bike-auto accidents today. Mounted on a tall, flexible pole, each flag can be seen from hundreds of feet away to warn approaching motorists of a bike rider's presence.

In the interest of greater bike safety, we're offering these easy-to-install flags (over $3 retail value) for $1 each, including tax. Don't wait. Get one now for every bike rider in your family!

Voc-Ed for Deaf Wins C-E Support

The following actions were taken by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate Board of Education at its meeting April 22:

The Intermediate District will support a high school level program using a vocational approach to be started in Petoskey for deaf students.

Students may be attending from a number of surrounding counties in addition to those in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Service Area.

Tenure status was given to Earl Kilander, a teacher in the trainable program in Conway; Peggy Ekdahl, teacher in the developmental needs program in Boyne City; and Patricia Miller, a pre-school consultant.

Central Michigan University's "School Bus Driver Simulation Laboratory" has been scheduled for three training sessions at the Intermediate District Service Center, Charlevoix, on Monday, May 6. Local school bus drivers will be able to earn up to nine hours of credit toward their mandatory safety certificates at that time.

W. Michigan Diocese Marks 100th Birthday

Local Episcopalians To Celebrate Event

The Diocese of Western Michigan of the Episcopal Church, which constitutes the western half of the Lower Peninsula, and includes Christ Church, Charlevoix, is celebrating 100 years of Christian witness: 1874-1974.

The history of the Episcopal Church's work in Western Michigan goes back to the Spring of 1832 when the Rt. Rev. Philander Chase, former Bishop of Ohio, came to St. Joseph County--his missionary efforts, extended from Coldwater to Niles.

Until 1874 there was just one diocese which comprised the entire state of Michigan. In that year the Rt. Rev. Samuel A. McCoskry, Bishop of Michigan, called a meeting of clergy and laity at St. Mark's Church, Grand Rapids, for the purpose of organizing the new diocese which, in effect, would divide the Lower Peninsula down the middle.

One of the first orders of business was to elect a bishop. The Rev. George D. Gillespie, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Ann Arbor, was elected to the episcopate by the unanimous choice of the first convention. His successors in office include the Rt. Rev. John N. McCormick, second bishop; the Rt. Rev. Lewis B. Whittemore, third bishop; the Rt. Rev. Dudley B. McNeil, fourth bishop; and the present bishop, the Rt. Rev. Charles E. Beonison, elected in 1959.

Bishop McNeil is now associate bishop of Western New York State and spends his summers at his home on Beaver Island, where he conducts services at the island's Episcopal Church.

Prior to his election Bishop Benoison was rector of St. Luke's Church, Kalamazoo. Ten years ago, by action of the Diocesan Convention, meeting in Traverse City, the See City was moved from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo.

The following year, the 91st Convention, meeting in Battle Creek, voted to build the Cathedral (the Seat of the Bishop and Diocesan Center) located on 30 acres of land. The Cathedral was dedicated in 1969. Close to a $2 million program, the Cathedral is almost completely paid for.

The 50th anniversary of the diocese was celebrated at St. Luke's Church, Kalamazoo, with the second bishop of the diocese, the Rt. Rev. John N McCormick, presiding.

The "kick-off" for this Centennial Year celebration was a diocesan-wide Eucharist which was held at the Cathedral Church of Christ the King, Kalamazoo, Saturday, April 27 with Bishop Benoison, chief celebrant. The Episcopal Church's Presiding Bishop-elect (the Church's top ecclesiastical officer), the Rt. Rev. John Maury Allin, Bishop of Mississippi, gave the sermon.

The Diocese of Western Michigan is divided into six deaneries and, throughout the year, eucharistic celebrations are planned, with Bishop Bennison as chief celebrant.

The celebration in the Traverse Deanery will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 7 p.m. at St. Paul's Church, Elk Rapids, with the Rt. Rev. Samuel J. Wylie, Bishop of Northern Michigan, delivering the sermon.

Rev. Calvin Hays

Evangelist Slated At CR Church

An evangelistic Crusade, conducted by the Rev. Calvin Hays of Des Moines, Iowa, will be held in the Community Reformed Church at Charlevoix on May 5-7, 1974.

Services each evening will begin at 7:30. The Sunday morning service will be at 11 and the Sunday evening service start at 7 p.m.

James Miller, baritone soloist with the Calvin Hays Evangelistic Association, will sing at each service.

Sunday evening will be Youth Night. Young people in the church will participate in the service. Special music will be by the "New Creation", a group of young people from various churches in the community. All youth of the community are invited to stay after the services for a time of sharing and fellowship.

A native of Kentucky, Rev. Hays, has conducted more than 100 crusades in 20 states and Canada. His daily radio program "More Power to You" is heard on a number of stations throughout the United States.

Bring your friends and neighbors and come to the crusade to receive a blessing from God's word in message and song. Seminars conducted by Mr. Hays will be held on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 5, 6, and 7, at 2:00 P.M. at the church. The classes will deal with "Sharing Your Faith". These sessions are open to the public.

EMU Honors Jeanne Smith At Convocation

Jeanne K. Smith, a senior at Eastern Michigan University, has been named to the dean's list for maintaining an overall cumulative index of 3.55.

Miss Smith of Charlevoix, was invited to attend the 26th annual honors convocation on April 3 at Pease Auditorium.

A member of EMU's College of Education, Jeanne is actively involved with various activities on campus. She has worked on the Board of Student Services as a tutor for blind students and is now currently involved as an aide for Boy Scout Troop No. 268 from the Rackham School for the Handicapped. Off campus, she is a part-time teacher at Little Lamb Nursery School in Ann Arbor.

Miss Smith has a combination major: Speech, Dramatic Arts For Children, and Literature on a early elementary childhood curriculum and plans on obtaining her master's degree in Child Development. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton H. Smith, of Charlevoix.

2 From City Win Degrees

Stewart E. Coleman and Kraag C. Lieberman of Charlevoix are two of approximately 250 Alma College seniors who were candidates for bachelors degrees at the College's 87th year Commencement on Saturday, April 20.

Local

Craig Whitley, returned recently from Vail, Colo, to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Pauline Winnick. He was employed at the Lion Square Lodge, and during his free time, enjoyed skiing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Whitley of Midland, former residents of Charlevoix.

Life-long Interest in Art Blossoms in Classroom

Marti Mathers has a variety of interests and brings this diversity to her Elementary School art classes.

Those who have attended Marti's yearly Art Show at Charlevoix's K-4 building have been given a sampling of the wonderful creativity which can be sparked in children.

In addition to the usual art activities using paper, crayons, and scissors, Marti has exposed her students to many kinds of projects - batik, which is the dying of material with hot wax; tie-dying, loom weaving, rug hooking, mosaic, wood carving, and papier mache'. An unusual project this year was the color production of 16mm movie film which was shown at the Art Show last week. Several classes drew designs on movie film. The film was then spliced together and shown to music – indeed a fun experience to do and watch!

Marti's creative abilities were nurtured in Central Lake where she was born and raised. She was always drawing or constructing something at home or at school, so it was natural for her to pursue art when she attended college.

Marti attended Michigan State University and Northwestern Michigan College before receiving her degree from Central Michigan University. Before coming to the Charlevoix School system four years ago, she taught elementary school art for one year in Traverse City.

Marti's family includes her mother and two brothers who all live in Central Lake. And not to be forgotten is Marti's Old English sheepdog named "Boo." Boo was just recently a mother, so Marti has had her hands full bringing up eight puppies and finding them good homes.

Other interests of Marti's include acrylic painting, skiing, tennis, camping and canoeing. She is particularly enthusiastic about scuba diving. She is a certified scuba diver and has been diving in Lake Michigan, Lake Charlevoix, and on the coral reefs off the Florida Keys.

When asked how she feels about teaching, Marti responded, "I'm really interested in children and their creative development in all aspects."

Trackmen Place at Mt. Pleasant

Five members of the Charlevoix Rayder track and field team were in Mt. Pleasant Saturday to participate in the Central Michigan Relays.

Point-getters at the meet were Mike Streeter who placed third in the long jump with a distance of 21'4"; fourth in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10:03 and the 440 yard relay team (Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Streeter and Kevin Martin) which placed fourth.

Randy Faust was the fifth member of the team which also participated in the high and low hurdles, pole vault, 880 and 440 yard runs, high jump and the 880 relays without placing.

The quintet was accompanied by Coach Gary Stutzman and David Moyer, assistant coach.

The Rayders will travel to Boyne City for a meet Monday to be held at 5 p.m. if the weather is warm and clear. It will otherwise be held at 4 p.m.

On Thursday the Rayders will host Rogers City here.

Greetings from Ellsworth this spring day! Are you listening to our many beautiful birds? They are singing! And the frogs are doing their bit to tell us spring is here. Do you know about the bubbling spring in the Christian Reformed parking lot–where the creamery was years and years ago? In spite of a tarvia covering and a coat of cement last year this spring of running water is again bubbling over.

Ellsworth Christian Reforemed Church News: Sunday, was Calvinette day throughout the United States and Canada, in honor of girls aged 7 to 15 years, who make up these groups. About 3,000 volunteer women are working with 15,000 girls this year in nearly 600 clubs.

The Calvinette club of Ellsworth and Atwood attended the morning worship service at the Ellsworth Church, en masse with their leaders, Nannette VanderArk, Mrs. Terry Vander Slik and Mrs. Marvin VanderVliet. The girls gave a special number in singing "Jesus Is All the World To Me."

Miss Kaye Harthorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Harthorn was received as a confessing member of the church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sitzema jr. presented their son Kyle Michael for baptism Sunday morning.

May flowers are out, brought on by April showers. With the willing help of the three gaunt children, Tracey, Jerry and Barry and three year old Stacey Gebott last week, we found quite a few buds under the leaves, in our favorite spots on the hills of Forest Hill Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Rubingh and son Edward from Grandville came Thursday. Allen will help Glenn do chores on the farm while their folks Mr. and Mrs. James Rubingh are visiting their daughter Janice and husband Charles Bordner in Seattle, Wash. The Bordners will soon be leaving again for Hawaii. It was a great way for the Rubinghs to celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary. They returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wynsma sr., and sister-in-law Mrs. Jennie Wynsma left Wednesday for a visit with relatives in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Annie DeVries of Lucas and her son Richard and wife and children of Cadillac were weekend visitors of the Gerrit Geo. Drenths.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fielstra and two children from Traverse City were Sunday visitors of his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Harm Fielstra.

Weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Harthorn and family were Mr and Mrs. Kenneth Harthorn from Byron Center.

John and Ida Mae Wynsma and three children were weekend visitors with relatives here. Her mother Hazel Edson returned to Grand Rapids with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peebles returned Sunday evening, after a ten-day visit with her daughters in Peoria, Ill.

The firemen were called out once on Tuesday and twice on Friday to extinguish grass fires. No damage was done.

Sunday school classes were resumed Sunday, April 21 at the Christian Reformed Church at 10:45 a.m. with Versile Veldkamp as superintendent.

Regular teachers for preschoolers are, Joh Drenth, kindergarten and first grade; Noreen Strange, fourth and fifth grade; Mrs. Wayne Daining, 6, 7 and 8 grades Class A - Jake Drenth, Class B. Paul Krause. Volunteer substitute teachers are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Postma, Mrs. Bob Gaunt, Martin Rubingh, Arthur Drenth, Myron Postmus, Mrs. Edwin Drenth, Mrs. Casey Harthorn and Mrs. Versile Veldkamp. All children in the community are welcome to attend.

Mrs. Esther Kirby and Patricia McPherson returned Friday from a week's trip to the St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where they visited Mrs. Kirby's daughter Louise. They went by plane from Tri-City Airport at Saginaw on to Chicago and on to Miami, Florida to the Islands. Louise is teaching third and fourth grade children in the Wesleyan elementary school which is a make shift school room in the Church. Incidently this church was built by Jim Compeau a former Ellsworthite when he was missionary there.

Mrs. Kirby says the islands are very mountainous and the homes are built on the mountain sides. There were many beautiful flowers with the temperature a cool 97 degrees. It seemed strange to her that cars are driven on the left side of the very narrow streets.

Bands Win II's At State Fetes

The Charlevoix High School bands, the Symphony band which participated in Class B and the Concert Band composed of ninth and tenth grade students, have returned home with II ratings, their directors, C.A. Odmark, has announced.

Odmark said that the Symphony band received complimentary remarks from the judges who said they played "hot and cold, when they were good they were very good but when they were bad...well". They were in tough competition with only three of the 16 bands in Class B receiving I rating in the entire festival, Odmark said. They were Gaylord from this area and Clare and Ithaca which have consistently won top ratings, he added.

The Symphony band of 80 members played at Flint Atherton high school.

The 60-piece Concert band played at Flint Beecher in competition with regular high school bands. It was the young musicians first competition on a state level. Judges said the band had some fine individual players but not enough second and third chair players to carry through.

Odmark said he was pleased with both bands and could understand why they received the specific comments from the judges. He conducted both bands in the festival.

Judges in Class B were David McCoy of Olivet College, Rex Hewlett, head of the music department at Central Michigan, Keith Stein, Professor of Clarinet at Michigan State and Ronald Veenstra of Unity Christian high school in Hudsonville.

William Root of Ferris State College, Leonard Meretta of Western Michigan University, Norman Dietz of Central Michigan and Arthur R. Gorman of Kellogg Community College judged the Class C bands.

The next appearance of both groups will be at the Spring Festival on May 6.

Chaperones for the Concert band which spent Friday night in Flint were Mr. and Mrs. Odmark and daughter, Julie, Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson, Penny Gibelyou, Janet Langeland, Mrs. Edna DeMitchell and Mrs. Eleanor Steen. Drivers were Albert Smith and Mrs. John Sladek. Mr. Sladek drove the instrument van.

Chaperones for the Symphony band which spent Saturday night in Midland were the Odmarks, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stutzman, Mrs. Edward McNamara, Karen Hinds and Mrs. DeMitchell. Drivers were Bud Heeres and Mrs. Patricia Smalley.

Married at Home

Wendy Saltonstall became the bride of Kirk W. Post II in ceremonies Saturday, April 27, at the Michigan-ave. home of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Saltonstall, the bride's parents.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk W. Post of Flushing, Mich.

Rev. Ray Giffin of the First Congregational Church officiated at the single-ring ceremony in the presence of 35 guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Ivury English net and Alencon lace first worn by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Pointner.

Her short veil was secured by a headpiece of matching lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Peggy Rader of Petoskey was maid of honor. She wore a long Kelly-green dress and jacket and carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Max Post of Grand Blanc was his brother's best man.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding luncheon at the Saltonstall home.

Mrs. Lorena Beene has returned home from her visit with relatives and friends in Detroit.

The Ladies Fellowship met Tuesday evening in the church. Plans were made for the Mothers Day Church services. They will meet again Tuesday evening, May 14.

Aaron Brock is building a new home in the grove on Old M66 near Richardson's corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Bring have returned home after spending the winter in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Johnson of Detroit were guests the past weekend at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Johnson. It was the birthday anniversaries of Elwyn and son Dale Johnson on Saturday.

Mrs Mark Cross spent two weeks in Philadelphia with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs Gene Sandord and family. While there she attended First Holy Communion of her Granddaughter, Kathy

Martins have arrived, also groesbeeks and swallows. Vegetable gardens are being tilled, yards cleaned and the daffodils are out. So we hope that spring has finally arrived. But we did have snow May 16 last year with a 28-degree temperature, so a change can happen overnight quite easily. But we hope not.

The first Arbor Day was in Nebraska in 1872 when many trees were planted over the state that first year. Arbor Day became official in Michigan in 1885. It surely would be nice if everyone in our community would plant a tree on their home grounds this year.

Umps Needed By Rec. Dept:

The Charlevoix Recreation Department needs qualified men and woman umpires to work the Men's and Women's Slow-Pitch Softball Leagues and also Boys and Girls Leagues. Games are scheduled every evening during the week.

Interested persons are asked to attend a umpires meeting Tuesday May 7, 1974 at 7 p.m. at the Recreation Office, 210 State St. (city hall). If you are unable to attend this meeting you may obtain further information at the Recreation Department.

Meet Charlevoix's Ten Top Seniors

Charlevoix High School's top 10 seniors from this year's graduating class have been named.

High School Principal Vane Smith said that out of 112 seniors graduating this year, 31 achieved a 3.00 grade point average or better.

Coming in with top honors is Tori Alger who had a grade point average of 4.00.

Tori, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Alger, has been active in girls sports throughout high school having participated in basketball, volleyball and track.

She has been a cheerleader for three years, a member of the Pep and Spanish Clubs, as well as student council.

She has also been a member of the Marching and Symphony Bands all through high school and was a member of the 1973 Honors Band.

Tori plans to attend Central Michigan University next fall and major in physical education and math.

Ranked as number two graduating senior is Susan Boss, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hurbert Boss, with a 3.974 grade point average.

She has been a member of band for four years as well as campus life, Spanish Club and the church youth group at the Charlevoix Church of God.

She has also participated in debate, drama and forensics.

Susan will attend Spring Arbor College and hopes to major in elementary education.

Earning a third place ranking is Margaret (Peggy) Carey, the daughter of William Carey and Mrs. Atwood Sheaffer.

During her four years at Charlevoix High School, Peggy has been involved with band, cheerleading, spanish and tennis clubs.

She also attended Girls State and is a member of student council.

Peggy was this year's homecoming queen and a member of the flag corp in the high school marching band.

She earned a 3.886 grade point average and plans to attend the University of Michigan to become a registered nurse.

Following close behind with a 3.861 grade point is Donald Davison, the son of Col. and Mrs. Fred Davison.

He has been on the ski team for four years, as well as being involved with the National Honor Society and Campus Life.

Donald plans to enter a predental program next fall at Michigan Technological University.

Earning a 3.857 grade point, Barbara Sladek ranked fifth in her graduating class.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sladek, Barbara is a member of the Latin Club, 4-H, pep band, jazz band and the marching band.

She has also been active in softball and volleyball.

Barbara plans to major in pre-veterinary medicine at Michigan State University.

Named as the sixth top graduating senior with a 3.833 grade point average is Anita Potter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter.

She has been on the debate and forensics teams along with acting in several plays.

Barbara also has been a member of the Latin and Campus Life Clubs.

She plans to major in pre-medicine and music at Albion College.

Thomas Mort was named the seventh graduating senior

Garden Club Starts New Tree Tradition

Charlevoix Garden Club members started a new tradition Saturday with the planting of a tree at Charlevoix High School.

In recognition of Arbor Day, the club made arrangements through the Board of Education and John Campbell, a local landscape architect, to plant a tree at the school.

Those attending the ceremony included Roy Fortin, assistant principal of the High School; Campbell; and Garden Club members.

The tree which has been selected for this year is a pin oak (Quercus palustris). This is a medium sized tree that is noted for rapid growth, hardiness, and ease of transplanting. They are easily recognized by their pyramidal shape, continuous central stem, and fine horizontal branching which makes it good for shade.

The gift of a tree each Arbor Day by the Charlevoix Garden Club will assist in completeing the already established overall landscaping plan for the High School. It will be carried on with Campbell's help. Any other organization interested in contributing a tree should contact Campbell.

The first Arbor Day was held April 10, 1872 in Nebraska. As a result of the efforts of Mr. J. Sterling Norton, a newspaper publisher, the State of Nebraska offered prizes to the groups or individuals who planted the most trees. The people of Nebraska planted more than a million trees on that first Arbor Day.

Almost every state in the United States and many provinces in Canada celebrate Arbor Day. Michigan observed it's first Arbor Day in 1885. The date of observation varies in the different states, but most northern states celebrate it in April or May.

Arbitration Panel Named for Dispute

Robert G. Howlett, Chairman of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, announced the appointment of Dean S. Eugene Bychinsky as chairman of the arbitration panel in the current collective bargaining dispute between the County of Chalrevoix and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Dean Bychinsky is to head the panel created pursuant to the Police-Firefighters Arbitration Act.

Dean Bychinsky is Dean of the School of Technical and Applied Arts, Ferris State College, Big Rapids, Michigan. Prior to becoming Dean at Ferris State College, he was corporation of the Bulldog Electric Company and served as General Manager of the Chrysler Corporation Electrical Division. Dean Bychinsky is a member of the panel of arbitrators of the American Arbitration Association and the Michigan Employment Relations Commission. He is an engineer and a lawyer, having graduated from the University of Michigan College of Engineering and Law School.

The County of Charlevoix has designated Peter Patterson, Esq., as its delegate to the panel. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has named Paul Gully as its delegate to the panel.

No Tennis, City Closes Courts For Three Days

Charlevoix City Councilmen decided Monday to lock-up municipally-owned tennis courts this weekend as a warning to those who have been abusing the facilities.

And they say if things don't improve, they'll either close them permanently or start charging a fee to play tennis under supervision.

The sudden action came last night after Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace told council about the difficulties neighbors are having with tennis players going on their property.

"I feel very strongly something must be done," she said.

She said those using the courts have been disrespecting private property owners' rights and in many cases haven't even been asking the owner's permission to chase stray balls.

"Something has to be done," she said about receiving numerous complaints from area residents concerning behavior at the courts.

Mayor Ed Hansen said he had no question about the problems that have been occuring since the courts opened up this spring.

"The only thing you can do is shut them down," he said.

"We can't afford to have a policeman standing up there."

Mrs. Wallace said while there were alot of children ringing a neighboring property owner's doorbell to get a tennis ball, there were others who were just climbing a fence and in some cases walking through houses unannounced to get to the backyard.

Hansen again repeated the only thing to do was close them down for three days and if the problems continue--close them down for four.

"You have to be firm," he said.

"You have to lean on them."

The councilwoman added that neighboring property owners have taken all kinds of verbal abuse and have no privacy.

"It's not the school kids who are the offenders...at least not the supervised ones," she said.

Councilman Robert Timms said that the city was the one who created the problems and now they're going to have to be the ones to end it.

He suggested that perhaps the city will have to start charging a fee with an attendant to supervise the tennis area.

After further discussion, the council decided to close the courts Friday, Saturday and Sunday as a warning to court users.

In the meantime, the council said they will check with a Traverse City fence Co. to see about putting a dome over the courts and 16-feet high fence to prevent balls from leaving the area.

Mrs. Wallace added that she hoped none will retaliate.

Bike Law Considered

Riding a bicycle in Charlevoix may eventually require a license and rear fender sticker.

While no final action was taken Monday, Charlevoix City Council is considering a bicycle ordinance that would require a yearly license.

The ordinance, if approved would be applicable when operating bikes on any city street or public path and would require every city resident to have a license for his bicycle.

It would also require each bike to have both a front light and rear reflector, as well as a warning device (bell or horn), brake and lock.

The ordinance would forbid riding a bike on a sidewalk in the business district and allow only one person on a bicycle at a time.

Violation of the ordinance would result in a $25 fine or removal of the license sticker for not more than 60 days.

Council tabled the ordinance last night until the police department had a chance to review some more material on bicycle programs.

Boyne City's National Mushroom Festival Gets Underway Early Saturday Morning

May is traditionally mushroom month in Michigan and there should be "good hunting," this weekend in Boyne City.

Morels--the tastiest of mushroom morsels--are the main attraction at the National Mushroom Festival that starts Saturday morning at 9 a.m., with registration at the shelter in Boyne's Memorial Park.

Some 300 mushroom seekers, from as far away as Florida and California participated in last May's hunt sponsored by the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to prizes for the sharpest eyed pickers, there is expected to be a mushroom dinner in the evening.

Among the more than 2,000 varieties of wild mushrooms, morels fall into a classification all their own of a gourmet delicacy with a unique flavor unlike all the others.

LIKE ALL mushrooms, however, Morsels require somewhat specific conditions of moisture and temperature. A warm spring with plenty of moisture is best while a dry, cold spring usually means failure of the crop. Although they can be found from late April through June, May is considered the peak month. As for locality, there's good hunting in both southern and northern Michigan.

All species of Morels found in Michigan have one distinctive characteristic in common: their caps, or tops, are pitted with little hollows. Nevertheless, they are extremely elusive sprouts even to the most experienced eye because they blend so astutely into their background of last fall's leaves and dead grass. For this reason, the hunter should be prepared to do a considerable amount of hiking in pursuit of his prize. And, don't expect a seasoned hunter to direct you to good hunting ground. Such information is definitely, "top secret."

THE BEST guide for the novice is a good book that provides pictures as well as descriptions of the edible and poisonous species that the amateur is most likely to encounter. As for equipment, about all that is needed is a basket, knife, a comfortable pair of sturdy walking shoes or boots and a lot of patience. A paper bag can be substituted for the basket but plastic bags are taboo. Morsels packed in airtight plastic will begin to spoil before you arrive home.

It may come as shock to some, but mushrooms of any kind are better unwashed. If this violates your culinary code, be sure to dry Morsels thoroughly on paper towels after washing.

To prepare, cut off the stems at the base of the caps and slice the caps lengthwise. Then, saute them in a generous amount of butter or margarine about five minutes on each side. DO NOT HEAP the Morel halves, just cover the bottom of the skillet. Morels may also be creamed, stewed, canned or dried.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO CONFIRM SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

A hearing to confirm a special assessment district as required by the Inland Lakes Level Act will be held Tuesday, June 11, 1974, at 9:00 A.M. in the Circuit Court for the County of Antrim, Bellaire, Michigan.

Such a special assessment district is deemed necessary and appropriate to properly fund the necessary construction, maintenance and administration of water level control structures and appurtenances in order to maintain the court-ordered lake level entered in Cases No. 962 and 1180.

The Court will be asked to confirm a special assessment district to consist of the following parcels of land:

a. All taxable land in the County of Antrim, including incorporated areas therein;

b. All riparian parcels of land on Skegemog Lake, Torch River and Torch Lake in Clearwater Township of Kalkaska County;

c. All riparian parcels of land on Elk and Skegemog Lake in Whitewater Township of Grand Traverse County;

d. All riparian parcels of land on St. Clair Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting waterway in South Arm Township of Charlevoix County; and

3. All parcels of land owned by Michigan Department of Natural Resources which have frontage on Elk Lake, Skegemog Lake, Torch River, Torch Lake, Clam Lake, Lake Bellaire, Intermediate Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting lakes and waterways.

Students Take Trip

Islanders Make A Visit

Have you ever thought about living on an island?

Students at Beaver Island Community School can't imagine living anywhere else.

But even those who think Beaver Island is the greatest place in the world, like to get off once in a while.

So some 60 students from Beaver Island Community School packed their bags last week and jammed into the Beaver Islander for a visit to the Mainland.

Coming to Charlevoix wasn't really anything new for them, but this particular visit seemed exciting.

Perhaps it seemed like a thrill because a visit to the mainland for a couple of days meant getting out of school.

But on the surface, at least, the Beaver Island students were excited because the trip meant being able to see some things they normally don't see near their homes.

"We plan on learning about the fire station and places like that," exclaimed eight-year-old Nancy Wagner while getting off the boat.

Huddled among a group of her class mates, the girl said she was looking forward to a visit.

"We come sometimes in the summer to get grain and sometimes to visit our grandparents," she said about the occasional visits her family makes to the mainland.

Ten-year-old Kevin Green says he's interested in seeing a farm.

"We have a dairy farm on the island, but it's not like those on the mainland."

Both Nancy and Kevin say they like the island more than anywhere else because it's so much quieter.

Tod McDonough, a quiet seven-year-old, wasn't too sure what he wanted to do.

But, Lynn McCafferty wanted to make sure that she saw a farm.

"I want to see the dairy farm and how they milk the cows."

Those in fourth grade and under were supposed to visit a farm and tour the Charlevoix area, while students from fifth to tenth grade continued on by bus to visit Lansing and Greenfield Village.

And those in eleventh and twelfth grade went on to Ohio to visit an Air Force Museum and Kings Island.

Even 18-year-old Karen McCafferty, who graduates this spring, says that while the trip will be fun she wasn't interested in moving from the island.

"I think it's a wonderful place," said the one-time Chicago resident.

"It's a close community and people are so friendly...it's just a nice place to live."

BEAVER ISLANDER

BEAVER ISLAND students got a few days out of the classroom last week to take a field trip on the mainland.

Notice to Telephone Customers of Proposed Rate Increases

For Michigan Bell Customers:

Michigan Bell Telephone Company has filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission an application to increase its rates and charges. Along with that application the Company also filed its direct evidence upon which the application was based. The application states, among other things, that the revenue produced by existing rates is unreasonably and unjustly low, and that to meet rising costs, to prevent future shortages of communications facilities and to maintain top-quality service, the Company requests rate increases and changes in service offerings which would produce an earnings level of 9.58 percent on its intrastate investment and additional revenue from its intrastate operations in the amount of $111.4 million, based on 1973 operating results.

Notice of Hearings

The Michigan Public Service Commission will hold public hearings on the application of Michigan Bell Telephone Company for a rate increase. The hearings are to determine whether, and to what extent, the existing rates, charges, and service offerings should be altered because they provide either an inadequate or excessive level of earnings to the Company.

The changes proposed by the Company are subject to approval by the Commission after public hearings. The Commission may approve different service offerings or rates which may be higher or lower than those proposed.

The dates and places fixed for the hearings are as follows:

1. A pre-hearing conference will be held on June 4, 1974 at 9:30 a.m. in the offices of the Commission, Law Building, 525 West Ottawa, Lansing, Michigan 48913. The purpose of this hearing will be limited to identifying intervenors and their interests, to establish a schedule of further hearings beyond those established by the notice, to agree upon procedures, to discuss the issues involved in the company's application, and similar matters.

2. The first hearing will be held on June 13, 1974, commencing at 9:30 a.m. at the Bonifas Civic Center 225 North Twenty First Street, Escanaba, Michigan. An evening session will be held at the same location, commencing at 7 p.m. the same date. A further hearing will be held on June 17, 1974, commencing at 9:30 a.m. in the first floor banquet room, Veterans Memorial Building, 151 West Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan. An evening session will be held at the same location, commencing at 7 p.m. the same date. Another hearing will be held on June 19, 1974, commencing at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the Law Building, 525 West Ottawa Street, Lansing, Michigan. An evening session will be held at the same location, commencing at 7 p.m. the same date.

Persons desiring to testify or make a statement of position may do so at the above hearings or at subsequent hearings in Lansing without formal intervention.

3. Hearings will continue on June 24 at 9:30 a.m. in the offices of the Commission, Law Building, 525 West Ottawa, Lansing, Michigan 48913 for the purpose of cross-examination of the company's witnesses. Such hearings will continue from day to day thereafter or on such adjourned dates as the Hearings Examiner may set.

Persons intending to petition for leave to intervene in this case shall file an original and 11 copies of a petition to intervene with the Commission at least five days prior to the date of the first hearing on June 4, 1974 in accordance with Commission Rules of Practice and Procedure.

Subparagraph (2) of Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure Before the Commission (R 460.21) provides as follows:

> "(2) A petition to intervene shall set out clearly and concisely the facts supporting the petitioners' right or interest, the grounds of the proposed intervention, and the position of the petitioner in the proceeding, so as fully and completely to advise the parties and the Commission of the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted." (Emphasis added)

The Commission will require strict compliance with the above-quoted rule.

Persons filing such a petition to intervene may request from the Company a copy of its direct case. Persons filing petitions to intervene subsequent thereto will be required to take the case and schedule as they find it at the time of their intervention.

Michigan Bell Telephone Company filed copies of its direct testimony and exhibits showing the proposed new rates, with the Michigan Public Service Commission on April 23, 1974. Interested persons may examine that material during business hours in the offices of the Commission, Fifth floor, Law Building, Lansing Michigan 48913 or at any business office of Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Effect on Customers

The changes in rates, if approved as proposed, will effect residence and business customers as follows

1. Proposed increases on basic residence flat rate services range from $1.15 to $1.85 per month, except for 1-party Metro service, which would increase by $2.50 per month, and Wide Area Local Service, which would increase by 75 cents per month. The local message charge for Wide Area Local Service would not be changed, but for Metro service the charge for usage in excess of 25 hours per month would increase from 3 cents to 4 cents per minute.

2. The basic monthly charge for 1- and 2-party residence Budget Services would not be changed. The calling allowance on Budget Service would be reduced from $2.25 to $1.50 per month, and the charge for each local call would be increased from 4.5 cents to 5 cents.

3. Proposed increases in basic 1-party business flat rate services range from $3.25 to $3.85 per month, and increases on business flat rate P.B.X. trunks range from $4.85 to $5.75 per month. Proposed increases on rural and suburban business services range from $2.00 to $2.10 per month.

4. The basic monthly charge on business measured rate services would increase by 75 cents, and the local message charge on those services would increase from 5 cents to 6¼ cents each. The basic monthly charge for business 1-party Metro service would increase by $2.50 and for business Metro P.B.X. trunks by $4.30. The local message charge for business Metro customers would increase from the present 7 cents to 8¼ cents each. For semi-public coin services, the monthly charge would increase by $2.20.

5. Charges for all keyless instruments furnished with business services, including the first one on the line, would be increased by 15 cents per month.

6. The basic service charge for Centrex systems would be increased by 10%. The monthly charge for each Centrex Dial Terminal would increase 75 cents on measured rate services and 90 cents on flat rate services. Centrex Dial Terminals on Metro services would increase by $1.25 each per month.

7. Charges for Interzone messages for both business and residence customers would increase by 20%, except for customer-dialed calls from coin telephones, which would remain unchanged.

8. Non-recurring charges for installation, moves and changes of telephone service and equipment would be increased by 25%, except that the Original Provision of Service Charge would be reduced from $15 to $12.50.

9. Key and P.B.X. Equipment would increase an average of 14% with individual items of key equipment ranging from 10% to 16%. Individual items of P.B.X. equipment would range from 10% to 31%.

10. Monthly charges for residence extensions would be increased by 30 cents, for Trimline® sets by 15 cents and for Princess® sets by 10 cents.

11. Proposed increases for toll calls within Michigan would range from 1 cent to 8 cents per minute for operator-handled calls, with the larger increases applying to those calls covering longer distances. The existing 20% and 40% discounts for customer dialed calls would continue to apply.

12. The monthly charge and 60% call discount for Budget Toll Dialing Service would remain unchanged but proposed increases for toll calls within Michigan would apply proportionately to Budget Toll Dialing Service.

13. Monthly rates for WATS, INWATS and TWO-WAY WATS would be increased approximately 16%.

14. For General Mobile Telephone Service, the mobile equipment charge would be increased by approximately 24% per month. The terminal usage charge for mobile calls would be increased by 20%. The basic service charge and the local message charge would receive the same increases as proposed for regular business measured rate telephone service.

15. Type I intercommunicating systems would range from a reduction of $1.80 to an increase of 55¢. Type II intercommunicating systems would range from a reduction of $10.50 to an increase of $14.00. Changes for certain other optional features associated with intercommunicating systems would range from a reduction of $3.35 to an increase of $2.45.

16. Charges for all other telephone services and equipment, not specifically shown above, would be increased by 23.6%, except that no increases are proposed for the following services and equipment: mileage charges, Private Line telephone service, connecting arrangements, Secretarial switchboards, Speakerphones, services designed for use by handicapped persons, non-listed telephone numbers and certain new services and equipment which have been introduced during 1974.

More information about the above changes will be given to all Michigan Bell Telephone Company customers by mail. If after receiving this mailed information, you have any questions regarding it, please call or visit your local Michigan Bell business office.

Commission jurisdiction in this matter is pursuant to Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 13 and 21 of Act 206, P.A. 1913 as amended, M.C.L.A. 484.101 et seq.; Sections 3 and 4 of Act 419, P.A. 1919, as amended, M.C.L.A. 460.51 et seq., Sections 1, 4, 6, and 6a of Act 3, P.A. 1939, as amended, M.C.L.A. 460.1 et seq., Chapter 4 of Act 306 P.A. 1969, as amended, M.C.L.A. 24.201 et seq., and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Administrative Code, Supplement No. 54, R 460.11.

This notice is published pursuant to Commission Order

For customers of Telephone Companies other than Michigan Bell:

In order to have uniform long distance telephone rates throughout Michigan, all other telephone companies operating in Michigan concur in the long distance rates established for Michigan Bell.

Accordingly, any changes in Michigan Bell's intrastate long distance rates, charges, and service offerings approved by the Commission, including those proposed in items 11, 12 and 13, will also apply to customers of telephone companies other than Michigan Bell for long distance service within Michigan.

The attention of customers of other telephone companies is directed to the Notice of Hearings and those matters pertaining to long distance service set forth in the information to Michigan Bell customers.

Details of the proposed changes in long distance rates, charges, and service offerings proposed by Michigan Bell are available by calling or visiting your telephone company business office or any Michigan Bell Telephone Company business office.

SOME 60 Charlevoix County residents got out of bed a little earlier Friday morning to eat breakfast with State Senator Robert Davis and Rep. Ralph Ostling in Charlevoix. The informal session was to give local residents a chance to ask their legislators about local problems concerning them.

Davis-Ostling Breakfast

Officials Mull Problems

Charlevoix area residents got a chance to have breakfast with their state representatives Friday morning.

But, that's about all they were able to do with State Senator Robert Davis and Rep. Ralph Ostling at Leutheuser's Restaurant--have breakfast.

The two state officials briefed the group of 50 residents on several major issues, but there apparently wasn't much time to get too involved with much detail.

Senator Davis told the group that the majority of his time recently has been spent on the budget and energy crisis.

Anticipating a $2.75 billion budget this year, he said that the proposed increase is substantially less than any of the four years he has been in the Senate.

"The most pressing problem and the one that takes most time are energy related matters," he continued.

Rep. Ostling said he has been working on both a tax relief bill on inventory tax, as well as campaign reform legislation.

He said he voted against the last bill in the house because it actually weakened the existing law.

The state representative said he favors legislation that requires the reporting of all campaign contributions no matter what the amount is.

In terms of land use legislation, Davis said he doubted that anything would pass this year.

"In my opinion that land use legislation will probably not pass the legislature in 1974," he said about House Bill 5055.

Davis said that while there is a need for land legislation, it is a very complex issue that requires careful study.

He expressed a particular concern about keeping as much local control as possible.

"I think this is an important problem and I think it is something we are going to have to do," he said.

Ostling agreed with Davis and pointed out the necessity for not rushing the legislation through, citing how the present Land Sales Act has had to be revised twice already before taking effect.

County Commission Chairman Bob "Ira" Davis asked Davis if he was in favor of the state taking over District Court.

"At this point, I don't know," Davis said.

"I want to know how you feel first."

Davis said the proposed legislation was in the house now and that he hasn't had a chance to see it.

Ostling said that out of the 10 counties he represents, he has received eight resolutions against state take-over.

But at the same time, Ostling said both lawyers and judges associations say they want it.

"Despite how we vote, I think that the vote is going to go because of the urban areas," Davis said.

He said they would like the judges to get $33,000 a year.

Charlevoix Supt. James McKimmy asked why the state was considering to put teachers under an employer retirement plan (local district), instead of the present state plan.

Davis explained that private industry has been doing this for some time and that the state has already been doing it with state employees and the Michigan State Police.

He said that since they are already doing with the two groups at the state level it will be difficult to change.

"The derived benefit to the teacher is that he won't have to pay income tax on it," he said.

But, he said it will cost the local school districts more money.

"I don't believe it will be as serious as the local school districts think," he said.

"What chances do we have for taking the food and drug tax off?" asked one resident.

Davis said he thought it looked doubtful.

Railroad Abandonment Threatens North Area

Charlevoix County Planning Commissioners plan to continue their attack against a federal proposal to eliminate Northern Michigan rail service.

At its Thursday meeting, the commission said they plan to attend the public hearing on the federal proposal in Traverse City on May 20 and 21 in the Government Employees Credit Union, 120 Beaumont-st.

Having already attended a public hearing in Detroit in March, the commission said they're concerned about the loss of rail service.

A report issued Feb. 1 by the U.S. Transportation Department claims that virtually all of the present railroad service and right-of-way in the northwest region is "excess" and therefore expendable.

All but the Chesapeake and Ohio Line as far north as Manistee could be abandoned, under the report's proposal. Among excess lines would be the Penn Central route through Cadillac, Petoskey and Kalkaska to Mackinaw City, the Ann Arbor Railroad line from Owosso to Frankfort and its cross lake ferry service and the C & O track from Manistee through Thompsonville, Traverse City and Charlevoix to Petoskey.

The Traverse City hearing is one of four more scheduled throughout the state after many local residents complained the Detroit hearing was too far away.

At the last commission meeting, Charlevoix County Planner William Mercer told how at least four major industries would use the rail service more, but that they can't depend on it.

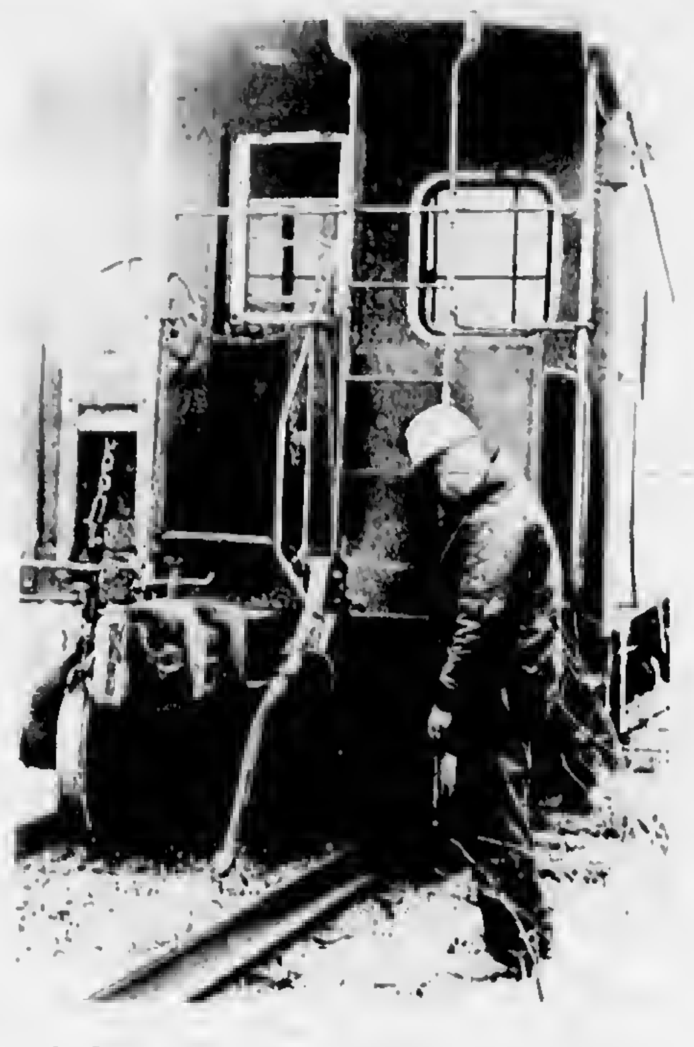
When confronting the federal proposal, he suggested the commission stick to a position of what is going to happen to the area if rail service ceases. He said the crux of the problem would be a switch to trucks which would cause a problem on the present road network.

Planning Commissioner Art Steinbrecher said some industries see some massive requirements that couldn't be serviced without rails.

The former power company general manager said that while there is a lull in real estate now, it is beginning to level off.

And as growth continues in the area, Steinbrecher said utility construction can only be met with some equipment being brought in by rail.

"I think there are some problems with railroads," he said.



A C&O train partly derailed just outside Charlevoix Thursday afternoon. Turn to page 18 for more pictures and details.

But, the planning commissioner said while some trackage may have to be eliminated, the area will still need some.

He suggested that the more dense populations support railroads now existing in some of the leaner areas of the state.

"We do that with our postage system," he said.

"I see no reason why we can't do it with transportation."

Commissioner Tom Wieland said it seems a shame to eliminate the railroads.

Planners Take Honors

Charlevoix County's Environmental Features Survey has just earned the county national recognition.

The study, recently completed by the Charlevoix County Planning Department and Johnson, Johnson and Roy of Ann Arbor, won a national award for its excellence.

The American Society of Landscape Architects gave it a Merit Award, which is the highest award a study can receive.

Gov. William Milliken also recently praised the county for its efforts in doing Michigan's first environmental inventory.

The 37-page document filled with transparent overlays of environmental features is an early warning system to help township and city zoning boards to evaluate subdivisions and zoning proposals.

Grandvue Finds A Friend

Elderly Get $8,500

Grandvue Medical Care Facility residents discovered last week they had a friend they never knew about, but it's too late to thank her.

The former East Jordan resident died a year ago.

However, last week, Grandvue found itself with $8,455 from the late Mrs. Ursula Crawford French.

When she decided how to distribute her estate after her death, Mrs. French named Grandvue as the "residual legatee", which means that Grandvue received what was left after the estate was settled.

So last week, Basil Crawford, administrator of the estate, presented a check to Mrs. Hilda Watson, Grandvue superintendent.

The money, which can be used at the discretion of the facility, will probably go towards construction of a patio once the proposed addition to Grandvue gets underway.

Mrs. Watson said part of the money may also be used for a supervised residential room for ambulatory patients.

"I think this is one of the nicest things that has ever happened to the patients of Grandvue," the facility administrator said.

She explained that while the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners have given them everything they have ever requested, there are some things that add to a patient's comfort and cannot be bought with tax dollars.

No one is quite sure what motivated Mrs. French into making such a move, but friends close to her say she had a lot of interest in Grandvue.

"She was just a quiet little old lady who had lots of relatives and friends," Crawford said about his aunt.

PROBATE JUDGE John Murphy was present when Basil Crawford (right) presented a check for almost $8,500 to Mrs. Hilda Watson, Grandvue Superintendent.

Don't Forget About Public Institutions

Too often public institutions like Grandvue Medical Care Facility are over-looked as potential beneficiaries when wills are drawn up.

Such was not the case of the late Ursula Crawford French of East Jordan when she decided how to distribute her estate after her death.

Mrs. French named a number of beneficiaries -- but she also named Grandvue as the "residual legatee", which means that Grandvue received what was left after the estate was settled.

Last week, Basil Crawford, administrator of the estate, presented a check for almost $8,500 to Mrs. Hilda Watson, Grandvue superintendent, as the residual of Mrs. French's estate. The money is to be used at the discretion of the facility in a manner that will benefit patients.

Attorney Madeline Dinu, who handled the estate, believes that more county residents should be made aware that institutions such as Grandvue should be remembered in the wills of more county residents.

We heartily concur. In a time of rising costs, it is extremely difficult for public care facilities to provide essentials, let alone the little extras that make life worth living.

Mrs. French's bequest is a living memorial to both herself and her late husband, William.

We are hard pressed to think of an institution more worthy of your consideration when you draw up your will than Grandvue Medical Care Facility -- the place so many of our senior citizens spend their twilight years.

North Needs Rails In Order To Survive

A federal proposal to eliminate virtually all rail service to Northern Michigan poses a serious threat to this area's economy.

The Department of Transportation study, which was quietly released in February, would have Northern Michigan rail service eliminated because of the low volume of use compared to larger metropolitan areas.

What the study fails to acknowledge is the fact that many present rail users would take more advantage of railroads if they were dependable.

Several local industries have already said that requests for more cars in the area were ignored and as a result they had to use trucks.

But perhaps even more important, is what will happen to Northern Michigan growth and development without rail service in the future.

Besides just esculating already high soaring construction, some industries say they couldn't even consider expansion plans without rail service.

We join the already growing numbers of Northern Michigan businessmen and governmental officials in protecting the proposed railroad abandonment proposal.

But just criticizing the move is not enough.

Both area businessmen and residents should plan on attending a public hearing on the abandonment program scheduled on May 20 and 21 in Traverse City.

The hearings will be held both days in Government Employees Credit Union on 120 Beaumont St..

Parking To Be Aided

Charlevoix City Council should be praised for its decision to establish a building authority.

Hopefully, once the authority is set up, the city will be able to do something about parking conditions in downtown Charlevoix.

The three-man authority will have the power to acquire land and construct parking lots, which will be leased to the city, with financing derived from special assessments on downtown parking meters.

Gaylord has already proved how successful and beneficial a move in this direction can be.

Our only hope is that the council's decision is not too late to solve the city's parking problem.

Amesty Is Now Urgent

Dear Editor,

The Vietnam war was one about which people disagreed violently, yet by the time of the cease-fire it was supported mainly by Carl McIntyre and the White House Plumbers.

Amnesty is now an urgent issue precisely because the war was so traumatic for the body politic. The need to rebuild the democratic process, allowing for dissent and full participation by dissenters, is the primary reason why unconditional amnesty should be granted.

All of those nearly a million young citizens are cut off from the political and economic life of the country by exile, felony conviction, AWOL status, or less than honorable discharges.

They are being punished for asking what came to be the majority position on the war. Their "crime" at issue here is premature morality.

The situation of active-duty GIs in regard to conscientious objection is particularly appalling. Those who suggest that the only GI dissenters are the ones who happened to apply for discharge under military CO regulations simply do not understand the pressures of military life. The military did not even provide for conscientious objection until 1962. During the war years between one-half and two-thirds of CO applications made were rejected.

The case for amnesty rests on three propositions: amnesty is needed to rebuild a seriously divided body politic; those in need of amnesty took positions now accepted by a substantial part of the population; and those in need of amnesty had and have no legal remedy.

Amnesty is the appropriate legal remedy in the current situation.

While it is true that there has never been a general amnesty for draft resisters in the U.S., precedent is of very limited value in determining policy. The real question is: SHALL WE CONTINUE TO DENY FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS TO NEARLY A MILLION WAR RESISTERS WHOSE OFFENSE WAS TAKING A POSITION WHICH MOST OF US NOW BELIEVE MAY HAVE BEEN RIGHT? (And we have not granted forgetfulness if we force resisters to work for the state for two more years to "atone.")

Speak up for Unconditional Amnesty.

Taxes Not Up 20 Percent

Rt. No. 3
Charlevoix, Mich.
49720
March 12, 1974

Charlevoix Courier
Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720
Attn: Bob Clock

Dear Bob:

I read with interest your editorial in the Courier last week entitled "Hike in Assessments Means You'll Pay More."

You proceed to say that "The increases appear to average about 20 percent– "and– "of course, millage rates won't drop–". I really don't follow you on this because in general, although expenses are up, i.e. school salaries; etc., they have not, I believe, gone up 20 percent in this single year.

Assume for the moment that expenses, salaries, etc. have risen this year in the neighborhood of 10 percent (higher than the national rate or even the inflation rate), their tax income should have only had to have been raised about 10 percent. Or putting it another way, if the assessment rates are up on the average 20 percent, the millage rate should show up at a reduction of about 10 percent, to net out taxes at only the additional 10 percent required.

If in fact however the local taxing bodies have raised their budgets and expenses 20 percent in this single year (over the national average), then it would be important for the citizens of Charlevoix County to realize this-and possibly to raise some concrete objections-as otherwise farmers, home owners, and local businessmen will be priced out of existence in Charlevoix.

Yours,
Steward Boal

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

There is nothing lonelier than a business office in the pre-dawn darkness before the staff arrives for the day.

During my years with the Petoskey News-Review and later as editor of the Courier, it was my lot to work the graveyard shift at the PNR office in Petoskey preparing newscopy for the typesetters. I usually would arrive about 5 a.m. and have the office to myself before Jerry Martinchek, who runs the darkroom, arrived at 6 a.m. to process film. We would exchange a few prefunctory comments and Jerry would retire to his little lab.

At 6:30 a.m. on the dot Sports Editor Fred Lovelace arrived. More "hullo's" and a few derogatory comments about the weather. At 7 a.m. Editor Jim Doherty and Wire Editor Jerry Rosevear hover on the scene and it was more of same. No one said very much.

It wasn't until Mrs. Betty Bader, women's editor, breezed in the front door at 8 a.m. with a cheery, "Good morning, Everybody!" that the office came to life for the day.

I would like to tell you a few things about Mrs. Bader, a mother and grandmother who holds down a full-time job and loves every minute of it. I guess you could call this sort of a Mother's Day tribute to Betty.

Most Charlevoixans are familiar with Mrs. Bader through her column "Banter With Betty" which appears regularly in the News-Review. The column is a surprise because you expect her to deal with such girlie stuff as recipes and women's clothes, but she doesn't. And I guess that'w what makes Betty so refreshing.

One day she'll tell you how to make soap. The next day it might be soup. But the third day! Hang on to your hats, boys, because she might be lambasting the powers-that-be over shoddy treatment of old folks in governmental offices.

Or she might take on the Catholic Church over abortion reform, although she is a Catholic herself by conversion..

Or you might find another installment of her one-woman war on the tunnel-vision of the John Birch Society.

You wouldn't expect a plump, motherly women's editor to wade into such topics with so much gusto, but she does it time and again with so much effectiveness that she's on the outs with half the people in town at any given time.

The former Betty ScheideMantel was born in Detroit April 21, 1919, into a show-business family. Her dad, Karl, was an actor, musician, director, script writer and Vaudeville son-and-dance man all his life. He played in the original stage production of Ben-Hur.

Her mom, Dorothy, was a legal secretary by trade but also was a superb dancer and skater, although she never did much dancing or skating after she married Karl because, oddly enough, he didn't want to have a "show girl" bride.

As a youngster, Betty belonged to a Kiddie Troupe, a popular form of entertainment in the days of Vaudeville. Betty sang and danced across many of Detroit's old theater stages and even went on tour once in northern Michigan, but she doesn't recall just where. She does know that her dad played in Petoskey in 1913.

Her dad also introduced the first "fun house" mirrors to the United States. They're the mirrors that make thin people fat, fat people thin and everyone funny looking. He bought them in Europe. One set ended up in Buffalo, N.Y., and the other at Detroit's old Waterfront Park at the foot of East Grand Boulevard.

Betty was married to Jack Bader in Highland Park in 1940 and by the time the family moved to Muskegon with the B.F. Goodrich Co. in 1945, the Baders had two children, Kathryn, born in 1943 and baby John.

Fredric arrived in Muskegon in 1947 and Dorothy in 1954.

The following year Betty had triplets — Thomas, Jeanne and Robert — the first triplets born in Muskegon's Hackley Hospital. The press made a big to-do of the event, but Betty and Jack took the whopping addition to their family in stride.

Today John is assistant plant manager at Holland Hitch in Holland, Mich.; Fredric is about to receive his Ph.D. in microbiology from the University of Minnesota and will become an assistant professor at the University in September; Dorothy is a student at North Central Michigan College; Robert is a student at the University of Michigan; Jeanne works in the office at Petoskey Floral and Thomas spent the winter working in Florida.

The Baders also have had their share of tragedy. Kathryn, their first-born was killed in 1961 in an auto accident in Muskegon on her way to church.

How can a family withstand such a blow?

"It is something you learn to live with," Betty says simply..

Betty and Jack are now grandparents to Karl and Edward, John's sons, and Fredric Jr., Fred's little heir-apparent.

Although Mrs. Bader thoroughly enjoys the hours she spends at her desk at the News-Review, she is a homebody at heart. She is a superb cook and likes nothing better than having her brood home for a family dinner.

Mother, grandma, newswoman, chef, dishwasher, civic crusader. Betty wears many hats. And they all fit.

Says Nixon Innocent Until Proven Guilty

Mr. Robert Clock
c/o Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Dear Mr. Clock:

Most of the conservatives are neither pro or con concerning Mr. Nixon's dilemma, but we would like to see the standards of fair play applied to him as are applied to any other President we have had. Watergate is no coverup, it will be exposed. In the meantime under our court system a man is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The Democrat administrations have been nothing but coverups. I broke away from the Democrat Party after the Second World War because of Roosevelt & Truman's sell out of the whole of Eastern Europe, and China, to the Communists. This is what I call a real coverup and also a complete sell-out of almost a billion fellow human beings.

Another Democrat coverup or sell-out concerns approximately two million anti-communist Russians at the end of World War II who refused to return to their homeland. As reported by Editor Shearer in the March 3, 1974, edition of Parade magazine," between 1944 and 1947, however, the U.S. and Great Britain in one of the most heartless and shameful moves in history secretly agreed to their forced repatriation. Most of these two million Russians were executed or died in Stalin's prison Camps."

The effort by one man, Julius Epstein, who has worked for 20 years on this sordid story was commented on by Alexander Solzhenitsyn. In his new book "The Gulag Archipelago," which Harper and Row is publishing in the U.S. in May, Solzhenitsyn writes; "I make bold to convey thanks from the mass of those who perished as well as from the few who survived" to Julius Epstein, who has worked 20 years on this one story.

Epstein's efforts are fully documented in his new book "Operation Keilhaul". "The Story of Forced Repatriation" published by Devin-Adair. The Yalta agreement of February 11, 1945, was a coverup or death warrant to millions of people.

Solzhenitsyn also writes in the March 3, 1974, issue of Parade magazine "In their own countries, Roosevelt and Churchill are honored as examples of Statesman like wisdom. To us, in Russian prison discussions, their systematic shortsightedness and stupidity stood out as astonishingly obvious".

Another coverup was the betrayal of anti-communist Cubans otherwise called "The Bay of Pigs", and the Bobby Baker case. These are but a few of the coverups that the Democrats have been involved in, but the cost of these shameful deeds will only be known to God himself.

So you see, before you liberals try to remove the motes from the eyes of others, you will have to remove the beams (or logs) from your own eyes.

The liberal news media in our country has evidently been engaged in the biggest coverup in history. The loss of life or freedom, to them, doesn't seem to be newsworthy. I would suggest that they get off their behinds and start digging for culprits in the liberal woodpile also.

When the American public hears about "Operation Keelhauls", twenty-five years after the thing happened then there is something wrong with the news media. Can it be that our liberal news media has a personal philosophy to peddle, so that it dishonestly covers up the great failings of that philosophy rather than perform their duties as Newsmen."

The liberal politicians deplored the "guilt by association" term used by Senator McCarthy during the 1950's, but they evidently think it is alright to use in their campaigns today. I think the Republicans better get rid of the cry babies within their party and use the same tactics until the opposition is willing to campaign on basic issues, which are numerous, and, for which urgent solutions are sought.

While the President has support among many groups in this country, including religious groups, do you think that unbridled hate as you seem to have

If it Fitz

Less We Forget Our Enemies

You have probably worried about the employment problem faced by the U.S. military specialists who used to count dead enemy bodies in the Vietnam war.

It is only natural that the American public has lost interest in the number of North (or was it South?) Vietnamese killed. The war continues but, after all, we are no longer doing the killing in person. We still supply the guns but somehow it's just not the same thing when you don't pull the trigger yourself. Did John Wayne conquer Iwo Jima by parcel post?

But remember, Lest We Forget. Just because we no longer care how many enemy are killed, we shouldn't forget the heroic job of arithmetic done for us during those precarious days when it had to be done. We at home awoke every morning secure in the knowledge we would learn today exactly how many enemy were killed yesterday. And it was never a sloppy job. General Precise never announced "around 1,000 enemy died yesterday." He said "today's body count was 1,563 enemy soldiers, 543 unfriendly civilians who got in the way, and 15 Communist arms and legs not otherwise identified."

No patriotic American could help but admire the precision of General Precise and his counters. It was not easy to go into battle with a hand calculator instead of a rifle. It was not easy to make certain an enemy body, no matter how limp, was not recorded as dead until it really was.

Just because the body count is no longer necessary to our national survival, patriotic Americans should not forget the counters. We should be concerned about how they are getting along today. Other than working for the Auto Club on holidays, there's not a big demand for body counters in civilian life.

That's why I was so tickled to learn about Operation Sanguine. That's the Navy project that aims to bury a vast antenna under 3,000 square miles in northern Michigan. The antenna would be part of a radio communication system that would send messages to our nuclear missie submarines sailing at great depths anywhere in the world.

The idea behind Sanguine is beautiful. If the Russians push the big button first, they could wipe out the entire U.S. before we could push back. Our only survivors would be our submarines but they'd be so far underwater they wouldn't know what the dirty Russians had done. The problem is how to notify the subs so they can push their nuclear buttons and destroy Russia. Thus 2 nations would be razed for urban renewal, Planned Parenthood chapters could cancel all meetings, and the world would be safe for Democracy.

Operation Sanguine is the answer.

Right now the Pentagon is having problems with citizens who don't want the antenna grid buried in their neighborhood. Tests have shown that Sanguine waves cause mutations in fruit flies. No one wants hunchbacked fruit flies buzzing around his bananas.

But the Pentagon insists it will prevail. $60 million has already been spent on the project and it would be a crime to spend that much money without ever blowing up even one nation.

Naturally, General Precise and his commissioned counters have been active in Operation Sanguine. If the project is a success, there is going to be a mess of bodies to count. A job that size takes a lot of advance planning. It requires the same sort of precise logic that went into naming the operation.

Sanguine, in case you lost your dictionary, means "the color of blood."

Meet Charlevoix:

Meet Mayor Ed Hansen

Charlevoix's Ed Hansen has sometimes been called the "controversial mayor." He speaks his mind and doesn't mince words about his feelings on a subject.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier presents some of the mayor's views from a recent interview conducted by its editorial staff.

The 55-year-old mayor was first elected to the Charlevoix City Council in 1957, where he served for six years and never missed an official council meeting.

He was then appointed to the Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board and served for eight years.

Then in April, 1972, he began the first of three terms as Charlevoix's mayor.

Hansen was born and raised in Charlevoix. Following graduation he took numerous courses in business administration and is now owner and operator of a local service station.

He and his wife, Joan, have eight children and live at 101 W. Lincoln.

COURIER: Charlevoix City Council recently gave the go ahead for the establishment of a building authority to create more parking. What do you think the building authority will accomplish?

HANSEN: I visualize the building authority as being the avenue through which plans and more particular, funding of downtown parking will be pursued and accomplished to fulfill the needs and wishes of the businessmen that have studied and have been the moving force to establish the authority.

COURIER: What can residents expect to see from the authority?

HANSEN: The first phase is the waterfront area between Clinton and the Sundew docks, which is intended a retaining wall be constructed and the area improved and metered for parking. It is my opinion that this area metered will give the authority a good indication of how much the parking is needed.

COURIER: What happens after the first phase?

HANSEN: The general plan of the regional planning commission is to establish considerable parking between Bridge and State street. Displacing some buildings generally behind the Bridge street stores. I think it will be developed as the need is actually established.

COURIER: When will the first phase begin?

HANSEN: We are at this time, exploring all possibilities of grant money to aid in construction the retaining wall. I think the wall is quite necessary to get the thing started.

COURIER: How does this year's proposed city budget compare to last year?

HANSEN: It is proposed that the operating millage will be nine mills, which will generate about $188,550. The proposed budget for the general fund of $489,257 is a $109,000 increase over last year's general fund budget mainly made up by contributions from the electrical fund and revenue sharing.

COURIER: What will the majority of the budget go for?

HANSEN: Your large items are the increase in labor and materials calculated at 10 percent.

COURIER: Are any new programs begin proposed in the budget?

HANSEN: Actually, the new substantial program will be the waterfront or marina. And there's considerable street monies budgeted that were not used last year because of the mild winter. We underspent last year's proposed budget by some $53,000.

COURIER: You recently established a recreation committee with the advise and consent of council. What will its function be?

HANSEN: The function will be to study and evaluate the recreation program and advise the council of their findings and make recommendations.

COURIER: Has there been some problem with the present program?

HANSEN: Well, not particularly. It's a matter of approach. Some people want to expand the recreational program.

COURIER: How do you feel?

HANSEN: The recreation program is nearly 30 percent of our property tax.

COURIER: Do you think that is too much?

HANSEN: In my opinion, there could be a lot more accomplished by volunteer participation. In actuality, there could be a lot of these people screaming for recreational programs could be spending their time on a citizens basis rather than have government needing to guide them in what they would do with their spare time from cradle to the grave. It bugs me that people have to go out and tell people how to spend their leisure and how to do it.

COURIER: Why are the Charlevoix City Council meetings so long?

HANSEN: Most of the meaningful work of the council is over in an hour and a half or two hours. However, many times discussions get far afield on various items and issues that normally would be fairly well worked out in committee.

COURIER: So why don't you, as presiding officer of the council, cut the conversation off?

HANSEN: Probably one of the most time consuming and maybe sometimes frustrating duties is that the members of the council or members of the public attending the council meeting have a right to be heard even though there will be no determination made on the subject at the council meeting or in many cases ever. One of the disturbing things is that the public doesn't realize that just because the suggestion has been made means that items will be acted on. The public apparently doesn't understand that numerous items at all levels of government die in committee.

Letters to the editor

Mrs. F. L. Beutner

Charlevoix, Mich. 49720
March 2, 1974

Dear Mr. Clock:

I'm writing a sort of family history, tying it in with changing environmental factors over the last hundred years. It's probably not quite enough like Peyton Pince to be published, but if you wish to use these local vignettes, here is one, and welcome.

ORDEAL IN A SURREY

By Louise H. Beutner

My grandfather, Alaxander Bush of East Jordan, took part in two cycloramas of American history, the gold rush and the Civil War. He arrived in California too late for the best gold, came home with enough for a wedding ring, and no more.

He married Nancy Jane McCormick of Dixboro, Mich., in 1860, enlisted two years later in the 20th Michigan Infantry, engaged in five campaigns, and was captured at the Battle of the Crater, being one of two men left alive out of the nine color-guard. The next few months he spent in Danville Prison in Virginia.

It was a relatively humane prison, and he had a job in the commissary, but afterwhile he grew restless, tired to feign illness, but was not successful enough to have himself exchanged as a sick prisoner. The prison doctor said, "What you've got is homesickness!" And that was that.

However, a bribe of money he had sewn in his jacket was sufficient, and he went in an exchange back to the Union side. From Washington he traveled on home which then was Dixboro.

As he neared his place he saw shiny rigs and people in black clothes in the yard--the funeral of his first child, a son, was just over. The child had died, and in the confusion of Washington he had had no word.

When his leave was up he returned to duty and was made a captain just before the war ended.

One might suppose his quota of crises was complete, but such was not the case. There was a series of children in the next years during which he moved first to Saginaw, then to East Jordan where he associated with a man named Wilson to Build a lumber mill on Lake Charlevoix near present baseball park.

The mill made barrel hoops and assorted woodenware, did well during the years before the turn of the century until metal hoops replaced wooden ones. Finally, about 1903 a glare was thrown up to the clouds above the lake. The mill burned in the middle night, and Kit Carson told me that he remembered how the boiler exploded and sailed clear across the lake.

However, the incident of my father and the surrey was well before this time. Nancy Jane, my grandmother, was a good household administrator, but inclined to emotionalism where her children were concerned.

My father, her youngest, was sent to Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, which then was a boys' academy. In arithmetic class my father finished before the others and made diversions with paper-wads and sail-planes that kept the other pupils from their work, so he was ex-

Eat and Grow Younger

Most Past-40 Diets Neglect Essential Vitamins-Minerals

By LELORD KORDEL

Minerals rank with protein as the most neglected, haphazardly obtained nutrients in our "civilized" diet, and more especially in the diets of persons past 40. Protein and minerals are so closely linked that to advise you to eat plenty of protein, without stressing the need for equal care in obtaining a full quota of minerals, would be to tell only half the Eat-and-Grow-Younger story. That is why my second nutritional commandment is "Minerals without fail."

Protein and minerals are the chief actors in the nutritional drama, while vitamins play a secondary, although essential, role needed to set other substances into action. To neglect any of these three food elements wrecks the nutritional drama.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, noted authority on diseases of older persons, stated: "The foremost nutritional defects in the mature and aging are calcium, iron and protein. Fully 75 percent of the men of 60 suffer a lack of one or more. On the other hand, many suffer dietary excesses, notably carbohydrates and possibly cholesterol."

CALCIUM-IRON IMPORTANT

Calcium is so important an ingredient of blood that your bloodstream will attempt to maintain its calcium level, even though it has to rob other body parts of their vitally needed calcium. That is why, in many older persons, the bones, robbed of their calcium by the blood, become fragile, resulting in easily fractured arms, legs and hips.

Your nerves, your heart, your teeth, your brain cells, your blood—all need sufficient calcium to remain healthy, and to function as nature intended.

An inexpensive and convenient way to obtain added calcium in the diet is through the use of powdered skim milk. This dry milk provides needed calcium and protein along with many trace minerals — less the fats which are wisely limited during the later years.

It is Dr. Crampton's belief that a deficiency of iron is nearly always present in the "uncared-for person in the higher-age brackets."

He says that the typical person of 60 is anemic, iron-poor and body-poor—unnecessarily so. Insufficient hydrochloric acid in the gastric secretions is a common cause of iron poverty in the older body.

THIRD COMMANDMENT

My third commandment—"Vitamins in their rightful place."

The constant need for vitamin-rich food in your diet is an oft-told tale, and one which I shall not repeat here. Yet there are two facts about vitamins which you may not know, and which deserve to be included here.

The first little-known fact is that proteins and vitamins work together. The chemical agents called enzymes, that do the greatest part of the digestive work for your body, are all made of protein. Certain of these protein enzymes actually take part in your body's use of its vitamins, while certain vitamins affect the body's production of protein enzymes—a sort of "mutual aid society."

In other words, you can't expect the vitamins in your food (or the vitamin-mineral supplement you take) to give you all the benefits you expect from them, unless you also provide your body with ample quantities of protein foods each day.

Nutritional science has learned that successful vitamin therapy depends upon the presence of adequate high-proteins in the diet. Your vitamin needs should always begin with a high protein diet.

Fruits and vegetables may appear fresh and green in the market, yet be grossly lacking in vitamins, and minerals as well.

MAY LACK VITAMINS

Therefore, unless you grow your own fruits and vegetables on properly fertilized soil — or can purchase them from farms and gardens containing carefully enriched soil to your certain knowledge — there is every possibility you are not obtaining in your food all the vitamins and minerals needed to keep you looking and feeling young.

In that event, the safest course is to supplement your Eat-and-Grow-Younger diet with a vitamin-mineral concentrate. For my own use I have found the formula called Nutri-Time to be an ideal vitamin-mineral food supplement.

Carefully planned meals plus added vitamins and minerals in concentrated form, provide the best way to make certain that vitamins and minerals are "adequate" in our diet. And adequate they must be, if you don't want your Eat-and-Grow-Younger program to bog down.

New Restaurant Opens Thursday For Charlevoix's Dining Group

A bit of Europe becomes a part of Charlevoix Thursday with the opening of a new restaurant –Tres Bon.

Owner Bill Adams calls it an experience in European Cuisine.

"The restaurant is designed to service people in a very relaxed atmosphere similar to Maxwell Plums of New York, featuring french cuisine," he said about the restaurant.

Located at 217 Bridge, the elegantly designed eating place will feature such dinner specials as Steak au Poivre, Rock Lamb Bouguerière, and Madaillon de Boeuf Provengal.

During May, Adams says his restaurant will serve dinner seven days a week, then in June, he will offer breakfast from 7:30 to 11 a.m. and lunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

At breakfast, you will be able to choose from three exotic egg dishes and 20 varieties of crepes, while lunch will include a variety of European cuisine.

Adams, who moved here a year ago, used to be a Birmingham businessman connected with the steel industry.

A Michigan State University graduate, he has participated in golf tournaments across the United States, as well as being a power boat driver in unlimited ocean racing.

Adams says his restaurant is something he always wanted to do because he thought a resort area like Charlevoix deserved the best in dining.

He offers a little bit of himself in the eating place because he designed and built it himself.

Patrons will particularly appreciate the private dining areas towards the front of the building, as well as the secluded dining loft.

Almost completely paneled in barnwood, the restaurant has both art work and plants hanging from the walls.

Also along the side walls are small soft lights in candleholders, as well as a large crystal chandelier hanging from the ceiling.

The dining area seats 82 people with the small green and blue tables situated throughout the restarant.

Another attractive feature is the large skylight and hanging greens you see almost immediately towards the rear of the building when you walk in.

To insure the ultimate in dining, Adams has employed Dominique Panton from Paris, France as his chef.

Panton most recently worked at the Desert Inn at Los Vegas.

THE RESTAURANT has several private dining towards the front of the building, as well as a balcony overlooking the main dining room.

TRES BON will be opening for the first time this week. One of the unique features of the restaurant is the elegant furnishings in the dining area.

Dale Boss Announces New Insurance Agency

Dale Boss, who has been in the insurance business for 21 years, is forming a new insurance agency in Charlevoix.

The former Boss Insurance Agency of Charlevoix will now become The Village Insurance Agency.

And Boss says to better serve the area, he has formed a partnership with Don Blalock, who previously had been with a major insurance agency in Charlevoix.

Blalock has been in insurance for two years and before that was in industrial sales in the Detroit Automotive industry.

He attended the University of Detroit and took courses in both business and marketing.

He and his wife, Kristin, have two children.

Boss said the insurance agency offices are located in the Village Milk House at 206 W. Lincoln until the new offices at 1206 S. Bridge are completed this summer.

He is the owner of Maxbauer Dairy, Michigan Brand Product Distributorship and a house rental.

He is a life-long resident of Charlevoix and with his wife, Marilyn have five children.

Both Blalock and Boss as independent insurance agents will handle Kemper Insurance, Pinehurst State Mutual and Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance.

They are also a member of National Association of Life Underwriters.

DALE BOSS(right)announced he was taking on a insurance partner, Don Blalock, to form the Village Insurance Agency in Charlevoix.

Common Cause Plans Meeting For Monday Night To Discuss Major Legislative Reforms

Common Cause is having an open meeting for all interested residents Monday, May 13, 7:30 p.m. at the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Margaret Duerr will moderate a panel discussion of Common Cause issues: Political campaign reform, legislative reform on state and national levels, and other issues which Common Cause has successfully lobbied for nationally and in Michigan.

Douglas Melvin of Petoskey, Common Cause Coordinator for the 11th Congressional District, Ms. Ellen Allen, Petoskey, local Common Cause member monitoring the progress of public campaign financing bills, and Sara Gay Dammann, Charlevoix, former chairperson for the 11th District will form the informal panel.

The discussion will be preceded by a movie, covering Common Cause activities from its lobbying efforts in Washington, D.C., to Common Cause lobbyists working with legislators in Washington, and the base of the organization, people in their own communities working to reform and strengthen the stystem.

Common Cause is a citizen's lobby, open to all, non-partisan, and reform oriented.

Garden Club Winners Named

Youngsters To Display Drawings In Downtown Stores

SECOND GRADERS who won include Tammy Boggs, Kristie Scharseh, Brett Steen, Garrett Cooper, David Knepp, Mike Ford and Anne Vanderstelt.

Charlevoix Elementary students will be displaying their anti-pollution posters in downtown store windows the next few weeks.

The posters are from the annual Anti-air pollution poster contest sponsored by the Charlevoix Garden Club.

Second, third and fourth graders were awarded first and second place prizes in each of their classes for their efforts.

Second grade winners were Betty King, David Knepp, Ann Vanderstelt, Brett Steen, Garrett Cosper and Tammy Boggs.

Those in the third grade getting awards included Mike Baer, Kathy Leymon, Christine Spiels, Sandy Lashmit, Julie Murdick, Steve Schmidt, Craig Kloster and Mike Fels.

Fourth graders taking honors include Salley Westenbroek, Cindy Engler, David Staublin, Kelly Mathews, Joe Smith, Richard McLenon, Jennifer Juilleret, Debbie Cotton and Shelly Warner.

School officials said the poster contest coincides with the clean-up campaign designated by the Charlevoix City Council.

They said the project is aimed at making citizens more aware of the project.

FOURTH GRADE Winners were Sally Westenbroek, Cindy Engler, Kelly Mathews, Jennifer Juilleret, Shelly Warner, Debbie Cattan, Joe Smith, Richard McLenan and David Stablen.

THOSE IN the Third Grade taking honors include, Steve Schmidt, Christine Spieles, Sandy Lashmit, Julie Murdiek, Kathy Leyman, Mike Baer, Mike Fels and Craig Kloaster.

Ellsworth

Annual Meeting On June 10

Mrs. Anne Osterbaan
Phone 588-2433

Robert Gaunt, superintendent, reports the annual school meeting will be held on June 10. One school board member's term is expiring, that of Art Ruis. Petitions for nominating school board members can be had at the school office.

Members of the American government class went to Lansing Wednesday. Mr. Jack Gebott and 25 students made the trip. The trip was made possible, during this energy crisis, by the class, soliciting gifts from citizens and civic groups. Included in the trip will be visits with our area legislators.

The boys and girls track teams have been renewed and their third meet of the season was Wednesday at the Charlevoix track.

The baseball team split a double-header at home with Johannesburg. Monday. The Lancers won the first game 3-2 and lost the second game by a score of 6-3.

The Lancers will resume play on Friday at Boyne City in a double-header with the Boyne Falls Loggers. The next home game will be May 20 playing in Alanson.

The kindergarten round-up will be May 8 at the school from 1-3 p.m. and the pre-school vision program will be held at Central Lake May 19. More details will be given at the kindergarten roundup day.

Mrs. Margie Spence, who has served as elementary principal and third grade teacher, will be leaving the end of the week. She will resume her job in the fall. Irene Shooks will substitute for Mrs. Spence.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Timmer and children Tim and Marcy of Jenison were weekend visitors with his mother Elsie Timmer. Jim and Tim came up with a load of steel to be delivered in Petoskey.

Hazel Edson returned Friday from Grand Rapids. Her grandsons Tom and Randy Wynsma brought her home and went fishing while here. They caught some, too.

The village council members and their wives held a special meeting, Monday evening, having dinner at Johns. Special awards and plaques were given to four retiring council members.

Retiring are Marvin Wynsma for serving 17 consecutive years and 13 of those years as president, to Henry Ruis, for 17 years on the council 2 yenrs as president and 5 years as treasurer. Also to Grant Hastings for 17 years service nnd Maynard Alward for 20 years on the council. New members are Norman Perkins, Jay Essenberg, Robert Vollmer and Rev. David Willett.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Samuelson of Traverse City were guests of the meeting. Mr. Samuelson is a coordinator for the Community Service Company of Traverse City and his discussion with the council was on the possible low rent housing for elderly people in this community. There was a question and answer period after his talk.

According to Darwin Orcutt, council clerk, the council is interested in this plan and says further discussion will be held at the next council meeting.

Tuesday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vander Ark were Wanda Van Klompenberg of Zuni Mission, New Mexico, Rev. Jipping, Missionary to Argentina and Kenneth Oosterhouse teacher from Nigeria. They were speakers for the Atwood-Ellsworth womens missionary meeting held Tuesday in the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church.

At this meeting special music was given by Mrs. Keith VanderArk, Mrs. Larry VanderSlik and Mrs. Martin Rubingh, who sang "Whispering Hope."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl TerHaar of Wyoming were weekend guests of her brother Jake Timmer. They also visited Elsie Timmer and Anne Osterbaan. Ther Ter Haars and Elsie spent Monday morning in search of "Petoskey" stones.

The Ter Haars recently returned from a 10 day vacation trip to Europe. The purpose of the trip was to visit their daughter Linda, who since September has been teaching English in Germany. The school term there ends in July.

The 60 piece wind ensemble band, directed by our own Donald Drenth, now director of the South Christian High School Bands in Grand Rapids was well received and enjoyed by a good sized crowd Friday evening. Don paid a special tribute to his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit John Drenth and to Mrs. Hans De Young of Atwood, as his music teacher and to Mrs. Copeland, another former teacher. He dedicated his own arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" to them. With Don and his band was another Ellsworth graduate, who is also connected with the South Christian School was Louis DeJang son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William DeJang who was delighted to renew old acquaintences.

The members and friends of the local Chamber of Commerce had their annual meeting and supper Monday, April 22. A delicious meal, prepared by John and Agnes Klooster of John's Health Center, was enjoyed by around 130 people. (And naturally it had to be good). Election of officers was held and Leonard Strange, is the new president, Rev. Dave Willett, Vice Pres. Mrs. Bill Wynsma reelected Secretary and Rick Shooks, Treasurer. Other board members are, Doug Way, Don Heeres, Wayne Daining, Mary Taylor and Si Doctor, Jr., Retiring Board members are Henri Zacharias, Maurice Foster and Chester Drenth.

Retiring president Zacharias, presented Gerrit John Drenth a plaque, as Gerrit has now retired from active business life and was also thanked for his support in the past. Rev. Brosslet of the Atwood Reformed Church led in prayer and thanksgiving.

Kiwanis Club Has Good Syrup Drive

The Maple Syrup season ended in Charlevoix with the Kiwanis Club producing a little less than 300 gallons for the 1974 season.

Proceeds from the sale of the syrup will go to the Kiwanis Youth Programs.

Two of the newest members are Ray Giffin, pastor of the Congregational Church and Ivor Menzies.

Eighth Graders Given Second Place Rating

By Fran Martin

The Charlevoix Eighth Grade, appearing under the direction of Gary Stutzman, in state competition at Clare Saturday, received a II rating.

It marked the first time a Middle School band had advanced to the State Festival.

A II denotes an excellent performance with several minor imperfections.

Stutzman said the judges were complimentary about the band's performance and that the comments of the judges were basically the same.

The sight reading judge, Henry VanderLinde of Holland Christian High School, was complimentary in his remarks about the young band. Sight reading, Stutzman explained, is one of the toughest parts of the festival.

In this phase, students are asked to play music they have never seen.

Stutzman described the music as a "bear...a real toughie". He added that he was satisfied with the band's performance but disappointed for the students.

Other judges were David Catron, director of the Michigan State marching band, Gene Salamony of Tawas and president of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, and Royden Swaffield of Battle Creek Pennfield.

The Charlevoix band was among 17 junior high groups at the Clare site and among eight from District II.

In conclusion, Stutzman said he felt that this was a good experience for the young musicians.

The Charlevoix band played at 10:50 a.m. and remained to listen to other bands before beginning the trip home. Enroute they had dinner at Grayling, courtesy of the Band Boosters.

Chaperones were Mrs. Arnold Loper, Mrs. Norman Helms, Mrs. Oliver Johnson, Hans Weimer, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Lundteigen, Mrs. Neil Jones, Mrs. Norman Cook, Mrs. Stutzman, Geri Stanko and C.A. Odmark. Drivers were Bud Heeres and Larry Hull.

Charlevoix Spring Festival To Be Held Next Tuesday

The annual Spring Music Festival featuring the music departments of the Charlevoix High School and Middle School will be held next week at the high school gymnasium.

The Middle School music department, under the direction of Gary Stutzman, will kick off the festival at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 14.

Representing the Middle School in the festival will be the Eighth Grade Band which returned from its first State Festival Saturday with a II rating; the Seventh Grade band, a group of 85 young musicians who recently took part in the district festival; the Sixth Grade beginners band which began instrumental training in January; the Sixth Grade selective chorus, a group that meets on its own time to practice; the Fifth Grade vocal ensemble which will present numerous selections and a guitar class which will present a progress concert.

Also appearing on the program will be the newly-formed jazz ensemble which will perform at the Jazz Festival to be held in Boyne City Saturday during the annual Mushroom Festival.

Parents and friends of the band are encouraged to attend the festival Tuesday, May 14, at the high school gymnasium.

The Charlevoix high school section of the Spring Festival will be held at the same site on Thursday, May 16.

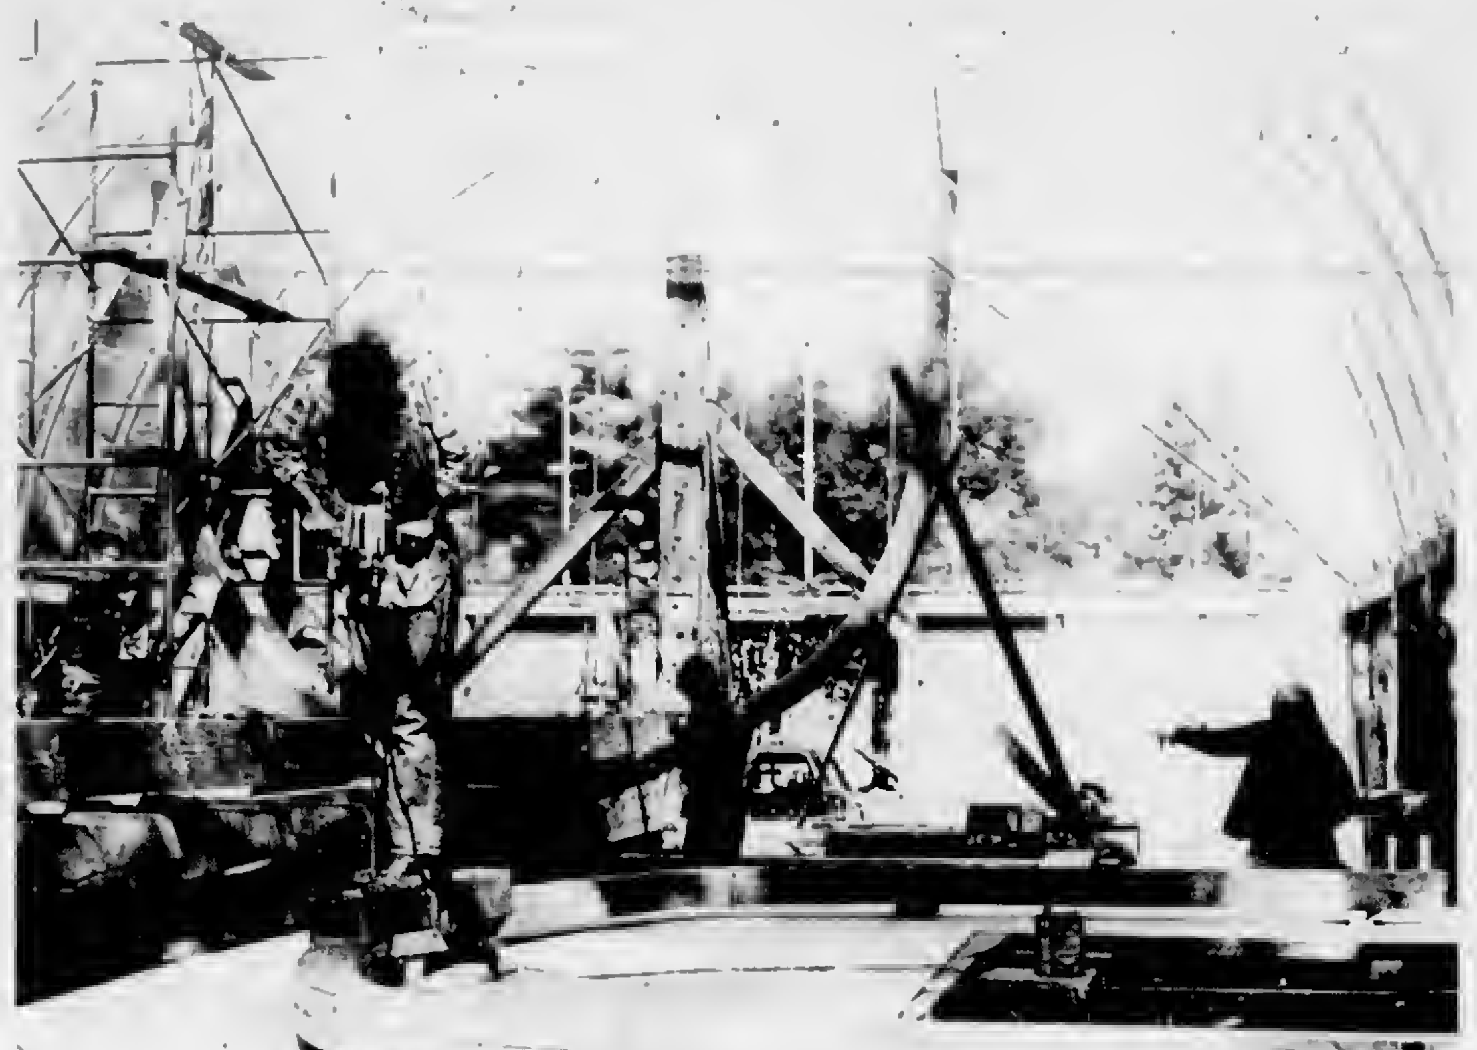
"The Welcome"



THE "WELCOME" is being built for this summer's Bicentennial Celebration. Working on the frames last September (from left to right) were Ken Starr, Rick Wiles and Chester Hard.

DAVE ARMOUR (left) of the Mackinac State Park, and Ted McCutcheon of McCutcheon's Boat Works in Charlevoix look over the "Welcome's" progress in September, 1973.

Looking Back Two Centuries

IRON ENFORCES the knees between the deck beams and the frames.

MAIN TRANSOM

LAST OCTOBER the main transom was still only ropes and boards.

The Photographer

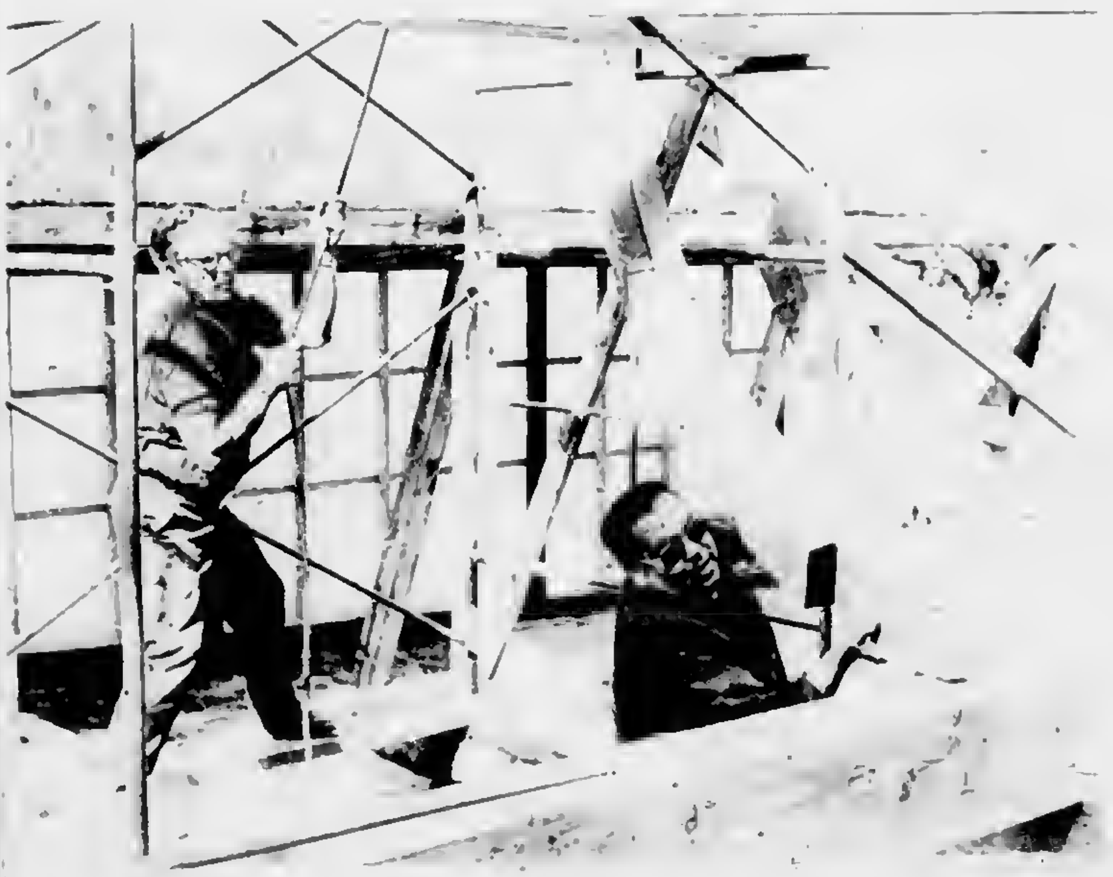
Doug Severson of Harbor Springs is a freelance photographer now working in Northern Michigan.

Before moving here last summer, the 23-year-old photographer attended Colby College in Waterville, Maine and Northwestern University near Chicago.

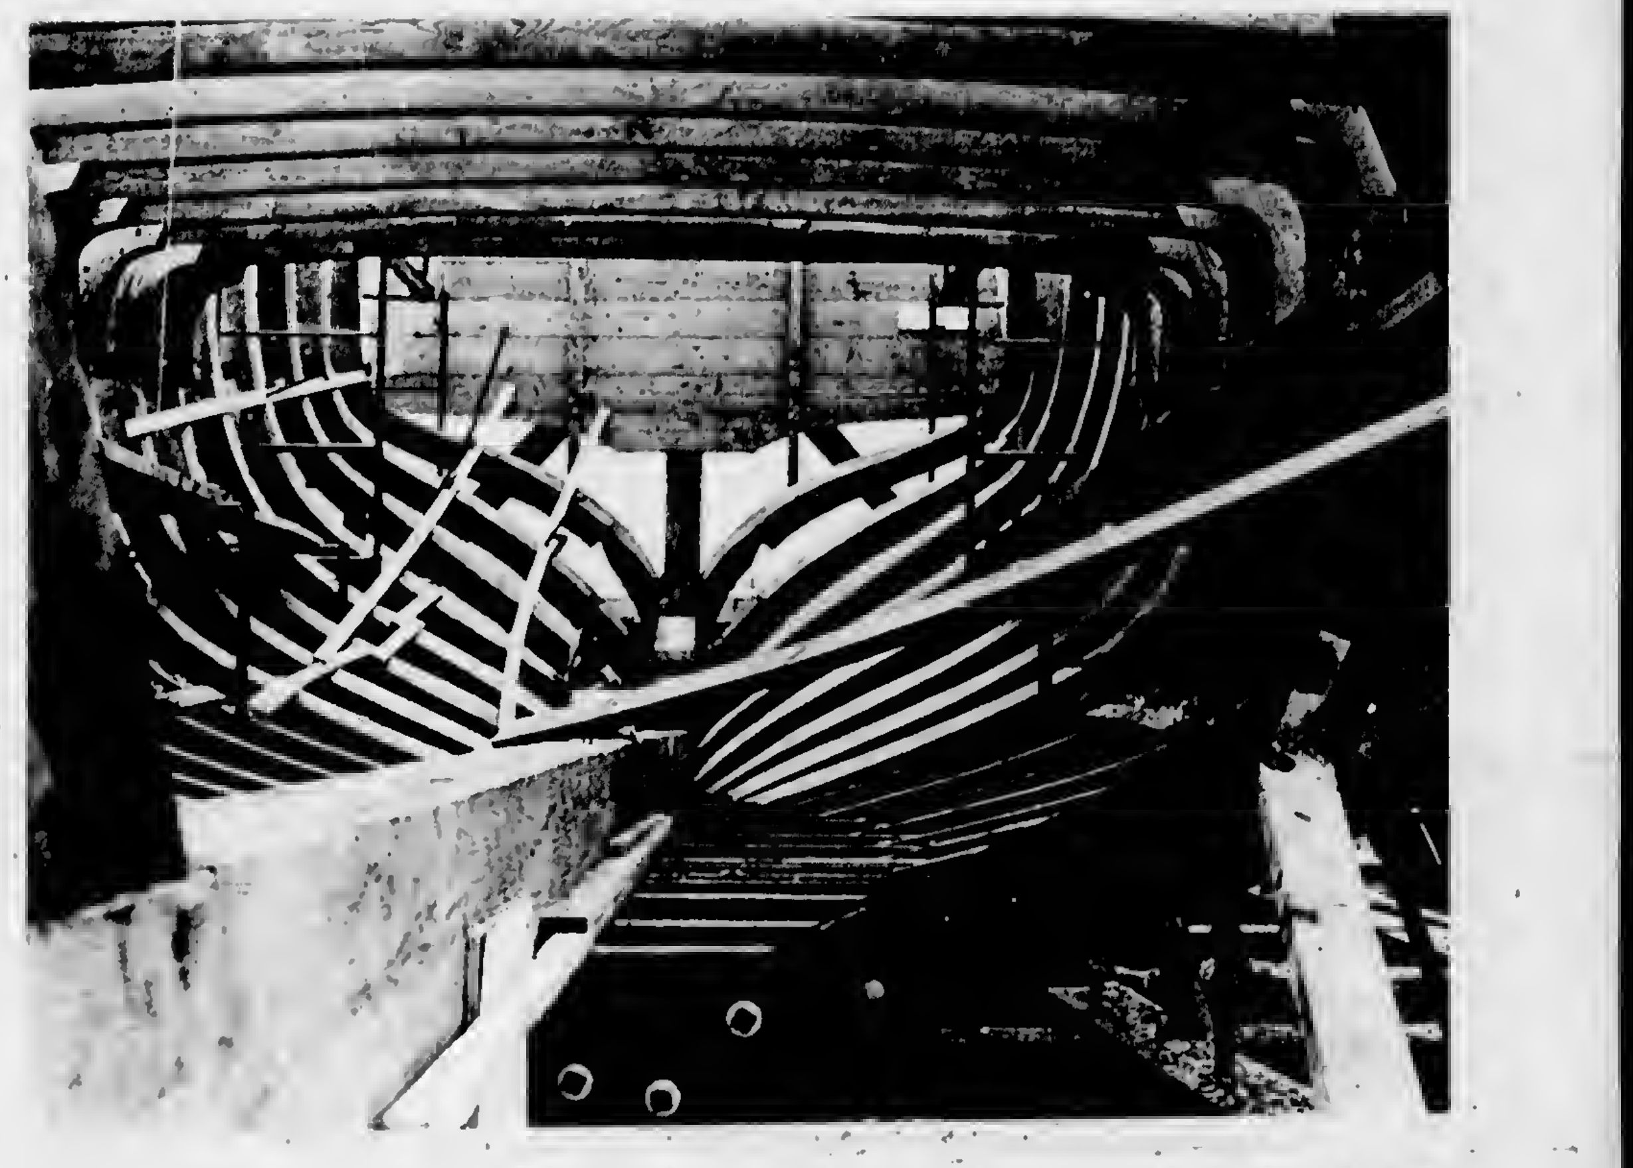
He minored in photography and has attended numerous workshops including the Evanston Art Center in Illinois and Visual Studies Workshop in New York.

Raised in Deerfield, Illinois, Severson has had his work appear in Colby Darkroom Associates, a university publication; National Fisherman and Lakeland Boating magazines.

His work has also been on display in Winnetka, Illinois; Petoskey; Mackinaw City; and Waterville, Maine.



KEN STARR and Dean Lewis heave one of the main frames into place. Each of over twenty frames had to be painstakingly installed in its spot along the keel.



LOOKING TOWARD the stern, this view shows the curving pattern of the framework now (mid-December) nearly completed. Above, the deck beams have been put in place between the frames and made secure by the "knees" (curved pieces of wood between the deck beams and the frames).

New Rental Service

Your Troubles May Be Ended

If you have ever tried to rent a house or apartment in Charlevoix, you'll understand what Craig Richter is trying to do.

For some reason, it seems almost next to impossible to find a rental residence that you don't have to pay tourist prices for.

And even more than that, it seems almost impossible to find someone who knows where there are even any places to rent.

So, Ski and Shore Properties have decided to do something about it.

They've hired Craig Richter to set-up a new professional management division.

According to Richter, the purpose behind the division is to assist property owners in renting their properties during the summer and winter months when they're not in use.

"We're going to do more than bring the property owner and renter together," says the 27-year-old management expert.

He said that a property owner will be able to get as much or as little service as he wants.

Some of the services Ski and Shore will be offering is 24-hour desk service, monthly statements and advertising.

"It's pretty much of a full service thing," he explained, indicating that they could even provide maid service to change the sheets once a day if the property owner wanted it.

Richter said they decided to make the special division because there are not too many Northern Michigan firms that specialize with a complete division in property rental management.

Richter's office, which just opened, is located in the Weathervane Terrace.

Smith Promoted to Sergeant By Ingham County Sheriff

Ingham County Sheriff Kenneth L. Preadmore has announced the promotion of Joseph D. Smith to the rank of Sergeant in the Ingham County Sheriff Department's Training Division. The new sergeant is the son of Mrs. Wilma Smith of Charlevoix, Michigan and is a graduate of Charlevoix Public High School.

Sergeant Smith's formal education includes a Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State University with a major in Criminal Justice Administration.

He has also attended a number of specialized training courses including: "Modern Police Management Methods" at Michigan State University, "Police Officer Stress and Leadership" at Hillsdale College, and "Police Instructor Training" at Oakland Police Academy, Oakland Community College.

Sheriff Preadmore explained that Sergeant Smith's duties will include the development and presentation of in-service training for the Department's 120 sworn officers, and public relations appearances for the Department as well as being an assistant coordinator for the Mid-Michigan Police Academy.

Sergeant Smith also serves as an instructor for the Academy's recruit schools and teaches subjects such as Patrol Techniques, Police Report Writing, Mechanics of Arrest and Detention, Firearms, Self-Defense, Pursuit Driving, and First Aid.

Sergeant Smith has been with the Department for six years and has worked as a Corrections Officer, Patrolman, and Training Officer. He presently lives in Holt, Michigan, is married to the former Patricia Shapton, and has one son.

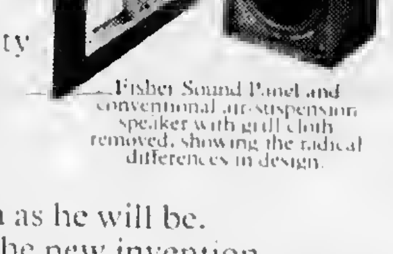
Come and see the high-fidelity loudspeaker that isn't a box.



Fisher Sound Panel and conventional air-suspension speaker with grill cloth removed, showing the radical differences in design.

Not a box. Not a cabinet or some other type of bulky furniture.

The Fisher Sound Panel is a high-fidelity loudspeaker in the shape of a painting.

Shown above as it might hang in your living room, the Fisher Sound Panel is designed to provide the hi-fi buff a quality component his wife will be as delighted with as he will be.

Come into the store, if not just to hear the new invention, at least to feast your eyes on it.

While most favored the program, since it would provide local police with an opportunity to get in the school, several questioned how adults would react to a licensing program on a yearly basis.

In other business, the council:

–Tabled action on adopting a national flood insurance program that would allow federally subsidized insurance to be sold in flood prone areas until consulting an insurance agency.

--Appointed Gordon Wellman, Max Novak and Hans Wiemer to the Charlevoix Building Authority for three, two and one year terms respectively.

–Reappointed present city officers with one decenting vote. Councilman Fochtman said he thought the city did not need an assessor.

--Decided not to accept recommended salaries of $9,100 for the city clerk and $1,210 for the mayor from the compensation commission.

–Approved new daily dock rates as follows: 20 ft. and under–$2.50; 21 to 30 ft.–$3.50; 31 to 40 ft.–$5.50; 41 to 50 ft.–$5.50; 51 to 60 ft.–$9; 61 to 71 ft.–$12; and over 70 ft.–$15. Half price in May and Labor Day to Sept. 30.

–Hired Kraag Lieberman as dock master for $135 and Warren Belding as greenskeeper for $8,500 contract from April to October.

Movie To Be Shown May 12

A Thief in the Night is a mighty motion picture about Bible prophecy. It shows what can happen when Jesus Christ returns.

A Thief in the Night, a new color film, will be shown at the Charlevoix Assembly of God church on May 12 at 7:00 p.m.

This exciting story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present, with little concern about the future. What happens when this thinking finally catches up with her provides an action packed, unforgettable drama.

The fast moving pace includes a young man confronted by a deadly Asian cobra, a young girl's daring escape from jail, and a take-over by "The Imperium" that regards all, "who are not properly identified, as enemies of the system."

Filmed on location in Iowa, this picture portrays with devasting reality the Biblical prediction, "There will be no place to hide." One does not merely view this film, he experiences it.

for him is Christian doctrine? You mention a private religious school in Northern Michigan who actually trucked some of their students down to the thumb area so that the youngsters could catch a glimpse of President Nixon. Then you say, "I'll never be able to explain that one and I'm glad I don't have to."

Judd Arnett said it best in his column several weeks ago, "Why shouldn't the President be welcome to come to Michigan. He is still our President". I too am glad you don't have to explain it.

Thank you,

pelled.

Nancy Jane drove the surrey to Bellaire to fetch Charles off the Pere Marquette train. He expected she's lecture him all the way home, but all he got was silence, and my father knew this for a bad sign.

In East Jordan she drove not to their home but toward the millyard by the lake, straight through it into the water.

"I don't care if we drown," she cried, "you're such a bad boy!"

As my father told it, the water gurgled around the wheels and the horses, and his move was to climb on the seat, clinging to the side-stays and hanging to the fringe on top like a terrified monkey.

But very soon it sank in that she had turned the team and was driving parellel to the shore in shallow water. She knew what she was doing.

By the time the outfit was on the beach headed back to the millyard here was Alex running toward them; the men at the mill had found him somewhere and told him what was going on.

She told him Charles needed a lesson.

Alex was a mild man. He threw up his hands and let them drive home.

Somehow I doubt that a child psychologist would approve of Nancy Jane's methods. But I didn't know her, and can't say for sure.

Ask Senator GRIFFIN

By cutting through red tape, members of Congress can often lend a hand to those with problems involving the federal government. Through the columns of this newspaper, Senator Griffin answers questions of general interest. He will respond personally to all communications addressed to: Senator Robert P. Griffin, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

I prefer to travel by bus when I take a long trip. Since I've quit smoking I'm bothered by people around me who light up and blow smoke all over. Airplanes have special areas for nicotine addicts. Why not buses?

—M. M., Southfield

You may breathe a bit easier because the Interstate Commerce Commission has come to your rescue. As of this April, an ICC ruling allows smoking only in the back 20 per cent of seats on interstate buses. It is expected that the natural air flow in a moving bus will keep the smoke back where the smokers are. The ICC ruling does not apply, however, to buses which do not cross state lines.

I read where some of those government bureaucrats are taking it upon themselves to change the names of places on the map by "cleaning them up." For heaven's sake, don't let them change the name of the Grand Tetons—or my old home town of Flushing!

—W. K., Flint

The Grand Tetons seem to be safe! But map-makers at the U.S. Geological Survey do review local situations to see if especially offensive or derogatory names of places used in the past can be "cleaned up" as maps are revised. Survey officers blame many colorful names on the vivid imaginations of frontier adventurers, who sometimes named landmarks after parts of the human anatomy. For example, an Arizona mountain, which for years has borne the descriptive name of a part of the female body, has been renamed "College Peak." An Oregon meadow named for a house of ill repute has been redesignated the "Naughty Girl Meadow."

When a name is in common local use and residents don't find it offensive, there's no change on the map. Cases such as Willies Bottom, Kentucky, and Nakedtop, Virginia, are being reviewed. But for the foreseeable future, places like Hinky Dinky, Old Woman's Gut, and Goose Pimple Junction will stay on the map—along with your old home town.

Burgess Club Meets

Mrs. Thomas Maxwell
LI 7-2119

Burgess Extension Club. will meet Wednesday, May 8 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Karl Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Burnett, sr. returned to their home at Bay Shore, last Thursday, from Lake Tanasoffkee, Florida, where they spent the past three months. Enroute home, they stopped at Atlanta, Georgia, for her sister, Mrs. Ezra (Inez) Coy, who accompanied them home, to her home in Resort Township.

Mr. and Mrs. John Terman arrived here on Tuesday, from Longview, Texas, to spend the summer at their home in Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Grams, jr. of Bay Shore are the parents of a daughter, Lisa Marie, born April 27, at Little Traverse Hospital. She weighed five pounds and 15 ounces. Her brother Oliver III, is three years old. Mrs. Grams and daughter were released to their home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burke, returned home recently, from Jupiter, Florida, where they spent the winter.

Teacher Feacher

MISS PETERS has found a way to get her students interested in science. One of the most popular activities has been making rockets.

Rockets Make A Hit

If a theme were to be chosen for the life of this week's featured teacher, it would be that of "music." Miss Evelyn Peters, fifth grade music and science teacher, has spent most of her life involved in music.

Evelyn can play any instrument placed in front of her, but her main talent rests in trumpet playing. She loves jazz, and can often be seen at the park in the summertime playing trumpet in the City Band.

Her musical talents have given her the opportunity to play not only in Charlevoix, but in Petoskey where she played in the orchestra for the production of "Fiddler on the Roof."

How has she become so musically talented? Well, besides being musically active in high school, she majored in music at Northern Michigan University and student taught in Marquette and Negaunee.

Her first few years of teaching took place in Clarkston, Grand Blanc, Willow Run, and for the past four years, she has taught at the middle school in Charlevoix.

While teaching in Charlevoix, Evelyn has put on various musical productions, two of which were "White Gypsy" and "Tom Sawyer." The students still reminisce about how much fun they had putting on the operettas.

Presently, Evelyn is teaching guitar to a group of students after school, and will be teaching band this summer to those students planning on joining the high school band next year.

Besides teaching music, she is involved in an annual rocket project with her fifth graders. The students are studying space travel and are building model rockets. One class is even planning an astronaut breakfast!

Evelyn's interests lie not only in music and science, but also in sports. She has belonged to independent volleyball and bowling teams. She is also an excellent golfer and tennis player.

Yes, Evelyn is talented, and believes "all kids have hidden talents" and that "it is both challenging and exciting to seek these talents out."

DNR Seeks Approval For Snagging Rules

LANSING – The Department of Natural Resources will propose to the Natural Resources Commission in May that several additional streams be added to the list of Michigan streams open to salmon snagging in 1974 and 1975.

A short stretch of the lower Au Sable River, below Foote Dam, and a mile of the Pere Marquette River at Scottville would be included under the DNR proposal, as would sections of the Detroit and lower Huron rivers.

If the Commission approves the DNR proposal, the following streams (with additions capitalized) will be open to snagging in 1974-75:

–Manistique River, from Paper Mill Dam (US-2) to the river mouth; Manistee River, from Tippy Dam to signs approximately one mile downstream; AU SABLE RIVER, FROM FOOTE DAM TO THE REA ROAD BRIDGE (¾ MILE); and PERE MARQUETTE RIVER, FROM SIGNS ¼ MILE ABOVE SCOTTVILLE BRIDGE TO SIGNS ¾ MILE DOWNSTREAM. The preceding four stream sections would be open in September and October.

From September 1 through November 15, the following would be legal snagging areas:

--Muskegon River, from Croton Dam to signs approximately two miles downstream, BETWEEN SIGNS FROM SHAW PARK ABOVE M-37 BRIDGE IN NEWAYGO TO PUBLIC ACCESS SITE APPROXIMATELY ONE MILE DOWNSTREAM, and from US-31 (expressway) to river mouth, excluding Muskegon Lake and channel; Grand River, from Weber Dam, Ionia County, to river mouth; Kalamazoo River, from Allegan Dam, Allegan County, to the river mouth; and St. Joseph River, between Berrien Springs Dam and US-31 bridge at Berrien Springs.

From September 1 through December 31, stream sections open would include:

–Cass River, from Caro Dam, Tuscola County, to river mouth; HURON RIVER, FROM FLATROCK DAM TO RIVER MOUTH; AND DETROIT RIVER, FROM EAST END OF PECHE ISLAND TO SOUTH END OF GROSSE ILE.

It also will be proposed that the hook size allowed for snagging be reduced from ¾-inch to ½-inch. The ½-inch hooks will do less damage to lost or released fish. Furthermore, the smaller hooks will deteriorate faster upon being lost in a stream, and will pose less hazard to fishermen, waders and swimmers.

Rayders Take 2nd Saturday

The Charlevoix Rayders, with a total of 46 points, placed second in the Newberry Invitational track and field meet Saturday.

A strong Pickford squad placed first with 50½ points and Rudyard placed third one point behind Charlevoix with 45.

The Rayders captured four first places and set a new Newberry Invitational record in the 440 yd. relay with a time of 46.35. Charlevoix also took the 880 relay, Jim Potter a first in the shot put and Kevin Martin a first in the 220 yd. run. In addition, the Rayders won two seconds, three thirds, three fourths and one fifth to bring their total to 46 points.

Charlevoix set the 440 relay with a team composed of Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Mike Streeter, and Kevin Martin.

Two other records were broken when Benan of Munising ran the mile in 4:42.65 and Jim Skinner of Pickford the two mile in 10:08.2.

In addition to setting a new record in the 440 relay, the Rayders won the 880 yd. run in 1:36.55 with the same relay team; Martin won the 220 yd. dash in 24.15 and Potter threw the shot 47' 1".

Other point-getters were Randy Faust who placed second in the 120 yd. high hurdles and Ed Russell, second in the 440 yd. run; Chuck Faust third in the 880 yd. run, Streeter third in the 100 yd. dash, R. Faust third in the 180 low hurdles; Skippergosh fourth in the low hurdles; Clay Jones fourth in the shot and Streeter fourth in the broad jump and Martin fifth in the broad jump.

Jerry Puhl, Middle School track coach, accompanied the track team to Newberry Saturday when the coach, Gary Stutzman, had to go to Clare with the Eighth Grade Band.

The Rayders will travel to the Soo Wednesday for an Invitational meet that begins at 5 p.m.

JEFF BERGMAN just sat down and collapsed after his event in the Thursday afternoon contest against Rogers City.

Two Residents To Graduate From NMU

Sharmon Dulaney and Larry Hamilton will be among the 801 graduates receiving degrees during Northern Michigan University's spring commencement on Saturday, May 11.

The two Charlevoix residents will both receive bachelor of science degrees in secondary education.

The ceremonies mark the opening of the University's 75th Anniversary observance.

Included in this year's graduating class are 733 candidates for bachelor's degrees, 36 for associate degrees, and 32 for master's degrees. The graduates represent 12 states and Canada.

Simcha Dinitz, Israel's ambassador to the United States, will be the commencement speaker. Named to Israel's top diplomatic post in 1973, he will aso receive an honorary degree as doctor of humane letters.

Frederick Logan, internationally-known art educator at the University of Wisconsin, will receive an honorary degree as doctor of art and art education.

In addition, the ceremonies will see Distinguished Alumni Awards presented to Norman (Boots) Kukuk of Marquette; Joseph DeCook, Newberry; and Rollin Thoren, NMU associate professor of biology, while Reverend Louis Cappo, Marquette Diocese; Frederick Hahne, Manistique; Mrs. Ann Osborn Pratt, Sault Ste. Marie; and William Veeser, Houghton, will be the first recipients of the President's Award for Distinguished Citizenship.

Special Meet Held

Charlevoix High School's Bill Belfy and Pat DeYoung won wrestling matches in a special invitational match held last weekend at Walled Lake Western High School.

The two grapplers along with Don Trost, Mike Snizik, Dane Whitley and Pan Mort participated in a Michigan Interscholastic Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association Regional Wrestling Tournament.

The regional competition was one of four in the state to qualify for state finals next weekend.

The state champions will later travel to Japan for a cultural exchange with high school wrestlers from the Orient.

Obituary

Johnson

Funeral services for Elwyn W. (Johnnie) Johnson, 76, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Rev. Harold Kruse of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated and interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Johnson was dead on arrival at Charlevoix Area Hospital early Friday morning.

He was born April 20, 1898 in Sebewaing, Mich. He moved to Charlevoix as a young child. Later he moved to Lansing and returned to Charlevoix 29 years ago.

He married Leonia Harper in Lansing in 1944.

Mr. Johnson was a self-employed gardener in the Charlevoix area.

Church Leaders Supporting Anti-Gun Legislation

LANSING – Gun owners should be alert to the attempts being made to get church leaders to support the anti-gun drive, Thomas L. Washington, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, said today.

"The latest chairman of the effort to get a handgun question on the ballot has boasted of drawing much support from church leaders," Washington said, referring to recent comments by Dwite Walker, chairman of the Citizens United To Save Lives group, an offshoot of the movement started by Detroit Police Commissioner Philip Tannian.

Walker said the group is being supported by churches and church leaders, including the United Methodist Church of Michigan, which he said has taken 4,000 petitions for distribution.

Walker's workers are attempting to force a November vote aimed at outlawing handguns, and he said they have considerable support from leaders of Presbyterian and Lutheran churches and expect the same support from Catholic church leaders.

"Perhaps Walker fails to recognize the wisdom of the separation of Church and State in his enthusiasm to get the State Constitution changed to suit the anti-gun lobby," Washington said.

"Gun owners should immediately contact their clergy men and church leaders and provide information on the gun confiscation issue," Washington added. "Without the truth about the gun issue, clergymen could be misled by the Madison Avenue-type anti-gun arguments."

Washington noted the state has had strict gun-control laws since 1927, in addition to the more than 20,000 other gun-control laws across the country, and criminals have not complied with them.

"The proposed Michigan gun ban would cost the taxpayers about $100 million for the purchase of privately owned handguns, and the same criminals who have ignored the tens of thousands of existing laws would continue to do the same if the Constitution were changed," Washington said.

He pointed out that the people who know the most about crime control – State Police Director John R. Plants, Carl Parsell of the Police Officers Association of Michigan and others -- strongly oppose the gun question proposed for the November ballot.

"The anti-gun lobby has promoted an easy answer to a complex problem," Washington said, "Clergymen should know as well as anyone that crime stems from socio-economic situations, not from law-abiding gun owners who would be grossly discriminated against by the proposed constitutional change."

Corbin Realty Offers Free Consultation To Residents Saturday

Have some questions about real estate?

You might try Corbin Realty's Open House on Saturday, May 11, at the Portair Plaza on U.S. 31.

So that people can become better acquainted with them, Corbin Realty is offering free consultation service for both buyers and sellers.

"We wanted to do something different," says Jim Corbin, who will have his staff of four on duty all day.

Sellers are asked to come between 9 a.m. and noon, while buyers should plan on making a visit between 1 and 4 p.m.

Jim Corbin has had three years real estate experience in Charlevoix, while having another 20 years in Detroit.

He is a member of the Realtor Association of Michigan, as well as a member of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors.

His specialities include both residential and commercial properties.

Assisting him is Tony Engler, who just recently completed an 80-hour residential appraising course offered by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers.

He is now a candidate for a residential member designation.

With over nine years experience in tax preparation, he has had three years experience selling in Charlevoix.

Frank Mikulski, another Corbin associate, has been dealing with real estate for over eight years.

He specializes in farms, live stock and machinery sales, in addition to manufacturing and industrial properties.

He also has an extensive background in metal working and apartment management.

Don Dunaski, a former industrial designer, is Corbin's Boyne City Associate with two year's experience in lake front and resort properties.

He is a former architectural custom designer.

Commissioners Look At County Budget This Wednesday

The discussion of the tentative budget for 1975, a resolution confirming space in the county building for the Social Security Department and the Lion's Club request to use county-owned property as a site for a Little League baseball diamond will be among the items on the agenda for the May meeting of the Charlevoix county Board of Commissioners scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Apr. 8.

Two claims for livestock killed by dogs will be considered and audit committee reports and other committee reports will be heard.

The meeting will be held at the courthouse annex.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF CHARLEVOIX BUILDING AUTHORITY

These Articles of Incorporation of the Charlevoix Building Authority are adopted by the Incorporating unit for the purpose of creating an Authority under the provisions of Act 31 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1948 (Extra Session), as amended.

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation is the CHARLEVOIX BUILDING AUTHORITY.

ARTICLE II.

The incorporating unit creating this Authority is the City of Charlevoix, Michigan.

ARTICLE III.

This Authority is incorporated for the purpose of acquiring, furnishing, equipping, owning, improving, enlarging, operating and/or maintaining a building or buildings, automobile parking lots or structures, and the necessary site or sites therefor for the use of the City of Charlevoix.

ARTICLE IV.

POWERS AND DUTIES:

Section 1. The Authority shall be a body corporate with power to sue and be sued in any court of the State of Michigan.

Section 2. The Authority and the incorporating unit shall have the power to enter into a contract or contracts whereby the Authority will acquire property necessary to accomplish the purposes of this incorporation, and as contemplated by the terms of the Enabling Act, and to lease said property to the incorporating unit for a period not to exceed forty (40) years.

Section 3. The Authority shall have the power to increase the consideration specified in any contract or lease with the Incorporating unit whenever during the term of the lease or leases an increase of rent is necessary to provide funds to meet its obligations.

Section 4. For the purpose of accomplishing the objects of its incorporation, the Authority may acquire property by purchase, construction, lease, gift, devise or condemnation, and for the purpose of condemnation it may proceed under the provisions of Act No. 149 of the Public Acts of 1911, as now or hereafter amended, or any other appropriate statute.

Section 5. For the purpose of acquiring, improving and/or enlarging any such building or buildings, automobile parking lots or structures, and the necessary site or sites therefor, and for furnishing and equipping the same, the Authority may issue self-liquidating revenue bonds in accordance with and subject to the provisions of Act No. 94 of the Public Acts of 1933, as now or hereafter amended; provided, however that such bonds shall be payable solely from the revenues of such property, which revenues shall be deemed to include payments made under any lease or other contract for the use of such property; and, provided further, that no such bonds shall be issued unless the property whose revenues are pledged has been leased by the Authority for a period extending beyond the last maturity date of the bonds. For the purpose of Section 33 of said Act, the limits of the Authority shall be deemed to coincide with those of the City of Charlevoix. If a sufficient referendum petition shall be filed as provided in said Section requesting a referendum upon the question of the issuance of revenue bonds by the Authority, then such question may be submitted by the Commission of the Authority at any general or special election to be held in the City.

Section 6. When all bonds for any particular improvement issued pursuant to the provisions of the Enabling Act under which the Authority is incorporated shall have been retired, the Authority may convey title to the property acquired to the Incorporating unit.

Section 7. All property owned by the Authority shall be exempt from taxation by the State or any taxing unit therein.

Section 8. The Authority shall possess all the powers necessary to carry out the purposes of its incorporation, including the incidental powers necessary thereto. The powers herein granted shall be in addition to those granted by any statute or charter, or any future statute or amendment thereto, and the enumeration of any power either in these Articles of Incorporation or in the Enabling Act shall not be construed as a limitation upon the general powers of this Authority.

Section 9. The term of this corporation and Authority shall be fifty (50) years.

ARTICLE V.

GOVERNING BODY - OFFICERS:

Section 1. The Authority shall be directed and governed by a Board of Commissioners of three (3) members known as the "Commission," each to be appointed by the City Council of Charlevoix. No member of the legislative body of the incorporating unit shall be eligible for membership or appointment to this Authority.

Section 2. The terms of the Commissioners constituting the first Commission shall be for the first Commissioner three (3) years, the second Commissioner two (2) years, and the third Commissioner one (1) year; thereafter succeeding Commissioners shall serve for three (3) year terms; provided, however, that initial terms of office shall commence upon acceptance of appointment and shall terminate on the 30th day of June following the specified term, and terms of succeeding Commissioners shall commence on July 1st.

Section 3. The Commission shall designate one of its members as chairman, one of its members as secretary, and one of its members as treasurer, each to be designated for such term in office as may be fixed by there bylaws.

Section 4. The Commission shall adopt and may amend bylaws and rules of procedure in accordance with the provisions of the Enabling Act and provide therein for regular meetings of the Commission in accordance with the terms and provisions of the Enabling Act.

Section 5. The Commission shall adopt a corporate seal.

Section 6. The chairman shall preside at meetings of the Commission and may sign and execute all authorized bonds, contracts, checks, and other obligations in the name of the Authority when so authorized by the Commission. He shall do and perform such other duties as may be fixed by the bylaws and from time to time assigned to him by the Commission.

Section 7. The secretary shall keep the minutes of all meetings of the Commission, and of all committees thereof, in books provided for that purpose. He shall attend to the giving, serving and receiving of all notes or process of or against the Authority. He may sign with the chairman in the name of the Authority all contracts authorized by the Commission, and when so ordered by the Commission, he shall affix the seal of the Authority thereto. He shall have charge of all books and records, which shall at all reasonable times be open to inspection and examination by the Commission, or any member thereof, and in general perform all the duties incident to this office. The secretary shall preside at meetings of the Commission in the absence of the chairman.

Section 8. The treasurer shall have custody of all the funds and securities of the Authority which may come into his hands or possession. When necessary or proper, he shall endorse in behalf of the Authority for collection, checks, notes and other obligations. He shall deposit them to the credit of the Authority in a designated bank or depository. He shall sign all receipts and vouchers for payments made to the Authority. He shall jointly with such other officer as may be designated by the Commission sign all checks, bonds, promissory notes or other obligations of the Authority when so ordered by the Commission. He shall render a statement of his cash accounts when required by the Commission. He shall enter regularly in the books of the Authority to be kept by him for this purpose full and accurate accounts of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the Authority, and shall at all reasonable times exhibit his books and accounts to the Commission or any member thereof when so required. He shall perform all acts incidental to the position of treasurer fixed by the bylaws and as assigned to him from time to time by the Commission. He shall be bonded for the faithful discharge of his duties as treasurer, the premium to be paid by the Authority.

Section 9. Annual compensation, if any, for the members of the Commission shall be fixed by the Commission when approved by the Charlevoix City Council.

Section 10. Vacancies occurring in the office of this Commission shall be filled in the same way that the original appointment is made, said appointment to be for the period of the unexpired term.

Section 11. The Commission or any of its members may be removed from office for cause by an affirmative majority vote of the legislative body of the incorporating unit.

Section 12. The books and records of the Authority and of the Commission, officers and agents thereof, shall be open to inspection and audit by the Incorporating unit at all reasonable times. The Authority shall submit an annual report to the Incorporating unit.

ARTICLE VI.

Section 1. The Commission may hire a part, or full, time Executive Secretary, The Executive Secretary shall be charged with the responsibility of representing the Commission in contract negotiations, dealings with the incorporating unit and other individuals, and shall perform such other duties as may be fixed by the bylaws and from time to time assigned to him by the Commission.

Section 2. The Executive Secretary shall be compensated for his time and expenses by the incorporating unit. The amount of this compensation shall be set by the incorporating unit.

Section 3. The Executive Secretary may be removed from service by an affirmative majority vote of both the Commission and the legislative body of the incorporating unit.

ARTICLE VII.

Section 1. The County Clerk for the County of Charlevoix shall cause a copy of these Articles of Incorporation to be published once in the Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Michigan, being a newspaper of general circulation within the County of Charlevoix and City of Charlevoix, as provided by the Enabling Act.

ARTICLE VIII.

Section 1. Amendments may be made to these Articles of Incorporation as provided in Section 10 of Act 31 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1948 (Extra Session), as now or hereinafter amended.

ARTICLE IX.

CHARLEVOIX CITY Firemen were called late Tuesday afternoon to the George Duke residence in Charlevoix, but found only a minor grass fire when they arrived. No major damage was reported.

Watch Out For Tornadoes!!!

To protect you and your family from tornadoes, take immediate safety actions, says Leslie Mack, safety specialist at Michigan State University.

"A tornado resembles a whirlpool of air. It is the most violent of all wind storms and occurs most often during warm, humid weather usually in connection with severe thunder storms," the specialist explains. "A tornado funnel is extremely destructive–it can completely demolish solid buildings."

A "tornado watch" means that weather conditions may develop into a tornado. You don't need to interrupt normal activities, but listen for further weather advisory reports and watch for the development of storms in your area.

A "tornado warning," Mack points out, is issued only when a tornado has been sighted. If the storm is close, take shelter immediately.

"If you don't have a designated shelter, a root celler provides excellent protection," he states. "To make a shelter, locate it near your home but not so close that falling walls or debris could block the entrance. Before digging, make sure your shelter won't be near the house drain, cesspool, sewer or gas pipes."

Include emergency supplies in your shelter planning, the specialist advises. A portable radio with spare batteries will keep you informed of the weather conditions. A supply of first-aid items, such as bandages, antiseptics, special medicines, blankets and a first aid handbook, will take care of any minor injuries.

For emergency repairs, you may want to add a hammer, nails, screw drivers, crowbars, ropes, wire, saw, boards and plywood to your supplies.

"If a tornado strikes your home, stay out until you are told it is safe to enter," Mack cautions. "Falling debris, damaged wires or gas leakage may pose hidden dangers."

Stay clear of disaster areas, the specialist urges. Sightseeing is dangerous and hampers rescue measures.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Some visionary, with the shopping cart in mind, coined the phrase 'Wheels of Progress.'

None but a dreamer, in that grocery of fifty years ago, could eye a stock of bananas suspended over a bushel of peaches and picture the produce section of a modern supermarket covering an area the size of that entire horse and buggy enterprise.

Competition was far fiercer in those days when grocers competed with their customers as well as with one another.

Although a jumbo shopping cart in that store would be ridiculous, it would be even more far fetched to envision four aisles the length of East Park offering canned vegetables and fruits to a thrifty housewife with a backyard garden and a pressure cooker interested in canning jars, covers, seal rings and paraffin.

Equally incongruous would be an avenue of imitation flavored jams and jellies to a mother would could herd her brood into the woods to pick the real thing free when berries were in season. Or a long lane of soaps and detergents to one who buys P & G or Phels-Naptha by the case at four cents per bar.

A barrel of mixed pickels, with a glass dipper hooked over the rim, provided an added exotic touch when the family ate out by setting up the dining room table. A bag of flour, a potential dish towel; a bag of salt and sugar, later to become a handkerchief or a dolls wardrobe, and a bottle of vanilla extract substituted for one row of redy mixed cakes, the entire bakery department and 75 percent of the frozen food display.

A package of crackerjacks or a box of animal cookies was adequate choice for grateful youngsters, making a truckload assortment of Muchies and Crunchies unnecessary. Scraps from the butchers block, fortified with table left overs supplanted the row of products for pampered puppies facing the array of food for finicky felines. The comparisons are endless but why belabor an obvious point.

Consulting her shopping list, written on the back of an envelope postmarked Seattle and bearing a three cent stamp, the housewife visited the butcher shop to haggle about the price of ground round which was ten cents a pound in those inflationary times. In a day when suet was given away free as boot grease, it was a meat counter by only the most liberal interpretation; requiring a bit less space than that alloted to baby foods in our enlightened age.

The butcher would smooth ruffled feathers by offering the customer a generous sample of tangy cheese or a slice of spicy liverwurst between two giant soda crackers to munch on while making selections.

Choice was simplified into three categories: beef, veal and pork and the list of cuts was confined to steaks, roasts, chops and stew meat in those days when the housewife's pursuit of the arts was confined to 'drawing' a chicken.

The checkout stand, though hardly as efficient, had the same warm appeal for each succeeding generation. Every child in tow received some candy or licorice and often a fond pat on the head by the smiling cashier who knew them by their first names.

Kinda made us feel important, didn't it?

MORE THAN 90 Charlevoix and Emmet residents participated in the free 15 minute legal service available May 1 from area lawyers in recognition of Law Day. Charlevoix's Tom Pointer was one of those lawyers who participated.

Library notes

By Eleaaor Ratigaa

We are always pleased to receive a new book by Robert Wilder, but unfortunately, "The Sound of Drums and Cymbals" is not the best of the novels we have come to expect from him. Anyone who is not already weary of reading books about Hollywood moguls will probably enjoy it, but we think the moviemaking industry has been pretty much worn out. The novel reaches across 50 years of filmmaking and is filled with the sights, sounds and legends with which we are all too familiar. We wish Wilder would give us another "Affair of Honor" or "Wind From the Carolinas"– books about the Bahamas and the Deep South which he does so well.

Helen MacInnes has come out with a new book "The Snare of the Hunter," and there will be no disappointment in this novel. This time the distinguished author deals with the recently exposed and increasing suppression of writing and thought in the satellite nations behind the Iron Curtain. The heroine, Irina Kusak suddenly realizes she is the prey of ruthless hunters from the moment she flees across the Czechoslovakian border into Austria to find her father, a Nobel Prize nominee. Everyone who has followed the recent dramatic exile of the famous Russian author Solzhenitsyn, will realize are far advanced the author was when she chose this plot for this brilliant new novel.

"As We Are Now" was written by May Sarten. This short swift blow of a novel deals with an old woman trying to keep alive in a nursing home in a remote country place. The situation is tragic, and we wouldn't recommend it for light, pleasant reading if it didn't have so much dignity and intelligence and wit. Embattled old Caro is bound to take her place among the inspiring portraits of old age.

Regardless of politics, we can't think of anyone who won't enjoy the new biography about Harry S. Truman.

"Plain Speaking" by Merle Miller is well-titled. If anyone was ever out-spoken it was Harry. Aside from being a book which is warm and human, it is a windfall for us and for history. Merle Miller talked in total frankness with Truman for hundreds of hours and he interviewed virtually all those close to the president from his earliest childhood through his years in Washington.

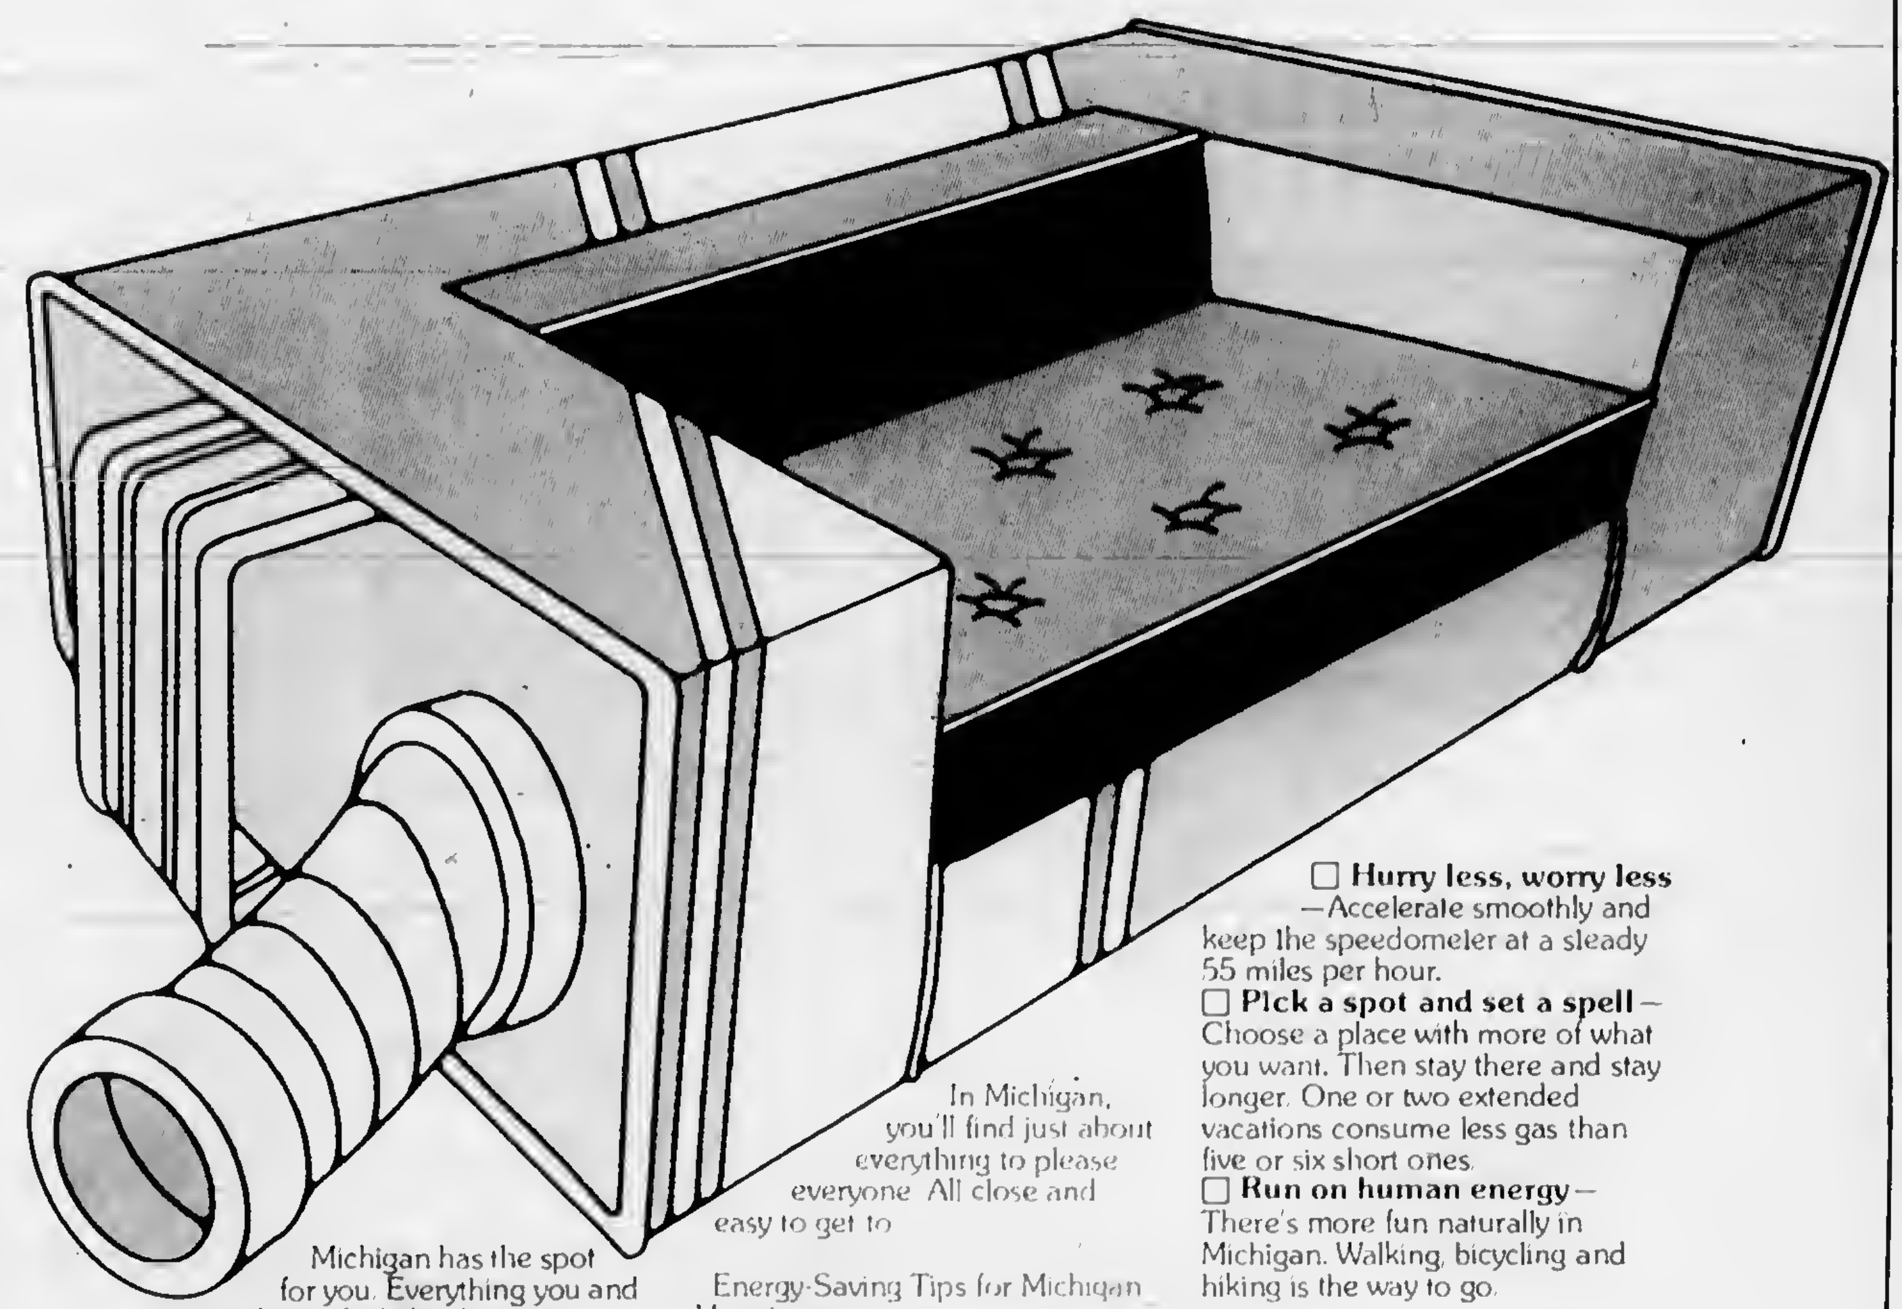
Pick a spot and set a spell.



In Michigan, you'll find just about everything to please everyone. All close and easy to get to.

Michigan has the spot for you. Everything you and your family feel like doing in one place. So you don't have to waste gas driving here, there and everywhere trying to please everyone. In Michigan it's easy to find that one place because our cities and countryside are a fine blend of big-city entertainment, small town fun and outdoor excitement. Just decide what you want and the Michigan Tourist Council will help you find the place.

And once you're there, stay longer, if you can. You'll probably want to anyway because there's so much to do! A long weekend or an extended vacation consumes far less time and gasoline than short, hurried trips.

Energy-Saving Tips for Michigan Vacationers:
☐ Enjoy the fun close to home— Finding fun on one tankful is the smartest way to go.
☐ First know, then go— Phone, visit or write to the Michigan Tourist Council.
☐ Play it safe— Figure out how many gallons you'll need for the miles you want to drive.
☐ Unplug at home— Shut off all unnecessary appliances and lower the thermostat before you go.
☐ Tune-up to keep your tank filled up— Clean air filters, correct tire pressure and radials improve gas mileage, too!
☐ Pool your fuel— Travel with family and friends in private cars or on public buses.
☐ Hurry less, worry less— Accelerate smoothly and keep the speedometer at a steady 55 miles per hour.
☐ Pick a spot and set a spell— Choose a place with more of what you want. Then stay there and stay longer. One or two extended vacations consume less gas than five or six short ones.
☐ Run on human energy— There's more fun naturally in Michigan. Walking, bicycling and hiking is the way to go.

For more information, write to the Michigan Tourist Council, 300 South Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48926. We'll be glad to send you free energy saving vacation information.

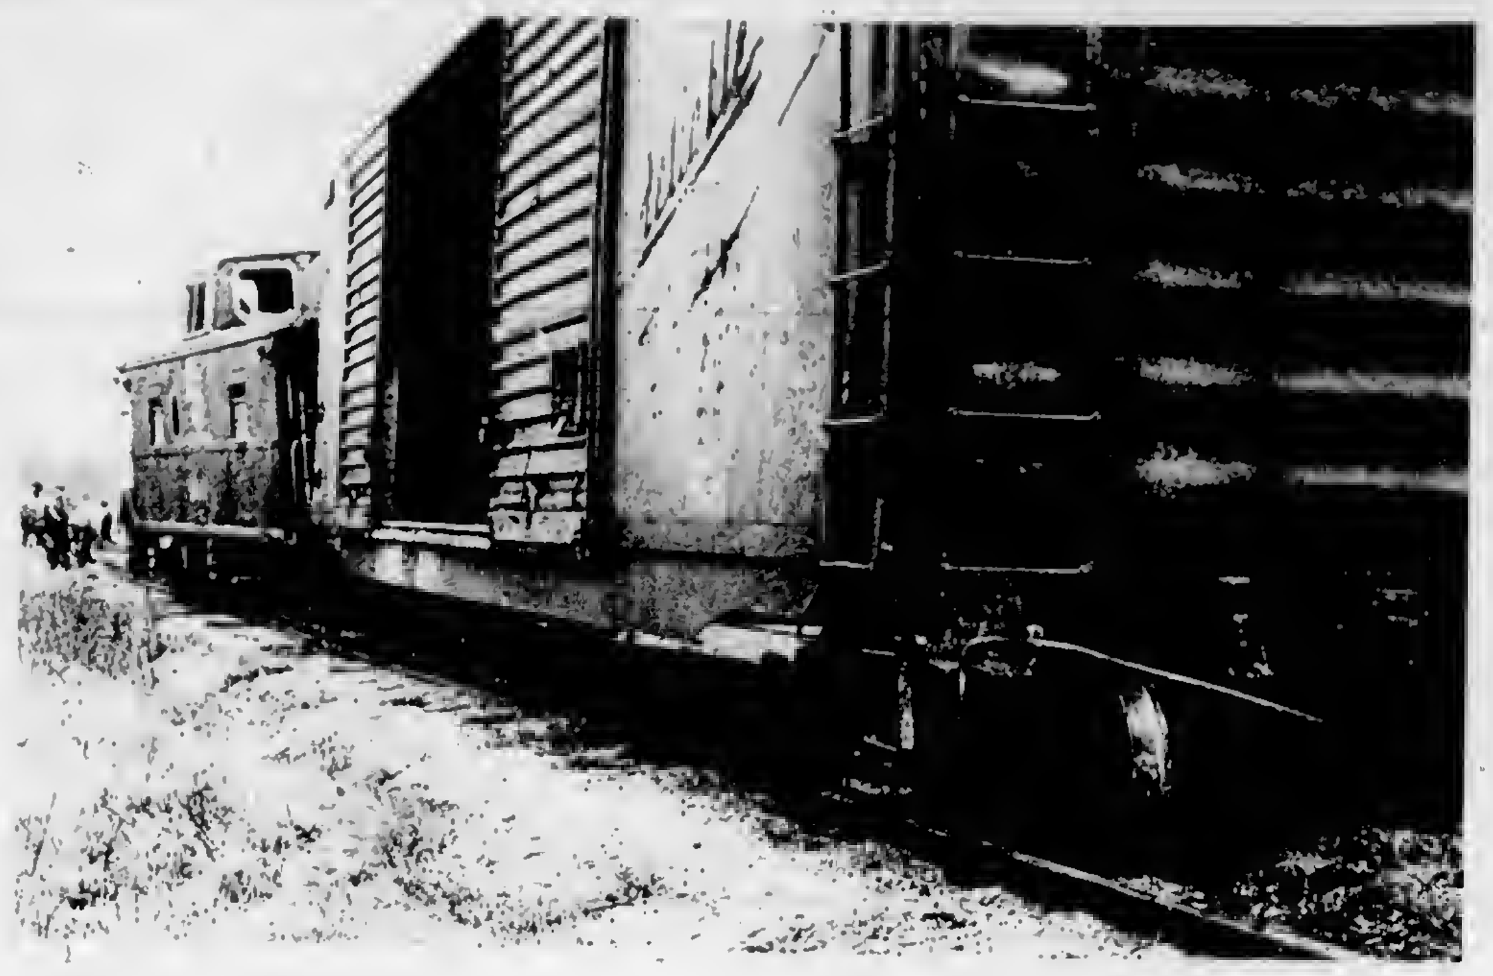
C&O EMPLOYEES from Grand Rapids ended up having to tear away some of the old track before they could get the cars back on.



SEVERAL CARS and the caboose derailed from the C&O track just north of Charlevoix last Thursday afternoon.

C & O Train Derails Late Thursday P.M.

WORKMEN SPENT the last several days trying to get the cars back on the track.

Three C and O railroad cars and a caboose derailed late Thursday afternoon on track about three miles north of here.

Two of the cars had just been loaded with cement at Penn-Dixie and were being taken to Charlevoix when the mishap occurred.

Two railroad employees were riding in the caboose and were not injured.

James Lutz, C and O agent in Charlevoix, said that a section crew is at the scene to determine what to do.

Lutz sais he is unsure what caused the train to derail.

The cars are in an upright position and did extensive damage to the rail structure.

Lutz said that an empty cement hopper weighs between 5 and 20 tons and that it may require use of a crane to place them back on the track.

A COMPANY official inspects some of the damage caused from the derailment.

District Court Critized

Anti-Drug And Crime Group Organizes Here

MRS. ROBERT TIMMS discusses some of the goals and objectives of the new organization with several people after the meeting Thursday night.

By FRAN MARTIN

"Are you concerned about drug traffic in the area? Are you concerned about warrants not being signed? Are you concerned about plea bargaining?" Those people attending a meeting called by the Northern Michigan Anti-Crime and Drug Committee here Thursday evening were asked.

Mrs. Robert Timms, who called the meeting and chaired it, went on to say that when she spoke of drug traffic who wasn't interested in the kid who bought the drugs but the person who sold them to him; that she was sick of having good police work go down the drain when two attorneys got together and plea bargained and she was tired of seeing charges reduced by the courts.

"If you feel as I do, I hope you will become involved and make an effort to do something about these practices," she said before introducing Richard Johnson of Petoskey, who has been active in organizing the Northern Michigan Anti-Crime and Drug Committee.

He related the history of the group which was formed during the recent Hart case in Petoskey and named its goals which are to retain a constitutional judicial system by preventing obstruction of justice; to assist in the investigaton of drug trafficing in this area including the Hart case and to support local police and keep them independent.

Johnson said he was one of a committee of 12 who have dedicated themselves to accomplishing the goals.

He then went on to relate some of the questions that were unanswered by the courts such as refusal to anwer questions regarding time spent on cases, time spent on the bench, the number and types of cases, the number of convictions, the blacklog of cases and related information. "In many instances, attorneys are forced into plea bargaining because there is not enough bench time available to present their cases properly" Johnson said, adding that "justice delayed is justice denied".

Johnson charged that District Judge Arthur Reibel had handled 30 cases in District Court in 36 minutes..

"Everyone should have his day in court but when they are run through like a herd of cattle people are not experiencing justice," he said.

He then brought out the fact that in the case of drugs, an individual is arrested for peddling the drugs, appears in court, is placed on a small bond and released to continue peddling the drugs until such time as he is brought before the judge for disposition of the case.

He then urged those present to support the move to accomplish the goals of the organization to show that people are interested. "Nmbers are important. Until you can show that hundred of people are supporting our goals, no one in the higher eschelons will listen to you".

Support the program with what ever you can afford; document any injustice in the court with all the information you can collect so the case can be investigated and establish and maintain a court watchers system whereby at least one person, preferably more, are at every session of District and Circuit Court, he urged. Court watchers attend sessions of court and record what they have seen and heard, Johnson explained.

Johnson also said that the morale of law enforcement officers is being undercut because of lack of prosecution.

Susan Smith Receives Grand Poster Prize

Susan Smith, a fifth grade student in the Charlevoix Middle School, was the grand prize winner in the poster contest sponsored by the Charlevoix county Humane Society, Mrs. Rick Wiles, president of the organization, has announced.

"Be Kind to Animals" was the theme of the contest. Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, is shown here with her winning poster and the certificate and silver dollar she was awarded.

Other winners were Randy Morris of East Jordan; Douglas Burns of Boyne City and Frank Wasylewski of Boyne Falls. Receiving honorable mention are Georgia Hawkins of Charlevoix whose poster carried the most meaningful message and Sherry Jensen, the most humorous.

Tom Mort Receives USAF Appointment

Thomas C. Mort, who will graduate from the Charlevoix high school in June, has received an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

He will report at the Academy on July 1.

Mort received his appointment through the efforts of Philip A. Ruppe (R), U.S. Representative, 11th District.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mort, he will graduate in June with a 3.8 average out of a possible 4.0 points, seventh in a class of 114 students.

His chief academic interests have been in the fields of science and mathematics and he is presently serving as lab assistant in chemistry. He has been in the Boy Scout program for seven years and recently received his Life Scout award. He also was a member of the Rayder wrestling team.

Mort is the second Charlevoix high school student to receive an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy. The first was Delbert R. Terrill, a 1969 graduate of the Academy and now a captain stationed in Washington, D.C.

Tennis Players .... Wanted: Dead Or Alive

MRS. WALLACE

HANSEN

WRIGHT

Charlevoix City Councilmen sent shock waves rippling through town last week with their decision to slap a padlock on the municipal tennis courts for the weekend.

The move, according to city officials, was to draw attention to the problem poorly hit tennis balls were causing adjacent to private property owners.

However, the action drew fire from local tennis enthusiasts, who charged they were not given enough warning about the problem.

And now that the feelings of discontent are beginning to simmer, both city officials and civic leaders are beginning to work out some solutions to the problems.

Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace, who introduced the problem last week to city council, says she has only received three telephone calls since the last council meeting.

She said two of the calls were pleas for the Charlevoix Tennis Club, who would have been locked out of practice if the city hadn't decided to make an exception to its decision.

"It was a desperate measure to bring it to a head," she said this week about the council action.

"And I think it accomplished something."

She said closing the tennis courts for three days made everyone aware of the problem and at the same time introduced newcomers to the concept of tennis etiquette.

Mrs. Wallace said that while she didn't regret the council's decision, she was sure now that tennis players would be aware of the problems and keep others from chasing balls on private property.

The city councilwoman said that she had one man who was upset with her decision, but that after hearing the grief neighboring property owners have been going through he was no longer mad.

"It's a shame that you have to have so many rules and regulations," she continued, but she said there doesn't seem to be any other alternative.

Indicating that locking up the tennis courts was not a final solution to the problem, Mrs. Wallace said she looked towards educating people about tennis etiquette.

At the same time, she said raising the fence in some manner may also help.

"I think the rule that they're not suppose to go beyond the fence will help," she added.

The councilwoman said she thought neighbors could live with something like that.

"If they lose a ball, they lose the ball and that's it," she said.

Mrs. Wallace said she would hate to see the city having to supervise the courts and start charging a fee.

Having similar position as Mrs. Wallace and sharing many of the same feelings have been Charlevoix's Mayor Ed Hansen.

"I'd do the same thing again," Hansen said about the council action.

Hansen said the move brought city attention to the problems and now solutions are beginning to be worked on.

"It's a gross travesty of injustice," he said about how tennis players had been treating adjacent property owners.

He said one property owner told him how a tennis player had run through her house to get in the backyard and fetch a tennis ball.

The mayor said he visualizes two large poles being put in at the end of each of the existing fences so a cable could be strung up to support a nylon net.

Hansen said he has had some reaction from the younger residents in the community, who were very rational and orderly.

He said they felt the council's decision was unfair to the innocent people.

"I told them this strong action had to be," he continued.

The mayor said he expects something will be done and everyone involved will be satisfied.

Charlevoix Recreation Director Curt Kipke said he agreed with the council that there was definitely a problem and could sympathize with property owners.

However since it is impossible to move the tennis courts, Kipke said a solution has to be found.

He said the courts were too much of a major investment to the city to have them locked and not used.

Among his solutions were raising the existing fence a few more feet.

The city official said putting a dome over the entire tennis would not be practical either financially or from a player's standpoint.

"I think another 10 feet will eliminate 90 percent of the problem," he said.

Agreeing with Mrs. Wallace that supervision of the tennis courts would lead to charging of fees, Kipke suggested a group of citizens and officials form a committee and work out a solution.

"I still think it was a bad way to approach a problem," said Charlevoix High School Coach Chuck Wright.

"Instead of trying to solve the problem first, they just punished the town."

The Charlevoix coach said no one playing on the courts realized the problem was as serious as it was when they decided to close the courts.

"Then all of a sudden, boom they're closed," he said.

He said he was grateful the city gave the tennis team special permission to practice over the weekend.

"As far as solutions, I'm glad they're trying to approach the problem and trying to solve it," he said.

He said that Mrs. Wallace told him that six signs were being put up explaining that if a ball is hit out of the court, it is lost for good.

Charlevoix Board Asks For 6.5 Mill Tax Levy

By FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix School District voters will be asked to renew a 6.5 mill tax levy for three years following action taken Monday night by the Charlevoix Board of Education.

In asking for a millage renewal, the board and the more than 30 residents heard Supt. James A. McKimmy explain that the School District, because of its increased valuation, would lose all of its State Aid. During the current school year, this amounted to $107,000.

Despite the 10 percent increase in district property taxes, McKimmy said the total increased tax base benefit to the school will be only $61,000, due in part, to the loss of State Aid.

He also said that because of inflationary costs, reductions in some other areas will be necessary to live within the district income.

That income, he said, also includes the 9.5 mills allocated to the schools by the county, in 1973. He emphasized that the allocated millage remain at this same 9.5 mill level.

The board also authorized Supt. McKimmy to apply to the HEW for the Beaver Head light station property on Beaver Island, which has been declared surplus property by the U.S. Coast Guard.

It was the decision of the board to apply for the

Douma Fights Hayes' Zoning

A Hayes Township Zoning Board hearing became the battle ground Monday night between Michigan Shores Subdivision and Hodgkiss and Douma, Inc. of Petoskey.

The Petoskey-based road contracting firm strongly objected to a new zoning ordinance being considered by the township.

If approved, the ordinance would change some of the company's presently industrially zoned quarry property in Bay Shore to agricultural use.

At the public hearing held Monday night in the township hall, Charlevoix attorney Don Berlage commended the township for its work with the proposed zoning ordinance.

As a representative for the Michigan Shores residents, the attorney said they thought the ordinance did two things.

First, it upgraded the present zoning from R-3 to R-2, which both enhanced the quality of the subdivision and prohibited duplex units.

And secondly, he said the residents were pleased with the proposed buffer strip between their subdivision and the industrial site located to the south.

He said the proposed buffer strip was a sign of good planning practices, but Don Hodgkiss indicated he didn't quite feel the same way.

"We feel that you're trying to zone us out of business," Hodgkiss said.

He said his company protested the zoning which allowed a buffer strip.

Hodgkiss said that while they don't plan to expand their operations, they do want all their property zoned the same.

He specifically pointed to a section in the ordinance under the Industrial-II that would limit the height of his hot mix plant.

Secondly, the road contractor said the ordinance isn't concise enough to show what constitutes what is good or bad.

Buy A Vet Poppy

Buy a poppy and help someone who needs your support very badly.

That's what the VFW and American Legion Auxiliary are asking you to do when they hold their annual poppy sales in Charlevoix on May 16, 17 and 18.

The small paper poppies you are asked to purchase are made by disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the United States.

Funds raised through their sale by the auxiliary groups are used to aid both veterans and their dependents.

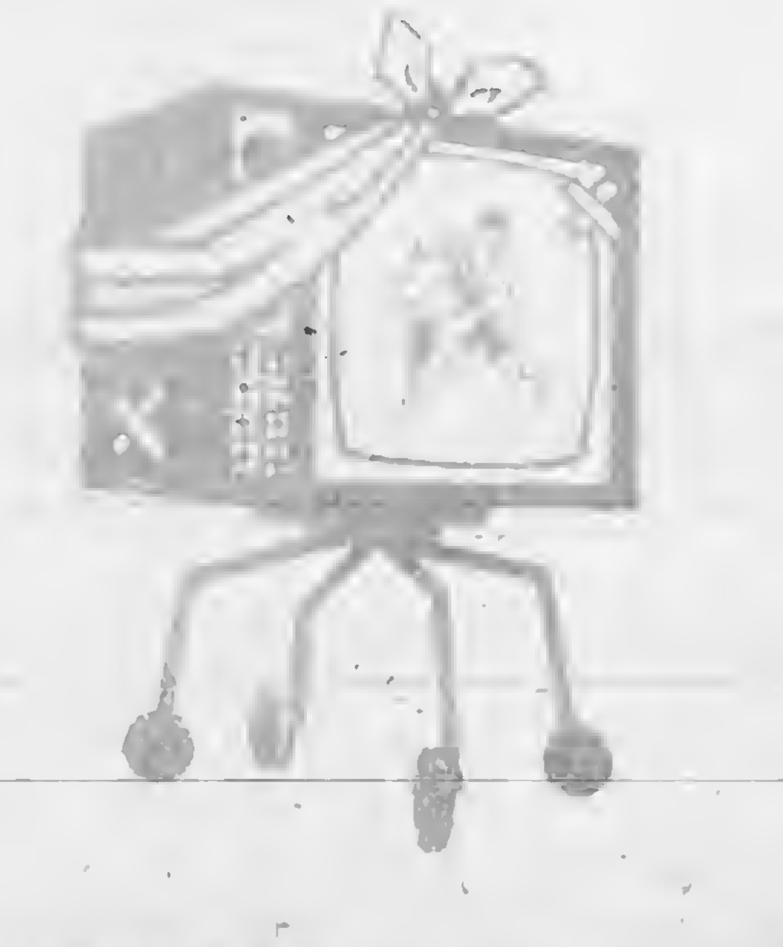
There are more than 200 orphans of veterans being cared for in the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids and portions of the supporting funds come from poppy sales.

Mrs. Ginger Hamlin, who is in charge of the local project, says auxiliary members will contact the businesses on Thursday and concentrate on street sales Friday and Saturday.

"I hope that everyone will take part in the three-day sale," she says.

To further support the project, Charlevoix Mayor Ed Hansen signed a proclamation urging all patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as a mute evidence of the city's gratitude to the men of the United States who risked or lost their lives in fulfilling their obligations as American citizens.

Northern Michigan Faces Threat of Losing Cable Television Sports Under Federal Bill



Northern Michigan residents may find themselves without any sports coverage on cable television if proposed federal legislation becomes law.

Having just left the Senate Copyright Subcommittee last month, the bill is now being scrutinized by the full 16-member senate Judiciary Committee.

And according to some sources, the proposed sports blackout on cable television could be kept as it is now and reported on the Senate floor.

If this happens, it would mean Northern Michigan residents would have to rely on their own reception to pick-up sports coverage and only those living in Detroit would probably be able to view the Red Wings and Pistons.

Under the proposed Copyright Bill, local cable television operators would be prohibited from carrying the event.

And any cable systems within the Grade B Contour of any station, such as from Traverse City, would not be permitted to import any professional sports event.

No one is quite sure where they provisions have come from, but cable company owners across the nation and state are scrambling around trying to make their subscribers aware of the potential threat.

George Baldwin, owner and operator of Lake Charlevoix Cable Television, Inc., has visited city councils in Boyne City, East Jordan and Gaylord to warn them of the problem.

And each of those meetings, he has been successful in getting them to adopt resolutions backing the Cable TV stand on sports programs.

In Charlevoix, he said Mayor Ed Hansen even made a personal call the Michigan Senator Phillip Hart objecting to the proposed legislation.

Baldwin also just returned Friday from a one-day visit with Hart in Washington, D.C., voicing his objections to the proposed move.

In an unusually long 1½-hour appointment, Baldwin joined with members of both the state and national cable associations in briefing the U.S. Michigan Senator has the toll such a move would have on Northern Michigan.

"We enlightened him and we left some information with him," Baldwin said about the visit.

The Charlevoix resident said he was shocked that the senator was not aware of the seriousness of the situation and had been apparently so poorly advised.

Baldwin said they attempted to get some type of cut and dry answer on his position about the proposed legislation, but were unable to do so.

Hart plays a particularly important role in the legislative process at this point because he is a voting member of the committee now considering the bill.

Baldwin said the committee is expected to act on the bill during the first part of June, which would mean the full Senate could consider the legislation this summer.

To Make Decision May 23

Township Looks Favorably At Shopping Center

Plans for a multi-million dollar shopping and residential complex to be located near the junction of Boyne City Road and U.S. 31 will probably get a favorable nod from the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board.

Although no official decision was made at last Wednesday's special meeting, the board heard little unfavorable comment about the proposal.

The project is planned on a 52-acre triangle of land bordered by U.S. 31 North, Martin and Waller Roads. The property was formerly farmed by the late John Martin, but was purchased several years ago by Dr. Walter Hoffman.

Proposed for the development is an auto dealership, department store, furniture store, branch bank, motel and restaurant, assorted small shops as well as nursing care center, an area of medium-priced homes and a sheltered care facility for elderly people who still able to care for themselves.

At Wednesday night's meeting, Architect Richard Wiggins of Davermann Associates discussed the planned community development concept to both the township zoning board and some 15 residents attending the hearing.

"Generally speaking, the owners are thinking about some boutique types of shops," he said about the proposed one-story shopping center area.

The Grand Rapids architect emphasized that the surrounding area would be left in its natural state and that the buildings would be designed to blend in with the property.

He also said that at this point they were asking only for approval of the general concept and before construction could begin they would again have to seek township approval.

He said residents could expect to find that the shopping center would be the first project to be started followed by the residential area.

The architect estimated it would take 10 years before the project would be completed.

"I think the owners of the property are interested in making this a unqiue and outstanding area," he told the group.

Even in the parking area, Wiggins said they want to avoid massive outlays of tarvy and instead place landscaped mounds throughout the locality.

He explained that the planned unit development concept began about 10 years ago as a solution to strip ioning where buildings are simply constructed up and down a highway.

Wiggins said with this particular piece of property, the owners wanted to take advantage of topography and develop the building accordingly,

He added that they have deleted the originally proposed trailer park.

After a further explanation about the elderly housing proposal, several residents asked about the traffic being generated on U.S. 31.

Wiggins said they will have to meet state highway specifications and that there would be some deceleration lanes.

Mrs. William Wilson asked both about the projected size of the hotel and about water and sewage.

Wiggins said the motel would be between 30 and 40 units and that the water and sewer requirements would change as the development grows.

Initially, he said the banks and several small shops could probably get by with only on-site sanitary facilities, but during the long-term they would have to work with local officials in a project that would meet health department approval.

Township Zoning Board member Joe Beaudoine asked about the compatability of mixing commercial with residential and was told that with the natural areas serving as a buffer there would be no problem.

"You don't think that the light industrial along Martin Road will cause any problem?" Beaudoine asked.

Wiggins said he didn't think so, assuming the industry wasn't built on the curb of the road.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud emphasized that every construction step of the development would have to be reviewed and approved by the township before anything could be done.

Board member Bob Wosaski said he couldn't see where the board could prevent the property owner from developing his property as long as it conforms to the zoning and he was ready to vote on the request that night.

But Beaudoine said he wanted to postpone the matter for further study and consider it at the regular zoning meeting on May 23.

ARCHITECT RICHARD Wiggins of Grand Rapids, fielded questions at the Charlevoix Township Zoning Board meeting last week about the new proposed shopping center to be located just north of Charlevoix. The entire development will take 10 years to complete

Charlevoix City Councilmen May Slice Present Tax Levy

Charlevoix City residents may be getting a cut in their taxes this year.

Based on a preliminary study, Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff says the proposed city budget anticipates a lowering of the present nine mills being levied.

He said State Equalized Value (SEV) for the City of Charlevoix has jumped from $19 million to $22 million.

The city official said they are uncertain how much will be slashed out, but that they want to reduce the millage with the increase of SEV.

Overall, the budget that will be considered by city fathers in public hearing on Monday, May 20, is based on a 10 percent increase in labor and materials from last year, Wexstaff said.

Several new items being considered in the budget are $25,000 for materials on the proposed harbor improvement project on Round Lake.

Wexstaff said they will hopefully be able to put in a retaining wall for $50,000, with 50 percent being financed by state and federal funds.

Wexstaff says that if the project doesn't get off the ground, they would be able to sell the materials for a higher price than they bought them for.

Another proposed budget item is $3,000 for an airport study to bring the municipal airport up to Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) compliance.

He said that several property transfers have been made at the airport and they must be presented to the Michigan Aeronautics Commission and FAA to bring the airport back to compliance.

The city officials said the study would also include projected runway extensions.

Wexstaff said no major cuts are being proposed at this time.

In this year's proposed budget, council are anticipating revenues of about $486,257.

The largest share of anticipated revenue would be $192,363 from the current property tax levy followed up with $60,400 from state shared revenues, $29,660 in charges for services and $148,063 from rents and royalties.

General Fund expenditures are also set for $486,257, with $55,000 for parks and recreation, $31,000 for the cemetery, $83,000 for police, $49,100 for fire and $40,457 for the marina.

State Highways To Probe Rail Abandonment Plans

The state of Michigan has contracted with a consulting firm for preparation of a preliminary railroad plan for the state prior to federal action on proposed rail abandonments, it was announced in Lansing this week.

The study, to be done for the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, is to be completed by Sept. 30 and is to involve the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission and other regional agencies in the planning process.

Bill G. Rowden, Executive Director of the Northwest Regional Planning Commission, attended a meeting in Lansing Thursday, May 9, at which the state railroad plan and other matters relating to railroads were discussed. Some 200 persons from throughout the state participated in the meeting called by the Highways and Transportation Department.

In addition to the announcement of state efforts by John Woodford, director of the state agency, the meeting included a talk by George Chandler, director of the Interstate Commerce Commission's new Rail Services Planning Office (RSPO).

Chandler explained the RSPO's evaluation of the rail reorganization report of the Department of Transportation, in which 37 percent of Michigan's and virtually all of the Northwest Region's railroads are termed excess and candidates for abandonment.

Chandler noted that Michigan preliminary railroad planning effort is due to be completed just prior to the U.S. Railway Association's completion of a preliminary reorganization plan for the nation. The state effort will permit local, regional and state agencies to make some authoritative contribution to the national railroad planning.

The federal rail official stressed, however, the immediate importance of individuals, industries and communities making their wishes and needs known at the series of ICC railroad hearings to be conducted around the state this month. Testimony from the hearings will form a major share of the information from which a preliminary federal railroad plan will be developed prior to final hearings this fall and Congressional action next year.

Chandler urged persons wishing to speak on behalf of the state's existing railroads to schedule testimony for one of the hearings.

In this northwest area, the ICC will conduct a two-day hearing May 20 and 21 in Traverse City.

The ICC's Detroit office reports that a few 10-minute slots are still open for the afternoon of May 21 and several are available for the evening of that day. Some openings remain for the morning session on May 21 while the schedule for that day's afternoon session is almost entirely open.

The Traverse City hearing will be in the Governmental Employees Credit Union, 120 Beaumont Place. It will get underway at 9:30 a.m. on the 20th, adjourn at 5 p.m. and continue from 7 to 9 p.m., resume at 7:30 a.m. on the 21st and wrap up at 5 p.m. that day.

Oral statements are limited to 10 minutes per witness. Written statements should be typewritten on 8½ x 11-inch paper and submitted in 10 copies. To schedule testimony at the hearing persons should call the ICC's Detroit office at 313-226-4966 and ask for Erma Johnson or seek assistance from the Northwest Commission office in Traverse City, 120 W. State St., Phone 946-5922.

Free Trash Pick-up

Charlevoix Township residents can get their trash hauled away for nothing on Saturday, May 18, says Supervisor Oscar Stroud.

You must have the trash out at the curb by no later than 12 noon and be a township resident.

There will also be no charge at the landfill that day.

County Gets Cash For State Lands

Charlevoix County will receive $26,515.68 from the Department of Natural Resources at its latest allotment in lieu of taxes for conservation land, State Representative Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon) today reported.

Representative Ostling said that Charlevoix County's payment is among $2.6 million in payments made to 82 of Michigan's 83 counties for state conservation land purchased after 1933.

These funds, Mr. Ostling points out, come from an earmarked appropriation to the DNR made by the State Legislature.

The DNR's payments for state lands purchased after 1933 are based on the same local millage rates covering private property and are

Council's Tennis Decision Handled in Wrong Manner

Charlevoix City Council's decision to lock-up the municipal tennis courts last weekend was far too abrupt and hasty.

The Council's intention was to focus the city's attention towards a problem at the courts with people chasing tennis balls on private property.

We agree with the council that there is a problem and that it is causing a hardship on adjacent property owners, however, we don't agree with the method the problem was handled by.

First, we seriously question whether the general public was fully aware of the problem and given enough time to attempt to solve it on their own.

Secondly, an order to lock something up isn't really resolving the problem. Instead, it is raising the wrath of area tennis huffs.

And thirdly, we question the ability of the council to be able to make any type of clear decision at 1 a.m. in the morning.

We hope city councilmen will think over their decision and not continue the same type of policy.

And when considering alternative solutions, we urge them not to begin starting a fee to play tennis and having to hire a supervisor as was discussed in last week's meeting.

Our recommendation is that the council consider placing some type of nylon screening over the top of the courts.

We are confident that the council will be able to resolve the problem without having to resort to locking up the courts again.

"Open Meetings Act" Leaves Loopholes For Secret Sessions

In a free, democratic society, legislation declaring that public meetings are the public's business should be unnecessary.

Such, however, is not the case.

Too many elective officials labor under delusion that they have a divine right to conduct public business behind closed doors.

City councils, school boards, county boards of commissioners, township boards--all have succumbed to the temptation from time to time to deny the public and the press access to their deliberations for one reason or another.

In Charlevoix, fortunately, closed meeetings are few and far between. Although the school board does go into so-called "executive session" from time to time to discuss disciplinary problems, collective bargaining procedures and teacher evaluations, most school business is conducted in public forum.

The city council also holds off-the-record meetings occasionally, but reporters usually are invited to sit-in in order so that they may better understand the issues when they come up for public discussion.

However, many communities are not so fortunate. That is why the Michigan Legislature is deliberating an "Open Meeting Act" during the current session.

Although we heartily concur with the spirit of such legislation, we are terribly afraid that the bill, as proposed, contains so many loopholes, particularly in the section dealing with "executive sessions," that it could actually result in more closed meetings than we love at present.

The bill lists eight specific reasons for conducting "executive sessions." Some of them, admittedly, are valid, such as those concerning collective bargaining, student discipline, personnel problems and the like.

However we do not feel that our elective officials should be permitted to meet in secret when considering appointments of public officers. Or negotiating the purchase or disposition of property. Or when considering a threat to the health, welfare or safety of the citizenry "Public knowledge of which, in the opinion of the public body, would be detrimental to efforts to meet or lessen the threat."

The last exemption is so broad that virtually every public meeting could be conducted in private since "threats" abound on every side in today's highly complex society.

Basically, the bill is sound since it provides penalties for offenders and may even in its final form invalidate the actions of public bodies taken in violation of its provisions. However, the scope of the section on "executive sessions" must be narrowed or the legislation will be virtually useless in defending the public's right-to-know.

City Clean-up A Hey-Day For Collectors

The annual city-wide trash pick-up is now history and a grand time was had by all.

Although figures are incomplete at this writing as to how many truckloads of household debris were hauled to the dump by hard-hatted city employes, we are confident their burden was eased by the rag-picker instinct that seems to die hard in many of us.

As piles of broken bicycles and rickety rocking chairs began appearing on curbstones last Sunday afternoon, the collectors turned out in force to paw through their neighbors' discards for items worth saving.

And as night fell, the streets were literally crawling with salvage crews carting home defunct electric toasters, dismantled doll furniture--and broken crockery by the wagon load.

No one cared, of course. The items has been discarded and if someone wanted them, he was welcome to take them.

However, we'd like to suggest a city-wide "rummage sale" next year just before the annual clean-up. We could all pile our "collectibles" on the curb and let them go on a first-come, first served basis.

Besides, it would remove some of the "rag picker" stigma that some of us find embarrassing. For heavens sake, what if we were caught? (B.C.)

Letters to the editor

She's Had It With Taxes

Friends, if I may paraphrase the immortal words of two famous statesmen: Julius Caesar and Sam Houston: "THE IDES OF TAXES ARE UPON US."

And, speaking of great statesmen, let me tell you the truth about that great American statesman - Benjamin Franklin. You see, how it really happened was, one rainy day in Philadelphia in the year 1789, young Ben was being very obnoxious. His mother, in a fit of pique, hollered: "Hey kid, go fly a kite!" So, Ben put on his raincoat, grabbed his kite and went outdoors. About five minutes later, a bolt of lightening hit Ben's kite, which really shocked him. He ran into the house crying: "Ma, I just discovered a certain way to make electricity!!"

Mother Franklin gently chided Ben by saying: "Now you know Ben, you must never be "certain" about anything. Only fools are "certain". In fact, the only certain things you can be certain of, are death and taxes." So, you see, it wasn't really Ben who immortalized that phrase, but Mother Franklin. And, that's the truth....

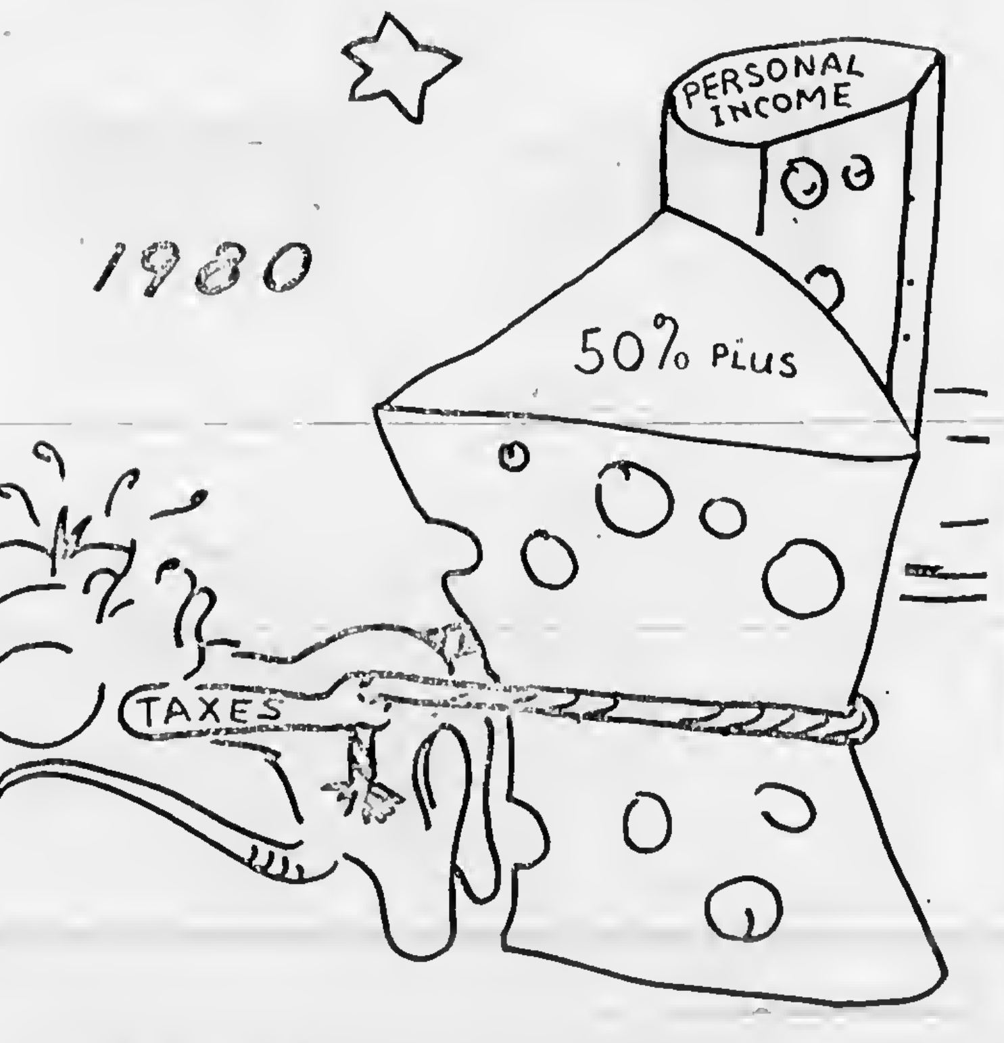
But, she was proven wrong and the phrase "nothing is certain but death and taxes" is no longer a fact. Look at the medical advances in transplants of everything from hearts to hangnails, to freezing, which disclaims her certainty about death. And, what of the political advances in transplanting our earnings into governmental spending, via taxation, which is certainly not certain. For example, I saw a tax chart that showed the tax bite on the taxpayers earnings from 1930 to 1950 more than doubled. It went from 15 percent of our personal income to 32 percent, for combined government spending. Like WOW.

Now I'm certain that the subject of taxes is a painful one, but it is vital that we all learn as much as possible about what is going on, and what can be done to revise the present system of increased spending by the government. We must, somehow, clamp the lid down right now.... Representative Thomas G. Sharpe of Livingston County has introduced a Constitutional amendment that will do just that - clamp the lid down on excessive state spending. Rep. Sharpe feels that the state should run their house, just as we have to run our own house - on a fixed budget. Rep. Sharpe is a member of the House Appropriations Committee, and if anyone knows about state spending it is Rep. Sharpe. He's a 12 year veteran in the House of Representatives, and a firm believer in tax reform. The bill - "House Joint Resolution CC" basically, is a proposal to combat increases in state spending, at the taxpayers expense, without the taxpayers say in the matter. For example: in 1950 the combined government spending at all levels represented 32 percent of personal income, or 5.46 percent on the state level. (See Cartoon I)

The state was constantly adding additional programs and increasing spending on the established programs, such as welfare, schools, highways, etc., etc. and the money had to come from the taxpayer, like it or not. In 1970, the combined government spending, at all levels, represented 43 percent of personal income, or 6.73 percent on the state level. (See Cartoon II). At the rate we are increasing government spending, it is anticipated that by the year 1980, the combined government spending at all levels, will represent more than 50 percent of personal income, and the state level will far exceed 12 percent to 14 percent. (See Cartoon III).

In other words, and think about this...if something is not done, we will be spending more on taxes than we spend on our food, clothing and shelter all combined. What Rep. Sharpe proposes in his resolution, is to put state spending at a ceiling level of 8.7 percent of personal income right now. If this ceiling can be established on state spending, the state would then have to derive new priorities on spending programs, and eliminate the less important ones, if necessary, to aid the more important programs, without "socking it to us". Rep. Sharpe wants the taxpayers to have a say in how the state should spend their money.

At present, it would take 2/3's of both Houses in Lansing to pass the resolution, and it is being held up in committee. So we, the taxpayers, must jar this loose and get the resolution passed. In Livingston County, the Board of Commissioners are in support of this proposed resolution, and if the Board of Commissioners in each county in the state were to support this resolution, they could petition the state to place it on the ballot, for all of us voters to make known the need for more tax controls. So, here is where we come in...attend the next Board of Commissioners meeting in your county, or write to them and urge them to support this bill. Or, write to this newspaper, or Rep. Sharpe in Lansing, and let's get those petitions pouring into Lansing. "House Joint Resolution CC" could be our security blanket, and you will do well to act as soon as possible.



I stopped off in Lansing and picked up a copy of the resolution, and I can truthfully say that it is reassuring to have someone in Lansing fighting for the poor taxpayer. I got to know Rep. Sharpe, and take it from me, he is a very dedicated legislator. I was really impressed to learn that he has only missed seven (7) sessions in the twelve (12) years he has served in the House.

If we had a few more legislators like Tom Sharpe, worrying about increased state spending, would have a ceiling on state spending right now, instead of having to petition, to get it placed on the ballot. If we cannot roll back spending, let us at least keep it from increasing to the point where we will have to work five months out of the year just to pay our taxes.

Get those letters rolling in...I'll see ya at the polls.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

One room at 207 E. Dixon-ave. has posed a puzzle for Judy and me ever since we moved to Charlevoix nine years ago.

It's a nice, sunny front bedroom on the second story, with windows on the east and south. This particular room is not much different from other rooms upstairs, but it has a problem. The paint chips. And chips. And chips.

This is one of the rooms that needed a thorough redecorating before the Clocks move to Beaver Island next month.

Several months ago, Judy decided that another coat of paint just wouldn't do, what with the chipping problem, so she proceeded to remove all the old paint with a razor blade – tedious, time-consuming work.

Last week my newphew Tom Gross arrived on the scene to help us with our many redecorating projects and decided to tackle the remainder of what the girls call "the chippie room," totally unaware that "chippie" carries different meanings under different circumstances.

Tom spent two full days on the room before all of the loose paint was on the floor. I was all for applying a new coat of paint immediately, but Judy insisted that we wash the walls to get to the heart of the problem.

And the problem turned out to be calcimine, a word as foreign to young people to day as "asafetida bags" were to my generation.

Calcimine, for all you johnny-come-latlies, was a mixture of white zinc, glue and water that was applied to plastered surfaces to give them soft, flat patina. It was used mostly on ceilings and there was nothing prettier than a freshly calcimined ceiling. But if you ever want to paint over a calcimined ceiling, you have to wash off the calcimine first, or else the paint won't stick.

That was the problem in the Clock's "chippie room."

After we discovered the problem, Tom and I set out in earnest to wash off all of the old calcimine. Once wet, it comes off in globs and we threw out buckets of yellowish wash water the color of the Yangtze River. And probably just as thick.

Underneath were the original sand-plastered walls that hadn't seen the light of day in 80 or 90 years. The calcimine was their first covering and it gave me sort of an eerie feeling to realize how much history is wrapped up in the old homes of Charlevoix.

Those poor walls probably were calciminated in the 1880's or early 1890's long before the automobile was invented. If the house was completed in the 1800's, the calcimine probably arrived at Norwood by boat from Chicago and was hauled to Charlevoix by horse-drawn livery.

If the room was finished in winter, it was probably done by the cheery glow of a wood stove. You can still see a spot on one of the walls where a stove pipe tunneled its way into the chimney.

I can see the lady of the house, whoever she was, popping logs into the stove and exhorting the decorators to apply enough calcimine so that flaws in the sand plaster didn't show through.

Halfway through our scrubbing job, I paused by the front window and looked out onto Dixon-ave. The cars had all disappeared in their place were surreys, democrats and all kind of fancy horse-drawn rigs clattering past the house. Women swathed in patticoats and ankle-length skirts and gentlemen in frock coats and top hats were promenading up and down the street. Kids dressed like Buster Brown were playing with hoops on the lawn.

I could smell the sawdust from Charlevoix Lumber Co. down the street and I could see the tall masts of schooners in Round Lake.

Then in a twinkling in was 1974 again and Tom and I had acres of calcimine to remove from the walls before calling it a day.

It's funny what halucinations can be triggered by a mixture of white zinc, glue and water.

There's No Business Like....

By JIM FITZGERALD

What impressed me most about the President's TV show on releasing the tape transcripts was his packaging. He showed a lot of class and show business savvy. But I can't help worrying about his encore.

Nixon was sore about being forced to make a "major unprecedented exception to the principle of confidentiality of the presidency." It's not easy for a President to reveal publicly that "expletives" written on the Oval Office wall don't look much better than dirty words above the urinal.

Under the embarrassing circumstances, Nixon could have been excused if he'd dumped the transcripts into Pat's old hatboxes, tied them with clothesline, and hired the neighbor's kid to deliver them to the judiciary committee in a wheelbarrow.

But not our leader. He had those (expletive here) transcripts bound in leather with the covers suitably embossed in gold, describing the contents and giving the date, destination and return address. Which, by the way, explains the President's delay in responding to the subpoena. In most print shops, a job like that takes two months.

Then came Nixon's classiest move. He piled the transcripts next to his microphone when he went on TV in the latest episode in the continuing series "The Waltons Wouldn't Wallow in Watergate."

The program was brilliantly choreographed. Every few minutes the camera would switch from Nixon's face to the pile of transcripts. This provided viewers with physical evidence of how many millions of confidential words they can read if they subscribe to the New York Times and have the summer off.

And let's just see that (adjective deleted) Rich Little and David Frye impersonate a pile of books.

All in all, it was a brilliant show. But can Nixon top it in the next episode? As Milton Berle could attest, the public is fickle and a performer is only as good as his last show.

A lot of (unintelligible) Congressmen are still not satisfied. They want tapes, not transcripts. And they are interested in more than Watergate. They keep asking about the milk deal, the Ellsberg breakin, and a lot of (adjective deleted) nonsense like that.

It is likely the President will be forced to allow further breaches in the confidentiality of the presidency. But the American public may not accept a rerun of the old transcripts-on-the-desk routine. They'll want something fresh. And that's the problem Nixon will have to solve if he wants to maintain his TV ratings.

Maybe a soliloquy by banker Bebe Rebozo explaining why he didn't deposit Howard Hughes' $100,000 and earn 7¼ percent interest? That would be more educational than a pile of books.

There could be a Washington Squares game, with Ron Ziegler in every square, explaining the milk deal is inoperative because the president of the dairy co-op forgot to leave ½ pint of whipping cream and a quart of chocolate.

Tricia and Julie could imitate the Double Mint twins, dancing a soft shoe while Dad explains the purpose of breaking into the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist was to get material for a guest spot on the Bob Newhart Show.

Or something like that. The important thing is that the (expletive) camera point somewhere else once in awhile, thus giving the star a chance to wipe the sweat off his upper lip.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Supt. Jim McKimmy

Charlevoix Public School Superintendent Jim McKimmy is just about to complete his first year at Charlevoix.

But the year isn't over with yet, as he still has to go through a spring millage election next month and teacher contract negotiations.

It's been a difficult year, most recently with the Charlevoix Middle School, but McKimmy says he's looking for a good year next year.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier probes into some of the superintendent's expectations and philosophy towards education, as well as the upcoming June election.

McKimmy has served as a classroom teacher, football and wrestling coach and junior and senior high principal prior to being appointed assistant superintendent at Alma.

McKimmy is a member of the Phi Delta Kapp Professional Education Fraternity, The Michigan and American Associations for School Administrators and the Michigan Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

He is a graduate of Beaverton High School, Manchester College, Central Michigan University and Michigan State University.

His graduate studies focuses on general school administration and curriculum.

He and his wife, LouAnn, have three children.

COURIER: What is your philosophy of education and how do you see applying these goals or philosophy toward the development of Charlevoix School District as superintendent?

MC KIMMY: Basically, I see the public school as a service agency of this community. As a service agency, the expectations of the community have changed over the years from 3 R's– reading, writing and arithmetic to a better way which can serve the needs of literally the total population of the community. The same needs are not always shared in the opinion of every individual member of the community but still we have contact with groups desiring a variety of services. They include preschool service, public library service, the student population that you normally have that a public school on a K-12 basis, adult education, recreation programs through senior citizens activities that may be housed or supported by the school system. Those programs differ from community to community, but I think that the general point of view remains that the expectations of the school are increasing in the eyes of the community.

COURIER: What specific goals or objectives do you see this particular community, Charlevoix, wanting over perhaps other ones? Services in particular.

MC KIMMY: As a Superintendent of schools, it is not my responsibility to superimpose on this community or any community a set of values or goals for its school system, but it is to bring together those people who should be involved in making those decisions. Then after having arrived at a decision of what the schools should be, it is our responsibility to manage the resources and the personnel to see those goals cover reality. See, even though I come in with a personal point of view, I am a part of the community rather than representative of the goals for the school within myself. Then taking up the various aspects of the community we have to identify them, determine whether or not we want to afford them and manage them in our school system. That means working with community, working with the community's representatives through the Board of Education, means working with faculty members, other administrators, and pupils. Definition of pupils today, of course, is literally preschool through senior citizens group rather than five to 18-year olds.

COURIER: What specific emphasis do you see as far as Charlevoix in terms of education for the community?

MC KIMMY: A lot of our contact with the school system focuses on secondary years. By secondary, I will refer to grades 9 through 12, even though technically grades 7 and 8 in the Middle School are considered secondary. But at the secondary years, you have your performing groups, you have your competitive groups, you have your college preparatory programs, your vocational programs, those kinds of things which draw attention to the largest cross section of the community. At any given time in a community, the percentage or the proportion of people that are represented in your elementary, middle school age level remains fairly static. The individuals change, but if we have an enrollment in grades K-8 of about 1200. Let's see K-4 is 673, Middle school 578-so we are 1,150 to 1,200 students. That figure remains fairly constant plus the normal growth of the school system, but as a person moves through that K-8 program and into the secondary program, they tend to remain there for the rest of their years of interest in the school. So we have an increasingly large proportion of our people focusing on the programs at the secondary level. That means then, that the Board of Education has to recognize a total responsibility and to make those appropriations and determinations of goals which develop the highest caliber of programs for the formative years of K-8. What I am saying is that a number of different groups who have interest that stimulate development in one thing or another. In addition, there are the accreditation agencies, who are voluntary groups outside of the community, who say that there are certain mental standards to be maintained at the secondary years. The K-8 remains school persons and boards plus that group of adults and pupils which are moving through the K-8 years. Speaking as a person who is involved in this process, the highest goal that I have in education is to recognize the dignity and the integrity of the individual person. Now, that is overriding in any consideration of a question, whether it is the development of a vocational program, the development of an academic program, the management of students within our schools. What are we doing in our school system to help each individual to recognize his potential to become a self-actualizing person. To recognize his own self value, that regardless of his station in life and where he ends up, he is a manager of his own talents. Now in the elementary programs that means seeing that there is adequate preparation on the factual kinds of information and skills. As we move through, it's helping him to make those social adjustments which allow him to function in the society. Many people have said things similar to this in the past but we have some very clear answers between what's good and bad results. Where our difficulties come, are people who share the common goal helping that individual trying to decide between two points of view, both of which can be considered good. Even in that process, we have to recognize the individuality of the two people who are making the decision so part of the management requirement is the skill to help those people come together, to make the decisions, that all decisions focused on the benefit of the individual. So we're talking about the academic preparation, we're talking about the socialization of the person who comes to the school system, but we recognize that those programs are there to serve individuals. If there is anything in my philosophy that I feel is going to help us hold together as they face the future, it's helping a person build a strong foundation within himself, that he is not destroyed by the circumstances that he finds himself in. We have to come to recognize that any condition that we find in the future is a passing scene and that the thing that's going to be continuous from one scene to the next is the individual that encounters those changing scenes and it has to become the strength of character, the personal psychological, religious foundation that helps him move out into the future. We're looking for strong people. We're not just looking for them, we're trying to provide everyone with the best resources we have now to help them become those strong people and face the shock of a culturation to an unknown future.

COURIER: With a new millage election coming this June 10, what will the Board of Education be asking the public to consider here in Charlevoix?

MC KIMMY: The Board has asked for a renewal of a 6.5 mills which expires 1973. Our present millage is at 22 mills for operating. With the present state of the economy, the Board of Education feels that it is important that we hold the line in our request for financial support in the community. This means that we will have to reduce our budget in some areas. We are experiencing inflationary costs in many of our operating costs and in wages and salaries. At the present time, we feel that it is unrealistic to request an increase in our operating millage. Now there will be a very important question that has to be answered in our community. Our tax base went from $61,943 million up to $68.5 million.

COURIER: Now does this mean this is what your tax base is for you to base your millage upon?

MC KIMMY: That's correct. It is approximately 10 percent greater than it was a year ago. The normal reaction to that is the schools will realize 10 percent more money. The real answer to it, is that we lose most of the benefit of that increase in State aid.

COURIER: Does the County Tax Allocation Board take that into consideration?

MC KIMMY: The County Tax Allocation Board Preliminary hearing date is May 20. It is very important to us that they do take it into consideration and understand their process. If they don't give us our request, then we would have to reduce our budget-by whatever portion we don't receive.

COURIER: Is it true that under the present state aid formula, the amount of per pupil aid decreases as the State Equalized Value (SEV) increases?

MC KIMMY: That is correct. At the present time we are receiving about 107,000 dollars in state aid. Next year we will receive zero dollars for general education. There will be some categorical aid such as for transportation, vocational education and special education. But, for general per pupil aid, we will receive zero.

We know that the cost of living in the last 12 months from March to March increased 10.2 percent. We will have wage and salary increases to consider, our utility and operational costs will also go up, but we feel at this time that it is important in our community that we hold the line in budget requests.

Puff's Appliance Announces Grand Opening This Week

Puff's Appliance Center opens its doors to Charlevoix this week with a special Grand Opening celebration.

Having just completed its new building at 1202 South Bridge, Puff's is now ready to serve area residents from its Charlevoix location.

Like all of its other stores in Petoskey, Cheboygan and Alpena, the Charlevoix center will service a full line of brand name televisions, radios, home appliances and marine electronic equipment.

Some of the major names include General Electric, Whirlpool, Sunray, Bowmar, RCA, Sylvania, MGA, Fisher, Electrophonic and Sonar.

Stereo enthusiasts will especially want to check out Puff's specially designed sound room filled with the latest in stereo sound.

Puff's was established in 1955 in Charlevoix and expanded to Petoskey in 1961.

It later opened stores in Cheboygan and now has come back to Charlevoix.

The entire management team resides in Charlevoix including Richard Donaldson, general manager; Ken Boss, Petoskey store manager; Fritz Puffpaff, Charlevoix store manager; Bob Miles, business manager; and Ed Buday, service manager.

Puff's currently employs some 30 people and was named the "Brand Name Retailer of the Year," in 1966 by the Brand Names Foundation.

Puffpaff, who will be managing the Charlevoix center, has been in the appliance retail business since 1955. Previously, he worked in the General Electric service division in Grand Rapids for eight years.

The 48-year-old store manager and his wife, Ann, live in Charlevoix and have three children.

He has managed both the Petoskey and Cheboygan stores and is a member of the Petoskey Bay View Country Club.

Puff's is located in the Donaldson Building owned by Richard and Katherine Donaldson of Charlevoix.

A lifelong resident of Charlevoix, Richard attended the University of Miami in Florida and graduated from Michigan State University.

He is chairman of the board and general manager of Puff's Appliance Centers, as well as secretary-treasurer and general manager of DZH Corporation in Alpena.

He is a partner of Donaldson Poly Clean Center in Petoskey and the Launderett in Charlevoix.

Donaldson has served two terms on the Charlevoix City Council and just recently completed a four-year school term on the Charlevoix School Board.

He's a twice former director and presently vice president of the National Appliance and Radio-TV Dealers Association based in Chicago.

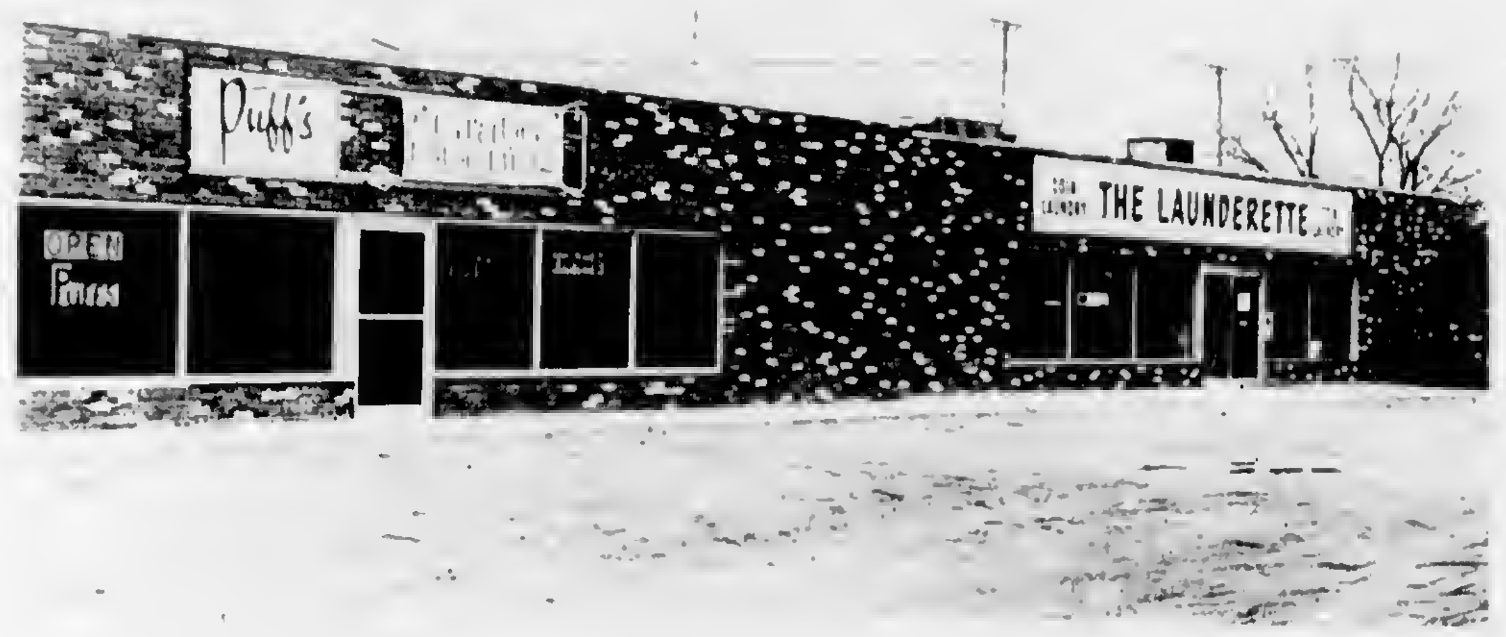
In 1963, Donaldson was named the "Creative Retail Salesman of the Year," and has been named by Readers Digest as number one in creative advertising.

Both Donaldsons are active in local boating and fishing.

The Launderette, which is located next to Puff's Appliance Center, is a self-service coin laundry owned by the Donaldsons and Mr. and Mrs. Rick Donaldson.

It contains 36 washers and 18 dryers and is open seven-days-a-week.

There are 23 parking spaces to accommodate those visiting either business.



PUFF'S APPLIANCE Centers announced the grand opening of their new Charlevoix location this week. Located on Bridge Street, the center houses a complete line of appliances and electronic equipment to service the Charlevoix area.

ONE OF the unique features in the new center is a special stereo room where you can listen to the latest in sound equipment.

LIKE ALL of its other locations in Northern Michigan, Puff's offers a full line of appliances.

PUFF'S APPLIANCE Center offers a full range of brand name televisions and radio equipment at their new Charlevoix location.

A Developer's Dream

Dunes to Open Soon

Contractor Ron Steffes is getting pretty excited these days.

His multi-million dollar luxurious condominium nestled on the shores of Lake Michigan in Charlevoix is almost completed.

He's excited because The Dunes is about to be a dream come true and it's his offering to Charlevoix.

In just two weeks, May 25, he'll be opening up a model apartment unit to give people just a peek of what's in store for those purchasing one of the luxurious 24 units.

There are a lot of unique features about The Dunes and when you asked Steffes about his condominium he finds it hard to tell you which are the most exciting.

The building, which is being finished in brick and cedar, represents a European flavor and according to Steffes is one of the best in the world having been designed by Architect Jack Begrow of Charlevoix.

He said they attempted to create a building that blended in with the charm of Charlevoix and would fit into the town.

But then if you wait a few minutes, Steffes will begin talking about the fantastic landscaping that will surround the project.

The general contractor from Southfield has been in the landscape profession for many years having been a major contributor to Garden Exhibit in Detroit's Cobo Hall for the last 10 years and walking away with top honors one year.

"It's my intent to make it a showcase for our landscape business," he said about the Oakland Landscape Company he has owned since 1949.

He even hopes to have roof top gardens.

Having been a long admirer of Earl Young's work around Charlevoix, Steffes says he hopes to give The Dunes the same flavor by placing large boulders on the premises.'

He estimates he is using more than 1000 ton of native boulders around the property.

In an attempt to maintain as much of the existing beach as possible, Steffes says he is placing many of the boulders along the beach as a retaining wall.

As a pioneer of indoor swimming pools and owner of American Pools, Inc., Steffes says residents will have a $200,000 indoor pool for their use at any time.

The 20 by 40-ft. pool will also have a hydro-therapy unit that will provide a whirlpool effect for those wanting to relax.

Then of course, there are the units themselves. Each have a spacious balcony that overlooks the magnificent Lake Michigan.

There are 24 large 2 and 3-bedroom apartment each with a fireplace place to compliment the living and dining areas.

Each two-bedroom unit offers two-full baths, while the three-bedroom units have a third bath and dressing room.

The Dunes apartments also offer a whole host of other features ranging from electric heat and air-conditioning to fully-equipped Westinghouse appliances for both the kitchen and laundry areas.

Other features include cable television and tinted glass on the lake side with natural wood-burning fireplaces.

There are also car ports, a sauna and large game room.

Steffes, who already maintains a seasonal residence in Charlevoix, plans on occupying one of the top penthouse apartments with his wife Charlotte, and children.

One other unique feature about The Dunes is the 10 guest apartments units that will be available for friends and relatives to stay in during their visits.

When The Dunes opens on May 25, Steffes said there will be a seven-day-a-week office open at the site for visitors to come and ask questions about the development.

The entire project is expected to be completed in early July.

GENERAL CONTRACTOR Ron Steffes looks over final construction work being done at The Dunes.

Set Two New Records

Charlevoix Rayders Capture Soo Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder track and field team, 11 players strong, topped 20 teams to capture the Kiwanis-sponsored Soo Invitational meet last Wednesday.

The Rayders set two new Soo Invitational records in the 880 and 440 relays as they rolled up 65 points to take the meet over a favored Pickford Panther team that came in second with 62 points. Rudyard placed third with 47 points followed by Munising with 27 and Onaway with 19 points.

With an 880 relay team composed to Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin The Rayders set a new record of 1:34.5 and the same team ran the 440 relay in 45.5.

Other firsts taken by Charlevoix were the mile relay (Chuck Faust, Ed Russell, Jim Sundberg and Gary Novotny) with a time of 3:40.1; the 220 yd. dash by Martin in a time of 23.55 and Streeter the long jump with a distance of 20'7½".

Others who scored points to give the team the needed depth for the victory were; Chuck Faust, a second in the 880 yd. run; Randy Faust third in both the high and low hurdles; Brian Williams third in the mile; Streeter second in the 100 yd. dash; Russell Third in the 440 yd. run; Jim Potter second and Clay Jones third in the shot put; Skippergosh second in the high jump and Martin second in the long jump.

Three other meet records were broken when Bennan of Munising ran the mile in 4:37.6; Green of Rudyard the low hurdles in 21.2 and Skinner of Pickford the two mile run in 9:52.1.

After winning the Soo Invitational Wednesday, the Charlevoix Rayders were forced to enter the meet at Cheboygan Thursday without any of the regular sprinters and top field event regulars.

The result was an 87½ to 35½ loss to the Cheboygan Chiefs, the first the Rayders had experienced this season.

Earning first places for Charlevoix were Gary Novotny who took the high jump and the 880 yard run, Kevin Speer the long jump and Pat Plumm the pole vault.

Tallying points were: Speer with a jump of 19'5¼"; Novotny a first and Jim Sundberg a third in the high jump of 5'9"; Plumm a first and Brian Williams a tie for third place in the pole vault with a 10' height; Novotny a first and Dan Greene a third in the 880 yd. run with a time of 2:10.9; Bob Alger a third in the high hurdles; Jeff Bergmann, a third in the mile; Joe Kaufman, a second in the 100yd. dash; Sundberg, a second and Chuck Faust, a third in the 440 yd. run Matt Doan, a third in the low hurdles and Wally Drenth, a second in the two mile run.

This week will find the Rayders, coached by Gary Stutzman assisted by Dave Moyer, participating in the Rudyard Relays on Wednesday and the Regionals at Pine River Saturday.

BRIAN OSTERBERG won his first match in number one singles last week against Boyne City.

Charlevoix Tennis Team Loses Match to Boyne

The Charlevoix Tennis Club lost two of three extra matches and lost a heartbreaking meet to Boyne City last Thursday. The final 4-3 score was every bit as close as it sounds, and emphatically demonstrated that both first year squads have a bright future in tennis.

The meet, a first in Charlevoix, lured many curious spectators to the Charlevoix public courts and nobody went home disappointed.

With the meet tied 4-4, the entire outcome depended on the results of the number three doubles match where Paul Berg and Mark Cockfield were matched against Boyne City's Jeff and Denny Kruzel in a brutal two and a half hour struggle.

Both sides played cautiously in the first set. The long drawn-out points resulted in a 6-6 tie and a tie breaker, best of nine points, was necessary to determine the first set winner. With the points at four apiece, Cockfield served deep to Jeff Kruzel's forehand.

Kruzel hit a short cross-court which Cockfield rushed to hit. His screaming forehand down the line hit the top of the net and just trickled in. First set to Cockfield and Berg, 7-6.

The next two sets were just as close and the rallies even longer. Berg's steady backcourt play combined with Cockfield's powerful forehand volley kept the Charlevoix doubles team in the match. But the Kruzel brothers were a shade steadier, winning the second set 7-5.

When the score became 4-4 in the third and deciding set, the two teams became even steadier; the points even longer. Cockfield and Berg managed to win the next game to take a 5-4 lead with Cockfield serving. Berg's winning drop shot gave them match point, but Denny Kruzel hit a hard deep shot which was too much for Cockfield to handle.

This seemed to take the it all out of the Charlevoix duo, as the Kruzels applied the pressure and finally won the set 7-5, and the meet.

In other matches, Brian Osterberg survived a shaky start and overpowered Kevin Klevorn 6-3, 7-5 at number one singles. Gretchen Olsen, playing number 2 singles, lost a tough one, 0-6, 6-2, 6-3 to Mark Neumann. Boyne City also won at three and four singles with Ken Gahn defeating John Greene, 6-3, 6-1, and Chris McClees besting Bob Sandahl, 6-0, 6-2.

Number one doubles found Mark Hosmer and Ted Lass, Charlevoix's number one doubles team, making a nice comeback and winning 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 over Al Roisen and Matt Guitar. Charlevoix's Mark Malpeli and Dan Engstrom won easily at number 2 doubles over Greg Hardy and Matt Walden, 6-2,6-0.

Charlevoix will have its chance for revenge, as the evenly matched squads do battle today on the Charlevoix public courts. Friday, the Charlevoix Club travels to Leeland to play in the state regionals; a week later the season ends with a home meet against Gaylord.

1974 FORD PINTO

Pinto economy begins where you need economy, in the engine room. Recent tests show Pinto's thrifty 2000-cc engine averaged 28.1 miles per gallon.

That's one big reason why Pinto is America's best selling subcompact.

But basic economy isn't the only consideration for buying Pinto. Low price is just as important. And, Pinto's got it. Only $2442.

A lot of little car for the money.

*Sticker price for base 2-door excluding destination charges, dealer preparation, title and taxes.
Test conducted by General Environments Corporation.

February 19, 1974. Pinto averaged 28.1 miles per gallon equipped with standard engine and transmission broken in to the equivalent of 6000 miles and driven from Phoenix to Los Angeles using regular gas. Never exceeding 50 miles per hour. The driver was not a professional. Of course mileage depends on driving conditions, total weight, optional equipment, maintenance and driving habits. The mileage you get may be less or even more than the figure quoted here.

First Team Loss

Charlevoix Girls Beat

The Charlevoix Girls' truck and field team defeated Petoskey 55 to 32 and lost to Rogers City by a slim three point margin, 44½ to 41½ in a double dual meet at Kipke field Friday. In a third meet Rogers City defeated Petoskey 58 to 29.

In defeating Petoskey, Charlevoix took nine of a possible 11 first places for the win. However, in the meet with Rogers City the local girls lost though the were able to pick up five firsts out of a possible ten after all three teams in the meet were disqualified in the 880 relay for various reasons.

The locals picked up 23 of their points in the field events in their meeting with Petoskey as they took all first and second places though they tied for a third in the long jump.

Cheryl Pence placed first in the high jump and the shot put while the Alger sisters took second in the long jump and shot put.

In the field events they took six firsts with Denise Boss accounting for two plus a first in the long jump in the field events.

The results of this meet follows:

High Jump: Pence; Beth Egler. Ht. 4'8''; long jump: Boss; Tori Alger. Distance: 16'1''; Shot put: Pence; Jodi Alger. Distance: 31' 6¾'', Hurdles: Terri Morris 2nd; Kay Curry 3rd; Medley relay: Charlevoix (Terri Novotny, Dona Bellows, Ginny Eby, Kathy Wheeler). Time: 2:, 880 yd. run: Boss. Time: 2:34.5; 100 yd. dash: J. Alger, Time : 12.45; mile: Terri Hufford. Time : 6:34; 220 yd. run: Novotny. Time :28.7; 440 yd. run: Boss; Gail Powell, 3rd. Time: 1:06.1.

In the Rogers City meet the results were as follows:

High jump: Penee, 3rd; long jump: Boss. Distance: 16'1''; Shot put: Pence; J. Alger. Distance: 31'6' ¾''; Hurdles: Morris; Eby tied with Fairbanks (RC) for third place: Time: 12.5; 880 yd. run: Boss. Time: 2:34.5; 100 yd. dash: Jodi Alger, 3rd. Mile: Hufford, 2nd, 220 yd run: Novotny, 2nd; 440 yrd run: Boss; Gail Powell, 3rd. Time : 1:06.1.

Charlevoix, with a 4-1 record in league competition, will enter the Michigan-Huron Shores meet at Boyne City and the regionals at Alpena next Saturday.

SHARON WOODBURY heads the list of high-game women bowlers at Paul Bunyan Lanes. Mrs Woodbury bowled a 268 game recently, 109 above her 159 average.

Ellsworth Defeats Mackinaw City

The Ellsworth Laneers, coached by Hugh Campbell, came in third in a triangular track and field meet held at Kipke field Thursday with Johannesburg chalking up 63 points and Mackinaw City 50, Ellsworth had 45 points for the meet.

Ellsworth will join other Northern Lakes teams in the conference meet here Wednesday. The preliminaries will begin at 10:30 a.m. and the finals at 1:30 p.m. The conference girls will hold their league meet at the same time. The events will be held at Kipke field.

Ellsworth won four firsts and placed in seven other events to place third in Thursday's meet.

Racking up points in the triangular meet were: Brian Farrell, first, with a height of 8'6'' in the pole vault; Rob Grose, first, and Jeff Muha, with a tie for third place, with a time of 19.4 in the 120 yd. high hurdles; Paul Hizelberger, first in the 220 yd. dash with a time of 24.9; Ellsworth, first in the mile relay in a time of 4:06.7.

Placing in other events were: Larry Taylor, second in the 880 yd. run; Hizelberger, second in the 100 yd. dash; Daniel Riebel, second in the mile; Muha, third in the two mile and Grose, third in the 180 yd. low hurdles.

PAT KLOOSTER tries his luck with pole vaulting during last week's meet against Cheboygan in Charlevoix.

Middle School Downs Cheboygan Trackmen

The Charlevoix Middle School track and field team, coached by Jerry Puhl, posted its first win of the season Wednesday by a score of 77 to 55.

In winning, the young Rayders took 11 of a possible 16 first places for their impressive victory.

The local lads swept the shot put and high jump and took a first in the long jump for a lion's share of the field events.

Tom Jones, Barry Potter and Chris Henkel placed one, two, three in the shot with Jones throwing the shot 41'7''; Steve Schuch, Kerry Speer and Jim Elzinga, topped by Schuch's jump of 4'11'' took all three spots in the high jump; Pat Klooster took a second in the pole vault and Schuch, with a jump of 15'3'' a first in the long jump.

Other Charlevoix point getters and how they placed follow:

880 yd. run: Todd Williams first with a time of 2:30.9; 60 yd. high hurdles, Joe Left, third; mile: Bruce Avery first with a time of 5:45.9 and Gilbert Johnson, third; 100 yd. run, Chris Henkel, first with a time of 12.6 and Ron Paul, second; 440 yd. run; Chuck Towsley first with a time of 1:06.4 and Tim Zeitler, second; 100 yd. low hurdles: Jones first with a time of 14.7; 60 yd. dash: Speer first with a time of 8.1; 75 yd. dash: Elzinga, second; 220 yd. run: Schuch first with a time of 28.3; mile relay: Charlevoix (Avery, Tom Left, Paul and Henkel) with a time of 29.3.

Cheboygan won the 880 and 440 yd. relays.

The Charlevoix team will host Boyne City at Kipke field here at 4 p.m. Thursday.

HIGH JUMPER Joe Left was able to clear the early heights with no trouble at all.

Rayders Take First

Twelve first places out of a possible 15 were instrumental in bringing the Charlevoix Rayder track and field team an 89 to 34 victory over Gaylord Monday.

Their next appearance will be at the Rudyard Relays Wednesday.

Charlevoix point-earners follow:

Shot put: Jim Potter, Clay Jones and Phil Christ. Distance: 48'8''.

Long jump: Mike Streeter and Kevin Speer, third. Distance: 20'1''.

Pole vault: Pat Plumm, 2nd; High Jump; Jerry Skippergosh, 2nd and Gary Novotny, 3rd.

In the field events Charlevoix (Skippergosh, Chuck Faust, Joe Kaufman, Kevin Martin) won the 880 relay. Time: 1:37.2; 880 yd. run: Faust, Novotny, Dan Greene. Time: 2:10; 120 yd. high hurdles: Randy Faust; Bob Alger, 3rd. Time: 16:05; Mile: Jeff Bergmann; Brian Williams. Time: 5:10. In the 100 yd. run: Streeter; Kaufman and Speer tied for 3rd. Time: 10.4, 440 yd. run: Ed Russell, 2nd; 180 yd. low hurdles: C. Faust; Skippergosh. Time: 22.1; 2 mile: Jim Sundberg; Wally Drenth, 3rd. Time: 10:36.6. 220 yd. dash: Streeter; Speer, third. Time: 23; Mile relay: Charlevoix (Novotny, Smith, Faust, Martin) Time: 3:45; 440 yd. relay: Charlevoix (Skippergosh, Speer, Kaufman, Streeter) Time: 47.5.

Lions Club Lends Hand To Kids

Charlevoix's teen-age boys in the 13-17 age group will have their own baseball diamond this summer through the efforts of the Charlevoix Lions Club.

With a desire to have their own Babe Ruth league but without a field, they took their problem to the club. The result was the appearance of a delegation of club members at the recent meeting of the Charlevoix county board of commissioners to request the use of county-owned property at the site of county jail.

Lions Club president Gordon Wellman told commissioners of the plight of more than 70 boys in this age group. Wellman said the club was prepared to back the league and prepare the property for use.

Girls Track Team Defeats Boyne

The Ellsworth high school girls track and field team continued their winning ways by capturing 10 of 11 first places in a dual meet with Mackinaw City Thursday and returning home with a 73 to 17 victory to their credit.

The meet was held at Kipke field in conjunction with a triangular boys' meet with Johannesburg joining participants from the same two schools.

Ellsworth's points came as the result of the following wins:

80 yd. hurdles: Kathy Best first and Sue Elzinga, third, with a time of 13.6; 880 medley relay: Ellsworth (Coleen Elzinga, Jan Smalley, Marla Veldkamp, Irene Postmus). Time: 2:14.8; 880 yd. run: Best, Ann Evans and Anna Mathews. Time: 2:52; 100 yd. dash: Veldkamp, first, and Smalley, second. Time: 12.8; mile: S. Elzinga, first; Donna Rusnell, second. Time: 7:07.2; 220 yd. run: C. Elzinga, first; Postmus, second. Time: 31.0; 440 yd. run: Veldkamp, first, and Evans, third. Time: 68.2; 440 yd. relay, Ellsworth (Smalley, Postmus, C. Elzinga, Best). Time: 60.2.

In the field events Veldkamp, C. Elzinga and Smalley took the top three places with a jump of 13'9'' in the long jump; Best, first with a jump of 4'2'' in the high jump and Patty Wallick, second and Joni Peterson, third, in the shot put.

MEET BILL AMUNDSON . . .
He's a professional truck driver's professional. And he's serving as Michigan's Driver of the Year for 1974. Secretary of State Richard Austin presented him with that honor in February. Bill has spent the last 34 years driving all kinds of trucks, mostly in city traffic, covering over 1½ million miles . . . all without an accident.
We wanted you to meet Bill, especially during National Transportation Week, because without him, and the millions of other truck drivers, Michigan would not have the benefit of competing in the market places of the world.

Knutson Announces Candidacy For Congressional Contest

Paul G. Knutson of Negaunee, announced today his candidacy for Democratic Representative from the 11th congressional district.

Citing inflation and the effect it has had on the economy, Knutson has decided to seek the democratic nomination. Knutson says, "My election to congress will give further support to the feelings of most Americans that it is time for a change." He states that with a republican representative, a republican senator, a republican governor and a republican president, Michigan still ranks very low in return of tax dollars to the state.

Congress has been unable, at this point in time, to effectively override presidential vetoes. Knutson's democratic vote in congress is one more vote for the people to receive the programs they have asked for, but not received.... national Health Insurance, The Energy Bill, and Pension Reform.

At a time that people pay from 49 to 63 cents a gallon for gasoline, oil companies are reporting record profits and first quarter earnings. Where is this money coming from? It is coming from you and me. Congress did pass an energy bill which would have lowered the price of gasoline and propane but Mr. Ruppe voted against the measure and the president vetoed it.

Knutson says that Nixon's wage and price controls have not helped the average worker whose paychecks have been shrinking under the rising cost of living, but at the same time major corporations are posting record earnings.

A trip to your local grocery store or gas station is proof enough to you and to me that something has to be done. You can not even buy a home comfortably, let alone maintain the one you may already have. Lending rates are skyrocketing, transportation is hampered by the gasoline shortage and building materials are in short supply.

Knutson, the son of a former local physician, was born and raised in Negaunee. He attended schools in Negaunee and graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, with a major in Political Science and Economics. At Northern Michigan University he did additional work in the field of education as well as the sciences. While a student Knutson worked in the mines around Negaunee as a laborer and up-on graduation taught in an elementary school in the Negaunee Area.

For the past several years, he has been the administrator of the Palmer Nursing Home in Marquette County. During this time he was instrumental in the organization of a Local health planning group and has been active until his resignation last year.

Knutson has been active in several other community wide organizations. He currently resides at 125 E. Main Street, Negaunee, Michigan 49866.

Knutson has been talking with people in the district for several months and says, "It is my feeling that the people in the district are ready for more effective and active leadership. Everywhere I've been, people are telling me what they want and I'm listening. When I am in Washington, I will still be listening and doing something about it."

Players Hold General Meeting

Charlevoix's newly formed "Pine River Players" will hold an organizational meeting Tuesday, May 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix State Bank Community Room.

At that time, there will be sign-ups for auditions and various committees to do the production, "The Seven Year Itch."

Director Jessie Lee along with Connie Ford selected the comedy at the group's first play to be presented this summer.

Seven Year Itch evolves around a man, married for seven years, who is left alone for a week while his wife and son are at the family summer cottage.

The father, Richard, begins talking to himself in order to figure out ways of eliminating his loneliness and boredom.

Finally convincing himself that his wife is having fun, he decides he should and does.

Those unable to make the general meeting should contact Lee Mielleur at Ski and Shore in Charlevoix.

Check Possibilities

New Authority Probed

After having just pushed for a Building Authority for more parking, Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission may be backing another move.

This time they're investigating the possibility of establishing a sewer and water authority between Charlevoix and neighboring townships.

At Thursday night's meeting, Alvin Ragner presented the advisory commission with several state acts that would allow local political units to share utility services through an authority.

The Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. official told the group how both township and city water and sewer lines are within feet of each other but that there presently isn't a mechanism to join them together.

"One method would be to form a utility authority," he said, indicating later that another alternative would be to offer the services to other governmental units on a contractual basis.

He explained how Harbor Springs originally formed only an authority with Little Traverse Township and eventually brought in other townships as they saw the necessity and were willingly to pay their portion.

Commission Chairman John Campbell said that something like this would need a selling job similar to the building authority just appointed by Charlevoix City Council.

In order to accomplish this, he said the commission would first have to research the situation and then come up with a presentation to present to both the commission and Espanol es la lengua segunda en importancia en Los Estados Unidos.

If you were able to understand that sentence, you will probably agree with Nancy Ryswick on one reason why Spanish should be taught in our schools.

As Charlevoix High School's Spanish teacher, Nancy feels that because Americans are traveling more, and nations are becoming more economically involved, we must attempt to communicate with others through their languages.

This philosophy was perhaps formed during two experiences while attending Hope College. During her junior year, Nancy was encouraged by her Spanish professor to study in Bogota, Columbia.

Living with a Colombian family, she recalls several occasions when communication was difficult. However, it was after this experience that Nancy decided to become a Spanish teacher.

Upon returning to college, she continued to actively use Spanish by working with the Spanish Community in Holland.

Now as a teacher, Nancy has tried to provide a similar opportunity for several of her Spanish students by organizing and chaperoning two trips to Spain.

In 1972, she and fifteen students traveled to Madrid and this past April, another trip was made to the southern coast of Spain and North Africa.

Nancy's goal on these trips has been to let the students actually experience a different culture, and provide them with an opportunity to see that people are people wherever you go.

The students are also able to apply and practice the language that they have been studying.

Coming from Fremont, Michigan, Nancy has often been teased about being a "Gerber Baby." Her parents still own the farm outside of Fremont where Nancy grew

"An Internal Affair..."

Commissioners Avoid Fight

By FRAN MARTIN

An effort to draw the Charlevoix county board of commissioners into a local downy brook on Beaver Island gained no support from the commissioners recently when Kenneth Staley of the Public Safety and Property committee labeled the matter "an internal affair that you are going to have to settle among yourselves"

The statement was the result of the appearance of Jewell Gillespie, an island resident, before the board to complain that township funds were being used to improve a privately-owned airport on the island; that the funds should be spent on the township airport and other claims, one relating to present island residents serving on township boards though they have been year-around residents for as little as a year.

To back this claim, he circulated a list of township officers and the length of time each had lived there.

The issues Gillispie brought before the board was the outgrowth of a request by island residents that the Board of Commissioners, through the Civil Defense program, provide the island, located 32 miles north of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan, with a six-passenger plane to be used as an emergency evacuation plane to be flown by two qualified pilots who are island residents.

The request was approved and the plane, acquired to be operated under the jurisdiction of the Sheriff's Department.

At a public hearing held on the island in April and attended by 70 residents, it was agreed to house the plane at an airport owned by William Welke, deputy sheriff and a pilot, until such time as a hangar was provided at the township airport. Welke's airport is located near his home; the township airport eight miles from the village.

Gillispie and Don Cole, airport manager, were advised that public funds could not be used on a private airport and that the county, state or federal officials would not permit this use; that when a hangar was made available, the Emergency Evacuation plane would be housed at the township airport; that if island residents were not satisfied with present township officers they could do something about it at the polls in the next election and if they felt funds were being misappropriated, they should hire a good attorney and take the matter to court. "These are your problems. You will have to settle them at the local level" they were again told.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, the commissioners:

–Approved a special appropriation of $10,600 to complete work on the Ironton ferry ramps with the Road Commission adding approximately $16,000.

–Approved appropriations of $1,365 for the repair of the roof at the county building and annex and $500 to negotiate for the purchase of the Baptist parsonage on Mason-st. adjacent to property already owned by the county.

--Named the Board of Commissioners at the enforcing agency for the Soil Erosion and Sendimentation Act which became effect April 1 and named Bill Mercer, director of the Planning Commission, to attend a special meeting in Lansing next month relating to guidelines for enforcing the act.

–Approved a request by Social Security to use the Veterans Affairs office in the county building every other Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

–Approved the formation of a Commission for the Aging and named the Northwest Michigan Regional Council on Aging as administrator. A county commission was named and will include Florence Wojan of Charlevoix with a second member to be named later; Roth Behrens and Margaret Sorenson of Boyne City, Emma Grobaski and Yvonne Medsker of Boyne Falls and Mildred Bathke and Vern Whiteford of East Jordan.

–Voted to allow $25.00 per diem to Library board members who met twice annually.

–Heard from Bill Mercer that all 15 townships in the county would have zoning ordinances by September.

--Heard from Robert McKown of Boyne City the plans proposed by the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Top Essay Contest Winners Named At Charlevoix Middle School

America means many things to Charlevoix Middle School's Greg Everts.

So, he wrote a definition of America for the Eighth Grade Essay Contest sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance and ended up winning first place.

Everts along with Laurie Glass and Wendy Wieland earned first, second and third place school awards in the seventh annual "America and Me" essny contest and received personalized honor certificates Friday.

In addition to receiving certificates from Charles Elzinga, a Charlevoix State Farm Agent, Everts name will be engraved on a plaque which has been presented to the school.

Schools from every part of the state participated in this year's contest that has been conducted throughout the state.

In six years, the essay contest has expanded from a Lansing area competition to a massive statewide program.

Officials said the topic, "What Does America Mean to Me?" is designed to encourage youth to seriously consider the heritage and future of America.

Studets earning a first place award are entered in statewide competition for the top award–a fully expense paid trip to Washington, D.C.

Everts winning entry was:

What America Means to Me

A Definition

America (a mer' a ka), n.i. a country where most of the land, water, and air is beautiful, clean, and wonderful.

2. A country where the law is a democracy, and the laws are decided by the citizens who place votes.

3. A country where the young men and women of tomorrow can be educated without tuition through the twelfth grade. Where the students that go on to college can choose their own school, without the government telling if and where they can go.

4. A country where its citizens are free to worship anyone and / or anything from God to Satan; where churches are untaxed.

5. A country where its citizens are free to decide where, when, and how they want to live. Where its citizens are free to travel anywhere without a lot of legal procedures.

6. A country where its citizens can openly voice their opinions of the government.

7. A country where radio, television, and theaters are not run by the government.

7. A country which gives money and help to the other countries of the world but little if any in return from those countries.

America (a mer' a ka), n.a. great country of much freedom, equality, and opportunity in the north-eastern hemisphere.

Boys Staters

Seven Charlevoix High School juniors will be attending the annual Boys State sponsored by the American Legion through the efforts of the Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226.

"Boys State is your government in action and we are lucky to have this many young citizens-of-tomorrow who are interested in the future of our country. We need them" Ray Wood, Boys State chairman for the local post said in announcing the names of the boys, Wood was assisted by Max Novak and Tom Wanek in cooperation with Vane Smith, high school principal.

Other local organizations joining with the American Legion in sponsoring the youths are the Kiwanis Club, Freedman Artcraft, Medusa Cement Co. and an Anonymous contributor who will sponsor one boy each and the Lions Club which will sponsor two.

Boys State will be held at Michigan State University June 12-19.

Spring Festival of Music To Be Held This Week

The annual Spring Festival of Music featuring the music department of the Charlevoix public schools is being held this week.

The festival will open Tuesday night with Gary Stutzman directing various Middle School instrumental and vocal groups.

The High School music groups, under the direction of C.A. Odmark, will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Both concerts will be presented at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium.

Thursday's concert will be the final one of the current school year and will feature the Concert Band, augmented by Freshman band members, the girls vocal quintet and the High School Symphony band.

The Concert band will open the 90 minute concert with a group of selections including marches and more serious band compositions and concluding with fun numbers such as Mexican Overture and Blue Tango by Leroy Anderson.

The vocal ensemble, which proved itself at the April concert, will sing several selections including two by Jeannie O'Leary, guitarist, and featuring a duet by her and Sue Smith and a solo by Theresa Russell.

The symphony band will conclude the program with a group of fun numbers including selections from the "Third Suite" by Jager, selections from "Godspell", directed by Barbara Sladek, student director, "Brian's Song" by Lagrand and concluding with the traditional "Stars and Stripes Forever" by John Philip Sousa.

Both concerts are complimentary. Parents and friends of the school are invited to attend both concerts.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO CONFIRM SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

A hearing to confirm a special assessment district as required by the Inland Lakes Level Act will be held Tuesday, June 11, 1974, at 9:00 A.M. in the Circuit Court for the County of Antrim, Bellaire, Michigan.

Such a special assessment district is deemed necessary and appropriate to properly fund the necessary construction, maintenance and administration of water level control structures and appurtenances in order to maintain the court-ordered lake level entered in Cases No. 962 and 1180.

The Court will be asked to confirm a special assessment district to consist of the following parcels of land:

a. All taxable land in the County of Antrim, including incorporated areas therein;

b. All riparian parcels of land on Skegemog Lake, Torch River and Torch Lake in Clearwater Township of Kalkaska County;

c. All riparian parcels of land on Elk and Skegemog Lake in Whitewater Township of Grand Traverse County;

d. All riparian parcels of land on St. Clair Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting waterway in South Arm Township of Charlevoix County; and

3. All parcels of land owned by Michigan Department of Natural Resources which have frontage on Elk Lake, Skegemog Lake, Torch River, Torch Lake, Clam Lake, Lake Bellaire, Intermediate Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting lakes and waterways.

Tell About Boyne City

Kids Discuss History

RAY GREENE, 13, and Kerry Wilkinson, 12, (right) from Boyne City's seventh grade history class answered questions after their presentation last week.

John and Harriet Miller have been dead for more than 100 years.

But last Thursday night, Boyne City seventh graders recreated their adventures for the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Through the use of slides, the group of 15 students told how Harriet's dream eventually led to the founding of Boyne City.

According to the Boyne City youngsters, the two Irish settlers left their farm in Upstate New York in search for a lake shaped like a bear.

They along with John S. Dixon, who they met at Northport, sailed to the Pine River and eventually found Indian Villages at Horton Bay and Advance.

This was just one experience the group, under the direction of teacher Robert Morgridge, explained to the historical society at the Charlevoix State Bank Community Room.

Later during the presentation, students told of how during the 1880's, Boyne City used to be three villages and then eventually about the stores located on Lake Street before the turn of the century.

Seventh grader Marianne Behling said their teacher used to just teach Latin and American history, but after finding information about Boyne City he got more interested in local history.

"One class had a mop contest," she explained.

"And our class made a slide show."

She said her classmates eventually began to join their teacher in his quest for local information and began joining him when he went out for local interviews.

"I think it's very interesting," she said about the local history class and the interviews.

The seventh grader said it was particularly interesting because they were learning about a place they live in and are familiar with.

Twelve-year-old Kerry Wilkinson said his class had worked on the slide presentation for quite some time before making any public appearances.

"It's fun learning about things like this," she said.

"It's like learning about U.S. history in your area."

Kerry said one of the most interesting things was learning about prices back in the early Boyne City days.

For example, five gallons of gasoline only cost 86 cents, and you could buy a chicken for 30 cents.

Then, of course, you could also buy a penny pencil.

Ray Greene said the class has had a lot of fun, especially interviewing some of the older people in the community for information.

CHARLEVOIX AREA Historical Society members learned about the growth and development of Boyne City during a special slide presentation made to the club by Boyne City Junior High School Students at the State Bank Community Room in Charlevoix.

Bay View Association Gives New Summer Music Schedule

BAY VIEW–The 1974 Bay View Music Festival will open on Sunday evening, June 23rd at 8:00 p.m. with a concert by the internationally known pianist, Ruth Slenczynska.

Miss Slenczynska, who is equally renowned as a teacher and author of books on piano pedagogy, will be on Bay View's grounds throughout the week of June 24th and 28th and will give daily workshops in piano teaching in the morning and master classes in the afternoons.

From June 30th through July 27th, John Wustman, emminent accompanist and vocal coach will be at Bay View for Master Classes in vocal repertoire for singers, voice teachers and accompanists.

For the full eight week session, returning artists will include William Fairlamb, piano; Roger Drinkall, cello; Judy Gardner, harp; Irving Prescott, bass baritone. These artists, along with a number of newly appointed ones will be heard regularly on Sunday night concerts and Wednesday evening artist recitals. Janiece Epke, soprano and Willard Pierce, tenor will assume expanded roles in teaching, Opera Workshop and Theater Arts but will also be heard in performances throughout the summer.

Among the new artists on Bay View's Music Faculty will be Elsie Inselman, mezzo-soprano, who has appeared as soloist with the Detroit Symphony and Toledo Symphony as well as singing major roles with the Piccolo Opera Company and the Michigan Opera Theater and the Blossom Center Festival. She has also appeared in opera in New York City and in Germany.

Lorine Buffington, soprano, a recent winner of the Young Artist Awards with the Flint Symphony and the Ann Arbor Musical Society has performed leading roles with the Turnau Opera Company, the Metropolitan Opera Studio of New York and Opera companys in Switzerlond.

David Gordon, tenor, was a finalist in the recent Metropolitan Opera auditions and for the past year has been with the Chicago Lyric Opera.

Sin-Tung Chiu, violinist, has concertized widely throughout the United States, South America and Hong Kong. He is a former student of renowned teachers Ivan Galamian and Dorothy DeLay. His wife, Nancy Zipay, a concert artist in her own right, will accompany for Mr. Chiu and also perform with Mr. Fairlamb in the Bay View Piano-Duo.

Clark Bedford, pianist, has had extensive experiences both as concert pianist and vocal coach. He served for two years coaching principal singers with the Welsh National Opera prior to joining the faculty at Taylor University in Indiana.

Other special attractions at Bay View this summer will be concerts by the Wesleyan Bell Choir from St. Charles, Louisiana under the direction of Donald Allured on Monday, July 29th and by the University of Saarbrucken Choir from Germany on July 19th. The members of the German choir, traveling under the auspices of the People-to-People program will be guests of Bay View Association members for three days.

The opening Festival Concert on Friday, August 2nd will feature the Bay View Assembly Choir, Orchestra and Faculty soloists.

Popular Night is scheduled for Sunday, August 2nd and Opera Night, Friday, August 16th. Orchestreo concerts are scheduled for Saturday, July 20th and Friday, August 23rd.

"I want you to take particular note–my seat belt is still fastened."

Ask Senator GRIFFIN

By cutting through red tape, members of Congress can often lend a hand to those with problems involving the federal government. Through the columns of this newspaper, Senator Griffin answers questions of general interest. He will respond personally to all communications addressed to: Senator Robert P. Griffin, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Although I'm not rich, my husband made enough money before he died so that I am very comfortable. I am healthy, over 65, but I don't really enjoy being put on the shelf. I'd be glad to do something on a volunteer basis.

—F. T., Detroit

If you'd like to help others, you might consider enrolling as a "Senior Companion." This project is part of ACTION's Older Americans Program, and it seeks volunteers 65 and over who will help and be companions to other older persons with special needs. The goal is to prevent the institutionalization of senior citizens who need just a little help to continue on their own.

If you're interested, it will require about 20 hours of your time each week. For more information, write to: Mrs. Myron Kuropas, Regional Director, ACTION, Region 5, One North Walker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606.

As a doctor, I have many women patients who come to me for birth control pills. I am constantly amazed at the number of women who believe that these pills also protect them from venereal disease. At a time when VD is increasing at an alarming rate, this is particularly disturbing. The government ought to try and do something about this.

—Initials withheld

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed a change in labeling regulations to require the words: "Caution: Oral contraceptives are of no value in the prevention or treatment of venereal disease." Women taking the pill would also be educated on this point if they would read carefully the legally required booklet that comes with the pills and explains their use. The Food and Drug Administration would welcome written comments concerning its labeling proposal on or before June 18, 1974. Send them to the Hearing Clerk, FDA, Room 6-86, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852, preferably in quintuplicate.

Students Survey Parking

Democrats Plan Meeting

The Charlevoix County Democratic party will have an open meeting at the City Hall in Charlevoix, on Wednesday, May 15 at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in the Democratic way is invited to attend the meeting and learn how to participate in "grass roots" political activities, how to become a convention delegate, or a candidate for local office, or just to discuss Democratic policies and prospects.

"We feel on a prior use basis it should be zoned on a I-2 basis," he later said.

After asking when the ordinance would take immediate effect, Charlevoix County Planner William Mercer explained present state zoning laws and procedures.

Tom Smith of Michigan Shores said he realized there was a basic conflict between business and property owners in the subdivision.

"We are not trying to put you out of business," he said.

He said the property owners just don't want to see their property devalued, while at the same time indicating 109 property owners provided a large tax base for both the township and county.

Attorney Mike Stroup, who was representing the Petoskey firm, pointed out how both previous zoning ordinances left the company's property entirely industrially zoned.

While emphasizing the company had been working in the area for 20 years, he said that if the subdivision was so concerned about the property they should offer to purchase.

"Frankly, I think this is unfair," he said about the proposed change.

Several residents refuted Stroup's statements about having a heavy investment in the buffer strip property and added that the company had only acquired that portion of its property recently.

Following several other comments, Dick Weiser of Housing Associates from Lansing asked if the board would hold another hearing so his company could present its development proposal for Camp Charlevoix.

Cleaners), Richard Way, local builder, Mrs. Thomas (Ardith) Wieland, former teacher and wife of an area dairyman, and William E. Wilson, field information specialist for Consumers Power Co.

They will seek election to the vacancies created by the expiration of the terms of Mrs. Robert G. (M. Jane) Lieberman and Clement J. Wagner. Wagner is not a candidate for re-election.

Mrs. Lieberman is one of three candidates for the two-year vacancy created by the resignation of the Rev. Duane Imig who has moved to Illinois.

Other candidates for this post which has been filled by Nathan Boss, who was appointed to fill the position until the next election are Kenneth Boss, who is employed at Puff's Appliance, and Mrs. Edward (Rosemary) Corradi, registered nurse and housewife.

The election will be held at the Charlevoix High School Building B (in the lobby adjacent to the gymnasium) on Monday, June 10.

Candidates have until Thursday to withdraw from the race.

property which it proposed to use for educational purposes in accordance with the Act under which it is being offered after Department of Natural Resources officials decided against obtaining the property for its purpose.

The school district has until June 3 to enter its application.

In other action the board voted to begin modifications of the present high school study hall into a library facility to meet North Central accreditation requirements.

Plans call for enclosing of the wall, installation of doors, conversion of the present stage area into an office and storage area, carpeting of the floor and installation of necessary shelves for an estimated cost of $8,000.

The present library will be converted to another teaching station.

In other business, the board:

--Voted to pay the assessment for the May st. sewer construction in the amount of $27,436 for the high school and $4,412 for the bus garage. This does not include the costs of the necessary hook-ups.

–Named Mrs. Lillian Carr and McKimmy as election deputies to handle the forthcoming school election and also named the election inspectors. They are Ellen Copeland, Vivian Trimble, Edna Miller, Billie Smith, Irene Celiner and Audrey Warner with Maxine Bergmann and Elizabeth Meadows as alternates.

–Approved by a vote of six ayes with one (Max Novak) abstaining to permit Matthew Koontz, a fifth grade student, to attend the Charlevoix schools on a tuition basis. His mother, Mrs. Robert Koontz lives in the East Jordan school district and asked that her son attend the local school. Novak abstained after stating he did not think it necessary to act on each request and that anyone should be allowed to attend the Charlevoix schools if they wanted to pay the tuition.

–Approved the purchase of student accident insurance policy from the Charlevoix Agency at the rate of $1.00 per student which is no change in rate. The vote was six ayes with Novak abstaining because he has an interest in the agency.

–Approved the sale of a 1965 Econoline van to Ronald Roberts of East Jordan for $142.65.

–Heard from Geri Stanko, Middle School principal, that the present fifth grade would make its annual trip to Greenfield Village in September or October because accommodations were difficult to obtain at this late date and that the eighth grade has planned a trip to Mackinac Island June 8. The class will pay for the gasoline and the cost of the bus drivers.

–Met in Executive Session with representatives of the Senior Class and their class sponsors to discuss the Senior Trip later this month.

townships.

He said the commission would have to spell out the exact costs.

"There is federal money when you form an authority," he said indicating that there isn't any available when one isn't formed.

"The township (Charlevoix) board is very interested in this," said John Haggard.

Campbell said the commission would be interested in meeting with the Harbor Springs Authority to see how they did it.

In other business Thursday, the commission:

–Heard a request from the Charlevoix Historical Society to investigate possible locations for the construction of a museum.

–Present Building Authority Chairman Gorden Wellmen with materials for the newly created authority.

--Received a letter of resignation from Loraine Warner.

distributed to local units of government in the same manner. The payments are about $405,000 more than last year because of higher equalized values and increased millage rates.

Representative Ostling said that the latest $2.6 million in payments are in addition to $1,765,000 in similar payments which the DNR released early this year to meet its tax-aid requirements for some 3.5 million acres of state forest land, state parks and other conservation holdings.

The earier payment made in lieu of taxes also comes from a legislative appropriation which covers tax-reverted lands, land given to the state and purchased conservation properties acquired before 1933. Payments for these holdings were made at the rate of 50 cents per acre of which 15 cents goes to the county; 15 cents goes for township purposes and 20 cents goes for school purposes, Ostling concluded.

up with an older brother and two younger sisters.

When she was living at home, they had mostly dairy cows and Nancy remembers that it took her one hour to fill a milk bucket the first time she milked a cow.

Of course, she worked on the farm during summers and all this experience probably won't go to waste as someday Nancy would like to live on a farm again.

After leaving Fremont, Nancy received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Hope College with a major in Spanish and a minor in English. She came to Charlevoix three years ago as a first-year teacher. Besides teaching Spanish, Nancy has classes in Contemporary English, General English and English Literature. During the past few summers she has been working on a Masters Degree in Spanish from Michigan State University.

Outdoor sports takes up most of Nancy's spare time. She enjoys horseback riding, motorcycle riding, snowmobiling, and softball.

In fact, she played third base on a championship team in college. Nancy has even come up with a way to combine Spanish with an outdoor sport. At the end of this month, she will be taking the Spanish Club, of which she is an advisor on a canoe trip down the Au Sable River. As they say in Spain, "Buen Viaje".

Common Cause Moves Ahead Here

"Sunshine is the best disinfectant," has become a Common Cause by-word, Doug Melvin, area coordinator, told a meeting in Charlevoix Monday night. "In other words, let's get everything out in the open," Melvin said. That's one of Common Cause's major efforts.

Charlevoix Common Cause members held their first meeting to discuss this national organization and its efforts for reform.

Eighteen people met in the First State Bank of Charlevoix, to see a film on the organization's national work and listen to a panel discuss local work.

Common Cause lobbies for the people, as opposed to lobbies of special interests, the panel emphasized.

Members of Common Cause across the country, some 325,000, keep pressure on their congressmen and senators to support bills that Common Cause members have chosen as important.

The major issue today is legislative reform, and Common Cause is working in four major arenas, both nationally and on a state level. Election reform is a top priority. Other reform bills are open meetings, lobbying reforms, ending conflict of interest for legislatures, and ending secrecy and the seniority systems in Congress.

Mrs. Margaret Duerr of Charlevoix moderated the panel. Joining Doug Melvin were Sara Gay Dammann, of Charlevoix and Ellen Allen of Petoskey.

The panel explained that the organization is non-partisan, does not support political candidates, is open to anyone, and the membership itself choses the issues for which they will work.

When an issue is chosen, professional lobbyists are paid out of the membership dues to work with national or state representatives, which ever is appropriate, trying to get a bill drawn up in support of the specific issue.

Once a bill is ready for voting, Common Cause organizers let members at the local level know. The local members then put a telephone network into operation, urging other members and interested non-members to write to the representatives urging passage of the bill.

Congressman Philip Ruppe has found himself beseiged with letter from constituents interested in such Common Cause issues as ending the funding for the war in Indo China, a position he came to support.

Ms. Allen explained that a big drive is now on to get a federal elections reform bill out of committee, and then to elicit Cong. Ruppe's support.

Mrs. Duerr pointed out that Common Cause keeps its members very well informed on current issues.

It Seems To Be A Mystery

Are Michigan's Planted Lake Trout Reproducing on their Own or Not?

By TOM DAMMANN

CHARLEVOIX--A determined, though experimental effort is underway here to discover whether any of the millions of lake trout planted in Lake Michigan during the past decade have begun reproducing on their own.

If they were acting naturally they would reach sexual maturity on their sixth year and begin spawning that fall, explains Myrl Keller, Fish Biologist in charge of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Lake Michigan Research Station here.

Thousands of lakers have been caught by sportsmen and DNR researchers in the past two falls and they have contained plentiful amounts of spawn and eggs.

But to date there have been no catches of fingerling lakers that could have been reproduced by the hatchery-bred adults.

To add to the mystery, it is known that lakers are reproducing off the Apostle Islands in Western Lake Superior, though nobody knows why those spawning grounds are successful.

It may be that the lake trout have been planted in the wrong locals to begin with, Keller and other biologists suggest.

Their built-in homing instincts bring them back to the spot where they were planted for spawning and it has been assumed they spawned along lake shores.

But maybe the ice and wave action along the shores makes the survival of the eggs the trout have deposited and fertilized there impossible, the argument runs.

So a year ago the DNR began planting young lakers in offshore shoals, such as those around the Beaver and Fox Islands.

Last November, as a first and unpublicized step, a team headed by Wilbert (Bert) C. Wagner, DNR, Marquette Research Station fish biologist, planted one million fertilized eggs on Dhalia Shoal, 20 miles north of here and about five miles out in Lake Michigan from Cross Village.

The eggs, in the eye stage of development, were planted in 15 to 30 feet of water.

If the eggs hatch and the fry grow to maturity, the experiment will also demonstrate a less costly method of planting trout, eliminating the hatching, feeding, and rearing process which make the present program so expensive, Wagner says.

To monitor his experiment, Wagner deposited 3,000 similar eggs in coarse gravel in 20 buckets which the team set among the million eggs.

Late last month, he began lifting the buckets to study the conditions.

In the first seven buckets a total of 47 live fry anu live eggs were counted as opposed to 365 dead fry eggs and shells.

"This represents a 4.7 percent proven survival success in that group," Wagner says.

"But that leaves some 600 eggs unaccounted for and the fry may have swam away from them, which would make our success even greater," he added hopefully.

A few days later the DNR research vessel raised another seven buckets. They were filled with sand. Only one live egg was found in this batch.

Rough weather has prevented any further salvage.

"But we did learn something from that last haul," Wagner points out. "The eggs were smothered by the sand and coarse gravel, which the currents had washed into the buckets, which would indicate that shore lines where there is considerable water movement might be bad spawning areas."

Next step was to be the "vacuuming" of some of the bottom where the eggs had been planted.

On April 30, Wagner tested the Rub Goldberg vacuum cleaner developed over the years by DNR and federal fisheries technicians, at Northpoint, a mile north of the Charlevoix Breakwater.

Last November 20 in a similar operation at the same spot Wagner had picked up 9 eggs from the bottom before stormy weather forced abandonment.

"These were naturally laid eggs," he says. "Four were alive and one had reached the eye stage. This is certainly not much to go by, but it and the 4.7 percent recovery from that first haul of buckets gives us some hope that we're on the right track. We'll plant more fertilized eggs next fall, though we haven't decided where yet."

The April 30 vacuum cleaning produced nothing.

"We may have been too late, the fry may have already left the area," Wagner says. "Or they have developed so well they could escape the trowel that scoops the bottom into our vacuum pump.

Lake trout had been abundant in the Upper Great Lakes until the combined depredations of the eel-like parasite, the sea lamprey and unregulated commercial fishing made them all but extinct.

In the mid-fifties, the U.S. Department of Interior, Cooperating with the Canadian government and the conservation Departments of the various Great Lakes states initiated a massive double-barrelled program to eradicate or control the sea lamprey while rearing and planting lake trout.

The sea lamprey are now about 70 percent controlled and commercial fishing for lake trout is banned, at least by Michigan.

Since the first plants 10 years ago more than 20 million lake trout and fingerlings have been planted in lakes Michigan and Superior.

This year 4.6 million are being planted including a half million for Lake Huron, included in the program for the first time.

Providing additional Congressional appropriations can be obtained to meet inflating costs, more trout will be planted next and Lake Ontario will be included for the first time.

MARQUETTE RESEARCH Station Fish Biologist Bert Wagner tests the "Rub Goldberg" vacuum cleaner developed over the years by the DNR.

A DNR DIVER prepares to make an underwater investigation of some spawning grounds.

She Wanted To Stay

Debbie--A Fight For A Future

EDITOR'S NOTE: The story you are about to read is true. Some of the names and events have been changed to protect those still living in the area who could be identified or associated with it.

Debbie, who the story is written about, is in her late twenties and now has a successful career in a Southern Michigan city.

She was recently introduced to this editor through a mutual friend while on his vacation.

It was after this meeting that the Charlevoix Courier agreed to publish a story relating the incidents of her earlier years in Charlevoix with the stipulation that she not be identified to protect any friend of hers who might still be living in the area.

Debbie left Charlevoix several years ago with all her earthly belongings jammed into a small knap sack swung over her shoulder.

It was a quiet good-bye with really no one to send her off.

You see, she was one of those "long-haired hippies" you used to see hang around Williams' Cigar Store and East Park.

You know, the ones who are always dressed in the dirty blue jeans and tie-dyed T-Shirts that are either lying spread out on the grass or throwing a Frisbe.

They're the ones you always talk about in disgust, yet peek at through the corner of your eye when driving or walking by.

Debbie was one of them. She doesn't have any regrets about it. She just doesn't want to be one of them any more.

She tried not to be one of them any more here in Charlevoix. But living in a small town like Charlevoix all of her life, Debbie was labeled a "freak" and because of that, would never amount to anything.

When she tried to go "straight" and get a job no one would hire her.

She couldn't even get a job cleaning floors after they realized it was her applying for the position.

With her father being transferred from here back to the Detroit home office, she no longer had a place to stay and without a job herself, had to move too. But this time, without her family.

It doesn't really matter what Debbie's real name is. Nor does it matter who her family was or what she is doing now. When she hitch-hiked out two years ago, she never planned on coming back. She is just one of many kids across the United states who runs away from home for one reason or another.

It just happens that Debbie was from Charlevoix and she wanted to some day, have someone from Charlevoix hear her untold story and think about it when they're raising their family or gawking at the "hippies" on the corner.

Debbie comes from a large Catholic family and until her fourth grade year lead a fairly normal life.

Fourth grade was the year her father pulled her out of St. Mary's School because she said he no longer believed in the church.

"I was kinda shocked," Debbie said while she was thinking about the experience.

"I really didn't understand then, but I went along with it."

She said she figured it was a good experience to try something different anyways, so she thought it was a good thing to do.

"I think my mom just told me that he didn't agree with the church and he didn't believe in it."

Debbie said she was transferred to the public school, where she noticed that her grades dropped immediately, mainly because she didn't think they were as strict as the Sisters or had as much discipline.

"You were much freer to do what you wanted to do," she continued.

"I'm not saying that's good or bad."

Then for the next few years, Debbie continued a relatively normal public school education.

But, when she began junior high school, she began to change.

"In junior high I hung out with the kids who liked to party," she said.

And by ninth grade, all the activities she had placed high values on, such as cheerleading, were no longer important.

"I found it wasn't what I wanted...everyone was two-faced."

Debbie said she got tired of some of her classmates cutting down other kids because they smoked and drank.

"They thought they were pure."

Her ninth grade year was memorable for other reasons, too. Her 17-year-old sister became pregnant.

"I heard my parents talking one night with his parents (her sister's boyfriend)," she said.

"My sister was crying and saying she wasn't giving up the baby."

Debbie said her sister ended up getting married and a year later had a divorce.

Debbie was 14-years-old during her ninth grade year at Charlevoix Junior High School and she didn't think her sister's pregnancy was all so bad.

"I felt bad for my sister because she had to go through it, especially having to face my Dad who never got along with any of us."

The former Charlevoix girl said her Dad never got along with any of his children when they became teenagers because he didn't know how to handle them.

She said they all like to party and stay away from the house.

Her father ended up kicking one of Debbie's high school brother's out of the house because they couldn't get along.

"He didn't take the time to know us," she said about her father.

And as far as her sister's pregnancy, Debbie said she blames her parents for a lot of the problems.

"They never talked to us about sex, it was always hush...hush."

Debbie said she learned about sex from her older brother when she was in sixth grade.

"That's a long time to wait for someone to tell you about it."

Debbie said she had heard her then eighth-grade brother use a four-letter word and asked him what it meant.

That was also the year she started smoking pot.

"I started hanging around the long hairs," she continued.

She said her brothers threatened to tell their parents, but a year later started smoking grass and never told.

"The whole year I hated everybody," she said.

To Meet Next Week

Council Delays Budget

ONE NEWSPAPER reporter began knitting at Charlevoix City Council meeting Monday night when they began going well past Midnight for a second meeting in a row.

Charlevoix City Council postponed approving this year's city budget for a week Monday night after hearing more than two hours of objections from residents.

Councilmen made the move after they discovered there was not an itemized budget available to answer questions raised by both council and a few residents present.

Armed with list of more than 15 questions, former City Administrator Tom Hanna grilled council for more than two hours about budget practices and expenditures.

However, his major concern was over an apparent discrepancy between figures being used as the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) to base the city tax levy on.

Hanna claimed that according to the county equalization office, Charlevoix's SEV is $22,291,590, while the city contends the figure they were told to use is $22,622,400.

Based on the current tax levy, Hanna says the city would fall $264,648 short of what they need in its present proposed budget.

Mayor Ed Hansen told both Hanna and the council that this was the figure both he and the tax board of review were given.

He also said that the county equalization director must have been using a 1971 study figure to come up the SEV handed over to the city.

In other major areas, Hanna asked the city council about its present arrangement with Charlevoix Township over fire protection coverage.

Hansen said the city was presently charging on a monthly basis and said that until the council otherwise indicates another plan, he has directed the fire department to answer calls in the township made through the city.

The Charlevoix mayor explained that the city was still liable until a formal transition had been made from city fire protection to the newly established fire department.

Hanna then asked what the city planned on doing with $79,000 projected in revenue sharing funds and was told they were presently considering possible expenditures.

Asked if he could see the city accounting control covering the mayor and was told it was available in the treasurer's office.

Since the council had rejected the citizen's committee's salary recommendation, Hanna said the mayor's last year's salary would still be in affect and should be in the budget.

Hanna continued for another hour asking the council about its plans for a contract renewal with the Charlevoix Garbage Service, Chamber of Commerce and the city's street improvement program.

"As a taxpayer, I'm quite concerned about this budget," Conrad Klooster said.

He joined Hanna in asking for some type of budget breakdown of each of the major budget categories.

"To be very frank I haven't gotten many answers," Hanna told the council.

Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace said it bothered her that when someone asked to see the itemized budget, they were told they could see it in the treasurer's office.

Residents Start Petitions For Parking Referendum

Charlevoix City Council's decision to create more downtown parking through establishing a Building Authority drew fire from several local residents this week.

In fact, the group is now circulating petitions that would force the city to place any bond sales on the ballot for approval before taking action.

"This type of legislation should have never been passed at the council table," says Oscar Ward.

Ward was making reference to a decision two weeks ago by the council to establish a building authority.

"Our council and mayor asked for the confidence of our voting population and they were given this authority including the management of city affairs, including parking," he said.

"And that doesn't mean they were given the authority to give away the authority."

Ward said he objected to the authority because they have no public accountability like the city council.

"Further more, they don't face the electorate," he said.

The Charlevoix resident says four other residents are now helping him circulate petitions.

Bill Peters, co-owner of Hooker's Dry Cleaners, said he objects to the move because he already had to furnish parking for his business and can't see paying for other businesses' parking through his taxes.

Bulletin

Charlevoix City Councilman Richard Fochtman resigned Monday from the Charlevoix City Council and Regional Planning Commission. He told the council in a letter that he resigned from the posts because of differences in philosophy.

There was no comment about his resignation from other councilmen.

Northern Michigan Pleas For Railroad Continuance

By PEG OHLE

TRAVERSE CITY--Northern Michigan business men, farmers, representatives of labor unions and two state representatives Monday plead for the continuance of railroad service to northwestern Michigan.

They presented their cases in Traverse City before an administrative law judge appointed by the Rail Services Planning office in Washington and an attorney, also from Washington, appointed to represent the people.

Possible abandonment of all rail service in the upper half of the lower peninsula became a reality when a report issued Feb. 1 by the U.S. Transportation Department claimed that virtually all of the present railroad service and right-of-way in the northwest region is "excess" and therefore expendable.

Speaker after speaker at the meeting told of the financial impact that rail abandonment would create. Loss of jobs, higher prices and loss of tax base were cited.

Arthur E. Steinbrecher, Boyne City, a director and retired head of the Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, told of the need for rail service to transport fuel, machinery, long poles and other equipment necessary to furnish power to 60,000 customers.

"Abandonment of rail lines on the western side together with those in the center will be an economic disaster for the area in which our system is located", he said.

"The abandonment plan also apparently presumes that other types of freight carriers can replace rail service.

"This is an erroneous assumption and we cite the impractibility of long distance hauling of long poles and oversize and/or overweight objects by trucks -- long poles which require two or three railroad cars and oversize and/or very heavy objects which require specially designed railroad cars to transport".

Ralph Ostling, Roscommon, state representative for the 103rd district said, "I think the (abandonment) will mean economic chaos for northern Michigan and the upper Peninsula. I was shocked to see a map of the proposed abandonment which would indicate that rail service in my legislative district will be virtually wiped out."

Ostling asked for time for the State to work with the Federal government to find alternative answers to rail abandonment. He said there is now in the legislature a resolution to provide for a comprehensive study of rural transportation needs.

Bill Mercer, Charlevoix County planner, told of the rapid growth of the area and the accompanying increased demand for services and material goods.

"If rail service were abandoned in Charlevoix County, the manufacturing concerns within the area would have to rely on truck transportation for raw materials and movement of completed goods. The already sub-adequate roads would be flooded with additional truck traffic. This would create worse roads, not to mention unsafe traffic conditions", he pointed out.

Tom Hanna of the Paul-Reid Company, Charlevoix, told the government representatives: "Rail service is vital to our operation, because it is the only economical way by which bulky padding materials can be shipped. Padding is used in our complete line of gun cases. These cases account for 75 percent of our total dollar sales volume. Our major padding supplier (in Minneapolis) is not equipped to ship by truck. Could they ship by truck, the additional cost of transportation would be prohibitive."

Tom Wieland, Charlevoix, chairman of the Charlevoix Farm Bureau, told of the farmer's need for rail transportation of such materials as fertilizers, insecticides and seed. He said it is impractical, in some cases impossible, to ship these things by truck.

Floating Cement...?

A TRAVERSE CITY Cement Company dropped off four large septic tank-like objects at the city docks.

Who says cement doesn't float on water?

If you go down the city docks, you can see four huge chunks of concrete floating before your very own eyes.

But don't let your eyes fool you, they're being suspended by large pieces of styro-foam underneath.

The cement blocks are a plan Engineer Dan Shanahan of Charlevoix and Suttons Bay is trying to sell to the city as a solution to their dock problem.

They look like huge septic tanks that have been turned upside down.

But Shanahan and the Traverse City cement company, who made them, claim they're not and were specially made for the demonstration in Round Lake.

Shanahan is hoping he can convince both the city and other private marina owners that the hollow film-filled concrete peer and dock sections will work in place of having to drive pilings into the ground.

Each block weighs about 7,600 pounds and will be linked together to form a huge T.

They're about four by five feet wide and 10 feet long and should have between 18 to 20 inches showing above water.

According to Shanahan, the design for the dock is new to Michigan, but has been around in other parts of the country for several years.

"I've been thinking about these for several years," he said after seeing it done on the Hudson River.

And when he heard about Charlevoix wanting to add more docking facilities in the Round Lake basin; he thought he might try it here.

He said in Lake Washington, people even float houses on them.

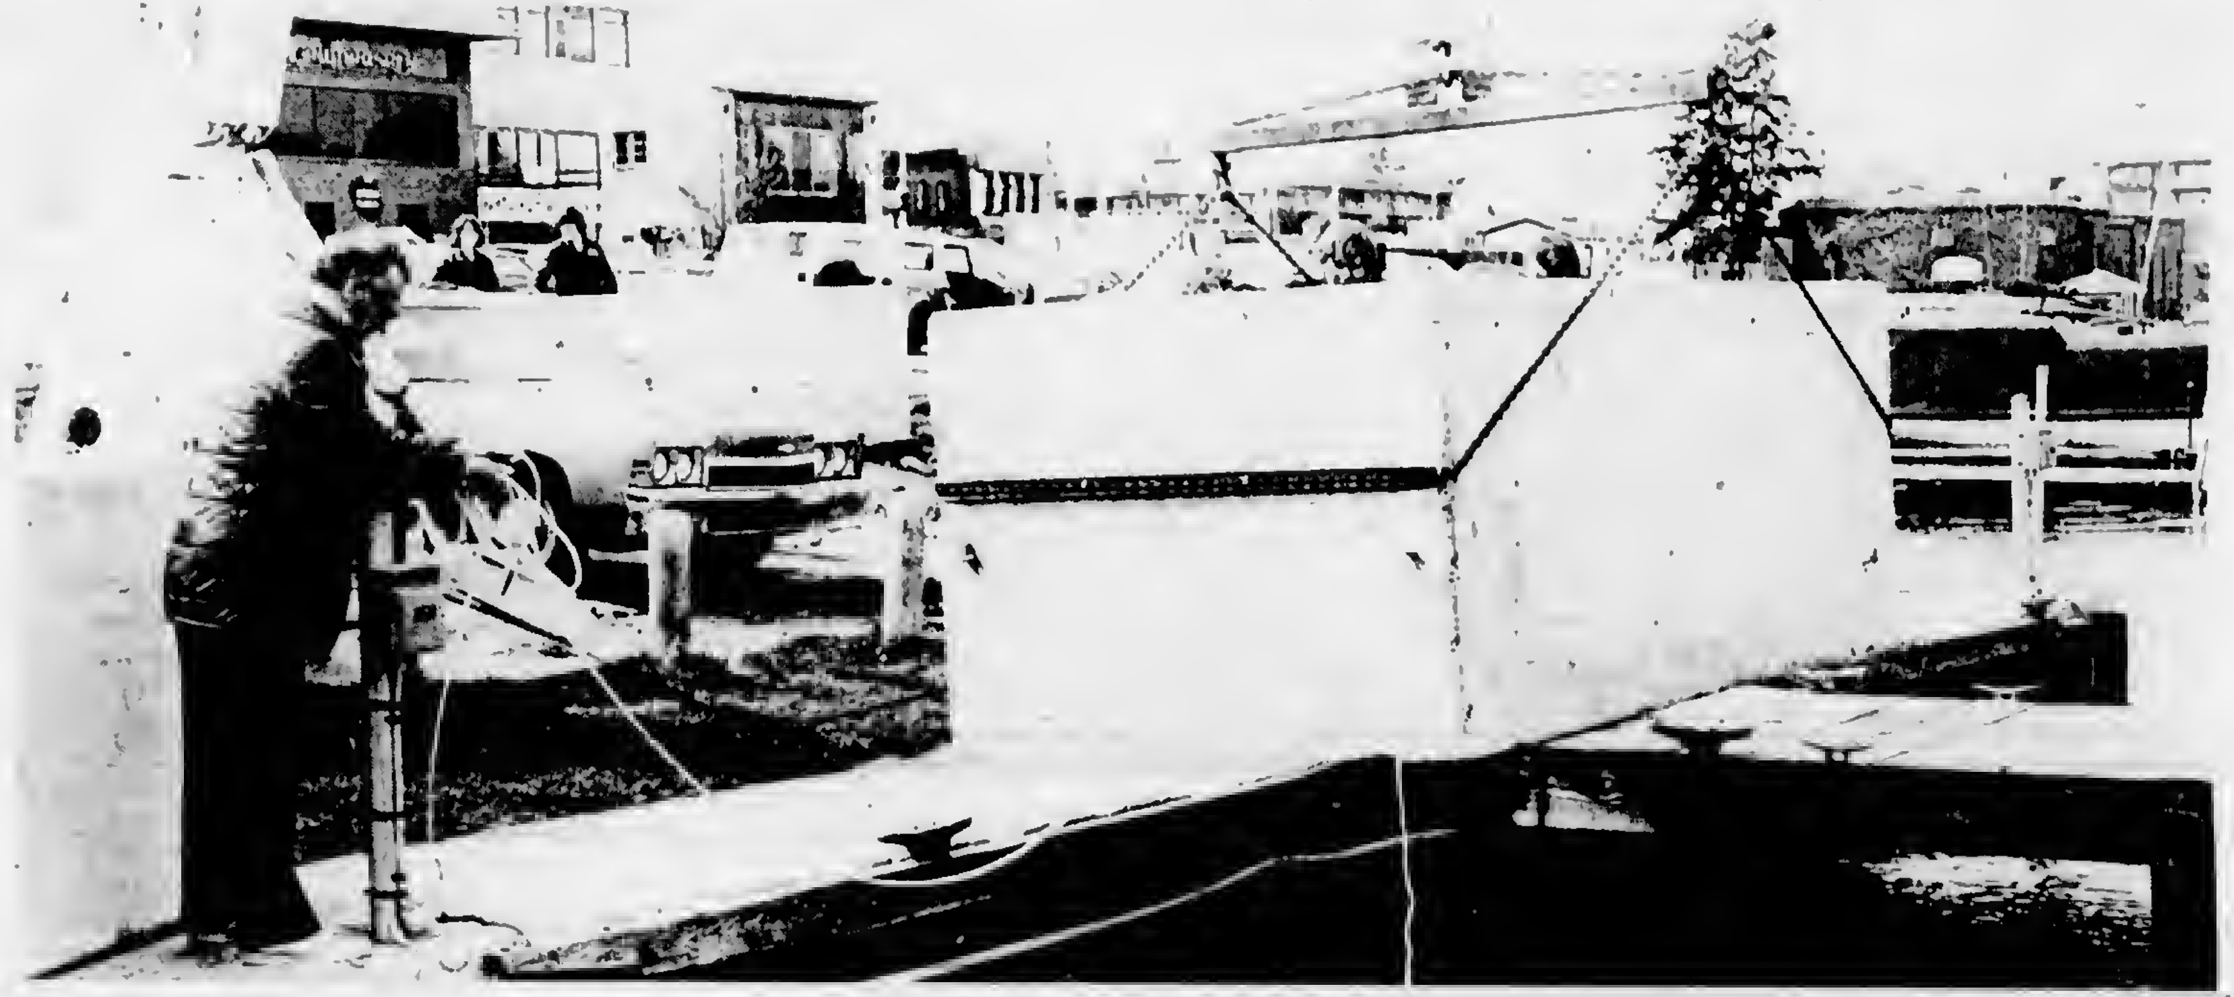
Shanahan claims that the blocks are not only cheaper than other conventional methods, but are more stable because of the weight involved.

They're also less affected by wind and wave action.

He said they can be geared up to use in a peer of any size and only have to be attached to the shoreline at one location.

The concrete work is being done by Arie DeBruyn of DeBruyn Concrete Products in Traverse City.

ENGINEER DAN Shanahan began working on the dock idea several years ago after he saw the same type of thing done in other parts of the country.



SOME PEOPLE have their doubts whether or not these concrete blocks will work, but Shanahan says they'll be better than wood piers now being used in both Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix. He says they should be cheaper to construct than conventional piers.

Two Top Graduating Seniors Named At Ellsworth High

Robert Gaunt, Superintendent of the Ellsworth School, has announced the Valedictorian and Salutatorian of the 1974 graduating class.

Receiving the Valedictory award is Nadine Marie Chellis, daughter of Walter and Goldie Chellis.

Nadine achieved a 3.667 grade point during her 4 years of high school work.

In addition, Miss Chellis was active in girl's basketball, cheerleading, dramatics, ski club and girl's track.

She has also been a member of the National Honor Society for 3 years.

She served as treasurer for the class during her junior and senior years. Miss Chellis was a girl's state delegate as a junior and received the Betty Crocker Homemaking award recently. Nadine has been accepted at Northwestern Michigan College and she plans to study pre-law courses there.

The Salutatorian is Nancy Lynn Wynsma, daughter of Marvin and Sybil Wynsma.

Nancy's activities include basketball, cheerleading, track, ski club, student council, National Honor Society membership, and offices of class secretary as a junior, class president as a senior.

Last fall Nancy was elected Homecoming Queen and presided at the activities at the Homecoming event.

Nancy is employed at Daining's Processing and plans to work there following her graduation. She obtained a 3.605 point average during her 4 years of high school enrollment.

Other students obtaining a 3.00 or better average include: Fred Vail, son of Ted and Greta Vail, having a 3.338 average; Paulette VanderSlik, daughter of Peter and Grace VanderSlik with a 3.167 average; Joni Peterson, daughter of Okey and Isabell, having a 3.162 average; and Janet Saunders, daughter of Charles and Dorthy Saunders, with a 3.041 average.

Graduation exercises will take place June 8.

Central Lake Voters Decide Millage in June

CENTRAL LAKE–Voters of the Central Lake school district will go to the polls June 10 to vote on a five mill tax levy for five years and to elected three members to the board of education, Supt. Scott Boswell reports.

The five mills the board is asking will replace the three mills that expired this year, Boswell said. The monies will be for operational costs. He went on to explain that the three mills that is expiring is a part of the 13.4 mills that was levied to meet the 1973-74 budget needs. This amount, 13.4 mills plus that allocated from taxes or 8.4 mills brought the total tax bill to 21.8 mills.

Candidates for the two two-year terms on the board of education are Mrs. Wanda Aardema, an appointee who was named less than a year ago to fill an unexpired term and who is now seeking to succeed herself, and Richard Smith who is a candidate to succeed Franklin Erickson who is leaving the board after serving two terms.

Candidates for the two year term are Richard Spence, John Hebden, Barbara Skinner and Charles Thompson.

Aardema and Dick Sommers are appointees to the board.

Charlevoix Honors Veterans on May 27

Charlevoixans will pause to pay tribute May 27 to the veterans of six American wars who have found their final resting place in Brookside Cemetery.

The grave markers in Brookside tell the story of the nation's struggle for survival better than a stack of history books.

Lewis Gebe, Co. B. 15 Mich. Inf.

Francis Churchille, Co. H, 12 Mich. Inf.

Levi House, Co. H, 152nd N.Y. Inf.

Leonard Whitmeyer, 1834-1907, Co. B, 1st Mich. Inf. 61-65.

Alexander M. Bennet, Co. D, 9 Mich. Inf.

Thomas C. Bird, Co. K, 11 Mich. Inf.

James S. Divis, Michigan, Pvt. U.S. Army, March 31, 1932.

In Memory of Austin C. Newman, Co. A, 10th U.S. Infantry, 1836-1904.

Ebbert A. Mock, Cpl. Co. K, 2 Ohio Infantry, Sp Am War, Feb. 11, 1880, Dec. 7, 1955.

Fred V. Tyler, 1885-1971, American Legion, WW I.

Albert P. Taylor, New York OS, U.S. Coast Guard, World War I, October 30, 1894, May 1, 1951.

Victor B. Kellogg, Michigan PFC 315 Inf., 79 Inf., Div., World War II, March 17, 1910, November 16, 1949.

Larry L. Elzinga, Michigan, Cpl. Co. A, 23 Inf. 25 Inf. Div., Vietnam, BSM-PH, Nov. 18, 1948, Aug. 3, 1968.

There are literally dozens of other grave markers from the Civil War, the Spanish American War, World Wars I and II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War--each an eloquent testimonial to the role played by Charlevoixans in the nation's long struggle against tyranny at home and abroad.

In Brookside, as in cemeteries across the length and breadth of America, young men who died in the steamy jungles of Vietnam sleep side by side with bearded veterans of Gettysburg and The Battle of the Wilderness, swash-buckling heroes of San Juan Hill, mud-caked doughboys who fought at Belleau Wood and Chateau Thierry, crew-cut GI's who died on Corregidor and Omaha Beach and the dauntless captors of Pork Chop Hill.

The nation's interludes of peace have been all too brief and elusive during our 200 years as a free people.

We have learned that freedom cannot be bought cheaply or held lightly. It is a lesson that we all must remember this Memorial Day as we explore the sunny boulevards leading to "a generation of peace." (B.C.)

Guard Rail Needed In Memorial Park

The city is leaving itself wide open for an expensive lawsuit unless a guard rail is installed post-haste along the east side of Memorial Park at the corner of Bridge-st. and Belvedere-ave.

The park, as you'll recall, is built on the foundation of the former Golden Rule Livery Stable and ends abruptly with an eight-foot sheer drop down to the Ward Brothers' property.

In fact, the northern wall of the foundation is still intact and appears to be a pleasant, paved walkway which ends abruptly at the drop-off.

Casual strollers after dark could find themselves clean out of the park without a moment's notice.

We are surprised that there haven't been many serious accidents at the site long before now, since the area has served as a city park for a couple of generations or more.

The guard rail or fence needn't be elaborate or expensive. But it should be in place before summer visitors begin arriving next month. (B.C.)

Center Could Save Downtown District

The proposed shopping center and residential complex at the junction of Boyne City-rd. and U.S. 31 North could well be the salvation of downtown Charlevoix as a pleasant place to shop and visit.

Year-'round residents will attest to the fact that "people pressure" in the valley is growing worse every year, particularly during the summer. Traffic on Bridge-st. is horrendous and parking is well-nigh impossible some days.,

Some residents would rather drive to Petoskey to shop than to buck the crowds in downtown Charlevoix. And you can't blame them.

Critics of the proposed shopping center insist that the development will siphon off just enough business from downtown shops to make their continued existence doubtful at best. They also point out that downtown merchants are operating at a very slim margin of profit and that any inroads into their daily sales could spell financial disaster.

They also point out that the growth of suburban shopping centers has meant the doom of such cities as Detroit and Pontiac.

However they overlook the fact that downtown Charlevoix is still the most attractive community in Michigan and the nation. Year-'round residents and summer tourists would still want to visit the shops in downtown Charlevoix even if the city were surrounded by a dozen shopping malls.

But this won't always be the case unless steps are taken soon to relieve the congestion that makes a trip downtown a nerve-wracking experience on a summer day.

The City Council already has moved to solve some of Charlevoix's parking problems by creation of a Building Authority charged with the construction of downtown parking lots. But even if the four proposed lots were in operation this summer, congestion would still be a problem when new growth in the city and surrounding townships is taken into consideration.

We believe that the shopping center proposed in Charlevoix Township will be just the ticket to take some of the pressure off the downtown section. We view it as a key to the salvation of downtown Charlevoix as a pleasant place to shop and visit.

We hope that the proposed shopping center will win the hearty support of the Township Zoning Board when the question comes up for discussion May 23. (B.C.)

Where will your thoughts be on May 28th?

PLEASE Drive carefully this weekend!

Reader Objects to Fitz

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Editor:

Being a Native of Charlevoix, read the Courier each week for information about relatives, old friends, and things in general. Although not an ardent reader of your editorial page, I do sean each column and usually concentrate on at least one.

I enjoy the homespun yarns, anecdotes, and political analyses of the local scene. However, I find most of your staff's efforts in the area of National Security and Military Strategy to be sadly lacking in substance.

Let me give you an example of what I mean. In the "if it Fritz" column of 8 May, the writer unfairly castigates the US Military for supporting "Operation Saguine". "Sanguine" will be used to communicate with our nuclear submarines, the writer asserts. He's right on that count. He then goes on to say that the real purpose of the communication retaliatory strike against the Soviet Union. Indeed, he makes his point, but he gives the reader short shrift in the process to prevent a rebuttal. This tactic is called "advocacy journalism". Simply stated, it involves presenting only one side of an issue--the side that strengthens your argument. Journalists who use this ploy cheat their readers.

What the writer failed to do, and this is the injustice to the subject and the reader, is to explain that submarine-launched missiles comprise an essential element of this nation's ability to deter the Soviet Union. So long as the Russians are convinced that they can gain nothing but a Pyrric Victory over the US. they won't launch their IGBMS. Moreover, if our deterrents remain credible, a nuclear war between the US and the Soviets in the near future is unlikely. And this, therefore, is why the Military is recommending that the US install the "Sanguine" system - a system that will be extremely difficult for the Russians to compromise.

To wrap up his biased analysis, the writer provides the reader with a definition of "Sanguine". Unfortunately, but probably deliberately, the writer neglects to inform his readers that "Sanguine" has meanings other than his choice. To have done this, however, would have eroded the writer's thesis.

The definition I like, and probably the Navy's choice, is "hopeful."

Incidentally, I prefer mutated fruit flies to mutated grandchildren.

Sincerely yours,

Thomas M. Hamlin
Lt. Co. US Marine Corps

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

You wonder how much the man can stand without going bananas.

It was one thing last summer when the Charlevoix Courier recommended that President Nixon step down for the good of the country. Then we had learned only that the President had permitted and indulged in telephone wiretaps of his intimate associates, that he had taped private conversations in his Oval Office and that there was a good possibility that he was using such federal bureaus as the Internal Revenue Service to "get" his enemies.

We considered these "crimes" big enough and bad enough to warrant his removal from office.

It is quite another thing for the President to have all of his old friends in the press, including the Chicago Tribune and the Hearst newspapers, calling for his resignation.

Although we have learned through the years that President Nixon does not read the newspapers, he surely must know from the news resumes prepared by his staff that he is not the fair-haired boy he once was.

Certainly he knows that many of his old friends in Congress have joined the resignation bandwagon.

But he hangs in there like a groggy prizefighter, waving off the critics with his bloody gloves and waiting for the 15th round. He has been knocked to the mat a dozen times, but he's always back on his feet before the ten-count.

And in this – and perhaps this alone – you have to give him credit. He is a fighter, make no mistake about it.

At this point we are wondering what he is fighting for.

Certainly the Nixon Administration already has earned a niche in history as the most corrupt in our 200-year history. The hundreds of pages of transcripts from his confidential tapes recently made public are witness to the fact that hooliganism has invaded the White House. There seems to be little doubt that Nixon and his cohorts conspired to pay "hush money" to the Watergate defendants and to actively obstruct the Watergate investigation.

And presumably, the tapes made public are only the ones the President wanted us to hear. There are dozens of other demanded by Judge Sirica and the House Judiciary Committee which the President is sitting on and will not release under any circumstances. Only Nixon and his inner circle of confidants and attorneys know what they contain.

So Nixon is not fighting to maintain the good name of his Administration. There is little he could do in the next three years to patch together the shambles he has made of the presidency.

Then why doesn't he make a deal with the Congress to avoid further prosecution and the indignity of impeachment and get out?

I don't pretend to know, although I can speculate.

I believe that Nixon is cut from a bolt so different from the rest of the fabric of American society that he is incapable of comprehending the charges brought against him. I don't believe he understands what he has done to harm the presidency or how deeply he has undermined the American system of government.

I believe he views Watergate and the Ellsburg break-in through the eyes of a criminal attorney. The law was broken and he has been hired to get the culprits off the hook. It matters little to him that he himself is one of the culprits.

I also believe that Nixon likes to think of himself as a latter-day Abraham Lincoln, one of America's most despised presidents during his term of office. It was Lincoln's election which precipitated the Civil War and for many years he didn't have many staunch supporters on either side of the Mason-Dixon line. He was villified in New York worse than he was in Richmond.

Like Lincoln, Nixon is a loner – a lonesome man, holding down a lonesome job. Lincoln had very few close personal friends. Nixon, so far as we can discover, has only one – Bebe Rebozo.

But there the similarity ends. Lincoln, as we know him through his acts and words, had his fingers on the pulse of suffering humanity.

Nixon, on the other hand, is a cold, bloodless automation, programmed as carefully as a computer to go through the motions of being president without really understanding the awesome human and mortal trust the office entails.

Even his resistance to the mounting pressure for resignation is an indication that Nixon is made of sterner stuff than most of us. It surely isn't flesh and blood.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

By substituting homicide for murder, we give the crime a detached significance similar to a weather report, enabling us to briefly note a 14-murder weekend in a major city before turning to the sports page.

Yet, we are appalled by stern measures in our past which governed our society by unwritten decree.

The early West had its 'Boot Hills' and Michigan had its quota of skeltons, undeserving of even a Potter's grave, left in the forest by some individual serving as judge, jury and executioner.

Unlike today when each written word is subject to interpretation and litigation, their law was explicit. Punishment was swift, certain, and meted without favor. It was the forehand knowledge of these facts which served as the 'crime prevention' we seek today for our families, homes, streets, and highways.

The lumberjack, living amidst violence, seldom 'homicided' in the heat of anger. Under frontier justice, 'senseless killings' were few and a woman was safer in an isolated logging camp among a hundred men than she is today in a public building, surrounded by hundreds of people who either care not, or dare not, to become involved.

In those early days, a husband might bring his wife into camp to share his life in a tarpaper shack. In some instances, the camp cook was a woman. Both lived in security behind the flimsy walls which established the "off limits".

Should a man of weaker will be caught making furtive steps toward the shack or the cookhouse, there would be no return tracks. A swift deadly blow from the witness and a pair of lifeless heels would make twin ruts through the snow to a nearby thicket where the body was left to rot like a culled log.

Today, he would be treated far less drastically by a jury led to believe that the victim was merely in quest of some thread to sew on a button or a bit of yarn to darn a sock. With this defense as a guideline, a less serioua miscarriage of justice deserves reconsideration at this late date.

Hammerhead Kallio stands accused of wrongful action toward Frenchy LaPorte whose battered features are contorted in pain as he hobbles slowly up to the bar of justice.

"Hammerhead, how do you plead to the charge of assault," aska the bench.

"Not guilty," comes the meek rely.

"NOT GUILTY?" shouts French incredulously, displaying several broken teeth as Exhibit A for the prosecution.

"Did you plan this alleged beating?"

If it Fitz

The chasity-belt race

At the next convention of the Keepers of Community Morals, there should be a close contest between Detroit and Almont ns to which city should be awnrded the Golden Chastity Belt for best suppression of sex and skin.

The belts, more commonly known as the Storks, are annually awnrded to those moral keepers whose performances have best exemplified the organization's slogan: "God wouldn't have made closets if He didn't wnnt you to undress in them."

At first, it appeared Detroit was n shoo-in for the movie Stork. A judge there ordered 6 theatres closed for showing pornographic films. These are the type of unAmericnn movies that, in the clean old days, you couldn't see unless you belonged to the American Legion. Feelthy movies were the main attraction nt many stag parties thrown by the Legion, VFW, Eagles and similar organizations. I attended one once where the projector was run by a judge. The bartender was the chief of police.

But it is one thing to show these dirty pictures to civic leaders in the Legion basement. And it is a completely different thing to show them in regular theatres downtown where any bum can buy a ticket. A civilized society must be cautious about which minds it allows to become contaminated. You let a dumb kid learn a few curse words and the next thing you know he wants to be President.

A lot of people protested the porno closings, of course. They yelped the usual stuff about the films being for adults only, no one is forced to nttend, different strokes for different folks, and is this a free country or isn't it? They even quoted some scientific studies showing that sexy movies can have a therapeutic effect on dirty old men. But the judge stood firm and the threatres were padlocked while passing neighbors applauded under torchlight (they were on their way to the library).

You are probably wondering how Almont, a tiny town 60 miles north, could possibly compete with Detroit in the Stork race. Now hear this:

6 English teachers had arranged for Almont students, grades 7 thru 12, to see Franco Zeffirelli's production of "Romeo and Juliet," written by some guy named Shakespeare. Parents had been duped into giving their permission nnd the school board appnrently wasn't paying attention in clnss. Fortunately, a Baptist minister alerted the town in time. He pointed out that the movie has a PG rating (parental guidance suggested). The PG had apparently been stamped on Juliet's breast, shockingly bared in 1 scene (Who does she think she is, Zsa Zsa Gabor on the Johnny Carson show?).

The school board quickly overruled the teachers. Almont students are now forbidden to see any and all PG movies on school time. Thus they have been spared the traumatic experinece of learning that perhpas Romeo and Juliet got undressed before they went to bed. Now they don't have to worry about seeing anything in class except those healthy cartoons where cute animals and nice people keep smashing each other's heads into each other's shoes.

So which town, Detroit or Almont, should be awarded the Gold Chastity Belt? Don't write to me. It's a decision that must be made by the Keepers of Community Morals Organization. I tried to join once but I was blackballed. The membership committee ruled that the only reason I want to keep other people's morals is because I don't have any of my own.

Onward and Upward.

Meet Judge Art Reibel

..Charlevoix County District Court has been in the limelight ever since Art Reibel was elected to the position over a year ago.

Sometimes it has been because they have done something new in court, while other times its been because of a controversy, usually with the media.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier talks with Judge Reibel and focuses in on the 90th District Court.

He is a graduate from the University of Detroit Law School and has had extensive experience as a tax lawyer.

He also has a degree in accounting from Eastern Michigan University and before establishing his own Troy law firm worked for the federal government as an internal revenue agent.

He became familiar with Charlevoix through summer vacations and eventually opened a branch of his law office in Charlevoix before being elected as District Court Judge.

He and his wife, Erwina, have three children.

COURIER: What do you see as your philosophy in District Court now that you have been in this position for a year?

REIBEL: Well, District Court is primarily a people's court. The people come in contact with the court, any court at all, during their lifetime, it's generally district court either on a civil or a criminal matter and of course District Court handles all criminal matters of every nature from first degree murder on down to the smallest traffic violation. The more serious felony crimes are handled in this respect in District Court. The Court is required to hold a preliminary examination in all felony cases to determine if a crime has been committed and secondly if there's a probable cause to believe that the person charged committed the crime. So we have a very heavy criminal docket. And then of course, the jurisdiction of the civil jurisdiction of District Court was increased from 3 to 10 thousand dollars back in 1972. That drastically increased the number of civil cases now being handled in District Court. District Court is, as I say, a people's court because that is where people come in contact with it and to me it's a very active court and it is a very rewarding position because in many respects you have an opportunity to help people and my philosophy on the court and it's function is to first of all, we have to take into consideration we have many first offenders and these people by and large never appear in court again. They may encounter a small misdemeanor case. For example, I had one yesterday, a trespass, a simple trespass case. The man was out mushrooming and happened to step over a fence onto private property and was thereafter confronted by the land owners and they charged him with a simple trespass. Now this person technically was trespassing and this is very often the type of people that come into District Court and that will probably be the last time that this person comes in. So it's a very small misdemeanor. But I think the function of the court is first to take into consideration and evaluate these cases and in many cases I ask for a presentence investigation report to look into the background of the individual, look into some of his history, some of his domestic responsibilities, you notice in court quite often I ask if the individual is a married man and if he is living with and supporting his family and if he is, I take that into consideration to some extent in passing sentence. I think the Court has a responsibility to counsel people, because as I say we get alot of people who are in court once, one time only and certainly jail or time in the county jail is not a remedy in these situations. There are situations where a time in jail is required and in those situations, jail time is a sentence but by and large, we have an excellent probation officer and he works well with people and he seems to accomplish alot of rehabilitation within the probation system.

COURIER: So you view yourself as more of a rehabilitator than in terms of one of your functions.

REIBEL: It's one of the functions, right, sometimes, you know, you have to be very firm on things and a person in a small community like ours, very often I know many of the people come in court by their first name so I have a civil matter and here's two people who have a dispute over x number of dollars and I could easily ask for a visiting judge but if I did that, I would be doing it every other day so I just meet these situations head on and I render a decision and very often it's not appreciated by both parties but it's something that has to be done and that's part of being a District Judge.

COURIER: What are some of the changes you have made in District Court since you've been in office compared to your predecessors?

REIBEL: Almost the very first change I made was very early in my term. People charged with a crime who have been lodged in the County Jail would be brought into open public court in county jail green uniforms and you know our whole juris prudence is that you are innocent until proven guilty and I thought that was very offensive. Here's a man who may have been charged with a misdemeanor and he is brought into court for arraignment, just a charge, in jail clothes which is very offensive I am sure to him, it's a public court and on arraignment day we often have 15 to maybe 100 people there.

COURIER: Sort of the idea that you are innocent until proven guilty.

REIBEL: Sure, so from that time on, no person charged with a crime is to appear in District Court in jail clothing, they are to appear in street clothing. Then about the middle of last year we instituted a county-wide work programs in both Emmet County and Charlevoix County and these have been very successful. They have saved the County a substantial amount of money because we assess oversight fees.

COURIER: What do you mean by oversight fees?

REIBEL: Oversight fee is the amount of money required to pay off duty policemen to supervise these programs. So these people as they work in different County projects like the Ironton Ferry or the County Building or cleaning up our parks and our recreation areas they have supervision.

COURIER: Another area that people have been interested in now that Judge Fenlon has announced his retirement, is whether or not you have any interest in trying to get that appointment.

REIBEL: No. No, I was approached by a small group to see if I was interested, and no, the reason being that we have just started making some of these changes here in District Court and I want to see them through. I have 4½ years to run on this term and I think there is a job yet to be accomplished here in District Court and I'm satisfied with our progress and intend to stay here until the term is up to see some of these programs and new programs that we had in mind.

COURIER: What is your feeling about a Judge such as yourself being involved in private enterprise?

REIBEL: Well, when you say private enterprise it covers alot of areas.

COURIER: More specifically the Castle, then.

REIBEL: Castle Farms? Well the Castle Farms is a unique piece of property that we purchased before I became Judge, and I suppose it goes back to my farming days. You know it's a unique farm, you know it was a farm which really interested me and we do have horses, and we did live there and we utilized the buildings as farm buildings. It's a substantial investment for myself and my wife and we have attempted to develop the property you know in a subtle manner and it presents no conflict because there's just no comparable properties and for the first time this year the properties will be open to the public at no charge, they will be admitted free, they can park free and walk through the properties.

COURIER: You see no conflict here, though?

REIBEL: No, I see no conflict–not with that type of investment.

COURIER: Would you explain the situation recently in the News-Review, the story about your boat becoming attached by the County Sheriff.

REIBEL: Yes. That we had extensive litigation with Mr. John Van Haver. That litigation is still in process and has not been concluded yet in that the case is going up on appeal. Basically what happened there was the attorney neglected to file certain documents.

COURIER: Who's attorney? Yours or...

REIBEL: Our attorney. I would rather not mention his name. Our attorney through an oversight, neglected to file certain papers and therefore, the writ of execution was served which any attorney representing his client's interest would do. Now that has been set aside and we have posted bond and the vessels are now free of the execution.

COURIER: Do you feel that's damaged your credibility as a Judge?

REIBEL: No, I don't think so. When I was a lawyer, practiced law, I was a very aggressive lawyer and I am very aggressive in protecting any investments I might have and, but those vessels were used in a little maritime business and that business is now being sold. If there was any conflict there in that area, that'll be?

COURIER: Could you explain your current position of releasing news to the Petoskey News-Review?

REIBEL: Yes, you see in Charlevoix County, we have people who have time to assist in disseminating some of the information to the public. In Emmet County, unfortunately, we do not, we are understaffed in Emmet County–we need additional help there and we need additional office space. As a matter of fact, I do not have an office in Emmet County. I

Free Sailing Lessons Offered This Summer

Free sailing instructions will be offered to all interested persons through the joint efforts of the Charlevoix Yacht Club and the significant contributions of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, the Charlevoix Recreation Department and local businesses.

Regular training sessions will start at 2:00 p.m. and again at 6:00 p.m. on June 11 and each Tuesday thereafter, throughout the summer. Lessons will be conducted under the tutor system, so all levels of instruction will be offered at each session.

All persons interested in participating should meet at the Yacht Club (adjacent to Depot Beach, north side) at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, June 1 for prospective tutors, and at noon for students.

Complete details will be explained at those meetings, but for training sessions the basic points are:

1. There is no charge.
2. It is not necessary to be a member.
3. Try to bring an approved life jacket (we are short of them and could use some donations!)
4. Training will include both shore and sailing lessons.
5. The tutor system permits random attendance and flexibility in getting together for individual training sessions.
6. The training will be in new Alcort "Puffers" provided through the efforts of the local business community - more on this on our forthcoming announcement of the ceremonies.

These boats will also be used in other club activities and for pleasure sailing.

Those events do require "Skipper's Cards" and club membership. Junior memberships are available for ages 11 through 17 without charge, through a "work program", while dues for regular members (age 18 or over) are currently $5.00 per year.

PAULO HELPS his mother (left) and Mrs. Jan Ready prepare a Brazilian dinner during his parent's visit to Charlevoix.

Here For 2 Weeks

Brazilian Parents Visit Their Boy

By Peg Ohle

Mr. and Mrs. Omair Oliveira of Braganca Paulista, Brazil were in Charlevoix last week visiting their son Paulo who is a Youth for Understanding exchange student at Charlevoix High School.

Like any American parent whose child has gone away to school, they wanted to see how he is getting along, meet his friends, and share with him some of his new experiences.

Paulo, whose American "parents" are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ready, came to Charlevoix in January and has been an enthusiastic participant in school and community affairs. When the opportunity arose for him to come to the States his mother thought that six months was a long time for him to be away. She admits that she missed him, but the chance for him to improve his English and learn about a new country soon dispelled any doubts.

The Oliveiras flew from San Paulo to New York, then to Detroit where they were met by Mr. Ready's parents who drove them to Charlevoix.

During their stay they visited local schools, farms, newspaper offices, retail stores and the homes of many of Paulo's and the Ready's friends.

Oliveira is the owner and publisher of a chain of local newspapers, including the twice weekly Braganca Jornal. He says that mechanical production of small town newspapers in Brazil is behind that in the states, but that the general organization of reporters and advertising salesmen is much the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliveira both noted that the prices of fruits and vegetables in our markets were much higher than in Brazil, where these items are locally grown. Mrs. Oliveira thinks that American housewives have an easier time in the kitchen than she does because of all the canned, frozen and prepared food items.

Their interest in local schools derives from the fact that Braganca Paulista, a city of 40,000 people, has a complex of seven colleges, including medicine, dentistry, law, engineering, economics, and teachers' training. Two of the Oliveira's sons are in college, as are two nephews who make their home with them. They also have an 11 year old boy.

Asked if people in Charlevoix move faster than people in Braganca Paulista, Mr. Oliveira explained that because Brazil was founded by the Portugese it is a livelier, more bustling country than others in South America.

There are no siestas.

Former Charlevoix Teacher

Leonard Burns To Speak At Commencement

Leonard W. 'Pete' Burns, former Charlevoix Public School teacher, will deliver the Commencement address at exercises to be held at the high school gymnasium Sunday, June 2, Vane H. Smith, high school principal, has announced.

The class of 1974, composed of 112 members, has chosen to invite Mr. Burns, who was their teacher when they were in the Seventh grade, to speak at their graduation. He has selected as his subject "It's the Little Things that Make Memories."

The class also has decided to combine the Baccalaureate service, a religious ceremony, with the traditional commencement exercises for the first time in the school's eighty-six year history.

In speaking of the change, Shielah Brady, president of the class said that the class felt it wanted someone from the community as graduation speaker, "Someone who knew us as individuals...someone who would give our last big event a personal touch. That's why we asked Mr. Burns.

He had most of us in the seventh grade" she said in regard to the speaker.

As for the combining of two events, baccalaureate and graduation, she said "Having a service on Sunday night when we all attended in our caps and gowns seemed to us to distract from commencement which should be the big event. In fact, it made graduation anti-climatical which it shouldn't be.

By doing this we are having the event on Sunday when families, even those from away, can attend more easily. We feel that it will be THE event...the one we want to remember".

Mr. Burns is no newcomer to Charlevoix. He was born in Hayes township on the land where he still lives. Since retiring in 1970 after 23 years in the Charlevoix school system, he divides his time between Charlevoix and Zephyrhills, Fla., but still keeps his finger in classes at his alma mater by substitute teaching every fall and spring.

A 1925 graduate of the Charlevoix school, he was graduated from Olivet College four years later to enter a career of teaching.

David Harty, returned home from the Osteopathic Hospital in Traverse City on Sunday.

The Wesleyan Church members will have a clean up bee Saturday at the Wesleyan summer camp in Cadillac.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kooyer attended the funeral of her mother's sister Stella Baker and were Friday overnight guests of their son Bill and family in Grand Rapids.

A pot luck supper was enjoyed by about 65 people at the last meeting of the season for the Ebenezer School P.T.A. Monday evening. The tables were decorated with vases of spring flowers. Mrs. Donald Heeres, presented Mr. Krause a boutonniere, Miss Postma and Mrs. Larry VanderSlik a red fushia plant in the name of the P.T.A.

Group singing was enjoyed before Miss Postma showed beautiful pictures of various flowers, birds and scenes from different states, that she had taken on her vacation trips. Mr. Krause has been principal and teacher of the 6th, 7th and 8th grade the past 11 years and has renewed his contract.

Miss Postma has taught kindergarten, first and second grade the past 14 years and has yet to renew her contract. Mrs. Vanderslik has taught 3 years and has resigned due to distance involved as she lives in Petoskey.

Program committee and decorators were the Melvin Essenbergs, John Kloosters, Jake Vandenbergs and Andy Veenstra's. The Ways and Means committee were in charge of the food. The members of the eighth grade were honored guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Osterbaan and son Danny of Hudsonville were weekend visitors with her folks Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Carpenter. Their daughter Marilyn was a Saturday overnight visitor of Grandma Osterbaan. Larry, oldest son of the Osterbaans, remained in Cadillac over the weekend to visit his cousin Lee Medlin.

Dessie Farrell was a Sunday dinner guest of her son Donald and family in Norwood. In the afternoon, they visited Rosa Mae Holecheck, Dessie's niece, at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom (Margaret) Newhouse and three children of Kalamazoo left Tuesday after spending a couple days with her folks Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Jophn Hastings and son of Traverse City were weekend guests of her folks Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolhuis and also called on his folks and the new house at the Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit John Drenth are enjoying their retirement. Last week they visited their daughter Norma and family in Leslie and also visited in Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shooks spent the weekend with their children in Mt. Pleasant. They celebrated Hattie's birthday and Mother's day with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Courtright and family in Mt. Pleasant. Other members of the family present were Mrs. Charles Cartwright and children of Orchard Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Goeman of Troy and Trooper and Mrs. Carl Goeman of Battle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Martinsen of Lansing were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Orcutt from Monday to Friday last week. Reports are fishing was dissappointing. Mr. Martinsen is Mrs. Orcutt's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin (Esther) Witteveen and two of their children Kaye and Jimmy of West Olive were Friday overnight and Saturday visitors with their mother and grandmother Anne Osterbaan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred VanStedum were in Moline this weekend visiting Jack and Judy Kooyer and son Aaron.

The prayer and share group of the Christian Reformed Church met at the home of Mrs. John Veldkamp, Thursday morning.

The last meeting of the season of the Community School will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. A potluck supper will take place and election of officers will be held. Some elementary students will exhibit a tumbling act before the supper.

HUBERT PADDOCK

Paddock Seeks Tax Cut

Hubert E. Paddock, native of Charlevoix, graduate of the United States Naval Academy, veteran of 35 years in the Navy during two world wars and survivor of Pearl Harbor, is concerned about the large part of personal income that is going for taxes.

He is circulating a petition sponsored by Taxpayers United, headed up by William Shaker of Midland. It aims at putting a constitutional amendment to limit taxes in the state of Michigan on the November ballot.

The amendment would freeze all future taxes and other state revenues at the present levied percentage of personal income (8.3 percent) and would halt the escalation of state spending.

The amendment would further prevent local units from increasing tax rates or levying any new taxes without voter approval.

According to the Michigan Americanism Council, which is supporting the amendment, over 50 legislators have indicated their support to date.

Any Charlevoix resident who would like to sign the petition may do so by contacting Paddock at 307 Meech Street, Charlevoix, phone 547-4384.

How Old's Your Home?

Mrs. Carl Kohler is holding some of the plaques that the Charlevoix Area Historical Society wants to post on local homes.

To qualify for one of the wooden signs, a house must either be 100 years-old by 1976 (Centennial Home) or built before the turn of the century and still occupied (Pioneer Home).

To find out how old your house is, the Historical Society suggests you check the abstract on your home.

And if you can't find the necessary information, Historical Society members say they'll be glad to help you out.

The project, according to members, is Charlevoix's Contribution to the Bi-Centennial celebration this summer.

Hospital Guild Coffee Time

Charlevoix Hospital Guild members got into the swing of spring last week with their annual membership drive coffee at the home of Mrs. Conrad Klooster.

The coffee was a part of an all out effort to get more members into their volunteer ranks to better serve Charlevoix Area Community Hospital.

"We're a very active group," says Mrs. Jane Driggett, who help welcome the more than 30 residents attending the tea.

She said the Guild held the tea so they could explain to potential members what they do.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild already has some 400 members who do a wide variety of volunteer work.

One of the major activities is maintaining "The Show Case" gift shop right at the hospital.

Mrs. Klooster said the shop is completely manned by volunteers under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Freedman and Mrs. James Gallagher.

But even more than that, the Guild President said they make puppets and animal pillows for these staying at the hospital.

"We have a very active program of volunteers," she said.

And to provide some financial assistance along with their volunteer work, Mrs. Klooster said they hold a yearly thrift sale which last year earned them over $1,200.

Guild officers say the organization is about 20 years old and for the last 18-years they have been maintaining a cart filled with a variety of things patients might need during their stay.

Officers in the Guild besides Mrs. Driggett are Mrs. Eleanor Squire, vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. Evelyn Seger, secretary; and Mrs. Eleanor Schutz, treasurer.

Mrs. E. Darrell Dinwiddie was chairman of the coffee and was assisted by Mrs. Faye Davis.

Refreshments were furnished by Oleson's Market.

CHARLEVOIX RESIDENTS got a chance last week to visit the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild and see how they could become involved with the volunteer organization.

MRS. JOANNA GUNN and Mrs. Carolyn Klooster served coffee to over 50 residents attending the guild event last week.

Easy Riders

Every weekday morning Larry Sorensen climbs aboard school bus No. 11 and heads north of Charlevoix to collect 65 students who ride with him twice everyday school is in session.

His route takes him down the Boyne City-Rd. to Old US 31 and from there on to Burgess-Rd., Quarterline-Rd., Maple Grove-Rd. and back to the Boyne City-Rd.

The entire trip takes about one hour and thirty minutes.

About 2:50 in the afternoon, Larry and the other drivers once again nose their yellow buses out onto the road and begin their task of delivering their riders to their respective homes.

Naturally a bus driver in northern Michigan comes up against a few obstacles which can impede progress–snow, ice, mud, deer, and even the Pine River Bridge!

Soon, however, school will be out for the summer and the buses will be put in 'dry dock' until next fall.

Spring Gardens To Be Judged

The Charlevoix Garden Club "Garden of the Month Contests" are in full swing.

The north side judges, Mrs. R. Tollas, and Mrs. E. Lewand awarded the Garden Plaque for the period May 13 to June 2 to:

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Loop, 108 Oak Street Flowering forsythia hedge, well planned small gardens, with some rocks--blooming yellow daffodila, white narcissus, and red tulips give out nature's beautiful colors to the surrounding home landscaping of foundation shrubbery, white birches, and well kept green lawn.

1974 Springtime in Charlevoix has been of long duration and persistently cold. Trees, plants, and flowers are begging for warmth to help them give out their fullest foliage and blooms.

Always Mention..

Bloodshot Eyes Reveal That Youth May Be Vanishing!

By LELORD KORDEL

Number Eighteen of a Series

Dull, strained, bloodshot, heavily pouched eyes can give you that "lost youth" look quicker than any other feature. Beauty advisers continually admonish their readers to avoid the frowning, strained expressions caused by tired, dull, undernourished eyes.

Any unhealthy condition (and premature aging is most assuredly an unhealthy condition) of the body is quickly reflected both in the eyes and under them. Nothing detracts more from a person's appearance of youth than darkly circled eyes.

Dark, puffy pouches are caused by the condition of the skin underneath the eye socket. In this area the skin differs from that in other parts of the body.

It is because skin under eyes is very thin, that the condition of the blood flowing in this semi-transparent area may readily be detected. Healthy blood is naturally red, whereas blood darkened by impurities, lack of sleep or improper food, immediately discolors the skin over the lower eye socket.

HIGH-STARCH FOODS

The high-starch foods, (macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, white rice, pastries, cakes, heavy puddings, candies, alcohol, soft drinks) — have a tendency to increase the amount of carbon dioxide in the blood, causing it to lose its rich, red color. This explains why a diet topheavy with these artificial, high-starch foods and beverages can hasten the appearance of those unsightly, dark circles under the eyes.

On the other hand, fruits, particularly citrus fruits, fresh green and yellow vegetables, and the iron-rich foods that make good red blood are the foods that will help clear up the dark circles under the eyes, and guard against their re-appearance. Not only will these nourishing foods cause the dark circles to fade out but your eyes themselves will gain an added sparkle from the richer blood built up by a planned diet.

Just a reminder that vitamin A protects against an ailment that causes a dry, thickened condition of the eye itself, leaving the eyeball lustreless. If the foods you eat do not provide enough vitamin A to keep the tear ducts healthy, the eyes cannot secrete enough of the moisture that lubricates the eyeball and helps impart to it that glistening sparkling look so necessary for young-looking eyes.

SHOWS UP IN EYES

The lack of riboflavin shows up in the eyes too. Just take a look at your eyes in the mirror. If they are even slightly bloodshot, you can be pretty certain they need more riboflavin.

Under hormal conditions, the thin covering over the entire eye contains no blood vessels. Nature devised a clever way of bringing oxygen to the outer eye without the need for a disfiguring network of blood vessels—the riboflavin in the blood back of the eye combines with oxygen in the air to supply the visible part of your eyeball.

But what happens to this ingenious oxygen-supplying system if there isn't enough riboflavin in the blood back of the eyes? Then nature sets up a second-best system by creating small blood vessels to bring oxygen directly to the outer eye tissues.

It's when a lack of riboflavin makes nature resort to this measure that your eyes are said to be bloodshot, as indeed they are — shot through with tiny, newly created blood vessels.

EYES NOT ONLY SEE
THEY TELL, TOO!

It's a toss up which does more to help you retain the appearance of youth—a head of thick lustrous hair or a smooth skin, glowing with health.

ABOUT YOUR HAIR

Let's first diagnose what's wrong when your hair begins to "show its age."

Because each single hair is made of protein, your hair needs the sulphur-supplying amino acids found in egg yolk. (This also holds true for healthy fingernails). When you don't eat enough of these particular amino acids, your hair becomes lustreless and lacks sheen.

This brings proteins into our growing list of nutrients that feed your hair. But what about vitamins?

If your diet is not providing enough vitamin A, you may expect dry, dead-looking hair with a scalp well powdered with dandruff. And if you permit this vitamin deficiency to become more severe, your hair may grow coarse and ugly, then begin falling out. Lack of inositol, one of the B vitamins, also causes loss of hair.

The question is often asked why men become bald more readily than women. The answer is that men need even greater quantities of the important B-vitamins than do women, hence their more serious lack of these food elements reacts on their scalps.

So why don't you men concentrate on keeping your hair through feeding it, rather than dousing it with costly tonics?

Mrs. Martin Named State Bank V.P.

The Board of Directors of the First State Bank of Charlevoix has announced the appointment of Mrs. Elaine Martin as an assistant vice president of the bank.

Mrs. Martin has been with the bank for over 20 years, a career which was interrupted for a time to care for her two boys. Claire T., now 20, has just completed two years of work at Ferris State College and Kevin, 17, attends Charlevoix high school. Her husband, Clair C., operates Art Dry Cleaners in Charlevoix.

A native of Charlevoix, Mrs. Martin progressed through the bookkeeping and teller departments, was promoted to assistant cashier in 1970, and early 1973 she assumed new duties as a mortgage loan officer.

Mrs. Martin has successfully completed banking courses through the American Institute of Banking and plans to attend the Northern Michigan University's School of Banking during the coming term.

Mrs. Martin's duties at the bank and caring for her family keep her quite busy but she does like to knit, which she says is her only hobby.

Teacher Feacher

Mrs. Wilson Involved With Local Teacher Association

Mrs. Harold Wilson is the first woman president of the Charlevoix Education Association and was also a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee.

A veteran of 14 years of classroom teaching, she now serves as third grade teacher in the K-4 school. Known for her leadership qualities, Barbara also serves on numerous internal committees of the Association.

Barbara is a native to northern Michigan as she was born and grew up in Kalkaska County.

After completing her education at Central Michigan University, she taught the third and seventh grades in Kingsley for eight years before she and her husband came to Charlevoix. Her husband, Harold, is with the Great Lakes Fisheries Division of the Department of Natural Resources. Barbara took time out from her teaching for ten years to help raise a family.

She is the mother of four—two daughters, Sara and Linda, who are both married, and two sons who are in college—one majoring in music education and on in chemistry.

The Wilsons have been active together and have traveled and camped all over the United States and Canada.

They are also active members of the First Congregational Church, Barbara being treasurer of her Circle, on the Board of Trustees, and in the church choir.

IT TAKES alot of patience and skill to shoe a horse without getting kicked.

SEVE KNYSZ likes to shoe horses more than anything else. He first became interested in the profession as a young boy.

Business Grows

Farriers Live On

You don't see to many of the old blacksmiths who use hammer out steel on their anvils these days--especially young ones.

But there are still a few and if Steve Knysz of Boyne City has his way, they'll be around for years to come.

Knysz is a Farrier, who at 23-years-old is building himself quite a reputation around Charlevoix County.

While some residents might think shoeing horses is a thing of the past, the former Detroit suburban resident thinks its becoming a thing of the future.

Horses are becoming more popular than ever.

A Belleville High School graduate, Knysz got interested in horses when he was 12-years-old.

"The neighbors always had horses," he said the situation that eventually lead to him getting a horse as a youngster.

It was during those years that the thin, black-haired boy met a kindly old gentleman who eventually influenced his decision to become a blacksmith.

"You kinda looked up to him" he recalled.

"He was the kinda guy you wanted to follow in his footsteps."

Knysz said the old blacksmith who used to shoe his horse was a likable person who had the freedom in a job he wanted for himself.

Then when he began visiting his aunt's farm in 1968, he met another blacksmith.

But this one according to Knysz, didn't appear to like his job and didn't do a very good job.

Knysz said he figured that if a person could do it, he shouldn't have any problem doing it himself.

So then I started looking and checking it out a bit," he said.

He finally found a school in Oklahoma, where in 1971, he learned everything from forging to making a shoe.

According to Knysz, his instructor and owner of the school was the first shoer to ever get into the Cowboy Hall of Fame.

The Charlevoix County horse shoer said he had to start learning how to shoe on the frozen foot of a dead horse.

"If you make it through that you could make it through anything," he said.

Soon after school was completed, Knysz said he decided to move up North to start his business.

Unlike most businesses, Knysz goes to his customers who are spread out across Antrim and Charlevoix Counties.

"It's challenging...it's demanding," he said about his job.

"There's a need for it and I feel like I'm doing people a service."

He said the horse population in United States has almost doubled and in Michigan it has gone up even more.

"They're not dying out any more," he said.

Library notes

Some of the new books on the Library shelves and currently on the lists of best sellers, have a surprisingly dignity and beauty which has been lacking from a large number of the most popular titles of the past months.

I Heard the Owl Call My Name by Margaret Craven is an example. This slim volumn of only 165 pages is a beautiful and inspiring saga of an Indian Village deep in the wilds of British Columbia, which is visited by a young minister who does not know that he has only a short time to live.

Among these vanishing Indians, Mark Brian learns enough of the meaning of life not to fear death. And then, one cold winter evening, he hears the owl in the forest call his name, and he understands what is going to happen.

Up until now there have been four supremely great writers of books which appeal both to children and adults. Lewis Carroll, Kenneth Grahame, A.A. Milne and Tolkien. Now there is another classic writer to add to the group, the young Englishman Richard Adams.

In this first novel, the author lets us know that the universe has something really mysteriously great "going" for humanity. Watership Down is the saga of a maverick band who set out, against all odds, on a quest for a new home, a better society. The heroes of this tale are wild rabbits. They obey the laws of nature, yet each of them is endowed with a blood-and-gut personality that is unforgettable.

How they succeed in their quest for a new life is an epic adventure.

The setting is the rolling hills and meadows of England.

The time is now-or tomorrow-or always. It's unlikely that any reader, of any age, will be disappointed in this important and absorbing new novel.

The Lion Triumphant was written by one of the most successful novelists in the English-speaking world today.

Writing under the pen name of Phillippa Carr, the author has given us a full-blown and rip-roaring new historical novel set in the time of Elizabeth the Great. Catherine, the heroine, has never been a stranger to danger and mystery, but the past was as nothing compared to the dangerous forces hurled upon her when the dashing, devil-may-care young sea captain, Jake Pennlyon sails into the harbor and into her life. It is fitting that the story of Catherine and Jake's tempeatuous love reaches its peak as Spain's mighty Armada clashes off the English coast.

The stores with the Spartan on their doors, serving families in 58 of the 83 counties in Michigan, are proud to salute their great state during "Michigan Week". The growth of Spartan has paralleled Michigan's growth during the past 57 years since it's beginning.

It was 1917, when Michigan's population was just 3½ million, that nineteen independent grocers got together to buy cooperatively in order to survive. The company they founded is now called Spartan Stores, Inc. The original nineteen have grown to over 450 stores today just as Michigan has grown to over 9½ million people. The Buying Power generated by these Spartan stores is the largest in the State and insures Michigan consumers of real shopping economy and value.

Spartan Stores have grown with Michigan and take pride in celebrating "Michigan Week" by offering these Special Surprises as a "Thank You" for your patronage.

Oops....

A funny thing happened to Charlevoix's Clayton Smith last week when he decided to take a spin on his tractor -- his tire went without the tractor.

Smith said he was driving down the road to disc a friend's garden, when all of a sudden his rear tire went rolling away.

No one was injured.

And to make the situation even funnier, Smith said it's happened before.

The last time the incident took place was with a truck full of apples.

That time both back tires came off.

Cincinnati Ballet Visits Northern Michigan Areas

The Cincinnati Ballet's trip to Northern Michigan last week was a time for learning as well as being entertained. And if the troup comes back next year, Crooked Tree Arts Council officials say there will be even more time for learning.

The company performed for a full house on two nights last week and came a day early to give three master classes at Petoskey high school.

The classes, taught by company director David McLain and dancer David Blackburn were open to all reaches of the community. Classes in beginning ballet and modern dance were given to children and adults.

Next year, if the company returns, Crooked Tree would like to see master classes in the Charlevoix School system as well.

The Cincinnati Ballet, now in its eleventh year is affiliated with the University of Cincinnati. Many of the company's dancers are currently completing BA degrees in dance and some continue on with the company after graduation.

Dance programs for last week revealed a group of professionals well versed in a wide range of dance style and technique. Strictly "refined" European classic mixed with the more dramatic, pictorial American tradition. The culmination to the eight dance series was "Salome" Lester Horton's gripping dance rendition of a biblical tale.

After its Petoskey visit, the Cincinnati Ballet traveled to Midland and on to their home city where they will be performing "Firebird" with the Cincinnati symphony in June.

Charlevoix's Rayders Take State Regionals

Last week was a memorable week for Coach Gary Stutzman's Charlevoix thinclads as they captured the Rudyard Relays and the 880 relay traveling trophy on Wednesday and the Regional Class C. meet at Pine River on Saturday.

This week the Rayder cindermen will participate in the Petoskey Relays on Tuesday and the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet on Friday.

Ten members of the Rayder squad qualified at the regional meet and will travel to Mt. Pleasant June 1 to compete in the State meet at the Central Michigan University campus.

Stutzman had only praise for his trackmen after winning these two events, the most recent in a long line of wins during the present season.

"Everyone talks about our sprinters and they do an excelent job for us. However, it's the distance runners who have come through in the stretch. It had been through their efforts along with those of the field people that we've gotten this far".

Stutzman also spoke highly of the underclassmen on the team. "We've had real good luck with our freshmen and sophomores. They are a fine young corps that have meant a lot to the team this year and will grow to mean even more in the future" Stutzman added.

In addition to the defeating all but Cheboygan in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference (and this after the team had won the Rydyard relays the night before) the Rayders have returned with trophies from the Newberry Invitational, the Soo Invitational, the Rudyord Relays where they also took the 880 yd. relay traveling trophy for the second year and now the Class C regional meet.

In winning the regional meet at Pine River Saturday, the 440 yd. relay team composed of Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin set a new record of 1:34.6 clipping 2.4 seconds from the record set in 1972 by Traverse City St. Francis.

Besides the record broken by Charlevoix, seven other new records were set in the shot put, high jump, 880 yd. run, 440 yd. run, 2 mile run, 220 yd. dash and the mile relay.

In addition in setting a new record in the 440 relay, the team points were won thusly:

Shot put: Clay Jones, 3rd; Jim Potter, 5th.

Long jump: Mike Streeter: Kevin Martin, Kevin Speer, 5th. Distance: 19'11¾".

High jump: Jerry Skippergosh, 5th.

Pole vault: Rondy Faust, 2nd.

880 yd. relay: Charlevoix (Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Streeter, Martin) Time: 1:34.6.+

880 yd. run: Chuck Faust, 2nd; Gary Novotny, 5th.

120 yd. high hurdles: Rondy Faust. Time: 16.2.

1 mile: Jim Sundberg, 3rd.

100 yd. dash: Streeter, 2nd.

180 yd. low hurdles: Randy Faust. Time: 20.9.

220 yd. dash: Martin, 2nd.

1 mile relay: Charlevoix (Sundberg, C. Faust, Novotny, Ed Russell), 2nd.

440 yd. Relay: Charlevoix (Skippergosh, Kaufman, Streeter, Martin) Time: 45.6.

+New record.

The team's record was equally as inpressive in the Rudyard relays where the Rayders tallied 57 points, all in a variety of relay events.

Charlevoix took three first and four seconds to overshadow the other 12 competitors.

Firsts were taken by the 440 relay team and the sprint relay team composed of Skippergosh, Kaufmon, Streeter and Martin and the 880 yd. relay team of Randy Faust, Kaufman, Streeter and Martin.

Placing second were the Mile Medley team of Chuck Faust, Kevin Spear, Rondy Faust and Gary Novotny, which tied with Pickford: the shuttle hurdle relay team of Matt Doan, Bob Alger, Clay Jones and Randy Faust; the mile and a half relay team of Sundberg, Ed Russell, Novotny and R. Faust and the Shot put relay team of Jones, Potter and Phil Christ.

Times for the 440 relay was 45.5; the sprint medley, 1:09.9 and the 880 relay, 1:33.2.

The top three teams in the regional meet at Pine River were Michigan-Huron Shores teams with Charlevoix in first with 60 points; Rogers City with 36 and Boyne City with 29. They were followed by Pine River with 26; Benzie Central, 19; Kalkaska, 14; Whittemore-Prescott, 13; Reed City and Onaway, 8½ each; Evart, 5½; Elk Rapids, 4½; Mason County Central, 4; Harrison and Lincoln-Alcona, 3 each; Houghton Lake, 1 and East Jordan, Grayling and Roscommon, no score.

Final totals in the Rudyard relay were Charlevoix, 57; Rudyard, 41; Pickford, 39; Rogers City, 36; Soo, 32; Petoskey, 24; Munsing, 22; Boyne City, 19; Detour, 10; Newberry, 9; Cedarville, 6; Gaylord, 4 and Onaway, 3.

Top Players To Be Honored

The Annual Varsity Awards Night will be held at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dale Burge, athletic director, has announced.

At that time, coaches in all Varsity sports will introduce their players and present awards for football, golf, cross country skiing, wrestling, basketball, track and tennis, all boys sports, and basketball, skiing, volley ball and track, girls sports.

The Annual Varsity Awards Night is sponsored by the Charlevoix Sports Boosters headed by James Alger.

Tennis Talk

Tennis is one of the fastest growing sports in the world and there is a great need to provide proper instruction for all interested in the game. Hopefully, this weekly Courier feature will be beneficial to all tennis players - from the beginner to the champion.

In light of the problems Charlevoix has been having with its public tennis courts, it is fitting to devote this first article to general tennis courtesy.

As a rule, however, this feature will deal primarily with the fundamentals and strategies of the game.

Tennis courtesy, or court etiquette as it is commonly referred to by tennis buffs, is actually nothing more than the simple use of common courtesy. Nobody enjoys being interrupted in the middle of a game and this is especially true in tennis. By following a few suggestions, everyone, players and spectators alike, can enjoy tennis to its fullest.

When going to a vacant court, you should make sure that you do not walk behind another's court while they are in the middle of a point. This can be very distracting and often leads to many "blown" points. If a point is being played, simply wait until it is over before crossing over to your court.

The same policy holds true if your ball rolls over to another's court. Before retrieving it or asking someone to retrieve it for you, make sure that you are not interrupting a point on someone else's court.

If you are playing, and you notice that others are waiting to play, you should try to limit your play to one hour or two sets of tennis. Remember all those times when you had to wait and wait for a court? This would be avoided if everyone tried to follow this suggestion. An hour of hard tennis is, after all, a great deal of exercise.

At one time or another, everyone interested in tennis is a spectator. A specific tennis code of courtesy exists for the spectator as well as the player. Whether at the courts waiting for an opening or simply watching for enjoyment, every spectator should be considerate of those who are playing.

Finally, anyone who is not playing tennis should watch from outside the fenced-in playing area. Seeing people all over the court can be most distractng to those trying to play a serious set of tennis.

Actually, all these suggestions are part of an unwritten code concerning one's conduct around tennis facilities. None of them are cut-and-dry rules but general suggestions which make playing and watching tennis much more pleasant. Just keep in mind the next time you go out to the tennis courts that court etiquette is, in reality,

Charlevoix Tennis Team Loses Regionals

OLSEN

A record ten teams competed in the 1974 class C-D regionals. While the tournament was dominated by perennial powers East Jordan and the host team, Leelanau, the Charlevoix Tennis Club finished a respectable sixth.

A notable lack of tournament experience kept the Rayder netmen from finishing higher. Ted Lass and Mark Hosmer had a bad case of nerves in dropping their first set 6-2 to Boggett and Klein of Leelanau. The Rayder duo settled down, however, and raced to a 4-0 lead in the second set.

Realizing the possibility of pulling off a major upset, Lass and Hosmer became overcautious and lost their consistency. With the score 6-6, Boggett and Klein won the tie breaker easily, 5-1.

A Charlevoix victory in that match would have meant two more points since Hosmer and Lass had a bye in the first round.

Inexperience also cost John Greene a first round win.. Leading Kotilla of Glen Lake throughout the first set, Greene became impatient for a victory and made many careless errors. Then, after losing the first set 7-6, Greene played superb tennis to lead 5-2 in the second set. Again, with the thought of victory in his mind, Greene lost his concentration and the set 7-5.

Brian Osterberg drew a buy in the first round. In the second round, he played a smart match against Smith of Whitemore Prescott to win 7-5, 6-1 for two Charlevoix points.

In the quarter finals, Osterberg met VanDennyden of Traverse City Saint Francis. In a very close match, Osterberg lost the crucial points to the Belgium foreign exchange student. The final score was 6-3, 6-2.

The other Charlevoix point came when Mark Malpeli and Dan Engstrom whipped Nowinski and Jakielck of Glen Lake 6-0, 6-2.

The Charlevoix doubles team then ran up against the number one doubles set Burrows and Namccek of East Jordan. It was no contest as Malpeli and Engstrom were overpowered 6-0, 6-0.

Gretchen Olsen's bid to upset Maynard of Leelanau fell just short as she lost 7-5, 6-3. In the last Charlevoix match, Bob Sandahl and Paul Berg lost to Cnudde and Kelly of Whitemore Prescott.

The Charlevoix total of three points was good enough for a sixth place finish, higher than several other established tennis teams. Every member of the Charlevoix squad feels that with a full schedule and lots of hard work between now and next year, Charlevoix will be contenders for next year's regional championship.

Since Gretchen Olsen is the only club member graduating, this optimism appears justified.

JOHNSON

Charlevoix Rayders Defeat Boyne City

After losing to Petoskey 9-0 early in the week the Charlevoix Tennis Club rebounded to defeat Boyne City 6-1. This first victory in the club's brief history was another step in its match-by-match improvement.

Top singles player, Brian Osterberg, whipped Boyne City's Kevin Klevern 6-2, 6-0 in a fast match. Charlevoix's Ted Lass and Mark Hosmer, playing number one doubles, edged Matt Guitar and Al Roisen 6-4, 7-6, and when Mark Malpeli and Dan Engstrom walked off the court with a 6-2, 6-2 victory, Charlevoix had built up a commanding 3-0 lead.

But Charlevoix had lost a 3-0 lead in their initial encounter with Boyne City a week earlier. After Jon Greene lost at three singles 6-3, 6-2, the outcome of the meet depended on the results of three extremely close matches. This time, Charlevoix was not to be denied.

Gretchen Olsen lost her second set to Mark Neumann at two singles, but held on to win 6-3, 5-7, 6-4. Her powerful first serve combined with a steady backcourt game to wear Neumann down. This was Olsen's first regular season victory after three near misses in previous matches, and it could not have come at a better time for the Charlevoix netmen. Her victory assured Charlevoix of its first club victory.

Jim Marshall lost his first set to Chris McClees but continued to chase down the powerful McClees' shots to win 5-7, 6-1, 7-6. The stronger McClees had Marshall constantly on the defensive, but Marshall, using the old tennis adage "keep the ball in play", refused to crack under the pressure. Repeatedly frustrating his Boyne City foe, Marshall countered the attacking game with lobs and consistency.

Bob Sandahl and Paul Berg gave the Rayders their final point with a hard-earned win at three doubles over Denny and Jeff Kruzel. This marathon match was almost a repeat of the first third doubles match against Boyne City, except this time Charlevoix prevailed. Long points and three close sets sent the match well over two hours. The 7-5, 3-6, 6-4 victory gave Charlevoix its final 6-1 margin of victory.

The win was not only a first in Charlevoix's history, but it also showed how much improvement the club has made in its three meets and one and a half months of practice. Early in the year the club would drop all the close matches, but against Boyne City, every close match was won by Charlevoix.

While the netmen lost to Petoskey 9-0, a marked improvement could be seen. Osterberg, playing superb tennis, extended Don Sumner, one of the north's finest high school tennis players, to 7-5, 7-5. Olsen extended Keith Johnson to three sets before losing 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Other close matches found Hosmer and Lass losing 6-4, 7-5 to Don Olson and Gary Ross, while Sandahl and Berg lost 7-5, 7-6 to Dave Ganzala and Pete Luke.

Other scores: Rudolph defeated Greene 6-1, 6-2; Crawford defeated Berlage 6-3, 6-2; Dickinson defeated Marshall 6-3, 6-1; Shorter and Nelson defeated Malpeli and Engstrom 6-0, 6-2; Luwinski and Phillips defeated Malpeli and Carey.

The tennis club finishes its season on Friday when they host Gaylord at 3:30. Hoping to become a varsity sport next year, the club's members feel that a victory over the long-established Gaylord team would go a long way in strengthening their hopes.

Charlevoix Girls Take 2 Seconds

It's been a busy but a disappointing week for the Charlevoix girls track and field team, coached by Mrs. Marie Osterberg. They placed second in the Michigan Huron Shores meet at Boyne City with 50 points Wednesday and second in the Class C regional meet at Alpena Saturday with 40 points.

Both times the team placed second to Rogers City which had 54 points in the Conference meet and 43 in the regional event.

The Charlevoix team did have the distinction, however, of setting two new records and winning a third first at Boyne City and setting three new records at Alpena.

Denise Boss, a sophomore, set all the new records jumping 15' 10" in the long jump and running the 880 yd. run in 2:39.3 to set new records and placing first in the 440 yd. run with a time of 1:09.5.

In Saturday's meet she bettered her distance and times in the same three events jumping 16' 6"; covering the 880 yd. run in 2:31.5 and the 440 yd. dash in 1:03.2.

Charlevoix tallied a total of 40 points in the Regional meet to qualify nine members of the team for State competition at Alma high school June 1.

Boss placed first in one field and two track events in setting the new records of 16' 6" in the long jump, a time of 2:31.5 in the 880 yard run and 1:03.2 in the 440 yd. dash.

Kay Currey placed second in the hurdles; Teri Novotny second in the 220 yd. dash; Teri Morris third in the hurdles and the 220 yd. dash; the 440 relay team (Novotny, Tori Alger, Jodi Alger, Morris) a second place; the 880 yd. Medley relay team (T. Alger, Dona Bellows, Ginny Eby, Kathy Wheeler) a third and Cheryl Pence, a fifth in the shot put.

First, second and third place winners qualify for State Competition.

Rogers City took the Regional title with 43 points. Alcona was third with 24.

In the Conference meet at Boyne City Wednesday, Boss set a record of 15' 10" in the long jump and a record of 2:39.3 in the 880 yd. run and also placed first in the 440 yd. dash with a time of 1:09.5.

The only other first place in this meet was taken by Morris who ran the 80 yd. hurdles with a time of 12.1.

Taking second places in the conference meet were Pence in the high jump and the shot put and Novotny in the 220 yd. dash; taking thirds were Gail Powell in the 440 yd. run and the Medley relay team; fourth places were taken by Kay Currey in the 80 yd. hurdles; Jodi Alger in the 100 yd. dash and Morris in the 220 yd. dash and fifth places by Terri Hufford in the mile run and the 440 relay after the baton was dropped in a hand-off.

"I don't think people should have to dig for it," she said.

Hanna then turned to the city electric fund and questioned the city's policy of borrowing from those revenues.

Councilman George Plumm said that he hoped in the future the city could be able to have a break-down and move the budget be adopted.

But, Councilwoman Wallace said she couldn't pass the budget in good with all the questions that were left unanswered.

Councilman Robert Timms said the city did have a deadline to meet and that it would be a chore to get these figures now.

However, Mrs. Wallace moved the hearing be recessed to a week from Monday and in the meantime, the council have a meeting of the whole on Wednesday to discuss the budget more.

Plumm was the only councilman voting against the recess.

In other business, the council:

–Approved the appointment of Robert Cook to the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

–Approved of a county move to allow the Charlevoix Lion's Club usage of property south of the county jail for a ball diamond.

–Delayed action leasing 10 acrea of land North of hole number two at the municipal golf course for further study.

–Agreed to write the Department of State Highways and transportation they were interested in funds for a Master Planning Grant.

–Tabled action on what to do with federal revenue sharing monies for further investigation.

Stumping

the judge continues.

"ALLEGED!" screams Frenchy waving the arm not confined to a sling.

"No, I didn't plan it," asserts Hammerhead innocently. "It just happened to be a good time to teach this woman ogling reprobate some manners."

The judge, after appropriate deliberation, renders the verdict.

"I find the defendant not guilty."

The spectators contest the verdict with shouts of disbelief!

"Order," commands the judge, banging his gavel like a roofer.

"Let me explain the legal point involved," he tella these misinformed laymen. "Guilt hinges on intent, and this just happened as Hammerhead testified. He is innocent because he did not intend it to happen."

Thus, at long last, the pans on the scales of a more benevolent justice, hang in perfect balance.

Debbie

"I hated the world."

She said she hated the school system and still does.

"The only reason I stayed was because I had some good friends who were still in school," she said.

Debbie said she didn't like school because they didn't offer much other than basic required classes.

"There was nothing for fun...everything was book work and just sitting behind a desk.

It bothered her that the kids wouldn't tell the teachers how boring they were and what they really thought about the classes.

"They were still in the doing what people told them to do stage," she said.

At the end of her junior year, Debbie decided she would not be returning to high school in her senior year.

Next fall, Debbie only went to school for one day and never returned. Then when she was 16, she made her move.

She told her parents she was going to Ann Arbor to visit a friend. After hitting the University of Michigan, she and her girlfriend headed for Colorado.

Her friend left after several months, but Debbie pushed westward toward California because she wanted to come back to Michigan by way of Canada.

In San Francisco, she stayed a month and found a job on a ranch. But Debbie said she was getting homesick and wanted to move on to Canada.

After going through Washington and Oregon States, she got to the border.

"I was hitchiking and couldn't get in unless I showed some kind of fare," she said.

"They said they didn't like hitchhikers coming into Canada."

So, Debbie ended up hitching south again and getting a ride from three men returning from Vancouver.

"One of the guys in the car was going home for the weekend from prison," she continued.

Debbie said she learned that the guy had been arrested and jailed for two years because he had mairjuana on him.

"When I got to Seattle, they offered me a place to stay for the night," she said.

"It was really horrible because I had never been around people who had done any kind of hard drugs.

"It was quite an experience."

She said she had heard several gun shots that night from down the street and one girl living in the apartment was throwing up all night. She was seven months pregnant.

Debbie said she learned that the people were bringing in heroin from Canada and were selling it at their apartment.

"After a while, people started coming to the door and getting their orders," she said.

"They were using a back room to shoot in."

Debbie wanted to leave, but because the apartment was in a bad part of town, she was afraid to run out in the dark.

The next day she got a ride to Portland, where she hitched another ride to Salt Lake City.

In Salt Lake, Debbie said an old man in a camper picked her up and said he was driving to St. Joseph-Benton Harbor.

Apparently the man's wife had just died and he was taking a trip for a while by himself.

"From there, I went to Lansing to my sister's house," she said.

"I stayed there a few days and came home."

Debbie said her parents were really happy to see her, but the summer with them was enough and she had an urge to go back to Colorado.

She said she worked in Colorado at a canning factory until the day before Christmas when she was laid off.

"I came home again and I couldn't find a job all winter," she said.

Then she found a factory job for a $1.60 an hour, but Debbie said she couldn't stand doing the same thing day in and day out.

So, she quit and got a job bartending until the end of the summer.

During the winter, she did odd jobs and house cleaning.

"I couldn't find anything else to do."

Later she had a couple of job offers, but everytime the owner would find out who she was, she would get fired.

Like so many young people, Debbie was labeled as no good.

"It's pretty normal, really," she said."

Debbie said several people were afraid to let her in houses to even do house cleaning.

Things are different now.

Debbie no longer wants to go to parties and smoke pot. She wants a job and to try to make something with her life.

The "fun times" are over. While whe never regrets doing what she did, she wants to earn money to go back to school.

"Just lately, I've been depressed because I wanted to start doing something with my life."

But, Debbie's father was transferred from Charlevoix and she now had no place to stay.

She couldn't find work in Charlevoix. So she left for a different town.

Maybe a different town would let Debbie find a way to develop herself.

Debbie wants to amount to something. She wanted to do it in Charlevoix.

Tennis Talk

nothing more than common courtesy.

A special kind of problem exists at the Charlevoix tennis courts which needs to be solved so that the entire community can have the pleasure of using the courts. The public courts were built extremely close to several residential homes and the residents of these homes value their privacy and their property as much as any family does.

Their quiet life comes to an end in the early spring upon the opening of the courts. Therefore, tennis players should be sensitive to the needs of these residents.

Mutual co-operation is necessary to avoid the kind of confrontation that developed last week when the public courts were closed. A couple of signs explaining exactly what a player should do if he hits his ball into a neighboring yard could be posted on each gate at the courts. This suggestion is only one of many possibilities, but the main point is that a little communication and co-operation between the tennis court residents, the city, and the playing public is probably all that is necessary to solve this problem.

Next week: Basic fundamentals of the fore hand.

Obituary

Harsha

H. Paul Harsha, 50, public relations manager of the Life Sciences Department of The Dow Chemical Company, Midland, died Friday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor, after a long illness. He resided at 4404 Berkshire Court.

A journalist and public relations practitioner for 27 years, Mr. Harsha was born in Detroit August 10, 1923. He received his education at Plymouth (Michigan) High School and the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated in 1947 with an AB degree in English. He was managing editor of the student newspaper, The Michigan Daily; a member of the track team, and was elected to Michigamua, senior men's honorary society.

Mr. Harsha joined Dow in 1956 in the Public Relations Department, now a part of the Corporate Communications Department, handling special publications and writing assignments. From 1959 to 1964, he was public relations manager of the Plastics and Packaging Departments and held the same position in the former Bioproducts Department from 1964 to 1968, when he was named public relations manager of Life Sciences.

He was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Ruth; five daughters, Ruth Nan, Joan, Jennifer and Amy; a son, Paul Edwin; his mother, Mrs. H. Paul Harsha, of Plymouth; and a brother, Hugh, of Plymouth.

Klooster

ELLSWORTH--Funeral services for Allie M. Klooster, 74, were held Monday at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church with the Rev. Marvin VanderVliet officiating. Burial was in the Atwood cemetery.

Mr. Klooster, who was spending the winter in Grand Rapids, died of an apparent heart attack shortly after being admitted to Blodgett Memorial Hospital Thursday.

Born in Michigan May 7, 1900, Mr. Klooster had spent most of his life in the Ellsworth area where he was a self-employed machinist. In 1928 he married the former Grace Vandenberg at Boyne City. He was a member of the Ellsworth Reformed church.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Alex of Ann Arbor; one daughter, Beverly Klooster of Grand Rapids; two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Essenberg of Elk Rapids.

The Hastings Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Loper

Funeral services for Anthony G. "Tony" Loper, 33, who was killed in a one-car accident three miles south of Bellaire early Saturday, were held at the Diton-Ebert Funeral Home at Central Lake Monday. The Rev. H. Don Schleicher of the First Congregational church officiated. Burial was in the Southern cemetery.

Loper apparently was returning to his home south of Bellaire at an early hour Saturday when his car crossed the center line and went into the ditch, throwing him free of the vehicle which then rolled on to him, according to Antrim county Sheriff's officials.

Death was caused by head injuries according to the Antrim county Medical Examiner, Dr. John Rodgers.

Loper, a diesel mechanic for the Halliburton Co. north of Kalkaska at the time of his death, was born in Central Lake Apr. 17, 1941. He was a four year veteran of the U.S. Army, having served 33 months in Germany. For the past three years he had resided in Forest Home township south of Bellaire.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Loper of Central Lake; three brothers, Roger of Grand Rapids, Calvin of Ada and Gary of Comstock Park and three sisters, Mrs. Roy Cecil of Comstock Park, Mrs. Steve VanderWeg and Mrs. Michael Kooistra, both of Lowell.

Beebe

EAST JORDAN–Funeral services for John Beebe, 63, who died Monday at Dearborn Heights, were held Friday at the Watson Funeral Home The Rev. Douglas Hall of the Assembly of God officiated. Burial was in Sunset Hill cemetery.

A native of East Jordan, Mr. Beebe had spent many years in southern Michigan and had operated a tavern in Dearborn Heights.

Utility Head Quits

Residents May Pay Thousands

Charlevoix's Superintendent of Light and Water is quitting his job in two weeks.

He's leaving because he's sick of politics and fighting city hall.

Howard Hutchison's decision to leave and move to Portland, Michigan, didn't come easy, but after three years of fighting he felt there was no alternative.

The 55-year-old city department head is one of the few Charlevoix residents that knows if something isn't done quickly, the city is going to have a disaster on its hands that will end up costing taxpayers thousands of dollars.

Hutchison claims he has tried to tell city council for the last couple of years, but no one would listen.

It's a complicated matter that can simply be remedied by city council changing its present policy of raping the municipally-owned power company.

Hutchison claims that the city council has been putting electricity fund profits into the general fund, instead of using the money to replace and update utility facilities.

According to several sources, this type of move is done to keep the city taxes down.

But, both Hutchison and several others claim the move will cost taxpayers more in the long run.

Hutchison moved to Charevoix a little more than 2½-years ago from a small Ohio town to head up the city's Light and Water Department.

He left Hiram, Ohio, after working there almost all his life, because the city was selling its utility system.

Hutchison says he could have stayed and continued to run the municipal water system, but decided he wanted to give someone else the benefit of his 32 years of knowledge working with electricity.

So, he came to Charlevoix.

But, ever since the lean, brown-haired man has been on the job in Charlevoix, its been nothing but problems.

"What I've run into is a solid brick wall," Hutchison explained while finishing his afternoon meal on Memorial Day.

Wearing a pair of dark-colored work clothes, ther 55-year-old man adjusted his brown horned-rim glasses and related the problems he has been up against.

One of the first things he did was to replace the city's water pressure controls because they weren't being used properly and were constantly failing during an electrical storm.

"I asked one of the fellows to help me wire it up and he wouldn't help me," Hutchison said about his first confrontation with one of his employees.

Hutchison said his employee didn't agree with where the control should be placed and refused to help and went home.

So, a conference was held with the city manager and the employee to resolve the matter.

Even though not invited, Hutchison said Mayor Hansen showed up and eventually told the employee that he didn't have to do what his supervisor said.

"That was the first big blow," Hutchison said.

"When the Mayor tells an employee that if he doesn't like what his supervisor tells him to do, he doesn't have to do...well, then...what good is it?"

But according to Hutchison, that was only the beginning.

"The North side is in pretty bad shape," he continued.

The superintendent said that with all the growth and development occurring on that end of town, in addition to the construction of condominiums, there is not adequate electrical facilities to handle the load.

Presently, there is only one circuit (power supply source) and Hutchison says that is not nearly adequate enough.

As a stop-gap measure, he said the city is opening up another line under the channel to the North side. But, this can only be considered a temporary solution.

He says the city needs a north side substation, but when he recommended it to the city, no action was taken.

"When I gave it to the mayor, he said it was okay, but the city was in no hurry to do it," he said.

To put in the necessary equipment for a substation, Hutchison said it will cost about $50,000 depending on whether or not the city can buy used equipment.

But, he says it will take at least six months to get the necessary equipment once it is ordered.

Even more serious is the power situation in the downtown business district on Bridge Street.

Hutchisón said the entire business area gets its electricity from an old lead cable installed in 1928.

However, with this 45-year-old cable, he says there is no way to place connectors on the line and divide it up.

So, if the power goes out in a store, Hutchison says it will go out in all of them.

"If the thing would blow up in one place, the whole downtown area would be out," he said.

Hutchison said he discussed the situation with the city administrator, but because of lack of money and men there has been no time to correct the problem.

Near the traffic signal on Bridge, Hutchison says the cable is worn out and is hanging on a potentially dangerous steel hanger.

"Wexstaff says I can't spend any money," he complained.

Yet, the city superintendent says the city council is willing to transfer $85,000 out of the electric fund into the general fund.

"They're just starving the goose that's laid the golden egg," he said.

Hutchison says he was hired to improve the system, yet he has been given the opportunity to do so.

One of the major problems, according to the city employee, is the lack of communication between the city administration and departmental heads.

He claims in the 2½ - years he has been with the city, he has never met with the council's utility committee nor has he been asked to submit any budget recommendations.

"As a department head, they have never asked me about the budget for the coming year," he said.

"The city administrator has never said one word to me about the budget," he said.

So, Hutchison says he's leaving Charlevoix because he can't do

Township Voices No Objection To Proposed Shopping Center

By PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix Township Zoning Noard has no objection to the multi-million dollar shopping and residential center planned near the junction of Boyne City Road and U.S. 31.

This was brought out at a meeting of the board held last Thursday night.

However, the zoning ordinance as now written does not provide for the development of an individual piece of land for both commercial and residential purposes.

In order to grant a zoning permit for the proposed complex, it will be necessary to amend the ordinance to include a "Planned Unit Development" category.

Such a category would permit both commercial and residential building, but would require the developer to receive a permit for each unit of development as it progresses.

The zoning board promised to work as hard as they could the next few weeks to write the amendment and prepare it for presentation at a township public hearing.

After the public hearing, the amendment must be acted upon by the township board.

Dr. Walter F. Hoffman of Charlevoix, owner of the 52 acre tract, told the zoning board that there had been many unnecessary delays in granting the zoning permit, and that he had complied with all requests for information and given permission for all tests, including soil borings.

Ralph Hess, of Charlevoix, one of the principles in the development company, said that another four or five weeks' delay in receiving a zoning permit would not be disastrous.

Present plans for the development call for a department store, furniture store, branch bank, auto dealership, motel and restaurant and several small shops.

Residential units would include an area of medium priced homes and a sheltered care facility for elderly people who are able to care for themselves. A trailer park originally planned for the complex has been deleted from plans.

The shopping center would be the first project to be started, followed by the residential area. It is estimated it would take 10 years to complete the development.

CHARLEVOIX Township Zoning Board members indicated the zoning amendment for the proposed shopping center to be located north of Charlevoix will probably be approved. They are presently working on the language of the amendment.

Successor May Be Named Soon

By PEG OHLE

A successor to Circuit Court Judge Edward H. Fenlon will probably be appointed by Governor Milliken some time next week, according to Emmet County Clerk Harriet Kilborn.

Judge Fenlon, who serves the counties of Charlevoix, Emmet and Mackinac, resigned earlier this month because of ill health.

Miss Kilborn explained that the appointment would be made from among those lawyers in the three-county circuit who have sent a resume of their qualifications and expresserd an interest in the appointment, to Governor Milliken.

After receiving the resumes, the governor turns them over to the state bar association, which has a committee to investigate and rate each applicant.

The appointment will run until January, 1975. Should the appointee be interested in serving out the remaining four years of Judge Fenlon's term, he must run for election next November in opposition to any other candidates for the job.

The number of local lawyers who have expressed an interest in the appointment cannot be learned. If they don't get the appointment, they don't want it known they applied.

The number of applicants may be limited by the fact that many lawyers don't want to take the chance of giving up their practices then losing the election.

CITY COUNCILMEN met again Wednesday to work on the city budget that was not approved following the budget hearing last week. Officials indicate they should act on the proposed budget this week.

School Building Plan Stalled

"Now we can get on with the business of selling bonds and making plans for our building project" Supt. Robert Gaunt said recently after the Antrim county board of canvassers sustained the earlier results of the school bond vote.

A recount which verified the original county of 243 'yes' to 231 'no' votes was held after Mrs. Cheri M. Holley, a candidate for the school board, circulated a petition requesting it because of the closeness of the vote.

County Allocation Meets Monday

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board will meet at the county building annex at 10 a.m. Monday to set the final tax rate for 1974.

At a recent meeting of the board, 4.8 mills was allocated to the county; 9.0 mills to the school districts; 1.0 to the townships and 0.2 mills to the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

The tentative rate gives one-half mill more to the county which in 1973 received 4.3 mills. At that time the school districts received 9.5 mills but were cut by one-half mill this year to give the county more money.

The final determination will be made at Monday's meeting.

Council Should Approve City Budget This Week

No one is quite sure what's going to happen to this year's city budget.

After delaying action on the budget last Monday, city councilmen met for a brainstorming three-hour session Wednesday to review the budget.

No official action was taken, but council did adjust the city's State Equalized Value (SEV) from what they thought it was originally ($22,622,400) to $22,291,590.

According to Mayor Ed Hansen, the $26,000 difference came from two different figures he alledges came from the Charlevoix County Equalization Office.

Hansen said Equalization Director Joan Blanchard had given the city a SEV figure several months ago, but Mrs. Blanchard says she never did.

Before council officially opened Wednesday night's special meeting, Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace said the present tax levy should be raised to 10 mills to prevent money from the electrical fund.

"It bothers me to keep taking from the electrical fund," she said.

"What do you think is a good

Seniors Graduate Sunday

One hundred and twelve seniors will receive their diplomas at the eighty-sixth annual commencement at the Charlevoix High school Sunday, June 2.

The event will be held at the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Leonard W. Burns, seventh grade teacher, retired, will deliver the commencement address which he has entitled "It's the Little Things That Make Memories." He will be introduced by James A. McKinmy, superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Robert G. Lieberman, president of the Charlevoix Board of Education, will present special awards; Vane H. Smith, high school principal, will present the class of 1974 and Donald W. Brown, trustee of the Board of Education whose daughter, Terri K. Brown, is a member of the graduating class will confer honors of granduation.

Susan J. Boss will deliver the salutatory and Tori L. Alger the valedictory of the class.

Special music for the ceremonies will be played by the Charlevoix high school Symphony band appearing under the direction of C. A. Odmark. The band also will play Elgar's traditional "Pomp and Circumstance."

The Rev. William P. Seibert will deliver the invocation and the Rev. Raymond H. Giffen the benediction.

Pictures and names of the graduates will be found on pages 9, 10 and 11.

Today's The Filing Deadline For Being Precinct Delegate

Today is the deadline for filing as candidate for precinct delegate.

Precinct delegates will be elected on a special ballot at the August 6 primaries, to represent their neighbors at the county conventions of each political party.

At the conventions they then elect, from among themselves, the party's delegates to the state and national conventions.

Secretary of State Richard Austin and Attorney General Frank Kelley have stressed the importance of precinct participation within each political party.

Representative Ralph Ostling, in encouraging citizens to become active in the political party of their choice, said: "It's a fact that a large number of precinct delegate positions, which are supposed to be filled by election in the August primary, go unfilled because no one makes the small effort required to become a candidate. These positions are then filled at the party's county or district convention by appointment."

Charlevoix County Clerk Clarence Rabach also cited the apathy in some precincts when it comes to nominating a delegate. He said that on some occasions a delegate has been elected by two write-in votes.

There will be 56 precinct delegates in Charlevoix County as apportioned by the Republican party. The City of Charlevoix is entitled to 11 delegates; Boyne City, seven and East Jordan, six. Township apportionment runs from one to five delegates.

The Democratic party will have 60 delegates. The City of Charlevoix is allotted 12 delegates; Boyne City, 12; and East Jordan, seven. Township delegates range from one to three for each township.

Pine River Players Need People For Summer Show

"The Seven Year Itch", termed one of Broadway's biggest comedy hits, will be presented by the Pine River Players August 8, 9 and 10 at the Charlevoix High School gym.

The theatrical group will hold try-outs Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at the high school cafeteria for the character parts in the play - six men, five women, and one juvenile (boy or girl).

Besides the acting parts, persons will be needed to work on lighting, costumes, makeup, prompting, technical, props, etc.

Directors for the play are Jessie Lee and Jonnie Ford. They say, "We need help, anyone."

Persons having questions about the production may call Jennie Carr, secretary-treasurer of the Pine River Players, at 547-9690.

Family Services Changes Name

Northern Michigan's Family and Child Care Services have changed their name to insure uniformity in the nine-county area they serve.

The social service agency said their board of directors changed its name to Community, Family and Children Services.

The role of Community, Family and Children Services is in promoting good mental health for all residents of the communities served. This is carried out by providing professional therapeautic services and educational programs in order to prevent the development of problems.

New Board Members elected at this meeting were Dr. Thomas Cardinal and Sister Carol Marie from Cadillac; Mrs. LeRoy Futterer and Rev. Chris Laursen from Manistee; and from Traverse City, Dr. Edward Schied, Richard Mannor and Michael Bertram.

Other members of the Board of Directors are: Gregory Fiebing, President; Robert Bridges, Vice President; Mrs. Leo Bearss, Secretary; Patrick Wilson, Mrs. William Lynch, Paul Ameel, Dr James D. Johnston, Rev. Warren Burgess, Mrs. Richard Drury, Mrs. Joseph Lezon, Monsignor V.P. Gallagher, Robert Warner, Mrs. Jerry Meyer, James Matthews and Richard Schneider.

It's Not Too Late To Protest About Rails

Area citizens who are concerned about the abandonment of railroad service to northwestern Michigan still have time to voice their views.

The Rail Services Planning Office will receive written arguments until June 7. All business men, farmers, representatives of coops, labor union spokesmen, or individual citizens whose livelihood or way of life would be adversely affected by discontinuance of rail service should write to the Planning Office immediately.

The address is Railroad Services Planning Committee, 1900 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, attention Mike Davidson.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY Commissioner Ralph Richardson checks out the progress on the Ironton Ferry. Since early this year, the ferry has been undergoing ramp rennovations to combate water level flexuations in Lake Charlevoix.

Ironton Ferry

Not Done Yet

By PEG OHLE

Approach of the tourist season finds the Iron ferry repair work incompleted and brings word that the ferry will not be operating until the end of June.

Both Irvin H. Sturm, engineer-director of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, and Ralph C. Richardson of the County Board of Commissioners report that the beleaguered ferry is still beleaguered.

It started last winter when several bids submitted for the repairs were turned down by the county because of the high cost figures.

Then, Mearle Scott, who operates a store and boat livery service adjoining the ferry, objected to the new construction because he said it would interfere with access to his property.

Materials for construction have been slow in arriving. The large hoists have not yet been delivered. There also had to be some re-engineering because the ramps weighed twice as much as originally estimated.

Then it was found that the approaches to the ferry were built one foot over on Scott's property.

The $96,100 contract was let to the W. A. Porter Company, East Jordan, after the higher bids were rejected. According to Richardson, the Porter bid was possible because the speculations were not tight and the contractor was permitted to select some materials from those he had on hand.

The "Vacationland" docks from Mackinac City were bought and installed at the ferry site, thus saving more money.

Richardson says the steel structures have been assembled in East Jordan and are ready to set in place when the base work is completed. This should go fast, he adds.

Sturm says that early work on the ferry progressed well, but has slowed down recently from both a labor and materials standpoint. He hopes that from now on work crews will be able to put in full time on the project.

Porter has been paid about one half of the total bid to date. The road commission retains ten percent of the cost of work completed as a guarantee that the finished product will be satisfactory.

The road commission will use its own crews to build up the approached, lay the gravel, and put up guard rails, fences and signs. The gravel will be covered with black top next year after settling through the winter.

It will also be necessary to try out all parts of the ferry mechanism before it is put into regular use.

CONTRACTORS Built too far away from the property line.

Charlevoix's First Station Begins Operation In June

Radio station WVOY, with headquarters, studios, and broadcasting facilities in Charlevoix, will go on the air some time in June, according to Terry Edger, one of the principles in the broadcast company.

The transmitter on Loeb School road was to have been completed by the end of April but is still unfinished. Building of the studios at 211 Bridge Street is also a month behind.

Application for the radio station was originally made in 1967, tentatively approved in January, 1968, but then held up until January of this year by complaint of the Harrington Broadcasting company, in Petoskey. Their complaint was based that W. Albert Schaller, publisher of the Northern Michigan Review which prints the Petoskey News-Review, was a principal stockholder of the new radio company; also that his son, Kirk Schaller, was a stockholder in the radio company as well as in the Northern Michigan Review.

Terry Edger

Harrington argued that these dual stock holdings were in contradiction to the Federal Communications Commission position on mass media, according to Harrington.

Since then the Schallers have withdrawn from the radio company, which is now made up of Thomas R. McDaniels, Elmo Franklin, Tim Ives, and Edgar.

McDaniels, former general manager of the Charlevoix Courier, now resides in Harrison. Elmo Franklin is president of International Tapetronics, Bloomington, Illinois, builders of tape equipment for the radio industry. He is a frequent visitor to Charlevoix.

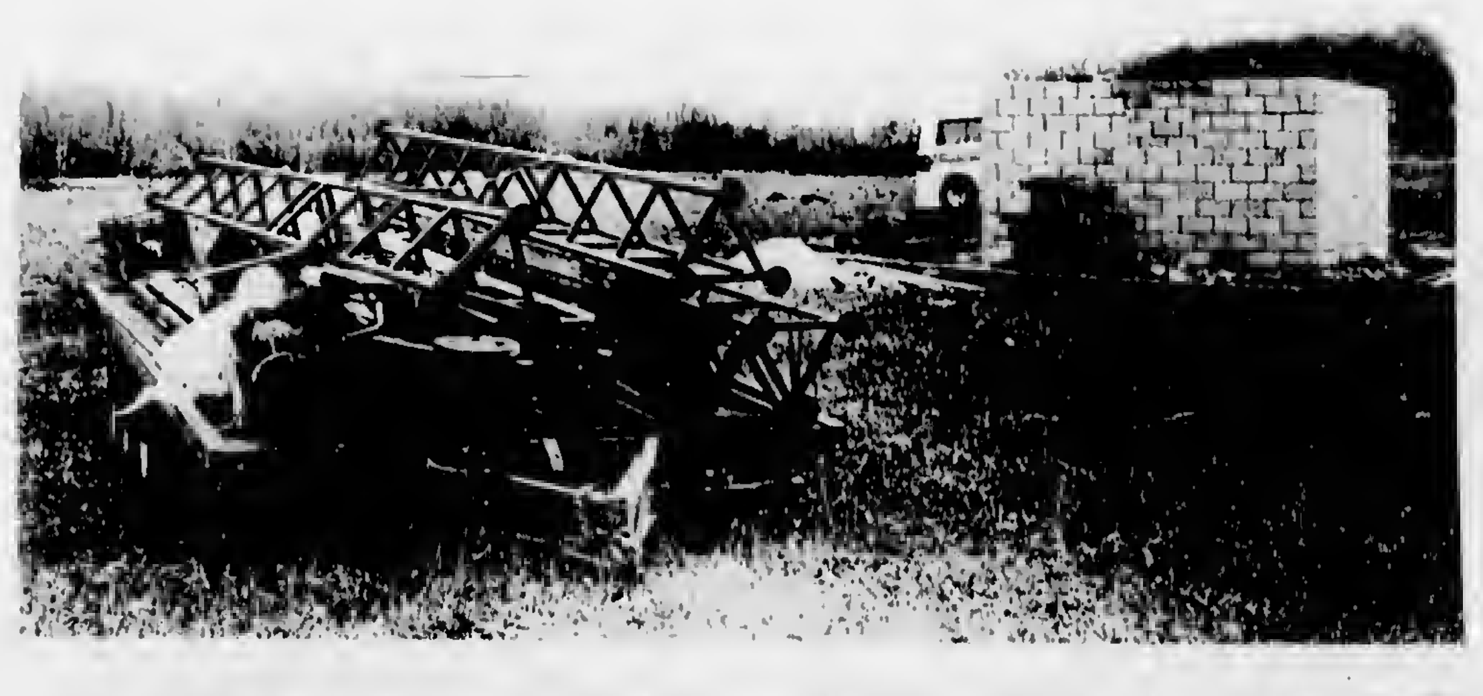
Ives is manager of radio station WJBC, Bloomington, and a summer resident at the Chicago Club in Charlevoix. He started coming here as a boy when his grandfather had a cottage on the Belvedere Club grounds.

Edgar, now a resident of Charlevoix, was an announcer and engineer in the Grand Rapids area for over 12 years. He also worked for the Gates Radio Company as an automation program specialist.

"We will have the biggest and nicest studio in this part of the state," said Edgar. "We will probably have more equipment than any other station, too," he added.

WVOY will operate with 5,000 watts capacity as compared to the 1,000 watts by WMBN and 10,000 watts by WJML, both in Petoskey. According to Edgar, WVOY will be a non-directional broadcaster, which will permit coverage of a larger population area than the other stations.

A staff of five has been hired for WVOY from among 250 persons who answered an ad in Broadcasting Magazine. Their names will be released shortly.



DURING THE next several weeks, Charlevoix County's first radio station will be erecting its transmitting tower just outside of Charlevoix on the Loeb School Road. The 5,000-watt signal will allow the station to broadcast throughout Northern Michigan.

Fruit Farmers Can Get Loans To Cover Last Year's Losses

Farmers in Antrim and Charlevoix counties who suffered losses caused by the heavy frosts in April and May last year are eligible for emergency loans through Farmers Home Administration.

This announcement was made by the Secretary of Agriculture on May 13. Antrim and Charlevoix are among 19 Michigan counties designated disaster areas by the F.H.A. due to the substantial reduction in crops caused by the frosts of 1973.

"Any farmer who feels he suffered losses which were a direct result of the condition for which his county was declared eligible for emergency losses should apply at the Farmers Home Administration office at 110 Grove St., Bellaire", according to David W. Steeby of that office. Deadline for loan applications is June 30.

A spot check of area orchardists indicates it is too early to know the extend of frost damage to this year's crops. However it is probably considerably less than last year's.

The Wiltjer family, who operate Eveline Orchards in East Jordan, say they won't know for two or three weeks what, if any, damage they have incurred Last year they lost 95 percent of their apple crop.

Jim Wiltjer explained that if the frost attack ocurs while the blossoms are in bud stage the danger of frost damage is greater than later on when the blossoms are in full bloom.

Mrs. David Rosenthal of Rosenthal's Orchards, Charlevoix, says that they, too, will have to wait a while before they know the extent of frost damage to their trees. She says that the sweet cherries look good but there may be a 20 to 30 percent loss of tart cherries.

Mrs. Theodore Sherman of Sherman Orchards, East Jordan, reports that to date their crop of tart cherries looks good

Margaret Carey Receives U of M Regent Scholarship

Margaret (Peggy) Carey

Margaret (Peggy) Carey, member of this year's graduating class at Charlevoix High School, has been named recipient of a University of Michigan Regents-Alumni scholarship.

Each year the admissions office of the university selects applicants for admission to be candidates for the Regents-Alumni scholarship. In addition, high schools around the state are asked to recommend candidates

The scholarship program seeks to identify, acclaim, and publicly honor graduates of Michigan high schools who have "distinguished themselves academically and who show promise of significant intellectual and professional contributions."

Students are selected on the basis of academic performance, scholastic aptitude test scores, and contributions to school and community. A small stipend goes with the scholarship.

Peggy ranks third in her graduating class with a 3.886 grade point average. During her high school career she has participated in band, cheerleading, Spanish and tennis clubs, Girls State, and the student council. She was also this year's homecoming queen.

City Councilmen Handle Budget Hearing Poorly

Several unfortunate situations took place at last week's city council meeting and we hope they won't occur again.

One of the most surprising and almost frightening events was the city council's consideration of the budget.

If it hadn't been for several concerned citizens attending last week's budget hearing, city councilmen might have adopted a budget they had no knowledge about.

We found it quite disconcerting that a line item budget had not been used when original expenditures and revenues had been projected.

But even more surprising was the unavailability of a detailed budget for the public to review at the hearing.

It was quite obvious several councilmen had not done their homework in studying the budget.

We commend the council for realizing they were not prepared to pass the budget as it stood and decided to delay action until further study could be done.

And we hope in the future that city councilmen will remember this experience and learn more about the budget they are going to consider.

We also encourage the council to involve more department heads in the budget building process by having them submit formal budget requests, as did both the police and recreation departments this year.

It was also equally surprising at the meeting that Richard Fochtman resigned his position.

We regret his move, but can fully understand why he decided it was best to leave.

Hopefully next time though, the mayor will announce such communications when he receives them at a meeting.

Judge Fenlon Ends Judicial Career

We regret that poor health has forced Circuit Judge Edward Fenlon to do what he said he would not do during the 1972 general election campaign; Take an early retirement.

Judge Fenlon's political adversaries predicted during that rather heated contest which saw him pitted against former District Judge W. Richard Smith---that Judge Fenlon would retire early because of his age and because of prior periods of ill health.

However Judge Fenlon assured his constituents that he had never felt better and that he had every intention of serving out his six year term.

Last week, however, Judge Fenlon announced that he would leave the bench June 1 after serving only 18 months.

Certainly the decision was not an easy one for Judge Fenlon in light of the predictions of his political foes. We are confident, however, that Judge Fenlon decided to step down only after some pretty heavy soul-searching.

We will miss the competence and dignity Judge Fenlon brought to the bench. We only hope his temporary successor, who will be appointed by Gov. Milliken, and his permanent successor, who will be elected next November, will match the quality of jurisprudence we have enjoyed under his tenure.

We wish him the best of everything in retirement.

Northern Michigan Will Lose Sports

With the recent discovery that Northern Michigan may lose its sport coverage because of a proposed "blackout" of sports on cable television, we encourage you to write to either U.S. Senator Robert Griffin or Phillip Hart.

The "Blackout" would come if the U.S. Congress approves new copyright legislation now being considered by the U.S. Senate. It is expected to be on the Senate floor in late June.

If the bill is allowed to become law, area cable television companies would not be allowed to carry any live sports coverage.

Reader Tells Debbie Not To Give Up Hope

To the Editor:

Debbie's story made interesting reading. It told me more or less what I had expected to hear about what happens to Debbie and the young people described. She gave parents and our educators some thoughts that should be considered.

Unfortunately, I feel, too many young people get the impression at home or at school that once you're not a young kid, all the "fun times" are over--to quote Debbie's words.

Well, I went the school cheerleader and class officer bit myself and avoided being "two faced." There were very good friends of all kinds--and we were in on all the wildest happenings during those years. As Debbie would say we "all liked to party and stay away from the house."

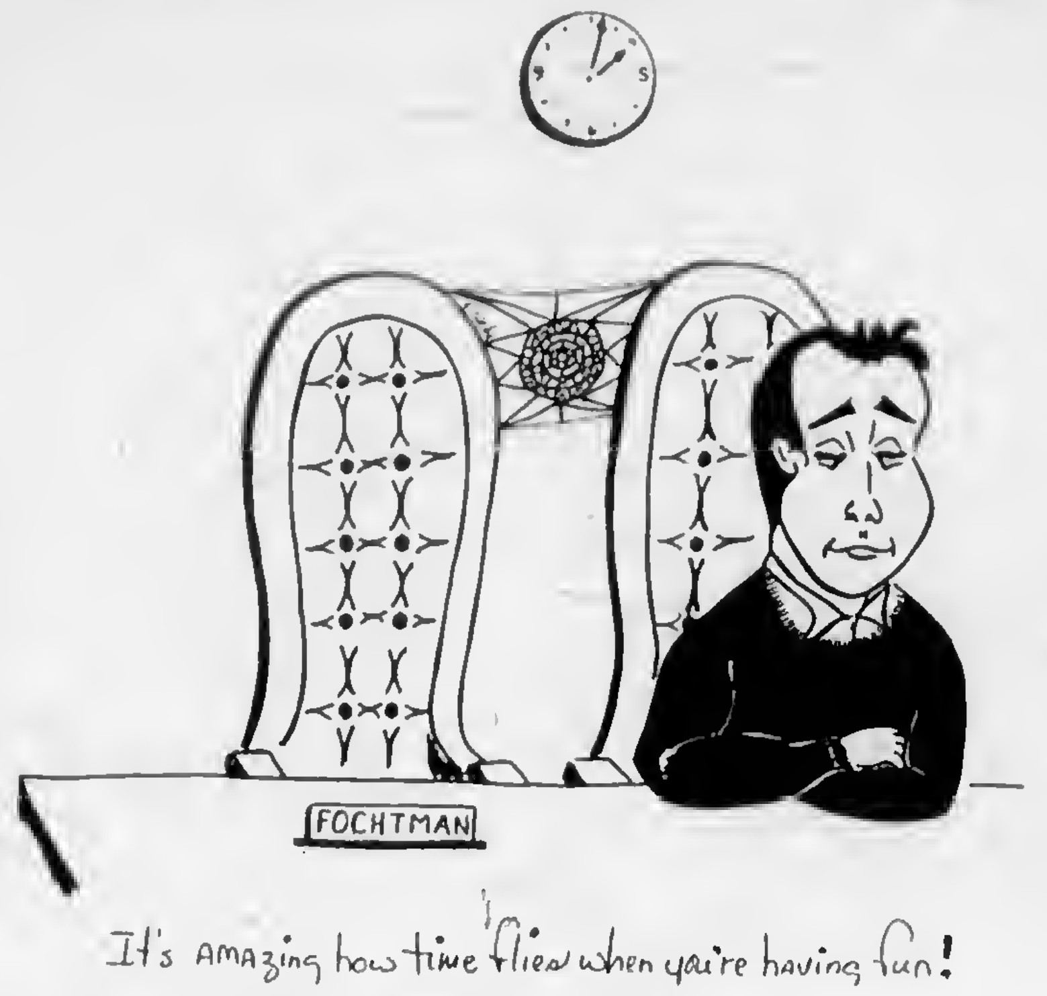
That was 15 years ago--now I'm married and have two youngsters of my own. My fun times are still happening, and I'm sure they will go on and on. Good times don't just happen for you, you have to help them along.

My message to young people is don't be discouraged by an unpleasant homelife or little things that happen at school. Be your own person. Set goals early, even if they change along the way. Debbie really got turned off, I don't think she realized everyone has some contribution to make. Getting people to listen when you're young is sometimes the hardest part.

Maybe leaving town is the best answer for Debbie, but I'm sure she'll find the "fun is not over if she remains really honest and true to her efforts. Things will come her way, I know.

An interested reader.

P.S. I'd like to hear about Debbie in 5 years or so.



FOCHTMAN
It's amazing how time flies when you're having fun!

Letter To The Governor

Dear Sir:

For Shame! For Shame! For shame that you have become so carried away with your covetous ambition for higher office that you would stoop to depths of politics at its dirtest, as you did on May 10. The cheapest of cheap shots!

Such misuse of the office of Governor and the available captive media in your personal attempt to poison the minds of Michigan's people about the president and the presidency is most certainly conduct unbecoming a governor of Michigan, and in the "puppeted" words of your propaganda minister, George Weeks, "A distasteful brew of suspicion, distrust and cynicism."

The fact that you would fill your mouth with such "brew" and spew it out in the faces of the people of Michigan raises serious question as to your fitness for office. My immediate reaction is that you should resign and take the author of those (Expletive Deleted) poisonous words with you!

It must be obvious to all that when you demand that the president "prove his innocence" (Before he has been charged with anything except politically motivated behavior) that you are either ignorant of the prime principles of American justice or that you are willing to become a character assassin to enhance your own failing chances for re-election and the higher office you seek; and that you are willing to scramble over "any dead body" to achieve your politically selfish ends.

This public pronouncement, made in your most rehearsed sanctimonious manner and your best "goody-goody two shoes" posture violated an old oriental rule that "person who points finger at other person points three at self." I searched in vain for the kind of 'moral tone" needed to restore public confidence in state government and our political system. It is impossible to find when you are the transmission belt for the big lie! If "moral tone" is now a quality for public office, you should search your administration for some evidence of it!

It is now crystal clear that you have joined the "congress of jackals" whose aim is to harass and destroy the president and vice president, in order that one or more of the "jackals" may succeed to those offices. It is not surprising to any person familiar with you anti-Nixon attitude.

Without having tapes or transcripts available from you or the "Millikenized media", Let's search for some "honesty in government" in your regime, and perhaps some "truth in politics", likewise. It is amazing how closely your behavior parallels that of the national political picture you are so quick to criticize. Let's "tune" up the microscope and look for the truth!

Tell the truth - about your ("Little Watergate") dirty trick, which sold a real republican, Emil Lockwood, into "Slavery as a lobbyist"!

Tell the truth - about your support of the Michigan chapter of the American Civil Liberties union "veto proof" congressional aim, which commits you to the defeat of every republican congressman from Michigan!

Tell the truth - about your receiving "favored" treatment from any state tax agency!

Tell the truth - about your "secret ownership" of Michigan resort property!

Tell the truth - about your illegal issue of a liquor license used to intrap Senator Youngblood and Judge Szymanski!

I'm sure the public reaction to these "truths" will be: "I didn't know that"!

This microscopic review, possibly "Full of ambiguities", again, without tapes or transcripts, so parallels the "presidential picture", that, without waiting for you to make a full, public disclosure that will give "overwhelming proof of your innocence, to the implications mentioned above, I demand:

1) That you resign forthwith (since Brickley has already decided that he doesn't want to be a "loser") and permit the gracious secretary of state, Richard Austin, to succeed to the office of governor for the balance of your current term, or

2) That you face impeachment investigation by the Michigan House of Representatives for constitutional reasons which includes possible evidence of political corruption in office! (Isn't this a bitter tea which you have brewed? "Suspicion"? "Distrust"? "Cynicism"? How do you like it?), or

3) That a one-man grand jury investigation of your administration be petitioned for.

Lest any charge of partisan bias be hurled, my advice to Sandy Levin and all other party candidates they run for state office on state issues and "cease and desist" from speech or action designed to further pollute the air about the presidency, the country and the president. I hope they will rise above the temptation to exploit another man's burden for their own personal, political ambitions!

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

It seems almost impossible that I have lived in Charlevoix almost nine years and never witnessed the arrival of spring in town until this year.

It's not that I've been blind or deaf or anything like that. I've had all my faculties about me, but I've always been too busy to notice, what with the time-consuming demands of the Courier editorship.

This spring is different, however. I'm as busy as a man killing snakes, as the fellow says, but I've also found time to look around a little. And I sort of like what I see.

I didn't realize before that seeds and leaves on our sugar maples appear at the same time, giving a bizarre, bearded look to every branch and twig. After the seeds fall, well, they'll just be plain old branches and twigs again.

I also have learned that dandelions in my neighbor's yard don't bother me nearly so much as dandelions in my own yard. For several seasons I have been battling the yellow "lion's teeth" with spray and spade without visible results. This year to my surprise dandelions are as scarce as black moreis in the Clock backyard. It gives you a nice, warm feeling knowing that your efforts haven't been in vain.

This year, too, I have learned that there is almost a rhythm to the fog that rolls into Charlevoix off Lake Michigan these spring-like days. In fact, I can almost predict when the fog will arrive, depending on the temperature.

If it's a real scorcher, the first fog bank will roll down the channel about 2 p.m., sending the mercury skittering down one degree a minute. As soon as Bridge-st. cools off, the fog retreats to the icy reaches of the lake, the sun breaks through and the process starts all over again.

On days that aren't quite so warm, the fog arrives later in the day, but it always dissipates well before dark.

I don't pretend to know anything about the weather, but I suspect that it's a temperature variation that gives rise to fog in the first place. And the ground temperature seems to govern where the fog moves and when it moves. At least that's the way it looks from here.

I've also had a chance to do a little bird-watching this spring.

Did you know that an Oriole is building a nest near the intersection of Dixon-ave. and Nicholls-st.? Or that Charlevoix played host to literally thousands of hungry swallows last week? They swooped through the Clocks' backyard for hours on end in hot pursuit of tiny mosquito-like insects that must taste like gin. They sure ate a bellyful.

It also appears that the ban on DDT is finally beginning to pay big dividends. Birds of all varieties are more plentiful than they were a few short years ago. The duck and swan population of Round Lake has more than doubled, it seems, and pairs of mallards are ranging throughout the neighborhood in search of places to nest. One old guy and gal even stopped traffic on Dixon-ave. the other day—just like downtown.

Another crazy waterfowl laid her eggs on one of the Round Lake docks and the eggs promptly rolled off the dock to incubate forever in the icy depths of the lake.

The kids and I also saw several pair of mallards attack a poor muskrat in Round Lake the other night. The little creature left his home under a boathouse and had paddled to the middle of the lake before the ducks spotted him. They escorted him back to shore--convoy fashion--snapping their bills at him all the way.

Ah! Spring!

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Although "Big Emil's" unruly mop of hair brushed the door lintel and his broad muscular shoulders grazed the jambs, he was agile as a monkey on the ladders and scaffolds on which he labored to support his brood of nine children.

He immigrated from Finland at nineteen with all his worldly possessions; twenty-five dollars, that evidence of good faith verified by the Ellis Island authorities guarding the gates to the promised land.

Never having bothered to clutter his mind with knowledge beyond the primary level, Emil performed near-impossible feats in a trade where many slide rule professionals miscalculated themselves into bankruptcy.

One such miscalculation resulted in a two story home, roosting temporarily on cedar posts, dropping into the excavation destined to be its basement. Fortunately the only casualty was a demolished surveyors instrument which was a negligible loss to the disillusioned craftsman who returned to a more predictable livelihood--cabinetmaking.

When the bank Board of Directors pointedly voiced their displeasure about business 'going in the hole' the V.P responsible hastily sought out Big Emil. Could the dwelling be restored above ground of course, was the $6,400.00 question.

"I tink vat joost mebbe verk," was Emil's comment.

With a bit of 'tinking', four sons to man the jacks and a squint-eye transit Emil set the house neatly on a poured basement in six weeks. Briefly enriched by $1,000.00 Emil made his rounds, paying something on account to the Merchants selected to share his bonanza.

His last stop was at the establishment of a priority creditor, Ms. Tootie McLain who obliged him financially on the frequent occasions when thirst exceeded resources. A less fortunate creditor, twenty-five years outstanding, was Dr. Bohn who served as state legislator in those hectic times when campaign headquarters was the open bandstand in the village park.

Never having received aught but a 'tenk you' for delivering Emil's progeny, the G.P. thought to exchange professional services on the same cashless basis. After Emil had reroofed the doctors baronial mansion the man of medicine broached the idea after asking the cost of the repairs.

"Yoo goot fella, only tree hunred bucks," was Emil's billing.

"How about something on account," suggested the doctor artfully.

"Kids small, no can pay," explained Emil. "Mine missis he take care babies. No can verk. Now kids verk, Can pay own bills like Emil do!"

Faced with such logic the doctor wrote out a check while thinking wryly of Emil's first grandson which he delivered the previous week under the same time honored financial arrangement.

Big Emil was strictly a rough carpenter, therefor it was with some misgivings that the doctor asked him to hang some doors in his remodeled offices when the hired carpenter became ill. When Emil reported for work the doctor was on hand to ask,

"What will you do first?"

Emil replied by fishing a sixteen penny nail from his pocket and hammering it solidly into the nearest door casing of clear pine.

"First I hang oop mine yacket."

The doctor tactfully suggested he hang it elsewhere; in the back yard for instance, where a barbecue suddenly

Go Forth and Digress

Once again it is the season for me to write the commencement address I won't deliver in person because speeches make me itch. Besides, no one asked. I am something like Spiro Agnew sitting in a Greek bar waiting for the phone to ring.

Anyway, speaking of vice presidents, it's probably only fair that Gerald Ford be allowed to give all commencement speeches this year. He should always have a speech scheduled tomorrow so he can explain he didn't really say what you thought he said about Nixon yesterday.

But I digress. My commencement address has added importance this year because my daughter Chris is graduating from high school. I have a lot of important things to tell her if I ever see her again. She only comes home to wash her hair and change overalls. I run into her in the hall once in awhile but by the time I've finished introducing myself she is always called to the phone.

I'd like to tell Chris I remember her but I've forgotten the formal dress she wore to that dance a few months ago. Even though I sobbed gently at the sight of the price tag, I do not recall if that dress was red, pink, lace or burlap. So why couldn't she wear it to the prom this month? Why do girls insist they can't wear a formal twice in the same world because EVERYONE will know it's OLD and no one will dance with them for fear of catching boll weevil fever from cotton sabotaged by Eli Whitney's slaves?

There was once a gangster who wore his sox only once and then threw them away. I'll admit I thought that was pretty classy. I figured the neighbors would be mightily impressed by an ever-growing pile of sox under my bedroom window. But I don't have nerve enough to look under Chris' window. It must look like Saks 5th Avenue blew up.

Come to think, proms have become strange things.

When I was a two-stepping youth, each guy got a dance card and a pencil stub as he entered the hall. The first thing he did was fill out the card by finding a dozen guys willing to dance with his date while he danced with theirs. Everybody was thereby contracted to stay until the last dance. ("It's 3 o'clock in the morning..." aahhh). There was only an occasional sneak out to the parking lot while a guy appealed to a girl's patriotism ("I'll probably be fighting in Germany or or Japan 2 weeks after graduation and we won't have many more nights together, so...")

At today's proms, the kids dance once and then see how far they can go for a late dinner. By the time the last dance is played, some of them are having their luggage checked through customs. If they wanted to say goodnight to the band leader, they'd have to send a postcard.

But I digress. I always digress. In fact, that is the theme of my commencement address: "Students, go forth into the world and digress. To digress means to stray from the main subject. The main subject is usually a big pain and it is only while digressing that you smell the flowers, hear little children giggle, and look at girls' legs."

What this world needs is more digression. Just be sure to signal before turning. Sideways can be sweeter than Onward and Upward.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Richard Fochtman

COURIER: Why did you resign from City Council?

FOCHTMAN: Well, I felt that the mayor or the present administration is acting too independent of the Council and are not cooperating or trying to bring matters to the Council which should be acted on them or the present acting administrator is not qualified for the job, and the mayor is not making any efforts to replace him, and he's not making any efforts to get an ordinance.

COURIER: Why do you say the city administrator is not qualified for the job?

FOCHTMAN: I don't think his experience has qualified him for that.

COURIER: How did he get it in the first place?

FOCHTMAN: The mayor appointed him on a temporary basis. He was city assessor, and I think he was doing a pretty good job as the city assessor, but the mayor appointed him as an interim appointment after Tom Hanna resigned. We all anticipated this was a temporary appointment, and the council has asked for an ordinance covering the city administrator. They had one worked up with the mayor at that time and the legal attorney for the city said it was illegal.

COURIER: Was that Mayor Hansen?

FOCHTMAN: Mayor Hansen. They both said it was illegal, consequently, we have no ordinance, no provision for a city administrator under the fourth class city's act.

COURIER: So how can the city administrator operate under those conditions?

FOCHTMAN: There's no way he can operate. The mayor says that this has been set by precedent. I disagree with him. I think that this has got to be outlined, the job has got to be outlined and his duties outlined.

COURIER: You mean like a job description?

FOCHTMAN: A job description. His duties, responsibilities have got to be put down on paper and outlined so that he knows what he has to do.

COURIER: Besides the city administrator's position, what else made you unhappy enough to resign from council?

FOCHTMAN: Discontent among the city employees, lack of communication between the administration, the mayor and administrator, and city employees, and the council. Numerous occasions things have come up that are not referred to the council and should be.

COURIER: Can you give me some more specific examples?

FOCHTMAN: Well, the last one was looping the Norwood Road and Carpenter Avenue water main. The materials were ordered for this job and were on the job before the council even knew that the job was being done. The acting administrator had talked to several of the councilmen independently and asked them what they thought of the job, and they thought it would be good. I have no disagreement with that but when you order $3,500 worth of materials to do a particular job, I think it should be brought before the council.

COURIER: What were some other examples?

FOCHTMAN: Well, another example is repairing the Palmer Street Lift Station. These pumps that are probably 40 years old were taken out, sent in to be repaired, and brought back without knowledge of the council at all. I doubt that there's anyone on the council other than myself that even knows what the cost of repairing those pumps were. Another instance is when the mayor and Mr. Stroud sought to connect the city water supply and the township water supply. I don't disagree but what this may be a good thing to have done; but I think it is something that should be brought up, talked over at the council table before any action is taken on it, and then to act independent of the council, I don't think this is proper.

COURIER: You felt that this then should have been brought up in the council and voted on and made a matter of record?

FOCHTMAN: It should be made a matter of record, yes. I think there's these things that should be brought to the council table. My feeling is that there are six aldermen and a mayor sitting around the table up there discussing these things and trying to work to a good solution to all these problems to get things done. In the past it has been done this way and done very speedily and very harmoniously as far as I'm concerned.

COURIER: Do you feel that you let down the residents in your ward by resigning?

FOCHTMAN: I do. I feel that I did let them down but at the same time, I feel that maybe this will draw their attention to the people in the first ward as well as the people all over town that things are not as they should be.

COURIER: You mean there's something being illegally done?

FOCHTMAN: I won't say that there are things being done illegally, but I think there are things that are being done that people should know more about.

COURIER: You mean in terms of management of the city?

FOCHTMAN: In terms of management, in terms of expenditures, things like this. For instance, electric rates were raised. I may be the one that voted or made the motion to raise them but to me they weren't done without a proper study. I did the best I could and made what recommendations I could, and maybe I'm wrong, but at the same time I realized that when your costs keep increasing and your sales are increasing but your costs are increasing more than your sales are, you have got to do something.

COURIER: Just like private enterprise.

FOCHTMAN: That's right. There's got to be a reserve there. The electrical system needs a lot of work on it and we're not getting any of it done.

COURIER: Could you explain the differences you have had between yourself, the mayor and the city administrator a little more specifically?

FOCHTMAN: Well, I think it all boils down to lack of communication. The mayor has brought this up in the past. There was no communication between himself and Mr. Hanna. I feel that now there is a lot of communication between the mayor and the acting administrator, Mr. Wexstaff, but it stops there, it doesn't come on to the rest of the councilmen.

COURIER: You mean, they are not informing you of the work that's being done.

FOCHTMAN: That's right. They are not informing us of work being done, they're not informing us of some of the things that are happening, employees leaving, employee grievances, some of these things that the council do not know anything about.

COURIER: Now that you have left, do you have any recommendations as far as how this communication gap could be improved?

FOCHTMAN: Well, last December I recommended that the acting administrator meet with the supervisors once every two weeks and have a coffee meeting or something like that to discuss their problems so that each would know what the other one is doing and why. It took about six weeks for the acting administrator to get these meetings started, but he finally did. I feel now that these meetings are worthless because of the fact that the supervisors are getting nothing out of it.

COURIER: What do you mean by that?

FOCHTMAN: I don't think they are getting a chance of ever being told a lot of things but they're not getting a chance to discuss between themselves some of the problems that they would like to talk about.

COURIER: You recently charged at several council meetings that you felt the mayor had been misleading the public with the May Street Sewer Project. Could you explain that?

FOCHTMAN: Well first off, when the project was just getting started, the mayor made the statement at a council meeting in reply to a question by Sam Kaufman that he could pay his assessment anytime he'd like, pay it in full. I don't feel that those assessments are going to stay as they are. I feel that this project is going to cost quite a lot more money than what the contract was bid at.

COURIER: What gives you that indication?

FOCHTMAN: Well the first indication was when the contractor came in and asked for an increase in the contract of $16,000. The second indication was when we had a lawyer from the contractor outlining his increase in costs and stating what they were and then later the mayor, himself, that this would probably wind up in arbitration. Now I see some of the bills coming through from the contractor and the unit costs are running, on one particular item anyway, the unit costs are running four or five times as much as what the bid was. I don't fault the bidder for this particularly, it's all these things that happen. I think the assessments are all going to be increased in order to pay for this project. I don't feel that this can come out of the general fund of the city because I don't think this is the responsibility of all of the citizens of Charlevoix.

COURIER: Even though that you are resigned now and you're not really connected with the city, do you feel that there are any specific directions that you would like to see these people go in?

FOCHTMAN: Well, yes. I'd like to see this ordinance created creating the city administrator position. I would like to see that on a contract basis so that we can contract with a man or a person to operate the administration of the city and take care of the paper work, the administration of personnel such as this. Then I would like to see another position created as a city engineer and put him on an approximately equal basis with the administrator but a person to oversee the many projects, help design and engineer these projects, see that the different projects are being completed satisfactorily. Possibly check on the zoning. When it comes to building permits, to make sure that the buildings meet the zoning requirements. I realize that we're going to have to have a building inspector in a short time. This is all going to cost the city more money and I think it's idealistic to reduce millage when you know that costs are going to go increase. I can't see taking all the money out of the electric fund as the mayor says in lieu of taxes and letting the electric fund go to pieces, then have to borrow or do something drastic in order to improve the electric fund.

COURIER: Do you feel that it's not being improved constantly now?

FOCHTMAN: No, I don't. The city has just recently put new cable down Bridge Street to help feed the north side. I think this is just a stopgap measure. I think it's a way of buying time 'til more major improvements are going to have to be done. I feel that there's going to have to be a substation on the north side. To me, I might be wrong, I might be proven wrong, but I feel these things have to be done.

COURIER: What's going to happen if the city doesn't start putting some of their money back into the electric fund?

FOCHTMAN: One of these days we're going to come to the realization that the electrical distribution system in Charlevoix has deteriorated real bad, and we're going to have to spend a lot of money in a hurry.

COURIER: If you were still on the council, would you have voted for the budget to be approved as it was at the last council meeting?

FOCHTMAN: Definitely not.

COURIER: What do you feel the major problems for the budget were?

FOCHTMAN: I don't think the budget was worked up properly. I think the budget was worked on control figures and was not worked from detail figures. I feel that the acting administrator and the mayor were working on the budget and didn't know how to go about it.

COURIER: Do you think this was intentional?

FOCHTMAN: No, I do not think it was intentional. I don't think they knew how to go about it.

COURIER: What will happen now?

FOCHTMAN: I personally think the budget will be approved probably by a 3 to 2 vote of the council. I don't think it is a good budget, and I don't think that the administration can actually live with it for the coming year.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO CONFIRM SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

A hearing to confirm a special assessment district as required by the Inland Lakes Level Act will be held Tuesday, June 11, 1974, at 9:00 A.M. in the Circuit Court for the County of Antrim, Bellaire, Michigan.

Such a special assessment district is deemed necessary and appropriate to properly fund the necessary construction, maintenance and administration of water level control structures and appurtenances in order to maintain the court-ordered lake level entered in Cases No. 962 and 1180.

The Court will be asked to confirm a special assessment district to consist of the following parcels of land:

a. All taxable land in the County of Antrim, including incorporated areas therein;

b. All riparian parcels of land on Skegemog Lake, Torch River and Torch Lake in Clearwater Township of Kalkaska County;

c. All riparian parcels of land on Elk and Skegemog Lake in Whitewater Township of Grand Traverse County;

d. All riparian parcels of land on St. Clair Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting waterway in South Arm Township of Charlevoix County; and

3. All parcels of land owned by Michigan Department of Natural Resources which have frontage on Elk Lake, Skegemog Lake, Torch River, Torch Lake, Clam Lake, Lake Bellaire, Intermediate Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting lakes and waterways.

It's A Small World...

CHARLEVOIX ELEMENTARY students lined up at the door to make awaiting their turn to perform in the gym.

It's a small world, just ask Marina Anegon at Charlevoix Elementary School.

She was on a recent trip to Mexico and met a Canadian, who had never been in Michigan, yet has an uncle who lives in a funny little town called "Charlevoix."

"Talk about a small world, I couldn't believe it," said the elementary teacher to a group of several hundred children and adults last week.

So, as this year's spring program, she had the Charlevoix Elementary students do "It's a Small World."

For some of the more than 50 grade schoolers, the presentation in the Charlevoix Elementary gym was a first.

Students had been working on costumes for some time and could hardly wait to show them off to their parents last Wednesday.

And for nearly an hour last week, that's what they did.

Each of the first and second grade classes had adopted a country as their theme and showed both costumes and songs native to that locality.

"It was fun to do and it's fun listening to other kids sing," said eight-year-old Jennifer Bell.

"I liked the acting."

According to the eight-year-old girl, one of the things to remember is not to be shy.

"I learned not to be shy," she said.

"Most of the time I'm shy and after you start singing a bit, you forget about being shy."

Blonde-haired Andre Fiedler, who was dressed in a mountain climbing outfit, said he liked the chefs the best.

As far as acting goes, the second grade said it means that you're getting all dressed up and having a play and learning different pieces.

And pieces, according to the seven-year-old boy, is stuff you have to learn to be in the play.

"Sometimes you get nervous and forget some of the motions you're suppose to do.,, he said.

Audience members like nine-year-old George Smith said he thought the performance was good and can't wait until the third and fourth grade classes put on one next week.

"I like the songs because they're nice, " says Denise Neuman.

"I like the clothes they wore, too."

She also said the hats and dances were good, too.

FIRST AND SECOND Graders dressed up like people from other countries and sang songs to the other students in the building, as well as their parents.

Memorial Day - Those Who Died

MAY

FEDERAL OFFICIALS say the lighthouse property at Beaver Island's South End will probably go to Jackson Community College now that Michigan Department of Natural Resources are no longer interested in it for a park.

South End Beaver Lighthouse Once A Famous Battle Scene

BEAVER ISLAND--An academic war is raging here over territory that once was part of a strange religious empire ruled over by a king with 13 wives.

The focus of the fight among Jackson Community College and the Char-Em Intermediate School District is the old light house that stands at the south end of Beaver Island.

Only a lonely bright beacon light flashes across the island that back in the 1800's was this country's only empire and home of Manitou.

Below the white-brick towering lighthouse is an old two-story wooden house surrounded by a wooden picket fence.

Although there appears to be conflicting reports, the Michigan Legislature established Manitou County in 1855.

Some historians say James J. Strang, the Mormon King of Beaver Islands, was a member of the House of Representatives and should be credited for joining the Beaver Islands, Manitou Islands and Fox Islands together.

Strang was from Newaygo County, which was part of the Grand Traverse region and gave him great political strength in his district.

Several petitions were presented to Emmet County and the committee to which the matter was referred in the House, after stating "that a feeling of deep distrust and repugnance of people inhabiting that part of the state,...respectfully but earnestly recommend that a separate town and county organization be given to the Beaver and Fox Islands."

However, in the bill that was reported out of House committee, the Manitou Islands were added, and the name of the new county reported out of committee as Beaver County was, upon motion of Strang himself, changed to Manitou.

But several other historians credit John S. Dixon for the formation of the county.

On May 11, 1855, Dixon arrived at the mouth of the Pine River in a little schooner, "Emeline," which had been chartered to bring him from Old Mission.

Dixon had brought his wife and three children along with a Mr. Wolcott, who had come to form a business partnership, and Frank May, a young man they had hired at Northport.

Dixon was born in New York and was the son of a Presbyterian clergyman.

When he was 20-years-old, he moved to Lenawee County and taught school and continued teaching in various Michigan and Ohio Schools until 1854.

After marrying his wife, Phoebe in 1846, they found it necessary to move from Lansing, Michigan, because of his health, in addition to changing his occupation.

So, while teaching in Lansing, he bought 212 acres of land in what is now known as Charlevoix Township.

In 1854, he moved to Old Mission where he and his family lived for a year.

During that year, Dixon went back to Lansing to lobby for support of a bill to reorganize Emmet County, so as to detach Beaver Island.

The object behind the move was to prevent all legal interference with the legal affairs of Emmet County, Strang and his followers.

As a Gentile, Dixon was concerned about his treatment by the Mormon King Strang and his followers.

No sooner had Dixon and his family landed at the Pine River, which leads into Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, than the Captain of his ship, who did not get along with the Mormons, set sail for fear of attack.

With a considerable amount of supplies, including a boat and small quantity of lumber, he and his family remained on the beach for three days.

The current of the river was so rapid that the boat, when loaded, could not be propelled against it, and the banks were so obstructed by overhanging trees, brushwood and fallen timber, it made it almost impossible to tow the boat upstream.

While staying on the beach, they cleared a path along the south side of the stream and attempted to transport everything by boat until they reached the north shore of Round Lake.

Upon their arrival, the Dixon's found a small Mormon settlement who because Dixon was a Gentile regarded him with suspicion, and said he was not welcome.

Dixon then constructed a small log cabin not far from the Pine River and became one of the first residents of what is now known as Charlevoix County.

The Dixon's were only one of four or five families living in the area.

He, with his ox team, did some work on his land for the season raising potatoes.

Apparently the following fall, there were troubles between the Mormons and Gentiles, so Dixon moved his family to Northport where they lived a year.

Records indicated he bought a lot there and taught at the Indian School until he returned in the Fall of 1856 to Pine River and lived in a house on the bank of the lake.

After platting Charlevoix and attempting to develop a lumber company, the Mormons hung Dixon on gallows erected on the shore of Lake Michigan.

Manitou County included inhabitants from Ottawa and Chippewa tribes and a white population of traders, fishermen and farmers of about 1,000.

It was divided into three townships (Chandler, Galilee and Peaine) which according to the 1880 census had 1,334 residents.

While Beaver Island had mostly Mormons, the Manitous had a small colony of Swedes and Germans who followed agricultural pursuits.

All the island was looked at as valuable fishing stations for boats coming from Mackinaw.

At the north end of Beaver Island, located in an isolated cove is St. James where Strang set up his Mormon monarchy and maintained it for almost 10 years.

According to Strang in his diary, it was the site of the "Royal Place" and was Emmet County's county seat which had the only post office.

The island maintained its own weekly newspaper, the Northern Island, and was fairly self-sufficient.

Strang had come to the Beavers discontented after the death of Joseph Smith and sucession of Brigham Young to the Saints' throne as leader.

So with a band of Latter Day Saints, he left the old Mormon Capital of Nauvoo, Illinois and found Beaver Island in Lake Michigan.

Only a few Indian families were living on the Island and most of the white settlers were connected with the trading establishment located on the north side of the harbor at Whiskey Point, the site of the present Coast Guard harbor lighthouse.

The Mormon settlement grew larger in numbers and as Strang became more powerful, he declared that the Island belonged to him and boasted openly of his plans to destroy the trade at Mackinac.

To further establish himself, he constructed a tabernacle to stand on the shore of St. James.

Strang, who was crowned in July of 1850, was hated by both fellow Mormons and those living on the mainland.

He was said to have encouraged the pirating of fishing boats and polygamy on the island.

An historical document says he acutally outlawed long dresses.

Strang's empire collapsed after he was assassinated in July of 1856.

The Mormon King was summoned to a boat in his harbor and was shot on his way out.

Following his assassination, a group of 60 men chartered a boat, landed on the island and took possession.

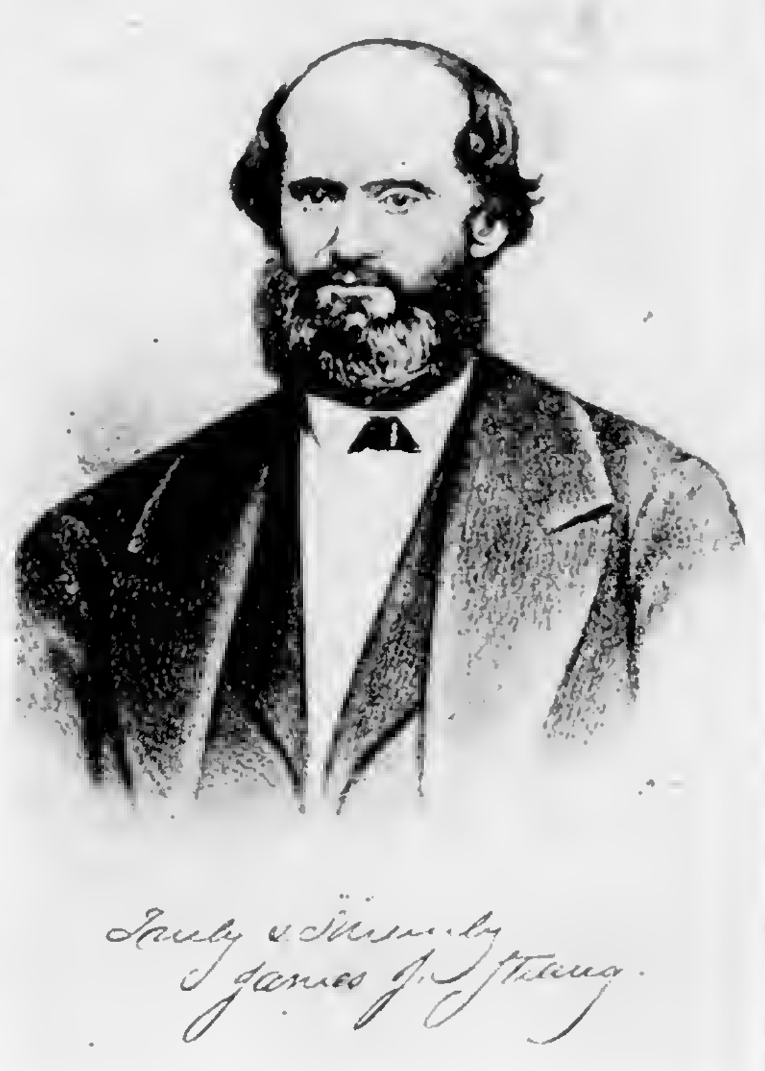
The law organizing the island county was repealed in 1895 and Manitou County was divided between Leelanau and Charlevoix Counties.

Manitou County was one of three that were created in Michigan and eventually absorbed in others.

In 1867, Washington County included parts of Marquette County while Isle Royal was first a part of Ontonagon County, then Houghton, late Keweenaw and finally was independent in 1875.

Finally after a precarious existence of 16 years, it was attached to Keweenau County in 1891.

A Supreme Court decision later held the act of creating a separate county was unconstitutional.



Truly & Sincerely
James J. Strang

IT TOOK A decade but Randy Faust finally accomplished the feat...the feat of returning the 120 yd. high hurdles trophy to Charlevoix for the first time since his coach, Gary Stutzman, brought it home for the first time in 1964. Here the pair display the traveling trophy which was presented during the recent 23rd annual Petoskey Relays which the Charlevoix Rayders won for the first time.

Voisin Again Takes Marathon Boat Title

Don Voisin's outstanding driving featured the Belle Isle Outboard Club's 27th annual Belle Isle stock outboard marathon as the Charlevoix pilot won the Class D race for the third straight year yesterday.

It also was the seventh year the 28-year old insurance man has been a class winner in the marathon, now the oldest of its kind in the country. Voisin was king of Class C for four consecutive years.

A fleet of 105 drivers competed in the marathon and in the closed course races which followed, held in the Detroit River off the Belle Isle bathing beach in the Detroit River. The event was sponsored by the Detroit and Northern Savings and Loan Association.

Rayders Win Petoskey Relay

The Charlevoix High School track and field team added still another laurel to its track crown Tuesday with the winning of the Petoskey Relays for the first time in its 23 year history.

The team, coached by Gary Stutzman racked up an impressive 53 points followed by 44 by Rogers City, the closest contender in the meet which attracted a total of 28 teams including nine in Class C four in Class B and the remainder in Class D.

In winning the meet, the Rayders set one of five new records. It was in the sprint relay with a time of 1:08.7 and with a team composed of Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin.

The meet was also a special one for Coach Stutzman when one of his hurdlers, Randy Faust, a senior, was awarded the special trophy for the winning of the 120 yd. high hurdles in a time of 16:35. The event marked the first time a Charlevoix Athlete had won the trophy since Coach Stutzman had won it 10 years ago.

Charlevoix also placed first in the 440 yd. relay with the same team that set the new record in the sprint relay, Skippergosh, Kaufman, Streeter and Martin; a first in the 880 relay with a time of 1:35.2 and a team composed of Randy Faust, Kaufman, Streeter and Martin; a second in the mile medley (Chuck Faust, Randy Faust, Kevin Speer and Jim Sundberg); a third in the mile relay in which Rogers City set a new record of 3:36.55 (Gary Novotny, Sundberg, Ed Russell, C. Faust); and a fourth in the ¾ mile medley (Novotny, Doug Smith, Skippergosh, Russell). The high hurdles won by Faust and the 100 yd. dash are the only individual events in the meets. All others are relay events.

Placing behind Charlevoix and Rogers City in Class C were Rudyard and Shepherd with 22 points each; Boyne City and Newberry, 19 each; Onaway, 8; Elk Rapids, 4 and Kalkaska 3.

Sault Ste. Marie took first in Class B and Pickford first in Class D.

JERRY SKIPPERGOSH, Charlevoix high school senior who excelled in football, basketball and track, received the first Sports Boosters plaque for his contribution to athletics, his school and community. Dale Burge, high school athletic director, made the presentation during the annual Varsity Awards program in the presence of 'Skip's' father, Lawrence Skippergosh.

Skippergosh Receives First Booster Award

"For his contribution to Charlevoix athletics, his school and his community" Jerry Skippergosh, Charlevoix High school senior athlete, received a special award offered by the Charlevoix Sports Boosters.

The surprise presentation was made at the conclusion of the annual Varsity Awards program held at the high school gymnasium Thursday night.

On hand to see his son honored was Lawrence Skippergosh, a former track star himself in his younger days while a student as Haskell University in Kansas.

The presentation was made by Dale Burge, athletic director, in behalf of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters. In presenting the plaque, Burge said it was made to Skippergosh who had been an example of what an athlete can accomplish through hard work and determination. "He is an inspiration to everyone who has seen him on the football field, the basketball floor and the track" Burge added.

Burge opened the program by welcoming the large crowd and introducing James Alger, president of the Sports Boosters who cooperated in presenting the program.

Coaches were then introduced and, after commenting on each of the athletes, presented letter awards and certificates. During the program, a gift was presented to Mrs. Marie Osterberg, to Claire Martin who assists with the track team and to Denise Boss for her outstanding performance during the years. Making the presentations were Janet Langeland, cheer leading coach; Mrs. Toni Felter, girls basketball, Dennis Carr, cross country, Don Carey, football, Mrs. Osterberg, girls volleyball and track and field, Bill Murray and Karen Hinds, skiing, Norman Probert,

Tennis Talk

Learning how to hit a tennis ball properly is actually much simpler than most people think. The only essential ingredients are a positive attitude, good concentration, and a developed rhythm.

The forehand is the "bread and butter" shot in tennis and it is the first shot that any beginner must learn. Once learned, the twice a week player usually finds himself running "around" his backhand in order to hit a forehand.

A proper grip is crucial. Holding the racquet with your non-playing hand (the left hand for right handed players), point it so that the strings are perpendicular to the ground. Next, place the palm of the playing hand flat against the side of the handle with your fingers slightly apart. Do not make a fist.

You should grip the racquet as if you were shaking hands with it.

Once you get the feel for the grip, it will become automatic every time you pick up the racquet. You want a firm grip but do not clutch the racquet.

The actual forehand stroke is a natural and rhythmical movement. As the ball comes to the forehand side (your right side if you are right-handed), turn your body to the side so you are perpendicular to the net. At the same time, take your racquet back reaching directly behind you with your weight on your back foot. The rocquet should be at waist level or slightly lower.

Be careful not to take the racquet too far behind your body. This creates a lot of unnecessary movement and, contrary to popular opinion. does not help to hit a harder shot. Always keep in mind that with all tennis shots the more movement you have in your strokes the greater the chance of error.

The backswing is only a preparation for the actual stroke. Moving your weight to the front foot, swing around your body meeting the ball right off the front foot. Be aware that the stroke requires the entire body to move into the ball.

If you do not move into the ball with your entire body, your shot will be weak and without consistency. Imagine a golfer trying to swing without moving his body or a baseball player trying to hit without moving his hips.

After making contact with the ball, the racquet should follow directly through until your arm goes all the way around your body. The follow through gives the ball direction and velocity. Without it, you have absolutely no control over your shots.

It is important to keep in mind that your racquet head (the strings) should be perpendicular to the ground throughout the entire stroke. Waving the racquet around or turning it over makes it virtually impossible to hit the ball in the middle of the racquet.

Keeping your backswing

What's Ahead For Tennis

MARK HOSMER, in deep concentration, hits a back hand volley.

The Charlevoix Tennis Club completed its first year of existence with a 1-3 record and an impressive sixth place finish in the class C-D regional tournament.

The future of tennis in the Charlevoix school system looks very bright. Every member of the club became solid competitors as their fundamentals developed.

After being badly beaten by Petoskey in their first meet, the Rayder netmen made the second meet quite close. While nobody on the squad quite managed to pull off an upset the sets were extremely tight.

The Rayders also lost their first meet to Boyne City 4-3. A week later, however, they rebounded to beat Boyne City 6-1 dramatizing the amount of improvement they had made throughout the season.

The regionals, traditionally the climax of any tennis season, were held at the Leelanau Schools in Glenn Arbor. While Charlevoix's first year squad was definitely outmanned by East Jordan and Leelanau, they held their own against the rest of the field.

The sixth place finish was better than several established teams and one notch higher than Boyne City, the other first year team in the tournament.

The Tennis Club had a tremendous amount of cooperation with the city. Utilizing all four public courts for an hour a day and two of the courts for an hour and a half, the club had a good deal of practice time. Recreation director, Kurt Kipke said that there was no problem this year, and a similar arrangement could be worked out for next year.

The Club hopes that it will become a varsity sport next year. Dale Burge, Charlevoix High School's athletic director, said that this really should not be much of a problem. The Club's good showing and dedication to practice are very positive factors, and the team should have a full schedule of ten to fifteen matches next year.

Further Burge said the possibilities that tennis will become a conference sport next year appear to be excellent at this time. Petoskey, Gaylord, Grayling, Boyne City, Cheboygan, and Charlevoix all had teams this year.

Tennis certainly looks like it is going to be a permanent sport in the Charlevoix school system.

The club has eleven of its top twelve players back next year. In addition, several excellent eighth graders will be joining the high school ranks.

Every player feels that with hard work over the summer there is no reason why next year's team cannot be battling for both conference and regional title. Yes, tennis seems here to stay.

The Moorish Touch

YOU FIND it along the sunny Mediterranean coasts of North Africa, Italy, France and Spain. In the New World it has flourished for centuries in Mexico, California and Arizona.

AND NOW Harbor Bay Co. has brought the dazzling white stucco and graceful lines of MOORISH architecture to Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

HOMES BEARING the exquisite MOORISH TOUCH are now open for your inspection at Castle View Subdivision on Wickersham Road, just across M-66 from Castle Van Haver, and at Bay Shore West --- a new 40-lot subdivision in an aromatic pine plantation overlooking Little Traverse Bay and Lake Michigan --- just west of Bay Shore on U.S. 31 North, between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

IF YOU demand privacy and appreciate "something different" from the cedar shake chalets that have set the architectural tone in northern Michigan in recent years, you'll be delighted by the cheerful warmth of THE MOORISH TOUCH at both Harbor Bay Co. developments.

YOU'LL FIND a cloistered garden nestled in the corner of your own private court-yard...you'll welcome guests to your home under handsome stuccoed arches reminiscent of the Old World...summer evenings you'll entertain under the stars on a leafy patio screened from the eyes of the outside world by a free-standing wall of stucco and wood.

THE MOORISH TOUCH follows you indoors as well --- massive chalk-white fireplaces; stately arches that divide rooms but leave treasured open-space in tact; hammered bronze lighting fixtures, hand-crafted in Mexico to blend with the MOORISH architectural theme.

OF COURSE, homes at Bay Shore West and Castle View are carpeted throughout and have all of the elegant appointments Charlevoix area residents demand in both their seasonal and year-'round dwellings: two-car garages, electric heat, washers and dryers (in the bedroom area where they belong), smart step-saver kitchens and plenty of room to live and love --- all with THE MOORISH TOUCH. Desirable homesites are also available.

A Woman Umpire?

"THEY (MEN) just acted like the girl's games were something to fill up space and weren't of any importance at all."

Sue Holm bit her lip in determination and hiked out to her spot behind first base last week.

She felt a little nervous, but the Charlevoix mother of two was sure everything would be fine after a couple of plays were made.

It was her first night on the job as Charlevoix's first woman upmire.

Dressed in a blue poplin jacket and slacks, the brown haired woman called them out at the plate like any man would have.

It was just that she was a woman and wanted the girls playing women's slo-pitch to have a fair chance.

Mrs. Holm isn't what you would call a woman's libber, but she does think women haven't been getting treatment equal to men.

So, when the Charlevoix Recreation Department announced last winter they wanted women umpires–Mrs. Holm took advantage of the situation.

"I've played ball since I was eight-years-old." she said about her qualifications and experience to be an umpire.

"We were taught how to play before we were taught how to walk."

A life-long resident of Charlevoix and a meat wrapper for Oleson's Food Store, Mrs. Holm says she got interested in softball because of her father, who is a real baseball nut.

"I was supposed to have open heart surgery, but they postponed it for a year and they didn't want me to play," she said about one of the major motivating factors for taking up umpiring.

"I had to be out there someplace."

She said she thought it was a real good idea because the men don't realize some of the shortcomings women have when they are playing.

"Every year the men have all the prime spots," she said about one of the problems they used to have getting ball diamonds until Curt Kipke became Charlevoix's recreation director last year.

She said the men umpires were always in a hurry to get the women's games over with and the women off the field.

"They just acted like the girl's games were something to fill up space and weren't of any importance at all."

Until last year, she said the women always had to use the old field.

"Last year that wasn't true, he really seems to be fair," she said about Kipke.

Having played softball all her life, Mrs. Holm said she felt women needed someone out there to umpire.

"Women get more excited and more shookup than men," she said.

Mrs. Holm said she was a littler nervous about her first game,.

"The second and third game, I knew the rules and it wasn't that different," she said.

"For the first game, I was ready to get out and catch the ball, after that I was okay."

She said a couple of girls came out and asked her questions she didn't think they would ask the other umps.

"Even the coaches accepted me...a couple came over and asked me questions that I was surprised about," she said.

Mrs. Holm says she wishes more women would consider being umpires for next season.

"I enjoy it," she said.

dandelions were not weeds, how beautiful they would be - right? Does anyone today make danelion wine of those yellow heads? Another question (an answer please, someone) Do snakes lay eggs? While out in the back yard last week, enjoying the weather, we found 7 or 8 white delicate shelled eggs, here and there on the ground. They are about the size of a robins' egg. The neighbor's twin girls had just reported (alarmingly) of having seen a snake.

A group of 11 young people from McBain area visited our town Thursday evening. They had left the week before on bicycles to visit "Big Mac" and were hosted by church young people on the way. They were overnight guests of the Ellsworth young people. Four young people's leaders accompanied them.

Visiting Mrs. Clara Rubingh this weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Burr Abrahamson of Mt. Pleasant and their son and wife and child from Kalkaska.

School children happily report only 13 days more of school.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fielstra returned home Thursday after visiting relatives in Muskegon and their daughter Gladys and 5 sons in Hopkins for a few days.

Mrs. Hattie Kuiper and daughter Virginia Mrs. Martin Rubingh and her children went to Grand Rapids Wednesday, expecting to view Tulip time in Holland on Thursday, but it rained, so they went to Holland on Friday to see the impressive children's march and the street cleaning. Mr. Rubingh came on Friday and they attended a supper with the Kuiper cousins, an annual affair.

The Banks Twp. Senior Citizen group has been invited to meet with Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Orcutt when open house will be held for them June 1, for the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary at the Legion Hall.

CHRISTIAN SCHOOL NEWS

During the past three or four weeks, the 8th grade class of 6 pupils and Mr. Krause, have raked and cleaned up a total of 26 lawns around town. For the most part the rakings were hauled away also.

The eighth grade has been working on the Flat road cemetery grounds, the Township park, the Catholic cemetery grounds on Highway 31 and the Ellsworth Cemetery grounds. The grass has been mowed, grass clipped around the head stones, sticks, tree limbs and rocks picked up & hauled away. We can be proud of these youngsters and also enjoy the clean cemeteries on Memorial Day. Mr. Robert Gaunt will speak at the Ellsworth Cemetery at 11 a.m. May 23.

The eighth grade exercises will be held in the Christian Reformed Church, May 31, 1974. Dr. Jerrian Van Dellen will be the speaker.

The Calvinette Club consisting of girls from the area churches, held a Mother-Daughter banquet, Monday the 20th at the Atwood Reformed Church.

ELLSWORTH COMMUNITY SCHOOL NEWS

Our baseball team will play Gaylord St. Marys Saturday in the first round of elimination in the district tournaments. Winner of this game will play at Central Lake where the tournaments will be played June 1.

Marla Veldkamp has been chosen to represent Ellsworth in the State Track meet at Lansing this weekend in the 440 yard run. Marla qualified for this when she finished second in a regional meet at Alpena, Saturday. Kathy Best also gained a place in the regular meet, by being fourth in the 880 yd. run.

The senior class is visiting New York City this week. Mr. and Mrs. John Vrondrom, advisors, left Tuesday evening with 14 students on their Sr. trip.

Miss Lizbeth Ash, a recent graduate of Oakland University has been engaged as a "Title One" the summer program teacher for remedial reading development. This class will begin June 17.

reserve?" retorted Mayor Hansen.

Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff interjected that the city will be getting some $198,000 back from the waste water facility that had been used in construction.

"That'll give you $400,000," Wexstaff said.

"I just kind of hate to borrow from the electrical fund," Mrs. Wallace continued.

"You're just doing what is the politically popular thing.

"It just bothers me to keep taking from our Golden Goose."

Mayor Hansen said it was simply a matter of philosophy and whether or not you want to keep the millage down.

The mayor then officially called the meeting to order and the council began to item by item go through the budget.

Official action on the budget proposal is expected to be made this week.

At last week's meeting, the council did learn they could now get a monthly budget breakdown of expenditures from the city's computer.

Stumping

took priority over office privacy.

In retirement, weather and finances permitting, Emil would visit Tootie and his friends who like himself had only a nodding acquaintance with money due to their life style. Emil would cadge a round of drinks from a visitor by crossing his legs behind his neck while sitting straight as a poker on a bar stool, conversing casually in broken English while quaffing his suds.

Happy-go-lucky Emil was never once heard to lament his lot in life although he did muse regretfully on occasion that had he 'tinked' about this acrobatic talent earlier in life he would have avoided that onerous affliction which plagues us all.

the job he was hired to do.

And he says, he doesn't think the situation will improve in the future.

The city employee claims that in order to get the city's electrical system back on its feet it will cost thousands of dollars.

In addition to a $50,000 substation, it will cost another $15 to $20,000 to replace the Bridge Street situation.

He says much of this could have been prevented, if city council had allowed the electric fund to build up, instead of placing it into the general fund.

Below is a table of the equivalent millage required to balance the general fund:

Equivalent millage is what city residents would have been paying if the city council had not transferred funds from the electric to general funds.

Tennis Talk

and follow through short and concise reduces your chances of error and makes it easier to hit solid shots. Contortions and wild swings only hinder a player's improvement.

The last thing to remember about the forehand is the most important fundamental in tennis and will be repeatedly referred to in this column. WATCH THE BALL. Everyone has been told at one time or another to watch the ball, regardless of the sport. You should see the ball actually make contact with the racquet.

If you are swinging hard, the meeting of the ball and the racquet will be a blur. But you should see this blur. Top professionals are always reminding themselves to watch the ball above anything else.

The object in tennis is to hit the ball with the center of the racquet. This is impossible without watching the ball. All the other fundamentals are secondary; they are only aids to help you hit properly.

Try to keep in mind four básic fundamentals when you are learning the forehand; 1. racquet back as the ball comes, 2. weight foreward as you hit the ball, 3. follow through after making contact, and 4. WATCH THE BALL HIT THE RACQUET.

Randy Faust has been named to the Prep All-American Basketball Yearbook for 1973-74, as announced today by the editors of COACH & ATHLETE Magazine and Charlevoix High School Coach Barry Anderson.

Their selection to this Prep Honor Roll makes them eligible for judging in the Prep All-American National Laude. In cooperation with the Awards Selection Committee, the National Finalists will be announced in the May/June Awards--Prep 100 Squad, Super Ten Team and Cum issue of COACH & ATHLETE.

Nominations for the 1973-74 Prep All-America Basketball program were made last fall by high school coaches and athletic directors, college recruiters and sports writers across the country. They were asked to nominate candidates having the best record of local achievement on their teams or in their areas. Criteria by which these local basketball players were nominated include: outstanding athletic ability based on career records, sportsmanship, leadership and service to team and community.

Sponsored by COACH & ATHLETE Magazine, the Prep All-America Basketball Program is an annual honor roll of outstanding basketball players from high school teams throughout the country. The purpose of the program is to promote and encourage, by means of national recognition, local sports accomplishments and individual athletic ability.

Flouride Program Held Next Week

The Charlevoix Topical Flouride Program will be held May 31 and June 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

The Clinic will be located in the basement of the Charlevoix Library on Clinton Street; and will be open from 8:15 until 4:30.

Parents of enrolled children will receive their schedule cards in the mail. If children have appointments during school time, they will be taken to the library and returned after their appointment.

Only the children from the Middle School will be responsible to walk to the library for their appointments.

All children must bring their schedule cards to school with them to excuse the absence from class. If parents of enrolled children have any questions please contact Mrs. Carolyn Uhrick, 547-4285, or Mrs. Jane Kipki, 547-6832.

Enrolled children will have four appointments. The first one is for cleaning the teeth and the first application of flouride. The remaining applications of flouride take place in the next appointments.

Teacher Feacher

Mrs. Bump Becomes A Popular Teacher

While raising two sons, Barbara Bump had several opportunities to become involved with schools by being a volunteer Room Mother. Because of this involvement, Barb had a chance to look for all the best qualitites of her son's teachers and use them after deciding to become a teacher.

She returned to college at Michigan State University to obtain a teaching certificate and graduate hours, having previously earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan.

Barb has been teaching for six and a half years now – all of these years have been as a sixth grade teacher in Lansing and Charlevoix. She feels that children of this age are "old enough to take in new ideas and young enough to be enthusiastic."

Barb has taught in a self-contained classroom and now she seems to be enjoying a Midde School situation where she specializes in Social Studies.

Each year Barb begins the first day by becoming acquainted with the students, while allowing students to become acquainted with her. She runs her classroom on the philosophy that if students know you respect them as an individual, they in turn, will respect you as a teacher who is also an individual.

Although Barb became a permanent resident in Charlevoix only four years ago, she has been a summer resident of the area for many years. In fact, one of her favorite past times originated in northern Lake Michigan. Barb recalls spending many hours out in a boat fishing with her father at almost any hour of the day or night.

They used to hang a lantern from a Birch tree to guide them into shore if it was a dark night. (an idea, Barb would no longer recommend). She still enjoys fishing whenever she can and considers it to relaxing therapy.

Community activities were a part of Barb's life before coming to Charlevoix. She has been involved in numerous volunteer organizations in Minneapolis, Des Moines, and Kansas City.

While in Kansas City, she participated in a Children's Theatre group which originated as an effort to provide cultural experience for all elementary age children. Presently she is a member of the Charlevoix Hospital Guild and the Women's Club.

Ask Senator GRIFFIN

By cutting through red tape, members of Congress can often lend a hand to those with problems involving the federal government. Through the columns of this newspaper, Senator Griffin answers questions of general interest. He will respond personally to all communications addressed to: Senator Robert P. Griffin, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Last year I bought a croton house plant. But in the winter, its leaves fell off. Nothing I could do saved its leaves, though it's still alive. The store won't take it back, and now I'm stuck with a bare tree in my living room. I might turn it into a coat rack if you don't have a suggestion. You seem to answer all sorts of questions—how about this one?

—L. G., Bay City

There is a free service of the National Park Service, referred to as "The Green Scene," that will answer questions about how to take care of such plants. They will also be glad to advise you regarding what plants best suit your environment. To submit your questions and to receive a free booklet entitled, "The Care and Maintainance of Household and Office Plants," write to: The Green Scene, 1100 Ohio Drive, S. W., Room 353, Washington, D. C. 20242.

I am a young college graduate interested in working overseas for the government, if possible. I haven't the faintest idea how to go about getting such a job, and I'm not fluent in any language. Do you have any suggestions?

—M. S., Marquette

You can start by writing to the U.S. Civil Service Commission for a pamphlet entitled "Federal Jobs Overseas."

In addition to Alaska, Hawaii and U.S. territories, the federal government employs U.S. citizens to work in more than 100 countries throughout the world. The work force includes most professions and trades, such as clerks, stenographers, typists, doctors, nurses, technicians, etc.

The pamphlet provides information about overseas jobs that may be available and the federal agencies doing the recruiting. For a copy, write: U.S. Civil Service Commission, Lafayette Building, Lobby, 144 W. Lafayette St., Detroit, Michigan 48226, or call toll-free: 1-800-552-1244. Detroit area residents may call 226-6950.

Former Charlevoixans Become Missionaries

Rev. and Mrs. Richey L. Young and family of Atlanta, Georgia have been accepted as missionary candidates by the Baptist International Missions Inc., to go to Jamaica

Their mission headquarters are located in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Mrs. Young is the former Frances Martin, daughter of Mrs. A. J. Greene of 508 W. Lincoln Street here. She graduated from Charlevoix High School with the class of 1958.

She was born here and later moved to Detroit for a few years and then returned with her parents to live here until she moved to Atlanta, Georgia where she married Richey Young. They have five children who will be going with them to Jamaica.

They both are graduates from Immanuel Baptist College & Seminary of Atlanta, Georgia this past May, 1973 by majoring in Bible and Missions courses along with language courses.

Mr. Young was ordained in December 1973 to the Gospel Ministry at the McDonough Heights Baptist Church of Atlanta.

Last June, they flew to the mission field area in Jamaica where Rev. Young will be building Independent Baptist Churches and preaching at the many mission stations they will found; they took slide pictures of the area and will be showing them at this service and telling of the missionary works needed in that area.

Their Commissioning Service will be held on June 9, 1974 at "The Way Of Cross Baptist Church" in Conley, Georgia.

Millers Discover Boyne City

It was late in the day one-hundred and seventeen years ago last November 14, when a man, his wife, and a friend beached their sailboat on the shores of Boyne. After walking up the hill, they found a dilapidated shelter - their "dream cabin- - which they immediately claimed as their home.

And thus began a residency that marks the beginning of the history of Boyne. These hardy pioneers were John and Harriet Miller and why they came to Boyne is one of the remarkable stories in our country's history.

John Miller was born on October 10, 1811 in a land of small farms, pastures, and great peat bogs. He was the son of Hugh and Agnes Miller. His birth place was somewhere along the famous Boyne River which flows into the Irish Sea about twenty miles north of Dublin, Ireland.

A few years prior to the tragic Irish potato famine, the twenty-two year old emigrated to the United States.

Landing in New York in 1833, he pushed westward across the state. On Christmas Day in 1840 he married a sixteen year old Canadian born girl by the name of Harriet Russel. Two children were born into the Miller family; Hugh in 1842 and James the following year. In 1843 the Millers bought a farm a few miles in Oswegotchie township in upstate New York.

For twelve years the Millers cultivated their land, hoed their garden, and apparently led a contended life. Then one morning in 1855 Harriet awoke from a strange dream.

In her dream she envisioned a lake to the west which was shaped like a bear and had an abandoned cabin at its eastward end. Convinced that she must seek out this mysterious place, Harriet persuaded her devoted husband to sell their farm, pack their bags, and head Westward.

It took them awhile to settle their affairs. Finally, they made their way to Ogdensburg where they booked passage on a Northern Transportation Line Company ship routed to Chicago. The steamer made its scheduled stop at Northport, Michigan to take on "propeller wood." Here on a dock the Millers stood, little realizing that a decisive event was about to occur that would determine the course of their lives.

Whether by accident or design the Millers struck up a conversation with a gentelman by the name of John Sargeant Dixon.

Harriet Miller related her dream to John S. Dixon who claimed that he knew of such a lake shaped like a bear which was known as Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix).

On October 16, 1856 the boat transporting Dixon and the Millers slid to a halt beside a wooden dock in front of a village of fishermen's shacks that lined the Lake Michigan shore. At this village called Pine River (Charlevoix) they stayed for nearly a month. John Dixon pleaded with the Millers to make Pine River their home but Harriet was reluctant and insisted on exploring the eastern end of the lake. So the Millers and Dixon set out in a sailboat, and in the late afternoon of November 14, 1856 the boat struck the shores of North Boyne.

Thus the Millers became the first permanent settlers in the Boyne area. Shortly after they were settled in their "dream cabin", John and his two sons - Hugh and James - explored the swampy shoreline of Pine Lake.

Rayder Trackmen Win Huron Conference Title

The Michigan Huron Shores Conference title was added to the long list of triumphs for the Charlevoix high school track and field team Friday night at Petoskey.

In the meet, the team piled up 81 points to cop the title for the second straight year.

Charlevoix athletes picked up a total of nine first places and set a new league record in the 440 yd. relay with a time of 45.8. The team was composed of Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin. The former record for the event was : 47.2.

The 440 yd. relay team also won the Gary Moody Memorial Award named for the late Cheboygan high school athletic director. In 1973, the first year it was presented, Charlevoix won the trophy but presented it to the Cheboygan team.

Other first places in the meet were taken by Jim Potter with a distance of 47'¼''; Streeter with a jump of 19'¼'' in the long jump; 880 relay (Randy Faust, Kaufman, Streeter, Martin) with a time of 1:36.9; Chuck Faust, 880 yard run with a time of 2:06.4; Randy Faust, high hurdles, 15.7; Martin, 100 yd. dash, 10.3; R. Faust; low hurdles, 21.3 and Streeter, 220 yd. dash, 23.1.

Others who added points were Clay Jones with a second in the shot put; Kevin Speer, a third and Martin, a fourth in the long jump; Skippergosh, second in the high jump; R. Faust, fourth in the pole vault; Gary Novotny, third in the 880 yd. run; Jim Sundberg, second in the mile run; Skippergosh, fourth in the low hurdles and Charlevoix (Novotny, Sundberg, Ed Russell, C. Faust) third, mile relay.

Behind Charlevoix with 81 points were Rogers City with 51 points; Petoskey, 39; Gaylord, 29; Boyne City, 20; Cheboygan, 14; St. Ignace, 6, and Grayling, 0.

Nine members of the team qualified for State finals and will compete in the event at Mt. Pleasant this weekend (June 1).

MIKE STREETER won the 220-yd. Relay in the Huron Shores Conference Meet held Friday in Petoskey. Also during the meet, Jim Potter (below) won the shot put competition. Both wins helped the Rayders easily take the conference title.

Tennis Team Gets Second Win Friday

The Charlevoix Tennis Club closed its first season with a stunning 5-2 upset of the Gaylord netmen last Friday. The victory gave the Rayders a 2-3 recoprd for the season.

The meet was scheduled and rescheduled several times before last Friday was finally selected. This did not stop the eager Charlevoix squad however.

Brian Osterberg played his finest match of the year defeating Scott Smith at number one singles. Osterberg's consistency proved to be the deciding edge in his 7-5, 7-5 victory.

The pivotal match was played at number three doubles. Paul Berg and Bob Sandahl of Charlevoix were badly beaten in the first set by Dennis and Barry Fyke and they appeared to be headed to certain defeat. Settling down from the 6-2 first set, Bert and Sandahl began playing more aggressively at the net.

Forcing their Gaylord foes into numerous errors, the Charlevoix duo took an early second set lead. The Fyke brothers fought back to tie the score 6-6. Sandahl and Berg easily won the 5 out of 9 tie breaker as the pressure became too much for the Fykes.

The third set was virtually a repeat of the second. With the game score at 6-6, Sandahl and Berg took advantage of bad Gaylord errors to win the tie breaker 5-2. Their victory clinched the upset for the Rayders.

In other scores: Gretchen Olsen clobbered Smitter 6-0, 6-1; Jim Marshall defeated Kip Smith 6-2, 6-1; Mark Malpeli and Dan Engstrom defeated Dave Daunt and his partner 6-4, 6-1; John Greene lost to Brett Fyke 6-3, 6-3; and Mark Hosmer and Ted Lass lost to Aaron Shepard and Steve Heacock 6-4, 7-5.

The upset victory meant a great deal to the first year Rayders. It was their first meet victory over an established team. Gaylord has had a team for twelve years, and had a 10-3 record going into the meet.

The victory also establishes Charlevoix as one of the strongest teams in next year's proposed conference.

Randy Faust — A Triumph

Randy Faust officially left Charlevoix High School Sunday night when he completed commencement exercises.

But the spirit and impact the shaggy brown-haired boy left on the school will remain for years to come.

To an outsider, the 18-year old youth may have appeared only to be an outstanding athlete walking down the long gymnasium aisle in cap and gown to receive his diploma.

However, there's more to the story of why Randy Faust is different than his other 112 classmates.

It's the story of how a two-year-old boy lost one eye, but was able to overcome his partial blindness to become one of Charlevoix's finest athletes.

The son of a local Methodist minister lost his eye when he stepped in between a pretend war with his older brother and some neighborhood friends.

"I went out in the middle to get my brother some ammunition and I got plowed," he said about getting hit with a corn cob.

The childhood accident eventually cost him the loss of his right eye when he was seven-years-old.

But someone forgot to tell him that the permanent injury would prevent him from being like his other friends and being able sports.

So, when the slender, medium heighth youngster moved to Charlevoix during his eighth grade year he became involved in organized sports.

"I didn't really realize it, so it really didn't affect that much," he continued.

In fact, before coming to Charlevoix he had participated in both Little League and neighborhood basketball.

"I've been interested in sports ever since I was a little kid," he said.

So, the first thing he did after moving to Charlevoix from Glen Lake was to sign up for both basketball and golf.

"For the first year, I didn't go out for track, I just played golf," he said while sitting outside on the front steps of a house.

Wearing a blue poplin jacket and blue jeans, the Charlevoix youth began playing with his tennis shoe shoelaces while he related his high school sports career.

For a while, the boy appeared timid and didn't volunteer much information about himself.

But as he talked more about sports, he began to reveal more about the one thing that provided the drive to overcome his handicap and stick it out through high school.

It'll probably be the same motivating force that continues to keep him going through college so he can become a high school coach and teacher.

Although he didn't make a big wave during eighth grade, Randy continued to stay in sports the next year.

"It was a decent year," he continued.

"I give a lot of credit to Coach Probert in football.

"He really got me started."

Randy said he remembered the days in football practice when he would really seem to be down.

"I can remember the days, when we would run your face in the dirt," he said about his coach.

But, no matter how hard practice seemed to get, the boy said his coach was always there after practice to boost his spirits.

"You start out with someone like that your freshman year...it always helps," he said.

After a summer of playing golf, Randy went out for both football and basketball his sophomore year.

"I split my knee open and couldn't run track," he said.

"We always had a race to lunch and I wiped out coming through a door."

His first year for track was in his junior year, when he ran both the hurdles and pole vault.

"Also that year I made honorable mention in basketball," he said.

However, it wasn't until this last Fall that everything seemed to click and he began to start taking awards one right after another.

"In football, we had a real good year," he said about the Charlevoix Rayder's 6-2 season.

"I made all conference quarterback and all conference safety.

"It surprised me because I didn't think I would make quarterback because of St. Ignace."

Randy said his only goal had been to make more interceptions than the seven he made during his junior year.

Although his team didn't do too well in basketball, he did make honorable mention.

"I don't want to remember," he retorted when asked what his basketball's team record was.

"We just didn't do too good."

Then during the last couple of months, Randy found equal success in track.

"We had a super year," he said.

Randy took both first and second place in both the conference high and low hurdles, as well as fourth place in pole vaulting.

Then in regionals, he took top honors in hurdles and walked away with the high hurdle trophy in the Petoskey Relays.

It would seem that this would be enough to explain

Charlevoix Board Will Appeal Tax Allocation Board Results

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix board of education, at a special meeting Monday, voted to appeal to the State Tax Commission to achieve a reconsideration of the results of the Charlevoix county tax allocation board.

The decision to appeal to the state agency followed the action taken earlier Monday by the Tax Allocation Board in adopting the tentative tax rate as the final tax rate without allowing representatives of the three school districts present to explain their budgets.

The budgets had been presented to the allocation board for study but had never been discussed.

The tax allocation board, in refusing a discussion of the board, contended this had been done at the May 20 meeting and that nothing was to be gained by allowing school representatives to explain their budgets.

The Tax Allocation board had voted by a 4-3 decision to allow the county 4.8 mills with the one-half being taken from the schools.

In other action, the board approved a request from the Community Church of God to use the school facilities (the Elementary School gymnasium) for services on Sunday during the summer months while their church facilities are being remodeled.

Approved the purchase of library shelves for the K-4 building at a cost of $810 for two 9-foot units of library shelving. They will be purchased from the McFadden Corp.

Approved the sale of the 1964 Ford van to Harold DeYoung for $160 after Ronald Roberts had defaulted on the purchase for $142.65.

Heard a report from Supt. James A. McKimmy on the Middle School Task Force on which he has been asked to serve; the summer reading institute to be held at the local school; the withdrawal of Richard Way as a candidate for the board of education and the millage proposal which will be brought to a vote of the people on Monday.

Heard Robert Bogart report that the storage building at the high school is well under construction.

Heard Vane Smith, high school principal, report on the senior trip to Cedar Point, Ohio; Geri Stanko, Middle School principal report on the Activities book that will be offered for sale to the students and Glenn Snider, elementary principal, report on the Title I program.

When the meeting was opened up to delegations, the subject of discipline at the Middle School playground was discussed at length, recommendations made regarding supervision and other ideas aired.

The next meeting of the board will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Tax Board Sets Rates With No Public Talk

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation board, in a motion that took less than five minutes, approved the tentative tax rate as its final rate for 1974 at a meeting held Monday at the county building here.

After minutes of the May 20 meeting were read and approved, Oscar Stroud, representing the townships of the county, made a motion to approve the tentative tax rate as the final rate. Mrs. Anah Potter, county treasurer, seconded the motion. Without allowing any discussion by those present, the motion was adopted by a vote of 4 to 3.

Voting to adopt the tentative rate as the final rate were Mrs. Potter, Lee Moerland, chairman of the finance committee of the Charlevoix county board of commissioners, Stroud and Robert Sherman representative-at-large.

Casting nay votes were Melvin Howard representing the schools, Ralph S. Hamilton representing municipalities and James Shepard, Superintendent of the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

As a result of the action, the county allocation was upped by one-half mill to 4.8 mills, the school districts received one-half mill less than last year or 9.0 mills; the townships 1.0 mill and the Char-Em Intermediate School District 0.2 mill.

The subject of establishing a permanent allocation for a period of years by a vote of the people instead of meeting every year to set the allocation of the 15 mills available by law was discussed at length.

The possibility of raising the total millage to 18 mills was discussed but it was generally agreed that this would not be acceptable to the voters.

Shepard was then asked by Howard about the school finance picture and how it looked for the future. He said that the schools, would likely be financed under the Bursley Bill presently in effect. However, in 1975 this will probably be changed to a system of local property tax plus monies from some state source which would result in less property tax and more money from such sources as State Income tax, excess profits tax or a similar source.

Moerland said that he did not like to see the schools financed by state monies but if the people don't want to raise it locally then this is the only other way to go. It would result in more state control of the schools.

Stroud presented what he felt would be an equitable allocation of millage which would include 4.6 mills to the county; 9.1 mills to schools; 1.1 mills to the township and 0.2 to the Intermediate School District. However, no formal action was taken.

At this point, Supt. Richard Kelly of Boyne Falls, Max Damoth business manager of the Twin Valley District and Supt. James A. McKimmy of the Charlevoix schools were asked if they had any comments.

Kelly said the loss of the one-half mill would likely mean cutting out a faculty

SCOTT AND THAD MORGAN receive a framed copy of the dedicatory inscription from Marlan Staley and Kim Blanchard, editor and assistant editor of the yearbook.

In Memorial

By FRAN MARTIN

"The only gift is a portion of thyself."

With this quote by the late George Bernard Shaw, the staff and students at the Charlevoix high school dedicated the yearbook, the Rayder, to the late Bruce Morgan, a teacher in the school until his untimely death earlier this year.

The dedicatory inscription which is to appear in the yearbook bears this quote and the following: We, the staff and students of C.H.S., do hereby dedicate this book to Bruce Morgan, faculty and friend. His devotion and concern for the student body whether it was a pep talk in the locker room, explaining a dissected frog, or a field trip to Wilderness State Park will be remembered by all who ever came in contact with him. He gave his all. Most of all we would like to thank Mr. Morgan for his gift of himself.

A framed copy of the dedicatory inscription was presented to two of his sons, Scott and Thad, by Marlan Staley and Kim Blanchard, editor and assistant editor of the yearbook, at the annual Honors Assembly recently.

It was a sad and poignant moment in the program as the entire student body and faculty stood when the announcement was made.

Morgan, as a teacher, coach or faculty member, had touched the lives of most of those present. A quiet, studious person, he was at his best in the classroom or on the football field where he could teach. "He was a popular teacher and though his classes were not easy ones, they were always filled with a waiting list" Vane H. Smith, high school principal, said of him. He had a way with kids. "He always had time for us". they will tell you.

To those associated with him, it was as though he had dedicated his life to teaching young people. He had a faculty for inspiring his students with his love of ecology and conservation, of the out-of-doors and wildlife and the need to preserve these things for future generations.

This and teaching others to give of themselves, one might say, is his legacy to his fellowmen.

It wasn't until Morgan was president of the Charlevoix Education Association that I became closely associated with him. In this position he brought the organization through a difficult time with the least amount of dissention possible. I came to respect his views though I often disagreed with him but he was the kind of person you could do that with. However, I never felt I knew him well for he was a private person.

Those who were closely associated with him never questioned his need for privacy and loved and admired him for what he was....a person who gave a portion of himself, a very rare gift, indeed.

Ray Wood Named Councilman

Charlevoix City Councilmen appointed Ray Wood Monday night to replace Richard Fochtman, who resigned two weeks ago because of differences with the mayor.

The local contractor will serve out the remaining unexpired Third Ward position.

Wood's appointment came during a three-hour Monday night session of council.

They also heard Developer Ralph Hess agree to replace the present city sidewalk along West Dixon.

Bay Twp. Meets This Saturday

Residents of Bay Township will meet next Saturday, June 8, at 1:30 in the Township Hall to discuss the provisions of a revised Township Zoning Ordinance.

The new ordinance, on which the Bay Township Zoning Board has been working for many months, will replace the present Interim Zoning Ordinance.

Carl Skernia, Township Supervisor, is urging all citizens to attend the meeting and join in the discussions.

Copies of the new ordinance are available at the homes of David Stolt, Mrs. William H. Ohle and Skernia, in the township.

Aids Planning

Charlevoix--From High Above

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY Planner Bill Mercer takes a look at the new maps he will have to work with in plannig for the county.

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission now has a color infra-red (CIR) photographic transparency arial map of the county for use in environmental studies.

This type of photography causes all vegetation to come out red in the picture, and the amount of chlorophyll in the green can be measured by the hue of red.

By examining the map on a light table it is possible to tell the kind of trees or type of crops on the ground.

Everything in the picture not having chlorophyll comes out in hues of blue or gray. An abundance of water comes out very blue.

A look at the blown up transparency on a light table will define high water, swamp lands, lakes, streams and rivers in such detail that dimensions of the wetlands can be determined within a few feet.

Slope areas can be seen in three dimensions. Developed areas can also be spotted–houses counted if not covered by too much foliage.

Basically the map will be used for environmental assessment of proposed projects. It will be possible to define sensitive areas that might be affected by development. Coupled with a soil map, it will give a complete environmental study.

The map was made by the Michigan Department of Highways originally to study the environmental impact of proposed new routes for Highways 31 and 131 in northwestern Michigan.

The Northwest Regional Planning Commission helped secure copies of the map for its ten county members. Besides the Planning Commission, the map will be useful to such county departments as Equalization, Health, Road and the Drain Commissioner.

The map will also be available to township zoning boards and planning commissions. Each portion of the map covers six to eight sections of land.

The Beaver Islands are the only part of Charlevoix County not covered by the map. It is hoped they can be photographed this summer.

HERE'S WHAT Charlevoix looks like in Infra-red. Can you find where you live? The map is suppose to be more accurate than the normal aerial photograph.

Charlevoix Equalization Director Asks For Parity With Emmet County Values

The State Tax Commission, at its annual meeting held May 28 in Lansing, accepted the Charlevoix County Commissioners' equalized value of $172,290,352 for the county in 1974.

At the same meeting the State Tax Commission turned down Emmet County's equalized value of $186,340,726 as presented by the county and set Emmet's equalized value at $202,942,911.

Joan Y. Blanchard, Equalization Director of Charlevoix County, spoke at the meeting on behalf of the County Commissioners and the taxpayers of Charlevoix County in connection with the Emmet County valuation.

Background information for the past three years of equalization between the two counties was presented. Mrs. Blanchard explained that Charlevoix and Emmet Counties share the same Intermediate School District and that a large portion of Melrose Township, in Charlevoix County, lies within the Petoskey school district. Because "Emmet County was not equalized fairly with Charlevoix", Mrs. Blanchard said, "Charlevoix County taxpayers have been paying more than their share".

"I am not requesting you raise Emmet County to the $202.9 million as you have done in your preliminary report. I am saying that if you seriously consider reducing them to the $186 million that the County Equalized at, which is 8.9 percent lower than your preliminary equalized figure, then you have no other alternative than to reduce Charlevoix County by the same percent of reduction in order to have good equalization between counties", she told the State Tax Commission.

To further pinpoint discrepancies in valuation between the two counties Mrs. Blanchard stated, "We did a study on Walloon Lake which is half in Charlevoix County and half in Emmet County. Emmet has some of the more exclusive property. When we did the study recently, it was for the purpose of sales information for our Melrose Township, which we are doing a complete appraisal in.

"We found the sales on Walloon Lake were averaging around $300 / foot, some higher. This informtion was obtained in Charlevoix County and Emmet County.

"From the records, Cole-Layer-Trumble Co. (who appraised Emmet County) used an average of $200 / foot on Walloon Lake, and the State Tax Commission study used between $275 and $325. The STC study seems to be in order with what we found.

"However, Commissioners, Emmet County used Cole-Layer-Trumble figures and added 7 percent for their 1974 county equalization. This means on Walloon Lake which we share, they are using about $214 foot and we are using $300 foot average."

I, Lee Moerland, chairman of the County Finance Committee, in a statement to the Courier said that there must be a leveling and equalizing of the Intermediate School District as well as the cross-country (Petoskey) school district.

"The inequities are there. Charlevoix County's valuation was made by methods established by law. If Emmet County's evaluation is made less than now established, Charlevoix County will be cheated. We should not be asked to pay the brunt of capitalization of the Intermediate School building or the operational budget."

Mr. Moerland feels that, based on growth and property values, Charlevoix County's equalized valuation should be considered ably lower than that of Emmet County.

A DEER crashed through both front windows of house belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Parcel on the west side of M-66 in Ironton. The bewildered deer apparently charged at its reflections through the large picture window. The deer broke several things inside and left blood stains on carpeting and furniture before escaping out a different window.

Charlevoix County Crime Up From A Year Ago

The State Uniform Crime Report, compiled by the Michigan State Police, shows that there were 45 more criminal offenses reported to law enforcement officers in Charlevoix County last year than in 1972.

The total offenses reported in 1973 numbered 1,707, as compared to 1,662 in 1972 and 1,128 in 1971.

The greatest jump in number of offenses reported was in breakings and enterings, up to 361 last year from 225 in 1972 and 215 in 1971.

Charlevoix County Crime would average out at 3,718 per 100,000 population, as compared to a statewide average of 4,098. Grand Traverse County's average is 3,130, Kent County's (including Grand Rapids) 2,804, and Grand Rapids' average alone 3,494.

While the figures tend to indicate that Charlevoix County has a high crime rate, it must be noted that there were no murders, no manslaughter cases, only two rape cases, and 19 violent assault cases in the county during 1973. Most of Charlevoix County's crimes are against property, not persons.

Under Sheriff James McCallum attributes the rising rate of crime in Charlevoix County to the growth in population, more transients and better roads. Almost one half of all arrests made in the county are of people from neighboring or other counties.

The sheriff cited the number of summer homes left untended for many months at a time is almost an invitation for sneak theives to enter and burglarize. The contents of these homes, especially television sets, radios, other small electrical appliances and guns, are easy for these thieves to dispose of because the owner has no definite description of them.

Over $100,000 worth of such items were stolen in Charlevoix County last year.

He said that homeowners should take the time to inventory all possessions with complete descriptions and serial numbers so that if they are stolen, law enforcement will have some means of tracking them down.

The branding of such items as televisions with social security numbers or driver's license numbers has been a real deterrent to breakings and enterings in areas where branding has been carried on in a concentrated way. There was only a fair response here to the sheriff department's offer to furnish such branding equipment earlier this year.

Juvenile crime has not increased noticeably in Charlevoix County. Last year nine percent of all arrests were of juveniles, as compared to seven percent in 1972 and nine percent in 1971.

What happend to persons arrested in Charlevoix County, Last year, 38 percent of them were convicted of the original charge, six peecent were convicted of a lesser offense, and 14 percent were acquitted or the case dismissed.

The acquittal figure is up from 10 percent in 1972 and seven percent in 1971.

Figures for the Sheriff's Department, which handles the largest number of cases in the county, show that 40 percent of persons they arrested were convicted of the original charge, seven percent were convicted of a lesser offense, and 23 percent were acquitted or dismissed.

Deductions For Adoption

WASHINGTON — U. S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) has co-sponsored legislation to permit a personal income tax deduction for expenses incurred in adopting a child.

If enacted, the legislation would help the middle or lower-income couple who otherwise might hesitate because of the cost to adopt a child.

Enactment of the bill would encourage placement of "thousands of homeless children in homes with loving families," Griffin said.

In 1972, Griffin introduced another bill to establish a National "Adoption" Information Exchange using computers in a clearing house to link prospective parents and adoptive children on a nationwide basis. The concept has been approved by the Senate, and legislation to implement it is now pending before a House-Senate conference committee.

"A tax break for adopting couples would bring us another step closer to finding homes for 100,000 children without parents who now live in institutions and Foster homes," Griffin said.

According to the Michigan Republican, adoption expenses commonly range between $800 and $1,000.

Charlevoix Residents Should Approve Levy

Charlevoix School District residents face a serious question when they head for the polls on June 10.

At the election booth, they will be asked to approve 6.5 mills of renewal levies for three years.

We feel a yes vote on the issue is imperative.

The Charlevoix Board of Education has demonstrated to us that they are not asking for anything, but the required amount of funds to keep the district operating at its present level.

Although it is true that Charlevoix County has experienced an increase in property valuation, the district is faced with not receiving any state assistance.

In a time when taxes are rising, it would be easy to vote against the millage. We hope this will not happen in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix is counted among the most desirable communities in which to live in the nation.

We will not retain this enviable position if we stand still. We expect much of children, and rightly so.

If we expect a great from our students we also owe them a great deal of support. The time to demonstrate this support is June 10. A yes vote on the millage proposal would show community support.

Voters Have Good Slate To Select

Charlevoix residents should consider themselves very fortunate to have such a fine list of candidates to select from for school board members on June 10.

However, from this list, we feel there are several candidates that would be most outstanding if elected to the Charlevoix Board of Education.

In the race for the two-year term position, we think Mrs. Jane Lieberman should be retained on the board.

She has recently faced some difficult decisions and has held fast to position once it has been established.

Having served as president of the board, we think she has done an excellent job.

In the contest for the two-four-year positions, it is our feeling that John Lachman, Bill Wilson or Mrs. Ardeth Wieland would do an excellent job.

Lachman, who has served on many community boards, has the managerial background needed to help direct a school district.

His recent involvement on the citizen's study committee also makes him aware of the problems now confronting Charlevoix School District.

Equally involved with the community has been Bill Wilson, who by the nature of his occupation deals with both the general public and educators on a daily basis.

With his extensive education background, we feel he could also add a great deal of insight into curriculum development.

And finally, Mrs. Wieland, as a former teacher, is well aware of many educational needs.

Active in the Farm Bureau, we think she would be able to particularly represent the rural membership of the school district.

You Shouldn't Gripe Unless You Run Too

Those who don't participate in county government have no right to criticize it.

One way we feel citizens can participate in Charlevoix County government is to run for a county commission seat and represent the district they live in.

Because a Board of County Commissioners has the power to determine how much money will be spent by the county, this is an important position.

Candidates for county commission must be 18-years-old and a resident and registered voter of the county in which he or she runs for office.

In order to appear on the November ballot, a person must be nominated by a political party.

Because of the large number of votes received by the Democratic and Republican parties in past elections, individuals who seek nomination from either of these parties must compete in the primary election in August.

The deadline for filing petitions for the August 6 primary is June 18.

We would like to see as many people as possible become involved to ensure Charlevoix County residents an adequate chance to have good representation.

Letters to the editor

Hail To The Chief

The place and time is familiar to most Michigan people and by now perhaps to most good Americans everywhere even many foreign news reporters who came to the thumb area to see our great president Nixon meeting with people while campaigning for congressman Sparling of eighth district (Thumb area).

It was a heart warming event indeed. This was my third attempt to meet Mr. Presidnet in person, but the first successful one. Not only did I see the president, I also shook his warm hand and a smile on his face made him look greater than I have ever seen him before.

That he is the champion of this Republic and defender of the truth left no doubt in anyone's mind who see him as he is, not as the unfoire, news media would like to make him look. Why?

Because news media has misused their freedom, and slander those they don't like such as our wonderful noble President Richard M. Nixon.

Out of some 378 state national and international news correspondents, there was only a handful of clean faced men like the President and his staff.

The great majority of news media representatives especially of T.V. company seem to want to disguise themselves under Castro type beards. That is all right for some people.

If American people have to go to the spot where the news is made then we shall do that. We like to hear the true news about our Commander and Chief.

My TV was put away since Watergate or shortly after Mr. Lyndon B. Johnson passed away.

My radio is silent most of the time and our wood furnace is big enough and hungry to gobble anything that Jack Anderson can muster into his "free" press.

Yes, all of our ex-presidents are gone and dead. None left to back up our chief in his struggle to preserve the presidenct and the American way of life.

But he is not alone. The little people, better known as the silent majority will speak out again louder than we did in '72. Not only do we want a 100 percent congress and senate that will cooperate and senate that will cooperate with the president, we must also get rid of the two faced so-called Republicans, who choose to stay an arms length from our President in his darkest hours.

Our nation calls for help.

To all you people this reminder: If you don't help fight the wolves, you may be the next victim.

By FRANK DVORINK

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

You know those little chips colored paint that they hand out at the hardware store to help you decide on a new color for your kitchen or parlor? They've been around for ages and I remember collecting cards of them when I was a kid – just for something to collect.

Now, in my middle years, I've discovered they can't be trusted.

Oh, nine tmes out of ten, the color you select will be identical to the color you get, with minor variations due to the size of the area to be painted and whether the paint is seen by daylight or artificial light.

But that tenth time can be a painful experience. Let me tell you what happened to our bedroom.

If you've been following this corner, you know that the Clocks are in the process of redecorating 15 rooms prior to leaving for Beaver Island in mid-June.

Since I am doing my share of the work, I would have liked to have had some say in picking out the colors for the various rooms. But Judy would have none of it. She insists I am colorblind and has forced me to take little tests in the encyclopedia which prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the rods and cones in my poor eyes cannot differentiate between various shades of green and blue. Hence my judgement has been declared null and void when it comes to picking out colors.

However I ventured an opinion that I would prefer a light shade of gold in one suite of upstairs bedrooms and a hall. It's not that I'm all that nutty about having all my rooms the same color, but I do object to having bits and daps of various colored paints left over. I figured we might be able to save a few bucks if we stuck to one color.

To my surprise, Judy concurred, not only to my choice of color but also to having all three rooms the same – gold walls and chalk white ceilings.

When the day came to start painting, she was even there to help paint the edges while I rolled the walls. The effect was dazzling, but it was soon apparent that the back bedroom – which was a light peach – and the hall – which was nondescript grey (it might have been green or blue?) – did not cover too well with one coat. By the time we had applied two coats, all my beautiful gold paint was gone and our charcoal blue front bedroom hadn't been touched.

"Rather than fight the two-coat business again," Judy suggested, "why don't we paint our bedroom another shade of blue?"

So I hurried down to the hardware store and picked up all the blue paint chip cards on display. It took us about an hour to decide on a "Periwinkle Blue" but Judy said she would have them "tone it down" a little when they mixed in the color. She was alarmed because even I could tell it was a rather startling blue.

That very afternoon Judy started on the edges while I labored to prepare a nearby room for a fresh coat of varnish. I heard a little gasp when she pried the lid off the can, but I couldn't tell whether it was from dismay or delight. And I didn't dare ask. After everything was quiet for a few minutes, I decided to have a look.

Judy was carefully working around the doors and wash basin with a sash brush, applying one of the most ghastly paints I have ever seen with my colorblind eyes. It's blue, to be sure. But it also has strong overtones of lavender, purple and red.

"Did you cut yourself?" I asked solicitously. "I think you have some blood in the paint."

"What do you think of it?" she said bleakly.

"Well, it looks like paint," I answered. I couldn't do any better.

"It isn't as blue as it might have been," Judy said defensively. "I had them put in just half as much blue as the formula called for."

"It looks like a bruise," I said lamely. I was trying to be nice.

As the afternoon progressed and the paint was applied to the walls, the full horror of our blunder became apparent. But there was no turning back. Judy applied a second coat the next day, hoping for a miracle – but it didn't happen.

Actually, by daylight, the room appears to be pappered with purple velvet. It's the artificial light at night that gives the room the appearance of a Parisian brothel.

Before we leave, Judy and I are planning to have some friends over to review the results of our labors – sort of a house tour.

"But before we let anyone in here," I told Judy, "we should have someone at the door passing out pills."

"Excedrin?" she asked.

"No, Enovid," I answered.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Jenny, Uncle Charlie's mule, generally observed her masters various work projects through eyes half closed in utter boredom and at times became totally blind to his hairbrained ventures by shutting them completely and snoozing blissfully in the traces, immobile as a Remington painting. Uncle charlie's improvised explosive lullaby fell on dormant ears until the work schedule was revamped more in her favor or abandoned entirely for some less strenuous task.

Though she despised labor in any form Jenny volunteered her services on Sunday. Being of no professed denomination, Jenny was free to worship any day which frowned on toil and marked these occasions by amending her normal contrary behavior of Charlie who knew absolutely nothing about mules and less about the fair sex.

Jenny treated Aunt Esther not only with the respect due her mistress but with special deference due to a lifelong affliction which made walking difficult for her. Aunt Esther wore an iron shoe, eight inches high, on her left foot to compensate for a birth defect.

On Sunday Jenny would be waiting at the buggy and back up of her own accord to be hitched for the drive to church two miles distant. She would considerately avoid rocks, ruts and potholes providing a novel experience for Uncle Charlie who was accustomed to a far rougher passage while riding alone on more worldly errands.

Like any properly attired churchgoer of her sex Jenny wore her best hat; a fetching bonnet with three bright red cherries bobbing gaily between her ears which protruded through twin slits. Even more affluent ladies could not infringe on Jenny's vanity for her taste in finery was impossible to duplicate. She wore it cocked saucily over her left eye, adding that chick touch which turned the heads of both mules and humans.

Unhitched at church Jenny would daintily pick her way, past tethered horses whose company she disdained, to a shady elm where there was grass to nibble. At the first organ note Jenny would glare the other four-footed listeners into silence for it was no ordinary organist working the pedals and manipulating the stops. The delicate fingers, drifting over the keys, which transformed that rural house of worship into a lofty cathedral were those of Aunt Esther.

Like some in the congregation, Jenny dozed through the sermon. As a martyr in a cruel world governed by its countless Uncle Charleys, she righteously felt that the unseen speaker beyond the open window had deserving candidates within view who could better benefit from a lecture on brotherly love.

Dusk reluctantly wrote finale to the day of leisure. In the hushed stillness which precedes the raising of the curtain the stage was set in one tarpaper hovel in Upper Michigan. The cast was a frail woman with an iron shoe and a rawboned farmer with work-hardened hands. The haunting notes of the organ accompanied by the mellow notes drawn from a Sears Roebuck violin by stubby fingers never achieved fame beyond the reaches of this meager homestead; the performers never applauded for an encore or curtain call.

Yet; a true lover of music, unbiased by prejudice or egotistical prestige, gave the performance the stamp of approval.

Priest Wears Wrong Garments

By JIM FITZGERALD

It is splendid that President Nixon has his own private priest to part the red sea of acrimony which is floating the desks in the Oval Office.

The Rev. John McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest, is also a full-time presidential aide with an office in the White House. This has not been a good season for presidential aides, what with indictments and jail terms and forced resignations. It was clever of Nixon to bring in a man of God to restore some diginity and credability to the presidential team. Father McLaughlin is obviously doing a good job, even if he was a 3rd choice behind Norman Vincent Peale and Danny Thomas.

But I think Father McLaughlin is making a mistake by never wearing his Roman collar when he appears on TV in a Nixon commercial. He dresses the same as every other sincere spokesman, with a striped tie and conservative suit. He might as well be giving one of those aspirin lectures.

If I were writing the McLaughlin scenario, I would dress him something like St. Francis of Assissi. The long, horsehair cassock with rope belt would underscore the absence of vicuna coats in the Nixon administration. The long staff would be fine for shepherding newsmen and keeping Dan Rather from testing the authenticity of the halo. And the pigeons of peace, one on each shoulder, would speak for themselves. If need be, they could speak for themselves all over the newsmen.

Can't you just see it now on the White House lawn? Wow. Dressed like that, Father McLaughlin could sell a used car while Nixon was still fiddling with the odometer.

I'm all for Father McLaughlin and his political parish. I have to be. Remember a few years ago when many clergymen were participating in civil rights and anti-war demonstrations? A complaint often heard was that they should stay in their pulpits and preach the Gospel, rather than picket the Pentagon and help Martin Luther King to overcome. But I disagreed. The ministers should minister to the people who really need it, I always said. They should go into the streets and help the oppressed and protest injustice and march against an immoral war. To me, this was more important than showing up at 10 a.m. every Sunday to read a few verses and tell everyone coffee will be served in the fellowship hall following services.

So I can't back down now. Obviously, President Nixon feels he is the victim of a terrible injustice. Just as obviously, Father McLaughlin agrees with him. So no one should insist he act like a regular Jesuit, and get a job teaching theology and coaching basketball at St. Alfonse High School.

Father McLaughlin feels he is needed in the White House to help the American people to understand swearing is wrong for little kids but healthy for Presidents. And obstructing justice is a crime for your Uncle Harry but a patriotic duty for statesmen with law degrees.

So be it. I might be tempted to join the cynics in wondering when Father McLaughlin confessions. But that would be wrong.

In a separate story, the Charlevoix Courier has brought to its readers this week the answers to a series of questions put to the seven candidates for the Charlevoix Board of education.

Seeking election to the two vacancies for the four year terms on the board are Mrs. Thomas (Ardeth) Wieland, William F. Wilson, John Lachman and Claire C. Martin.

Candidates for the one two-year term are Kenneth J. Boss, Mrs. Edward (Rosemary) Corradi and Mrs. Robert G. (M. Jane) Lieberman.

Personal information about each of the candidates are included in the brief thumbnail sketches that follow:

Mrs. Thomas (Ardeth) Wieland, the former Ardeth Howe, is a native of Boyne City and a graduate of the Boyne City high school. She is a 1949 graduate of Michigan State University and taught for five years in elementary, junior high and high school levels in Indian River before marrying Mr. Wieland, a dairy farmer. She has also had teaching experience in Petoskey, East Jordan and Charlevoix in the past 10 years.

She has had experience in P.T.A. and other school related organizations for adults and young people. She was chairman of the High School Study Committee during the past school year. past school year.

She also has been active in Farm Bureau on the county, district and state levels.

She has four children, three daughters and a son.

Kenneth J. Boss is a native of Charlevoix and a 1955 graduate of the Charlevoix high school. He is presently manager of Puff's Appliance Petoskey store. He has enrolled in business management seminars at the University of Utah, American University in Washington, D.C., and the University of Notre Dame. He added that he had attended school board meetings in recent months in an effort to broaden his knowledge of the operation of the school system.

He is married to the former Myrna Veenstra and, in September, will have a child in each of the three schools.

John Lachman is plant manager of Hoskins Manufacturing Co., Charlevoix operations since February 1962 and has been with the company for 14 years.

He was assistant metallurgist and production foreman for the Dana Corp., for 6½ years and metallurgist engineer in applied Materials Research, Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion Dept., General Electric Co. for four years prior to joining Hoskins Manufacturing Co.

A native of Pottstown, Pa., he graduated from the public schools there and attended Temple University Evening School of Metallurgy for two years and evening school in the same field at the University of Cincinnati. He also is a veteran of 6½ years in the U.S. Marine Corps.

He has had numerous papers published in his chosen field and has lectured on the subject at various universities.

He served as finance chairman for the Scenic Chest board B.S.A., for three years; with the Charlevoix Community Chest board for five years including five as president and chairman of the Facilities Sub-committee of the Citizens Advisory Committee.

He is married and has three children, two of whom have graduated from the Charevoix schools and a third who will be in the seventh grade in September.

Mrs. Edward (Rosemary) Corradi is presently associated with North Central Michigan College as a nursing clincial instructor in the School of Nursing.

A native of the Detroit area,

The voters of the Charlevoix School District will go to the polls Monday to vote on a 6.5 mill issue for operational purposes and to elect three trustees to the Charlevoix Board of education.

That voters may become better acquainted with the candidates, the Charlevoix Courier addressed a series of five questions to the six candidates that the publication felt were pertinent, timely and of interest to you, the voters, who will be making the choices.

The questions are: 1. What do you think the strong qualities of the Charlevoix School System are? 2. What do you feel are the needs for improvement in the school system? 3. Would you support increases in the budget to meet your ideas? 4. Do you feel that you can collect information through the various ways open to you and make decisions in the face of public pressure? 5. How do you feel about collective bargaining involving school employees? 6. What involvement have you had in school affairs up to this time? (this question will be answered in a separate story).

Mrs. Thomas (Ardeth) Wieland said in her answers that she feels the education being provided in the K-4 program is of a quality that we should strive for in the entire system; that the increased attention to the vocational needs of students is a definite asset to the program and that some program areas such as the music field have excelled through the years.

As to the needs for improvement, Mrs. Wieland feels that the most obvious needs are those related to more classroom facilities, additional teaching equipment and changes in courses or teaching methods, continuous counseling, not only in relation to course selection but also personal problems that influence school behavior and achievement and the need to upgrade goals by all who are a part of the school picture so that respect is earned and shown by students, faculty and community members.

Regarding the increase in the budget to meet her ideas, she said "I think the opinions of the taxpayers must be considered in determining the choice of what monies are to be spent for. We all have to live with the choice that is made and the community has the responsibility to be well informed on school issues. I'm sure we all want the same thing for our young people....the best possible education that we can afford."

Mrs. Wieland's reply to the question relating to gathering information and making decisions in the face of public pressure was an emphatic "Yes." I think good communications among students, teachers, administrators, board members and the residents of the district is very important. Public pressure from well informed citizens is not necessarily wrong."

Relating to collective bargaining, she said that since the law allows school employees bargaining right just as other areas of our society there is no choice but that it will be. It certainly places the responsibility of honest, fair requests or allowances squarely on the shoulders of those doing the negotiating. She added that there is only so much money available to be used and it has to serve the total school picture.

Kenneth J. Boss feels that the local schools have had a well-rounded program and is hopeful that it can be continued. The fact that the school is accredited is a strong quality in itself. New subjects are being added so students are prepared to enter a college of their choice.

As for improvements, he feels that discipline, especially in the Middle School, is his main concern for if discipline is not started on this level, it becomes a far greater problem later on. Another area that could be improved is communication among the administration, teachers and the public.

Mr. Boss is not in favor of increases in the budget, especially at this time when property valuations have increased so rapidly and as a result property taxes have increased at a very fast pace. He added that he would not be in favor of increases at this time to finance any ideas he might have.

He feels he could dig up information and find answers to problems that could arise. "My attitude is positive," he wrote, "or I would not be a candidate for the board."

As for collective bargaining today, it isn't anything we have any control over. I feel it was brought about because school boards were not always completely fair with the teachers thus causing them to form a union. I think the board needs to stand firm on issues they believe in and not give everything away.

Mrs. Edward (Rosemary) Corradi feels that an interested community, dedicated teachers and a potential for growth are among the strong qualities of the system. She said she didn't have a complete knowledge of the system and this is part of her reason for being a candidate.

She lists as the major problem overcrowding and the greatest need as additional facilities for learning. "I favor the findings of the study group that recommended a new high school and the use of the present high school as a Middle School," she said.

Mrs. Corradi said "Yes, I would like to see school

Wrecked For Christ

Going, going, going, would seem to be a good description of the Community Church of God parsonage located at 204 W. Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, built in the 1920's during the ministry of Reverend William Eldredge.

Growing, growing, growing is the best word to explain why the parsonage is being demolished. Reverend Seibert, pastor of Community Church of God, says the parsonage has been "Wrecked for Christ!" "More and more people are turning to Christ today," says Reverend Seibert, "and we must make room for them."

He explains that the present church building which stand's next door to the parsonage can only be expanded into the area now occupied by the parsonage. The new sanctuary will accommodate approximately 350 persons. Numerous additional classrooms will also be provided.

Reverend Seibert describes Community Church as a non-denominational fellowship of God's people; a fellowship of men and women who have been truly converted from sin, having experienced the forgiving and regenerating love of God in Christ.

Reverend Seibert says it is a fellowship of people whose lives are dominated by the Holy Spirit, and who, by virtue of their relationship with Christ, are brothers to every other Christian.

"Salvation from sin is the means," says Reverend Seibert, "and Jesus Christ is the door by which men are brought into the family, or the Church of God.

Membership at Community Church of God is therefore by virtue of what the Bible calls a 'spiritual birth'."

"At Community Church of God no other loyalty or allegiance, no other membership, is needed.

In the heart of the Father above," says the pastor, "are kept the records of those who by confession, repentance, faith, and surrender have experienced a new birth, new life, and new relationships."

Rayders Weak At Finals

The Charlevoix Rayder track and field team picked up a total of 18 points in the State meet at Mt. Pleasant Saturday according to Coach Gary Stutzman.

Mike Streeter placed third in the long jump; Kevin Martin fifth in the 220 yd. run; the 440 yd. relay team (Jerry Skippergosh, Joe Kaufman, Streeter, Martin) tied for sixth in this event and the 880 yd. relay team (Randy Faust, Kaufman, Streeter, Martin) tied for tenth with several schools. The 440 relay team set a new school record with a time of 44.7.

Stutzman said Streeter set a new school record of 10.05 in the qualifying heat for the 100 yd. dash but failed to qualify for the event behind two others with times of 10.0 and 10.03. The winning time in the finals was 10.4.

Others who participated were Chuck Faust in the 880 yd. run, Jim Sundberg in the mile and the mile relay team (Gary Novotny, Sundberg, Ed Russell, Chuck Faust)

Topside Defeats American Mold

Mark Lieberman's two home runs carried Topside to a 11-3 victory over American Mold in men's softball action last week. Both teams were undefeated prior to the game.

Lieberman's first home run came with a man on in the second inning and broke a scoreless battle. The slim 2-0 Topside lead lasted until the fourth when Tim Carey blasted a solo home run make the score 3-0.

American Mold came back with two runs in their half of the fourth. Ed Holmes hit a bases loaded single to score both runs. American Mold had a chance for another run, but Al Currey's strong throw from deep right field helped to stifle the rally.

Fine defensive play kept both teams in the game, but American Mold's defense finally let them down in the fifth. Topside took advantage of the momentary lapse and blew the game open.

Curt Currey led off the fifth with a single. Al Currey then got on when American made their first error. Spook Coleman loaded the bases with no outs when he reached first on another American Mold error.

Terry Blissett then stroked a two run single, putting runners on first and third with nobody out. Bernie DeVries sacrificed fly scored Coleman. After Tim Carey flied out, Lieberman capped the five run inning with his second home run of the night, a two run shot.

The fifth ended with Topside holding a commanding 8-3 lead, and the game was virtually over.

Lieberman's two home runs gave him five for the last two games and definitely establishes him as one of the leading power hitters in the league this year.

Topside has established itself as the early favorites for the league title, but there will be some strong competition from American Mold, Coast Guard, the Shed as well as a couple of cinderella teams.

School Board

financial aid increased in some manner" to the question relating to budget increased to support her ideas.

She also said 'yes' to the question relating to gathering of information. Previous professional experiences and my present employment (on the faculty at North Central Michigan College) should help in collecting of data and to reach the most equitable decisions.

As for collective bargaining, she feels that school employees have the same rights as any labor group to engage in collective bargaining. Professional groups also have the right to economic security from collective bargaining.

Mrs. Robert G. (M. Jane) Lieberman, who is seeking re-election to the board after serving a four-year term, feels that the Charlevoix schools are providing a good educational program both in the areas of academic and vocational training. She went on to say that probably one of the strongest assets is the athletic department which now has more participants than any other school in the league.

Charlevoix needs to up-date its curriculumn in the areas of foreign languages and counseling. She also would like to see a greater emphasis placed on vocal music.

Would she support increases in the budget to meet her ideas? The items she mentioned, she said, would have to fit into the budget in order to become a reality.

As for collecting information and making decisions, her answer was a definite "yes". Public pressure can become a strong force but after all the facts have been gathered decisions must be made based on those facts.

Collective bargaining has come on the scene in school affairs but I would prefer the previous method of merit raises for deserving personnel she said.

William F. Wilson said he believes the Charlevoix school system offers a quality education. Having been familiar with several other school systems, I am most impressed with the enrichment programs in our school system, including such things as art, music, debate, physical education and many more. This kind of activity certainly contributes to developing the individual person. It would also seem that we have a very good basis education which is essential to meeting the challenges of the 20th century.

In looking over the enrollment projections for the next five to 15 years, it is apparent that somewhere along the line additional classrooms will be required. Consequently, I believe it is important that consideration be given to making plans for providing additional facilities, Wilson said. At the present time I have no comment regarding changes in basic education programs or philosophies because I am neither a professional educator nor presently familiar with present trends in education.

Wilson went on to say that he would support an increase in the budget for additional fcilities. Paying more taxes is never a pleasant proposition but a good education is one of the few things that we can give our children that cannot be taken from them. Money spent to improve education, I think, is well placed, he added.

As fr gathering information and making decisions, I believe I have adequate sources of viewpoint and many kinds of contacts in our community. Moreover, I think it is apparent that I can make decisions that may not be welcomed by everyone.

I am sure that it makes no difference how I feel about collective bargaining, it's a fact of life in our present educational system. To dislike, it would be wholly unproductive which does not mean that, conversely, one does have to like it. Furthermore, it is important that we recognize the situation and try to work productively with it, Wilson said in conclusion.

In his replies, John Lachman said:

An attempt to answer this question be prefaced formation available to me is generally limited to the experience of educating my children in the system over a 12 year period. During this time I believe there has been a gradual but continuing improvement in the quality and scope of the education being provided by the system. The new elementary school is noteworthy in this respect. I also feel that the various people on the board of education and the school administrative staffs who served in this period have done this at reasonable cost, despite the negative effect of sharply increased budget requirements resulting from inflation.

In my opinion, facilities requirements is one of the most important and pressing problems at hand. As Chairman of the Facilities Sub-Committee, Citizen's Advisory Committee, I was very close to the work that lead to the recent recommendations on facilities. The recommendation appears to be the best option available to provide high quality facilities that will be adequate long range to take care of the anticipated increase in students on a sound economic basis.

A second subject of primary importace is that of scheduling. The conclusions were that a 45 days on - 15 days off year around schedule has many advantages, definitely more factors on the plus side than on the minus side. One very important advantage is that it allows more efficient use of school facilities and stretches the tax payers dollars. I believe it should be implemented on a trial basis with existing facilities. If results prove out the advantages, it should then become permanent, regardless of whether or not new school facilities are approved.

A third matter of equal importance is that concerning educational concepts. These are changing rapidly to meet the needs of today's young people, in the U.S. and other developed nations in terms of curriculum, instructional methods, etc. We are already doing this in our fine elementary school. The next task, a formidable one, is to carry these new ideas over into the middle and high schools. These changes are bound to result in conflict, dissention, and even polarization among teachers, parents, and school officials. To keep this at a minimum and avoid a really serious situation the changes must be gradual, well planned and always accompanied by a good public relations program.

Certainly new facilities will require additional millage, if voter approval is forthcoming. Since I've already stated an affirmative view on the Citizen's Advisory Committee facilities recommendation, it follows that I would be in favor of the funding requirements.

The proposed change in scheduling to a 45-15 system will not require a budget increase. In fact, it should result in overall savings through more efficient use of old or new facilities.

The third idea concerning educational concepts is, in some respects, closely tied in with improved facilities. To this degree additional money would be necessary. Other than that I do not believe budget increases are a factor in this matter. From the limited information now available to me I do not believe it is costing more to educate children in the new elementary school than it dd in the old one, not considering the factor of inflation.

The question of decision making, to my way of thinking, starts with collecting all the available information and then totaling the plus and minus factors of the options available. Based on this process a decision can be made that, in my judgement, will be in the best interests of the majority of the people. I don't expect that 100 percent satisfaction will be possible.

Certainly it would have been better in the beginning to have avoided collective bargaining involving school employees. Apparently, however, the employees could not obtain adequate compensation in salaries, fringe benefits, and working conditions without resorting to organization.

The important thing is to first realize that collective bargaining with school employees is a fact of life and will be for the foreseeable future. The second thing is a realization that funds available for school costs, at least now, are a matter of voter approval based on the property millage system. With these things in mind it is then the responsibility of both sides to conduct the bargaining in a business like manner with the aim being a fair settlement for all involved, especially the taxpayers who are absorbing the costs.

To this point in time my only direct involvement with school affairs has been to serve as Chairman of the Facilities of the Citizens' Advisory Group.

Claire C. Martin did not respond to the questionnaire.

Voters Decide Monday

Voters of the Charlevoix school district will go to the polls Monday to vote on a 6.5 mill renewal for operational purposes and to elect three members to the Charlevoix board of education.

The school district is asking the 6.5 mill renewal to replace the same amount of millage which expired in December 1973.

In requesting the 6.5 mills, Supt. James A. McKimmy, speaking in behalf of the board of education, explained that the Charlevoix school district will receive only $27,380 over the amount received last year to meet the increasing expenses for the forthcoming school year if the millage issue is approved by the voters.

When the Charlevoix county Tax Allocation Board voted Monday to reduce the allocated millage to the schools in the county by one-half mill, it resulted in the loss of $34,250 to the Charlevoix schools. This loss plus the loss of $107,000 in State Aid as the result of the district's increased State Equalized Valuation will reduce the benefit of the 11.9 percent increase in property values to $27,380.

If the 6.5 mills is renewed, the school district must depend on this amount, $27,380, to meet the rising cost of utilities, services and wages. As it is, this will require the reductions in some areas of expenditures to maintain the present program for 1974-75.

McKimmy went on to explain that the 6.5 mills will raise a total of $445,250 toward the operating expenses of the school which because of the loss of State Aid, is completely dependent on local sources of revenue.

The amount of the 6.5 mills will raise, $445,250, represents 26.1 percent of the total budget for the coming year. Failure of the millage on Monday will necessitate reducing programs and expenditures by more than one-fourth of the present operations, McKimmy continued.

The board of education, he added, has requested the renewal of the 6.5 mills to guarantee continuation of the present program. In urging approval of the 6.5 mill renewal, McKimmy explained that Senior Citizens on fixed incomes may now support schools without increase in taxation. This is possible through a tax relief program which establishes a fixed maximum property tax to be paid by persons over 65 years of age.

A schedule depending on the senior citizen's income will result in rebates that range from 100 percent rebate for persons receiving incomes of less than $3,000 to a rebate of 100 percent less 3.5 percent of the income for those receiving more than $6,000. Under this provision, the senior citizen pays the taxes and then applies for the rebate from the state.

Senior citizens are asked to keep this in mind when they go to the polls on Monday.

The polls located in the lobby of the high school gymnasium will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday.

why Charlevoix High School Athletic Director Dale Burge presented him Sunday with a special plaque in behalf of the high school administration and athletic department.

But, according to those who have worked closely with Randy the last few years, the special presentation symbolized more than his triumph over great adversity.

As one school official put it, Randy is worth a million dollars because he has qualities very few people have.

He's the kind of person who took time to encourage others to stick it out and be a part of the team.

Like his football coach, Randy took many of his youngster classmates under his wing and gave them the attention and understanding that had helped him achieve success.

It was something like the sports he played—he put everything he had into it.

Name New Principal

Ralph W. Raymer, presently associated with Olivet College as Director of Placement and Development and Acting Director of education, supervision and evaluation of student teachers, has been offered a contract as Elementary School Principal to succeed Glenn B. Snider who is retiring after 19 years in the position and 27 years in the Charlevoix school system.

The contract for one year was offered as the result of action taken by the Charlevoix board of education at a special meeting held Monday.

Under the terms of the contract, the salary will be negotiated at a later date and he will not receive tenure. He will assume the position in August for a 44-week period.

Mr. Raymer, a native of southern Michigan, is a graduate of Michigan State University with a B.S. degree in Fisheries and Education and an M.A. degree from Western Michigan University in Science and Math Education and is a candidate for Ph.D., M.S.U., in Teacher Preparation.

In his present position he also is involved in curriculum development for elementary teachers leading to state teaching certification.

Prior to joining Olivet college, he was at Glen Oaks Community College, Western Michigan University, Battle Creek Springfield Junior-Senior high school for six years and Battle Creek Lakeview Junior high school.

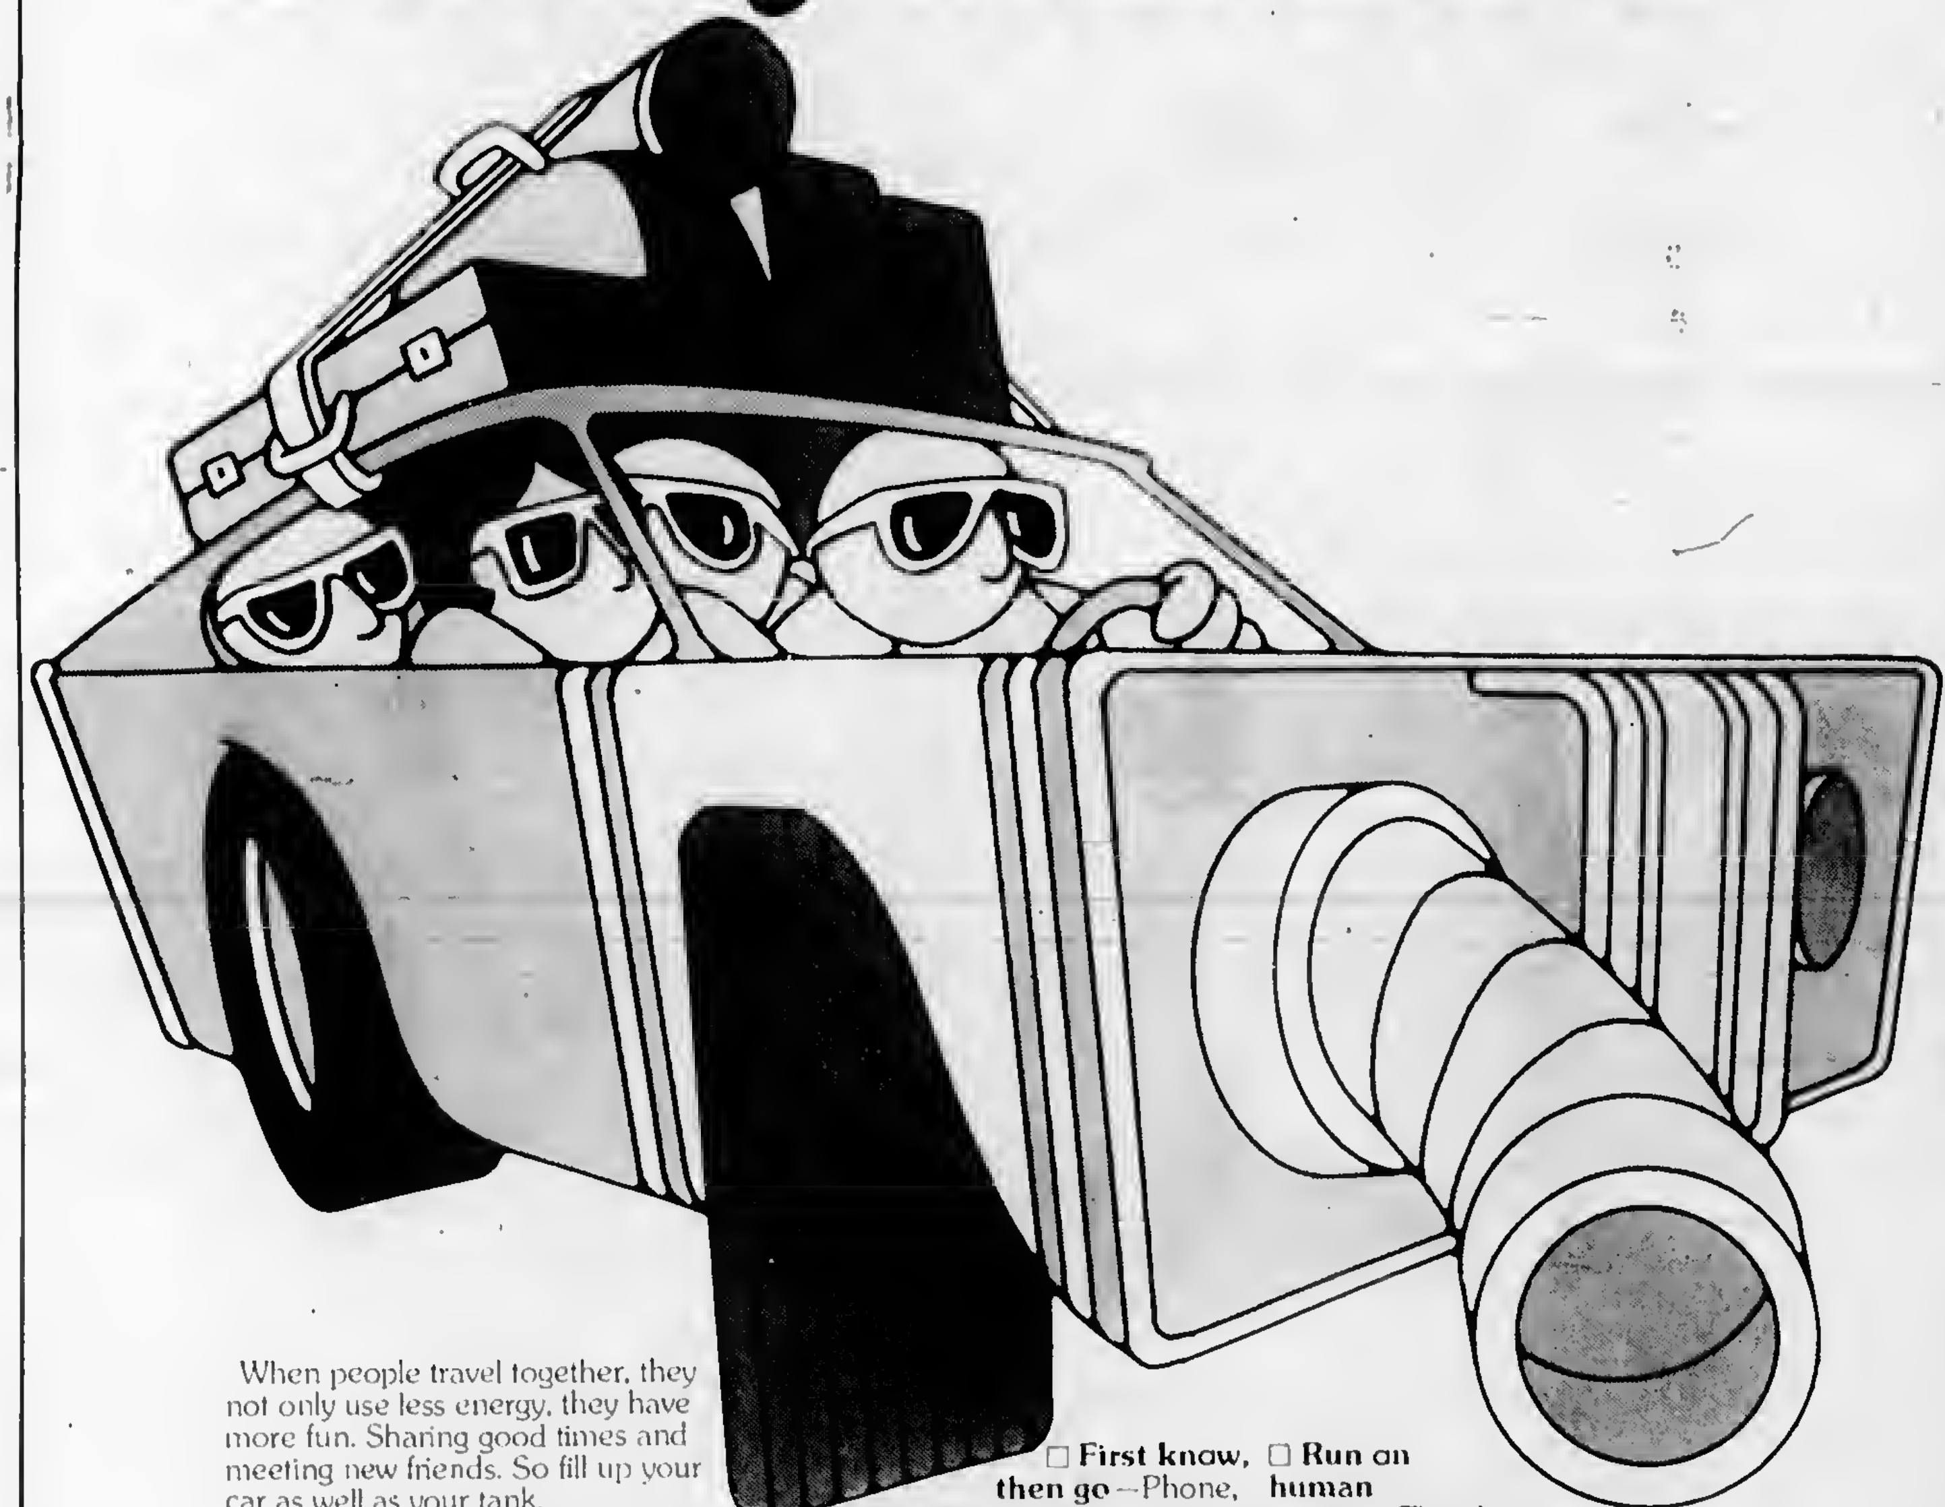
member or on programs; Damoth said it would mean using a half mill from the voted millage to compensate for the loss and McKimmy asked if any comment would change the vote, and said "No comment" when he was told it would not.

The Tax Allocation board will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, June 21, to discuss the fixed allocation proposal and to prepare a recommendation to the board of commissioners.



Pool your fuel.

When people travel together, they not only use less energy, they have more fun. Sharing good times and meeting new friends. So fill up your car as well as your tank.

Then call the Michigan Tourist Council. They'll suggest the best routes to take across the smooth, toll-free highways of Michigan. And keeping it at a steady 55 m.p.h. saves even more gasoline.

If you have more family and friends than car space, investigate public transportation. Hundreds of big, comfortable buses travel throughout Michigan. You can sit back and leave the driving to someone else. Enjoy the beautiful Michigan countryside without worrying about gallons of gasoline. And if you go by bus, the Michigan Tourist Council can put you in touch with the right lines. So pool your fuel and pool your pleasure, vacation in Michigan.

Energy-Saving Tips for Michigan Vacationers:

☐ Enjoy the fun close to home — Finding fun on one tankful is the smartest way to go.

☐ First know, then go — Phone, visit or write to the Michigan Tourist Council.

☐ Play it safe — Figure out how many gallons you'll need for the miles you want to drive.

☐ Unplug at home — Shut off all unnecessary appliances and lower the thermostat before you go.

☐ Tune-up to keep your tank filled up — Clean air filters, correct tire pressure and radials improve gas mileage, too!

☐ Pool your fuel — Travel with family and friends in private cars or on public buses.

☐ Hurry less, worry less — Accelerate smoothly and keep the speedometer at a steady 55 miles per hour.

☐ Pick a spot and set a spell — Choose a place with more of what you want. Then stay there and stay longer. One or two extended vacations consume less gas than five or six short ones.

☐ Run on human energy — There's more fun naturally in Michigan. Walking, bicycling and hiking is the way to go.

For more information, write to the Michigan Tourist Council, 300 South Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48926. We'll be glad to send you free energy-saving vacation information.

Big Rock Nuclear Plant Begins Another Season

It once was the meeting place for Indians on their way back from the feast of the dead held near the Muskegon River.

On the way back to their summer resort at Arbor Croche (Cross Village) to plant corn and vegetables, the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians would stop at "KitcheOssining."

KitcheOssining or the big rock was the crossroad of Little Traverse Bay, where all the Indians waited until canoes arrived and waited until everyone could start together to cross the bay.

Then about half-way across the bay, the Indians would salute Arbor Croche by shooting guns, holding them close to the water in order that the sound might reach the side of the bay.

Many years have past since the days of KitcheOssining, but part of the "Big Rock" area remains forested like it was when the Indians used the area as a meeting point.

But now to the modern day traveler, Big Rock means the home of a nuclear power plant and information center that they can visit.

However even more than a tourist center, the plant means large chunk of Hayes Township's yearly income.

In fact, this year it is estimated that Consumer Power Company's nuclear power plant will contribute $259,849 in both real and personal property taxes.

This is an addition to the undisclosed amount of salaries the company's 55 employees spend in the Charlevoix area.

Nuclear power has not been a popular term in recent years, but despite what critics say about the source of energy, Big Rock has had a definite impact on Charlevoix.

Before the Jackson-based firm occupied the 600-acre site, the tax income from that property was slightly less than $300.

But in addition to the direct tax benefit, Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has brought more than 800,000 visitors since it first became operational in 1962.

It had also received world recognition for having the longest continuing run.

However at the same, the reactor located within the large metal sphere located three miles outside of Charlevoix has brought a multitude of public criticism.

However, despite this sharp scrutiny from both government and public officials, company officials claim no one has found any adverse affects caused by the plant's presence.

Consumer Power Company's Information Specialist Bill Wilson at Big Rock says much of the ciritcism has come from what her terms a "vocal minority," most of it not coming from local sources.

"It's always been a reaction," he said about Charlevoix's reaction to Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant being located on its doorstep.

Charlevoix's Mayor Ed Hansen agrees with Wilson.

A life-long resident of Charlevoix, Hansen was the city's civil defense director at the time of plant construction.

"There were people apprehensive about it," he recalls.

Hansen says the reason many local residents came to him at the time of plant construction was became of his familiarity with nuclear power.

"They were concerned about thermo pollution of the lake and killing the fish," he said.

But, he said there wasn't too much negative reaction about the plant then or now.

"I compare the advent of nuclear energy to cars or gasoline or fuel oil—everyone was sure they would blow up," he said.

When Wilson speaks to a civic group or class, he says most of the questions asked deal with how the plant operates.

"Actually, I don't think there's a lot of interest in the nitty gritty of operations of plants," he continued.

He said people seem to be more interest in general subjects and that has even changed during the course of the last three years.

Three years ago, for example, people were interested in cooling discharge water. Then it was unsupported claims of infant mortality.

A year-and-a-half ago, it was the use of nuclear fuel and most recently it has been the transportation of radioactive materials.

"All of those subjects have been pretty well studied," Wilson said.

As a public relations man, Wilson says he finds himself having to do a lot of reading to keep up.

Having worked for the Jackson-based firm for 11 years, Wilson has a bachelor's degree in English, a master's degree in literature, in addition to further graduate work in law.

"It's real interesting because it's a constant change," he said about his job.

Health Care Is Big Business Everywhere These Days

By PEG OHLE

Health care is big business everywhere these days. For District No. 3 of the Michigan Department of Health this year it is a $581,509.00 business.

Gerald M. Chase, who came to Charlevoix March 1 as administrator of District No. 3, is in charge of administrating programs of the Department for citizens of Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego counties, which make up the District.

The programs range from crippled childrens services, veneral disease control and home health services to septic system inspection and approval, subdivision control, and licensing of food establishments.

District Health Department No. 3 is controlled by the boards of commissioners of the four member counties through a Board of Health composed of the chairmen of the health committees of the four boards of commissioners.

At present, Harry Griffin represents the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and George Ouvry the Antrim County Board.

The District Health Department budget this year is funded 39 percent by the state, 35 percent by county appropriations, 6 percent by the federal government, 10 percent by fees, and a 10 percent local surplus.

County appropriations are based on population figures at the rate of $3.50 per person. This brings Charlevoix County's share to approximately $55,000 and Antrim County's share to approximately $41,000.

Chase is enthusiastic about his job, saying his major responsibility is to be sure all available state and federal funds are secured for local use and properly distributed.

The regional alcoholism program, funded by the state, accounts for $174,000 of the budget, but although administered by District No. 3, it serves a 12 county area.

One of the programs financed by state money is the crippled children's services, for which the District Health Department acts as a referral unit to help low and moderate income families secure aid in cases that might otherwise be financially catastrophic.

Home health services, operated under Medicaid, is another program administered by the Department. It provides for home nursing care after hospitalization.

Venereal disease control is a significant service of the District Health Department according to Chase. They attempt to locate, examine and place under treatment all named contacts of persons with early cases of syphilis and gonorrhea. Education about the dangers of venereal disease is also part of the program.

The Family Planning program of the Department makes family planning information and services available to all women. Many women are referred to the Department by physicians and social service organizations. Nurses also visit the homes of new born infants to offer their services.

District No. 3. Health Department is the coordinating agency for controlled substances abuse programs in the area. They have been instrumental in setting up Half Way House in Petoskey and promote educational programs through schools, churches, service clubs and other interested organizations.

Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor Adopts New Program

Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor believes children learn by doing and by being actively involved in the learning process and that's exactly what is happening in her first year out of kindergarten room.

With the adoption of the new Alpha phonics and reading program this year, her class has "celebrated" the learning of each new letter with such fun activities as an apple tasting party for A, baking bread for B, chewing gooey gum all day for G, a popcorn party for P, a winter walk in the woods for W, and even tasting yogurt for Y.

Indeed her classroom is an exciting and busy place–from hamsters and polliwogs in one corner to puppet plays and TV roller shows the children have written in another corner.

Carolyn's classroom reflects her life outside the classroom, for she has many interests and she likes to keep busy. Along the sports line, Carolyn enjoys boating, tennis, and bicyling. At home, antiquing furniture, knitting, needlework, and sewing are high on her list of priorities

An interesting sewing project this year was making a skirt from material that her kids at school decorated with magic markers--a nice remembrance of this year's class.

Carolyn's family includes her husband Don, who is an engineer at Big Rock Nuclear Plant, and a daughter, Lynne, who is in the seventh grade.

In addition to her family, hobbies, and classroom, Carolyn still finds time to be active in the community.

She is a member of the Charlevoix Women's Club, the Hospital Guild, and she has helped with Christmas Anonymous, the Lakeside Art Show, the March of Dimes and community Chest.

Before coming to Charlevoix in 1961, she and Don made their home in Grand Rapids and Jackson. Carolyn taught the first grade in each city for two years, and she has taught in the Charlevoix system for six years.

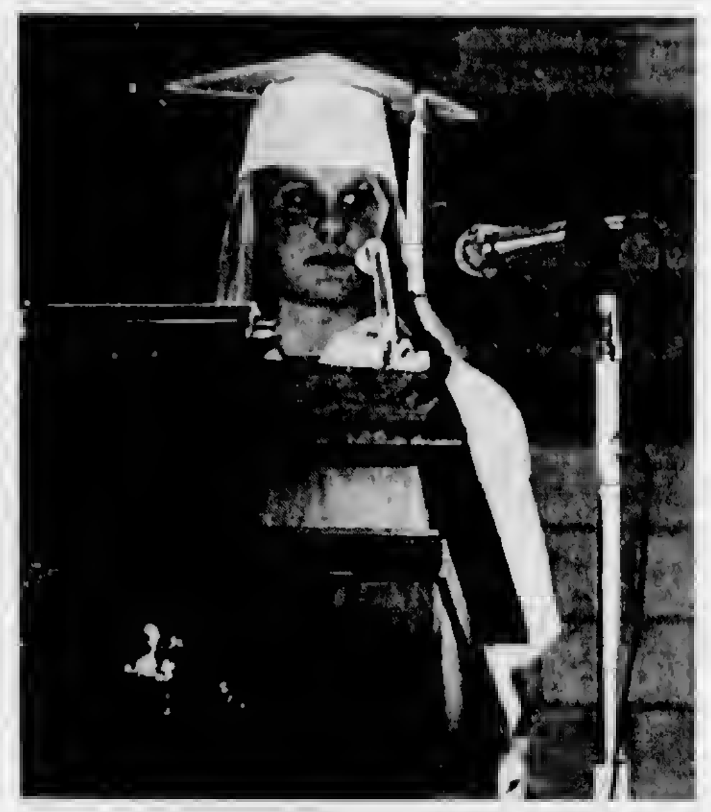
JUDY HAMILTON flipped her tassel with joy Sunday night as she graduated from Charlevoix High School.

CHARLEVOIX'S EXCHANGE STUDENT Paulo Oliveira was one of the many Charlevoix High School students who went through commencement exercises Sunday night.



ONE OF Charlevoix's outstanding graduating seniors was Tori Alger, who was among the school's top ten students.

Graduation Time

It was with a touch of nostalgia that Leonard W. 'Pete' Burns addressed the 1974 graduating class of the Charlevoix High school during Commencement exercises Sunday night.

Burns, a teacher in the Charlevoix schools for 23 years prior to his retirement in 1970, recalled in his informal address incidents that happened when he had this class as seventh grade students. He remembered them as a happy, cheerful class and said he hoped their futures would be as bright as their smiles always were.

He commended the students who were graduating with honors and congratulated the others for, he said, they probably worked harder than the honor students to attain this goal.

In a more serious vain, he advised the class that if they wanted the good things in life they must work for them; that they should always do their best and to become a part of the community where they will eventually live. "Your compensation for doing this will be the satisfaction that you have helped others" he said in conclusion.

James A. McKimmy, Superintendent of School, introduced Mr. Bruns.

Susan J. Boss delivered the salutatory address and Tori Lynn Alger the valedictory and the Charlevoix High School symphony band, under the direction of C.A. Odmark, played a selection chosen by the senior class prior to Mr. Burns address which he entitled "It's the little thing that make memories."

Mrs. Robert G. (Jane) Lieberman, president of the Charlevoix board of education; Vane H. Smith, high school principal, presented the 113 members of the class and Donald W. Brown, a member of the board of education whose daughter, Terri, was a member of the graduating class, presented the graduates with their diplomas.

The Rev. William P. Seibert, gave the invocation and the Rev. Raymond H. Giffin the benediction.

The processional, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar and the National Anthem that concluded the program were played by the Symphony band.

FORMER CHARLEVOIX School Teacher Leonard Burns gave the commencement address to Charlevoix's graduating seniors.

After some discussion, the Mayor's and Clerk's salaries were referred back into Committee.

Motion was made by Alderman Timms and supported by Alderman McRae that the bids for City docks be accepted as follows: Berth No. 6 to Gordon Peterson in the amount of $310.00. Berth No. 3 to John Haggard in the amount of $205.00. Berth No. 5 to Donald Anderson in the amount of $155.50. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Fochtman and McRae Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Fochtman is concerned about a complete Electrical System Proposal. He asked about the storage tanks and Wayne Carter's status concerning those tanks. He questioned Hayes Township Fire and Emergency Unit Service Contracts as he had heard that their Contract was blank. Alderman Fochtman questioned why Chief Mol had not been notified on the closing of the tennis courts for the three day period; that Donald Seelye had not been notified of his appointment to the Regional Planning Commission.

Alderman McRae suggested that the Council open their regular meetings at 7:30 p.m. and close at 11:00 p.m.

Alderwoman Wallace expressed concern with a free-standing sign on Mason Street which should have been a 2 ft. square sign, flat on the building. She felt also that repairs to sidewalks and curbs were needed in many parts of town.

Alderman Timms expressed concern with the LaCroft Condominium eliminating the sidewalk on West Dixon and landscaping to the curb. He felt that action should be taken at once in this matter. Alderwoman Wallace voiced her concern with the loss of any access to the lake for the public.

On motion the Council adjourned.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

Clarke

Barbara Jean Clarke and Richard Alan Gallant exchanged their wedding vows at a double ring service solemnized at the United Methodist Church early Saturday evening.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John R. Clarke of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Gallant of Forest, Ohio.

The Rev. Elmer Faust officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 100 guests. Mrs. Randy Gallant of Forest, Ohio, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of nylon in a large orange poppy print over yellow taffeta for her wedding. Fashioned with a fitted bodice and A-line skirt the gown featured a high neckline and long sleeves trimmed with self-ruffles at the neckline and cuffs. She carried a colonial bouquet of white gladioli, yellow mums and statice.

Sue Centala of Petoskey, as her only attendant, wore a powder blue floor length empire gown styled with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations tipped with blue.

Terry Gray assisted the bridegroom as best man.

Randy Gallant of Forest, Ohio, brother of the bridegroom, and Michael Belfy, brother-in-law of the bride seated the guests.

Mrs. Clarke chose a full length gown of floral print over a black and white lattice print for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Gallant, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light blue street length gown. Their corsages were of white carnations.

A reception hosted by the bride's parents followed in the church parlors. Mrs. Robert Taylor of Conway, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake.

After a week's wedding trip to Canada, the couple will be at home at Ironton.

The bride is employed at Burns Clinic. The bridegroom, a veteran of four years in the U.S. Coast Guard, is employed at American Mold Engineering Corp.

Wedding guests were present from Ohio and area communities.

Swimming Like Fish...

Even non-swimmers can learn how to scuba dive.

But, scuba instructor Joe Baillie doesn't recommend beginners trying it.

Baillie, a Traverse City Scuba equipment dealer, has been teaching area residents the underwater art for the last several weeks.

"Once more," shouted the curly black-haired instructor.

Those standing beneath him in the Lodge's swimming pool just grunted.

"My fingers are wearing out," grumbled one of the 12 students taking the Thursday night course.

The students were swimming laps with their underwater gear on to build their endurance.

It was just one of the many pool exercises participants experience in the five-week certification course.

Classes meet from 6 to 9 p.m. once a week for both classroom and practical instruction.

During the classroom instruction held at city hall, students discuss safety problems, physiology of diving and equipment.

While in the pool, they learn how to use equipment, build-up swimming strength and handle equipment.

"The people who are water bugs very rarely have problems," says Baillie, who has been an instructor for the last couple of years.

"Anyone can learn how to dive."

Baillie says he is even teaching his three-year-old son how to dive.

"So, there's no age barrier," he continued.

"The only barrier is wanting to do it."

In fact, the scuba instructor claims you don't even have to know how to swim.

"Non-swimmers can safely dive," he said.

But, he added that non-swimmers should be with someone who knows how to swim.

One of the greatest things about scuba diving, according to Baillie, is the beauty and peacefulness of being underwater.

Sixteen-year-old Steve Otmanwzki of Charlevoix says he decided to take the class because he has always liked being in the water.

"I thought I might give it a try too," added Barb Goss.

"I like it."

The 16-year-old Charlevoix girl says she has been learning alot from the classroom instruction.

"I think it's a good course," says Bob Timms.

"I'd recommend it highly."

Timms, a city councilman and professional diver, said he thought the Charlevoix Park and Recreation Department program was providing an excellent opportunity for area residents.

YOU DON'T even have to know how to swim to be able to learn how to scuba dive, although it is highly recommended.

CHARLEVOIX RESIDENTS have been taking scuba diving lessons for several weeks now at the Lodge swimming pool. When they complete their coursework, they will become certified divers.

Margaret (Peggy) Carey Gets Hospital Health Scholarship

Charlevoix's Margaret (Peggy) Carey received another boost in her pursuit to becoming a nurse.

The Charlevoix High School Senior was named the recipient of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship.

The annual award made by the hospital board of directors is a $700 scholarship that can be applied towards nursing education expenses.

It was started in 1958, by Mr. and Mrs. D.D. Walker, who have been actively involved with hospital and thought it would be nice to help people involved with health care.

Peggy has been involved with the hospital on a part-time basis for over a year and first became interested in nursing during her eighth grade year.

She also was recently named the recipient of a University of Michigan Regents-Alumni Scholarship.

Peggy ranks third in her graduating class with a 3.886 grade point average.

During her high school career she has participated in band, cheerleading, Spanish and tennis clubs, Girls State and student council.

She was also this year's homecoming queen.

PEGGY CAREY received the Charlevoix Area Hospital Scholarship last week from Hospital officials. Making the presentation were Administrator Richard Krueger and Max Novak.

The Moorish Touch

YOU FIND it along the sunny Mediterranean coasts of North Africa, Italy, France and Spain. In the New World it has flourished for centuries in Mexico, California and Arizona.

AND NOW Harbor Bay Co. has brought the dazzling white stucco and graceful lines of MOORISH architecture to Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

HOMES BEARING the exquisite MOORISH TOUCH are now open for your inspection at Castle View Subdivision on Wickersham Road, just across M-66 from Castle Van Haver, and at Bay Shore West – a new 40-lot subdivision in an aromatic pine plantation overlooking Little Traverse Bay and Lake Michigan — just west of Bay Shore on U.S. 31 North, between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

IF YOU demand privacy and appreciate "something different" from the cedar shake chalets that have set the architectural tone in northern Michigan in recent years, you'll be delighted by the cheerful warmth of THE MOORISH TOUCH at both Harbor Bay Co. developments.

YOU'LL FIND a cloistered garden nestled in the corner of your own private court-yard...you'll welcome guests to your home under handsome stuccoed arches reminiscent of the Old World...summer evenings you'll entertain under the stars on a leafy patio screened from the eyes of the outside world by a free-standing wall of stucco and wood.

THE MOORISH TOUCH follows you indoors as well – massive chalk-white fireplaces; stately arches that divide rooms but leave treasured open-space in tact; hammered bronze lighting fixtures, hand-crafted in Mexico to blend with the MOORISH architectural theme.

OF COURSE, homes at Bay Shore West and Castle View are carpeted throughout and have all of the elegant appointments Charlevoix area residents demand in both their seasonal and year-'round dwellings: two-car garages, electric heat, washers and dryers (in the bedroom area where they belong), smart step-saver kitchens and plenty of room to live and love — all with THE MOORISH TOUCH. Desirable homesites are also available.

health activities of the District Health Department are the upgrading of solid waste disposal units (dumps), for which they issue licenses, checking on public water supplies, and inspecting and licensing campgrounds and mobile home parks.

Individual sewage disposal and water supplies are also the concern of the Department. They issue permits for septic tanks and wells and license septic tank cleaners and well drillers.

Licenses are also issued to food establishments, ambulances, swimming pools, day care centers and refuse haulers through the District Health Department.

Land and plat evaluations are also part of their business, as are many other services which have not been mentioned.

Chase and his associates hope that the public can be made more aware of the programs offered by the Department and invite inquiries from anyone with problems that the Department might be able to solve.

Dr. Robert S. Libke, whose headquarters are in Gaylord, is director of District No. 3 Health Department. Disease Prevention of Health Care are under Frances Hooper, R.N., the Regional Alcoholism program under August Franczek, and Environmental Health under F. Dean Mikulski, R.S.

The District Health Department has 25 full time employees, including eight nurses and seven sanitarians, as well as medical technicians, environmentalists and clerical help.

New Commission on Aging Meets Later This Month

Members of the new County Commission on Aging, created by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at their May meeting will hold an organizational meeting on Tuesday, June 11, at the Litzenberger Apartments in Boyne City.

The resolution passed by the Board of Commissioners recognizes the need for a County Commission on Aging to work in behalf of senior citizens of the county and appoints the Northwest Regional Planning and Development Services, Inc., Traverse City, as the official body to assist in administering the program.

The Commission on Aging replaces a similar organization formed some time ago under the Northeast Michigan Community Action Program. The earlier organization was not created by the County Board and, for various reasons, including administration, never got off the ground.

Members of the Commission, appointed by the County Board, are Mrs. Ruth Behrens, Boyne City; Mrs. Margaret Sorenson, Boyne City; Mrs. Yvonne Metzger, Boyne Falls; Mrs. Ernia Grobaski, Boyne Falls; Mrs. Mildred Bathke, East Jordan, Vern Whiteford, East Jordan; and Mrs. Florence Wojan, Charlevoix.

County commissioner L. Lee Moerland says he hopes the Commission on Aging can get going in four months so that senior citizens will have services available to them as quickly as possible.

He further expressed the hope that money funded for the Commission will be used for senior citizen care, not eaten up by administration costs.

A representative from Northwest Regional Planning Services will attend the June 11 meeting to help with organizational procedure.

A constitution and by-laws must be prepared by the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging and presented to the Regional group before it is fully recognized.

CHARLEVOIX ELEMENTARY Students gave their parents a singing reminder of what it was like to live back in the 1950's with a few musical flashbacks.

Library notes

Louis Auchincloss, one of the most popular modern authors, practices law in New York City, devoting only his spare time to writing best selling books. We're delighted that he used some of his spare time to writing The Partners.

The book deals with a group of men and women whose common bond is their work. Each one has his own answers to the search for power and money and love and revenge.

The book is a marvelous characterization of lawyers and of the people in whose services they gain riches and prestige.

It is the story of a small but distinguished law firm and particularly of one of the senior partners, Reekman Ehninger. Entertainment in the typical Auchincloss manner.

Six Days of the "Condor, by James Grady, is a spy story. When a certain section of the American Literary Historial Society explodes around him, the hero, Malcolm is propelled into the all-too-real world, of double agents and hired killers under the name of Condor.

What follows is an exciting chase with the Washington police, the CIA, the FBI, the NSC, and a host of other intelligence agencies tripping over themselves to get at the Condor. The Condor's exploits unfold against a detailed and accurate description of the American intelligence community. The book is being made into a movie.

Living Room by Sol Stein, is the story of Shirley Hartman, a public figure at 28, super-bright, attractive, who is living proof that a woman can save the Ford account as well as, or better than any man.

The question now is what does she do with the rest of her life? Food, clothing, success, fame love. What comes next?

Shirley finds what she wants, something beyond career success This is a fast-paced, modern novel with a lot of humor and warm, human passages.

"Once upon a winter's night when the wind blew its guts out and a fishy piece of moon scuttled among the clouds, a coach came thundering down the long hill outside Dorking."

So begins this rafish, picaresque adventure story laid in 18th century England that tells of a foundling boy and his legacy, a traveling company of players, and a pack of heroes, villans and waspish characters. The Sound of Coaches was written by Leon Garfield. This is a rip-roaring, hilarious tale which will be enjoyed by both men and women.

Nicholas Monsarrat, one of the finest storytellers of our time, gives us in The Kappillan of Malta, the whole dramatic history of the fortress of the Middle Sea. This large novel is an achievement in two quite separate dimensions: as a sublime portrait of a humble man who brought faith and hope and comfort to a stricken people, and as the story of an island whose violent history began with the Phoenicians and which suffered its most terrible trial in the agony of the Second World War.

Father Salvatore was a simple, lumbering priest, a kappillan, serving the poor when war came out of the skies to pound the island to dust. The book is his story of six days during the seige of Malta from June 11, 1940 to August 15, 1942.

Each of those days was, for Father Salvatore and his people, a day of terror or hope, and each brought from the Kappillan a message of inspiration to keep them going.

NOTICE OF HEARING TO CONFIRM SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

A hearing to confirm a special assessment district as required by the Inland Lakes Level Act will be held Tuesday, June 11, 1974, at 9:00 A.M. in the Circuit Court for the County of Antrim, Bellaire, Michigan.

Such a special assessment district is deemed necessary and appropriate to properly fund the necessary construction, maintenance and administration of water level control structures and appurtenances in order to maintain the court-ordered lake level entered in Cases No. 962 and 1180.

The Court will be asked to confirm a special assessment district to consist of the following parcels of land:

a. All taxable land in the County of Antrim, including incorporated areas therein;

b. All riparian parcels of land on Skegemog Lake, Torch River and Torch Lake in Clearwater Township of Kalkaska County;

c. All riparian parcels of land on Elk and Skegemog Lake in Whitewater Township of Grand Traverse County;

d. All riparian parcels of land on St. Clair Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting waterway in South Arm Township of Charlevoix County; and

3. All parcels of land owned by Michigan Department of Natural Resources which have frontage on Elk Lake, Skegemog Lake, Torch River, Torch Lake, Clam Lake, Lake Bellaire, Intermediate Lake, Six Mile Lake and their connecting lakes and waterways.

Look For Penny Pinchers

Remember that old cliche–"A Penny For Your Thoughts?"

Well, it's going to be tough getting anyones thoughts shortly, everyone seems to be running out of pennies.

About now Mrs. Mary Brooks, director of the mint for the U.S. Treasury in Washington, would probably give a quarter for your thoughts on what to do about penny pinchers.

The sudden penny shortage has caused a panic and started her sending a flood of news releases to to the media, banks and other public institutions across the nation.

The release is an appeal to all Americans to get the penny back in circulation.

"I'm calling on the banking industry to welcome the return of pennies during the month of June," she said in a written appeal to the Charlevoix Courier.

"I'm urging schools, churches, charities, retail establishments and others to examine ways and means to involve their members in collecting pennies for deposit."

Both the Charlevoix County State Bank and First State Bank of Charlevoix received similar appeals in their mail bags last week and dutifully contacted the Courier.

According to officials at both banks, Charlevoix really hasn't experienced the penny pinch.

E.D. Hawley, president of Charlevoix County State Bank, did say that they are running into problems getting pennies from the Federal Reserve in Detroit.

Last week, Hawley said they ordered $250 of the copper coins and got only $50 worth.

Louis J. Hollow of First State Bank says they have been warned about the situation and expected the Federal Reserve cut-off some time ago.

Neither banks said there would be a serious shortage in Northern Michigan until later this summer, when the tourists start pouring into the area.

According to both the wire services and The Wall Street Journal, the problem began last December when the Treasury Department proposed an end to the minting of copper pennies, in favor of aluminum ones.

The announcement touched off hoarding that by some estimates has taken as much as 65 percent of the nation's pennies out of circulation.

As a result, some interesting national repercussions have developed.

The lowly penny, which many people have often been quick to toss aside, has become increasingly scarce as speculator kept one eye on the rising price of copper and the other eye on their growing cache of pennies.

Chief victims of the shortage, which has become acute in recent weeks, are retail establishments. Unable to get sufficient pennies from their banks to make change, stores, shops and supermarkets in most parts of the U.S. are pleading with customers to provide correct change.

Banks, whose supply of pennies has been sharply cut by the Federal Reserve banks, also are asking people to bring in pennies. Some, mostly smaller banks with a pressing need to satisfy customers, offer a premium. The East Bank of Colorado Springs, Colo., for instance, is offering $1.10 for every 100 pennies turned in. Three Rivers Bank in Pittsburgh is paying $1.05 for each 100 pennies.

Meanwhile, the price of copper–which was about $1 a pound last December when the Treasury disclosed its penny plan, then soared to a high of $1.45 earlier this month–has fallen sharply in the past two weeks. The dealer price yesterday was about $1.15 a pound.

In Washington, Mary Brooks, director of the U.S. Mint, concedes the Treasury's proposal triggered the penny shortage, but terms "ridiculous" the plans by hoarders and speculators to capitalize on the situation.

"Even if copper were to rise to $1.50 a pound," she says, "it would take 240,000 pennies–a $2,400 investment–to realize a $100 profit from melting them down" for their copper content. "And that's before deducting transportation and refining costs," she added. On top of that, melting coins is illegal.

A bill authorizing aluminum pennies was passed by the Senate last year, and the House Banking Committee is expected to vote in the next few months to let the Treasury decide what kind of pennies it wants.

But the Treasury, because of opposition from the powerful vending-machine lobby, hasn't pushed the idea and regard the aluminum penny as dead. The vending-machine group asserts the lighter aluminum pennies would foul up their machines. The Treasury says few vending machines today take pennies–in the first place, but the lobbyists argument was enough to convince the department.

While the Mint is turning out 35 million copper pennies a day, almost twice last year's level, the Treasury is scratching its collective head trying to find another substitute material to propose to Congress. At the same time, the Treasury is imploring people to put their pennies back in circulation, even declaring June as "Return-the-Penny" month.

Mrs. Brooks says the Mint's recently announced plan to award an Exceptional Public Service certificate to anyone who cashes in $25 of pennies at a bank appears to be working. She said one Pittsfield, Mass., man turned in 32,510 pennies.

Merchants, who consider pennies important in conducting a

1,189 Turn Out

Voters Approve Millage

Charlevoix School District voters gave their approval to a 6.5 mill tax levy for one year in the regular school election held here Monday.

The millage issue passed by a vote of 663 to 518, or a margin of 145 votes, with eight votes spoiled as a record 1,189 voters went to the polls despite the inclement weather late in the day when the vote was the heaviest.

The millage approved by the voters was the renewal of a 6.5 mill levy that expired in December.

The 5.6 mills represents 26.1 percent of this year's school budget, Supt. James A. McKimmy said.

In discussing the passage of the millage issue, McKimmy said this would give the school district a 1.6 percent increase in revenue of $27,320 over last year's budget.

The board is presently negotiating a new contract with the teachers.

This will mean some line item adjustments when the 1974-75 budget is drawn up. However, with the economy as it is, the board felt it had to hold the line so asked for a renewal rather than an increase of millage.

With the loss of $107,000 in State Aid as the result of the increased State Equalized Valuation, the approval of the millage will mean only an increase of $27,320 over the 1973-74 budget so we will still have to tighten our belts, McKimmy went on to explain.

It may mean adjustments in some areas but we can continue to offer a quality education to the children of the district, he continued.

He said further that this makes it all the more important that we recover part of the millage lost to the county as the result of the action taken recently by the County Tax Allocation board.

In making this statement, he referred to the loss of one-half mill to the county, leaving the school districts with 9.0 mills instead of the 9.5 mills they had received in 1973.

Following the action by the Allocation board on June 3, the Charlevoix board of education voted to appeal the action to the State Tax Commission after the Allocation board refused the school districts a hearing before the final tax rate was set.

3 New Members

Three new members were elected to the Charlevoix board of education during the regular school election here Monday.

They are Mrs. Thomas (Ardeth) Wieland who polled 797 votes and Claire C. Martin who came through with 584 votes to defeat two others for the two four-year vacancies on the board.

Kenneth J. Boss received 734 votes to win election to the two-year vacancy over two other candidates.

Other candidates for the four-year terms were John Lachman who received 404 votes and William F. Wilson who polled 390 votes.

Mrs. Robert (Jane) Lieberman who is completing a four-year term had 291 votes and Mrs. Edward (Rosemary) Corradi 118 in losing to Boss for the two year term.

Vacancies for the four-year term were due, to the expiration of the terms of Clement J. Wagner who has served for the past six years and who was not a candidate for re-election and Mrs. Lieberman. The two-year

Second Supervisor Quits

Charlevoix may be losing its second city department head in less than a one-month period.

Meeting informally Monday night, Charlevoix City Councilmen learned that Street Superintendent Leonard Dubey stepped down from his post last Thursday to a lineman's position.

The resignation, which came in the form of a letter to Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff, caught some councilmen off guard.

It was only last month Howard Hutchinson, Charlevoix's Superintendent of Light and Water, quit his job entirely because he said he was fed-up with politics and fighting city hall administration.

Indications at Monday night's meeting were that he resigned his supervisory post because of "pressure" connected with the position.

However, it was unclear exactly what motivated the move.

Dubey was unavailable for comment Monday, but several close sources said he has been unhappy in his position since December and wanted to resign at that time.

Announcement of his resignation gave Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace an opportunity to sound off what she termed a lack of communication between the councilmen and city administration.

"I hate to find out about this through the grapevine," she told the council.

After only hearing about Dubey's resignation last weekend from several outside sources, Mrs. Wallace said she was as equally upset to first learn about Hutchison's resignation last month after reading about it in the Charlevoix Courier.

"I think the council is being by-passed," she charged.

"I feel foolish."

Mayor Ed Hansen said he has yet to receive an official letter of resignation from Hutchison.

But, Mrs. Wallace said that supervisory personnel are important people and two key people have now quit.

"I would hate to lose this man," she continued.

Councilman Bob Timmis said he was surprised about the resignation and thought things in the street department had been moving rather smoothly.

Mayor Hansen said that both Hutchison and Dubey were told a year ago that if they had any problems, they should feel free to contact him.

"It upsets me," Mrs. Wallace retorted.

"I don't know what's happening."

Wexstaff said he had talked to Dubey last December and thought the problem had been resolved.

"I've had no problem with him," Hansen added.

"Howard never came to me either."

To further cloud the issue, Councilman Ralph McRae said Dubey told him last night that he thought he had made a mistake and wanted his old position back.

Hansen said some of the recent difficulty may be because the city hired the new recreation director last year at $9,400.

The council decided to wait until they heard again in writing from Dubey before any official action was taken.

Board Rejects Association Bid

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, voted Monday to not recognize the Custodial Services Staff Association, affiliated with the Michigan Education Association, as the representative for all custodial personnel as its exclusive negotiating representative.

In not recognizing the Custodial Services Staff Association as the negotiating representative for the school's custodial staff, the board, in effect, is saying that it wants the custodial staff to take a vote on whether or not it wants the Association to represent them.

A representative of the Michigan Labor Commission will conduct an election and the board will accept the results of the election.

Monies due the National Bank of Detroit on two sets of bonds were ordered paid by the board.

It represents a transfer of monies collected in taxes from local banks to meet the debt retirement obligations.

One is the amount of $109,850.17 from the New Debt Retirement Fund (the Elementary school) to the National Bank of Detroit to pay principal, interest and fees due July 1, 1974 and the second in the amount of $53,455.05 to the same bank for the same purpose.

The second is on the present high school building.

Reappointment of the following coaches for the 1974-75 school year were approved: Norman Probert, wrestling; Barry Anderson, head basketball; Don Carey, J.V. basketball; David Moyer, freshman basketball and Mrs. Marle Osterberg, volleyball.

The board also was advised that a ruling by the Michigan State Athletic Association states that it is not necessary to have two coaches for girls and boys ski teams as Charlevoix has had for several years.

This assignment will be made after the position has been posted.

The resignation of Mrs. Sandra Fassett as part-time vocational education director was accepted.

Mrs. Fassett will remain on the faculty but asked to be relieved of these duties which she accepted following the retirement of Robert J. Cook.

The board also authorized Supt. James A. McKimmy to accept competitive quotes for the installation of connections to the May St. sewer and/or Carpenter Ave. sewer for the "B" building and the athletic field facility.

Hufford Industries Will Get A Shock From Its City Electric Bill Shortly

Hufford Industried Inc., on Charlevoix's North side, is going to get a jolt when they see their electric bill next month.

The city discovered this week that the machine shop has been charged only $182 for electricity since it first began operations in 1968.

This means that they will owe the city well over $4,000 in electricity used since that time.

No one is quite sure how the situation ever developed, other than they apparently have mischarged since the plant first opened.

City officials say that under the present billing method it would have remained undetected unless the person operating the city record keeping equipment was familiar with industrial electrical rates.

Apparently, the mischarge was discovered only recently by Acting City Administrator Robert Wexstaff, who had been familiar with industrial rates before moving into city government.

Charlevoix County Commission May Have Strong Contests

—By PEG OHLE

At least five members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will be challenged for their positions in the August primary, and the possibility is that the number may reach 11 or 12 by the June 18th petition filing deadline.

With the support of the Citizen's Information Service, four persons have petitioned as Democrats and one as a Republican.

Karl Waldner, Boyne City, head of the C.f.S., has filed for the position in District 5, now held by Ralph C. Richardson. Long active in county politics, Waldner says that he and three others have filed as Democrats as "a matter of expediency."

"The county has been run by Republicans in an arrogant manner since time began," Waldner says. They tend to neglect what they said they would do. People deserve a chance to choose, we want to give them that chance."

Waldner is 39, has five children, has lived in Charlevoix County for 19 years, and is employed by the Irish Boat Works in Charlevoix.

Mrs. James (Patricia) Betz of East Jordan is challenging the post held by Barney Milstein, in District 9. She is 42, married, the mother of two children, and has lived in the county for three years after spending ten years in Ann Arbor. She is a native of Charlevoix.

Marty Paul, Boyne City, is seeking the post held by Charles Kessler in District 10. He is 83, a retired labor union president. He has lived in the county for 14 years, is married and has five children.

Willis L. Peters has filed as a Republican candidate in District 2, which Clyde Cunningham now represents. Although on the Republican ballot, Peters has the endorsement of the Citizens Information Service. He is 47, co-owner and manager of Hooker's Cleaners in Charlevoix, and has lived in the county 14 years. He and Mrs. Peters have six children.

Mrs. Donna Jane Dove is seeking nomiation in District 3, now represented by Clayton Smith. Her name will appear on the Republican ballot and she is not a part of the C.I.S. group. Mrs. Dove is 37, a widow, mother of two teen-age daughters and moved to Charlevoix County in 1972. She is a free lance court reporter.

Tusco Heath also expects to file his petition this week for the District 3 post. He will file as a Democrat with the blessings of the Citizens Information Service. Heath is 46, married with six children, and has lived in the county four years. He teaches HOSPITAL EMPLOYEES had to tag and identify each of the accident victims for emergency care.

Planned Emergency

Crisis Hits City

Sirens roared out last week in Charlevoix.

Ambulances and police cars screeched to East Park.

It was the site of a multiple-car and bus accident.

While the emergency workers began digging out injured passengers from the rubble, Police Chief Jack Mol radioed Charlevoix Area Community Hospital.

There really wasn't a serious accident, but all of the emergency forces in Charlevoix pretended there was last Tuesday night.

It was important to them to find out just what would happen if a real disaster did hit Charlevoix.

To insure that accident had some semblance of being real, local Cub Scouts were labled with specific injuries and driven to the Charlevoix Hospital.

Once they arrived by the ambulance, they were taken to a central distribution point where a doctor assigned a priority to the treatment of the victim based on the seriousness of his injury.

Then the vistim was hustled either to emergency or a bed in the hospital.

Doctors and hospital staff continued to rush through victims and treatments for nearly an hour.

According to Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger, the drill was apart of an ongoing program to see how the hospital is prepared to handle mass disasters.

The procedure is initiated by either a fire or law protection agency alerting the hospital that a disaster has taken place.

Once notified, Krueger said the switchboard operator contacts the hospital administrator, director of nursing, chief of the medical staff and maintenance head.

They in turn call other department heads and set the wheels in motion to handle the situation.

Although a real emergency of this scale has not occured while Krueger has been administrator, he said it is a good policy for hospitals to be prepared.

Within 10 minutes, almost the entire hospital staff is at hand and ready to work.

While certain employees are identifying and tagging the patient's injury, other are manning X-Ray, emergency surgery and inpatient bedding.

"We had a critique and felt it went well," Krueger said about reviewing the Tuesday night rehearsal.

EMERGENCY SURGERY was done several crash victims. Both local doctors and area hospital employees participated in the program designed to show how Charlevoix Area Hospital can handle disaster emergencies.

Conflict Continues Over Hayes Zoning

By PEG OHLE

Members of the Hayes Township Zoning Board were supportive of their new proposed zoning ordinance last week despite the criticism aimed at it by members of the Michigan Shores Property Owners Association.

The residential property owners group objects to the industrial zoning classification of a piece of property owned by Hodgkiss and Douma, Inc., a road contracting firm, adjacent to Michigan Shores, near Bay Shore.

Home owners contend that industrial zoning would permit Hodgkiss and Douma to mine right up to their property lines, thus creating considerable nuisance of noise, traffic and dust.

There are now 20 to 25 homes in the Michigan Shores development, ranging in value from $25,000 to $70,000. The total number of lots is 109, with one persons owning more than one in several instances.

Despite the fact that Hodgkiss and Douma say they have no plans to mine this piece of property in the foreseeable future, Michigan Shores residents feel that at least part of it should be zoned to prevent such activity.

Mrs. Lillian Bergmann, head of the Hayes Township Zoning Board, says that the industrial zone classification was put on the property in question after a public hearing at which representatives of both Hodgkiss and Douma and Michigan Shores expressed their views.

Mrs. Bergman cites the ordinance, which says, "No cut or excavation in connection with any mining or quarrying operation shall be made closer than fifty (50) feet to the nearest highway nor closer than fifty (50) feet to the nearest property line".

Another regulation governing industrial use says, "A fence of wire mesh or other suitable materials not less than five (5) feet in height shall be constructed and maintained around any area where authorized operations are conducted and around any area where such acticvity has been completed...".

The ordinance also includes other protections against nuisances, according to Mrs. Bergmann.

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission, to which the ordinance was submitted for comment, has written Mrs. Bergmann about the situation as follows:

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission, when taking into account the principles of good county planning, believes that there should be a buffer strip between the Michigan Shores property and the Hodgkiss and Douma property.

"A possible solution, as suggested by the Planning Commission, might be that both parties get together and have a survey made at the top of the hill between both properties. The buffer strip could be measured from this survey rather than using the section line."

Bill Mercer, Charlevoix County planner, says such a buffer strip would create an arena about 200 feet wide between Michigan Shores and Hodgkiss and Douma property, with 40 to 50 foot trees.

Before the zoning ordinance becomes effective, it must be voted upon by the Hayes Township Board. It will probably go before them at their July meeting, early in the month.

BAY TOWNSHIP ended holding an unofficial public hearing for their new township zoning ordinance last Saturday. The Northland Press in Boyne City failed to publish the second notice of public hearing in their newspaper and forced the township to delay the hearing until July.

Circuit Judge Appointed Soon

By PEG OHLE

Governor Milliken is striving to appoint a judge to the 33rd District before the June 18 deadline for petitions from persons seeking nomination for the vacancy.

This word was received by the Courier last Friday from the Governor's press department.

The Governor's appointment would temporarily fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Edward H. Fenlon, effective June 1st.

Reportedly, "six or seven" Charlevoix and Emmet County attorneys have sent the Governor resumes of their experience and expressed an interest in the appointment.

The Governor has turned over the resumes to a committee of the State Bar Association for ratings, and he is now awaiting their report.

The appointment would run until January 1, 1975. If the appointee wishes to hold the judgeship for the remaining four years of Judge Fenlon's term, he must file a petition, along with all other candidates, by the June 18th deadline. His name will then go on the ballot in the August 6th primaries.

If no more than two persons file for the office, it will not be necessary for them to run in the primaries. They would go direct to the general election in November.

However, it is expected that there will be several more than that number of petitions turned in. In that event, the two top primary vote-getters will appear on the November ballot.

The judgeship is a non-partisan office, so the names of candidates will appear on a separate, non-partisan ballot.

The only known candidates for the interim appointment are Robert C. Klevorn, Boyne City, and Martin B. Breighner of Petoskey.

Klevorn has the support of Charlevoix County Republicans. The Emmet County Republican Party did not endorse a candidate, according to G. J. Waldvogel, chairman of that group.

"Our philosophy is that we don't make recommendations in non-partisan elections", he said.

The Charlevoix-Emmet County Bar Association met but did not make a recommendation for the appointment. All inquiries concerning candidates are being directed to Barbara MacKenzie, president of the Association.

Tourist Gasoline Allotments Beefed Up Shortly

Three segments of highway in the Northwest Lower Peninsula have been added to a list of major tourist-traffic arteries to benefit from increased gasoline allocations by the Michigan Public Service Commission's Energy Office.

Under the plan, added gasoline may be obtained by stations within a half-mile of what are termed "approved tourist routes". The stations must agree to remain open until 10 P.M. Friday, Saturday, Sunday and holiday evenings to receive the extra allocations.

Such stations are eligible to receive part of the state set-aside supply, which is three percent of total gasoline allocations in the state.

Bill G. Rowden, Executive Director of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, said Energy Office representatives reported Thursday that the following highway segments have been added to those eligible for extra allocations:

–M-37 from M-115 at Mesick to US-31 Ssouth of Traverse City

--US-131 from M-115 at Cadillac to US-31 at Petoskey

–M-32 US-131 East to the I-75 Freeway

Highways in the Region already approved as major tourist routes, on which stations may be eligible for increased allocations are:

–US-131 North to Cadiliac

–US-31 North to Mackinaw City

–M-22 from Manistee to Traverse City

--M-115 from Clare to Frankfort

–M-72 from Grayling to Acme

Retail gasoline stations on those routes that require additional volumes for tourists can make their needs known by calling the State Energy Office at (517) 373-8250.

William H. Archer, Director of the PSC Energy Office, said the agency will decide on a case-by-case basis the amount of product to be ordered for the new Tourist Gasoline Availability Plan.

First Sheriff's Contract Finally Settled

After nearly ten months of negotiating, job contracts between the Charlevoix County Sheriff's department and the county were approved last week.

At a special meeting, the Board of Commissioners instructed Chairman Ira L. Davis and Clerk Clarence F. Rabach to sign the agreement.

The agreement must now be ratified by the union representing the local sheriffs, Local No. 214, Law Enforcement Div., International Teamsters, in Detroit.

Upon ratification, the agreement will be effective until January 1, 1975. Salary provisions of the agreement, with the exception of over-time, are retroactive to last January.

Salary figures cannot be released until the contract is ratified. Even members of the sheriff's department have not been told what they are. Rabach says, however, that they are comparable to the salary study as adopted for other county employees.

It was learned that the agreement would provide for eight paid holidays a year and give each person the privilege of selecting the ones he wants to take. One of the holidays may be the employee's birthday.

In commenting on the agreement, Kenneth Staley, chairman of the Sheriff and Civil Defense committee of the County commission, said he was happy because the agreement would make it possible for any employee grievances to go beyond the Sheriff's department to the County Board of Commissioners for consideration.

Women Nominees A Better Idea

Mrs. Lorraine Beebe's announcement last week that she will run as a candidate for the secretary of state nomination at the GOP state convention this summer comes as pleasant news.

The former state senator now doubles as chairman of the State Women's Commission and director of the Michigan Consumers Council.

In her role as director of the Michigan Consumers Council, she has gotten out of step with Gov. Milliken, who as head of the Republican Party will strongly influence convention choices for the state ticket.

However, we feel she has demonstrated her ability to head a state agency and should be considered as a candidate by Michigan Republicans.

If Mrs. Beebe ever does become Michigan's next secretary of state, we would hope she would change the state's present policy of placing the secretary's name on every state building.

We feel this is undue publicity for the office holder and makes it difficult for a challenger during election year.

At a recent news conference, Mrs. Beebe said it was time for election of a women to a major statewide administrative office.

We wholeheartedly agree with her.

Justice Mary Coleman, of the Michigan Supreme Court, broke the sex barrier against election of women for full-time statewide duty by winning her judicial post in 1972.

Our only hope is that in this drive to get more women at top level positions, voters not elect candidates merely on the basis of their sex, but on qualifications.

Watch Out For Summer Boats

Now that summer is almost here, it is time to remind parents to watch their children around the water and on the beach.

Swimming hasn't started, but boaters are beginning to fill our area lakes.

One simple thing to keep in mind is to insist all passengers on boats wear life jackets, especally children.

But even more important or beneficial is parential encouragement for youngsters to take both boating and swimming lessons.

One particular program that deserves special attention in Charlevoix is the new free sailing lesson program being offered by the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Both yacht club members and area businesses are donating their time and equipment to insure that the area has an ample opportunity to get proper instruction on how to handle water craft.

We feel this is a most beneficial program and should be taken advantage of by as many people as possible.

It is ironic that in an area blessed with so many lakes that so many people are unable to swim or handle a boat properly.

Hopefully, between the city's summer swimming program and the Charlevoix Yacht Club's sailing program this eventually will no longer hold true.

Two Different Colors

Lee Talboys, formerly of Boyne City and owner of the Coventry Inn, near Mason, has a tolerant racial outlook born of long years in the entertainment field.

In the 1960's, he and Abe Saperstein were the only two white men traveling with the Harlem Globe Trotters. Talboys, a singer, saxophonist, organist, accordionist, and glib master of ceremonies was in charge of the Trotters' half-time shows. Racial tensions at that time were running so high, that Saperstein gave orders that the Whites were to stay apart from the blacks for fear of triggering an incident--particularly in the southern states.

In one town Talboys was driving the red station wagon that had "Harlem Globe Trotters" plainly painted on it. When we came out of the bank, one of the natives who had been eyeing him curiously approached and said:

"Say mister, ain't you one of them Globe Trotter fellers?"

"Yes."

"Well, man, I thought them fellas was all black."

"We are black," said Lee. "But this is Monday, and it's my day off."

"Oh, I see," the man said, and he walked off. He had taken about eight steps, when he came to a sudden halt, wheeled around, and stood with mouth agape as Lee drove off in the Trotters' station wagon.--Lapeer County Press.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

The other afternoon, Judy and I dropped everything and hurried over to the Elementary School to see Miss Marina Anegon's students do a musical interpretation of life in these United States circa 1950.

I don't mind telling you that f object to anyone treating the 1950's as ancient history. For Pete's sake that was only the day before yesterday, wasn't it?

In order to get into the spirit of the occasion, the kids and their teachers were dressed in the garb of 20 years ago--bobby socks with rolled tops, saddle shoes and, of course, blue jeans, which have never really gone out of vogue. Some of the girls wore skirts with the hemline midway down the calf.

I would have sworn that there was no costume peculiar to the 1950's but I was wrong. We did dress differently then, even if it was only the day before yesterday.

The program revolved around the music of the 50's, which was the decade that gave birth to Rock 'n' Roll. Now I have never been a nut about Rock music, but I'll have to admit that some of the early Rock was pretty good. I wasn't exactly swept by great waves of nostalgia for that by-gone era, but the music was so superior to the racket and gibberish that assails our ears today that it was almost listenable

(Maybe I'm not being fair, but in my book the Golden Age of music occurred in the 1930's. What composer today could come up with such singable songs as "fs It True What They Say About Dixie," "fsle of Capri" and "I Found A Million Dollar Baby in a Five and Ten Cent Store"? No sir, they don't write them the way they used to.)

However, I am still puzzled over why anyone would be nostalgic about the 1950's--which certainly was a rather nondescript decade as decades go.

It started with the Korean War and ended with the Edsel, neither of which is remembered very affectionately by those of us who were around to remember. The war was an exercise in futility that cost some 50,000 American lives. The Edsel probably was the biggest bomb to fall on the auto industry, because it was introduced at a time when the American people were beginning to cast about for smaller cars, not another line of big gas-guzzlers. If Ford Motor Co. had come out with an economical compact instead of the Edsel, the VW would be an oddity on the highways of America today.

The 1950's also were characterized by periods of high unemployment and pretty scanty wages when you could find a job.

When f graduated from college with a degree in journalism, the only job I could get was hoisting beer kegs for the Goebel Brewing Co. I considered myself lucky, because my roommate at school, who also received his BA in journalism, found himself operating an elevator at the Lee Plaza Hotel in Detroit.

f don't call those the "good old days", not by a long shot.

When I finally latched onto a news job with the Cass City Chronicle, f drew the grand salary of $40 a week--a sizeable cut from what f was making at the brewery.

All these things came to mind last week when Judy and f sat on the gym floor at the Elementary School and watched the kids gyrate with their guitars a la Elvis and take us down memory lane with such songs as "Rock Around the Clock" and "She-Boom, She-Boom."

Maybe, if you're eight or ten, the 1950's hold some kind of magic. But not if you're 45.

TO THE EDITOR:

Will someone in our City Government--who was responsible for changing to R-2 the property on the south side of the first block of Belvedere Avenue--please tell us why this was done? There are NO multiple dwellings on the bluff. Could this have been for the benefit of someone who is buying up a lot of property in Charlevoix? This was accomplished without the knowledge of the property owners affected.

Do you think this is fair?

Editor's Note: When contacted about the problem, the Charlevoix Art Fair Committee said that photography exhibits are not allowed because of space in the present exhibit site. Recognizing photography as a form of art, they joined the Crooked Tree Arts Council in establishing a photography show and contest. Now in its second year, the exhibit will be open July 19, 20 and 21. Entries will be received at almost all local libraries beginning June 4. Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Like riches from mines, valuable articles have been retreived from the dusty attics, weatherbeaten barns, and dilapidated sheds of yesteryear; roll-top desks, rockers, and coffee mills, to name a few.

Prizing these items which are still serviceable after a hundred years, one is inclined to wonder what artifacts for the year 2074 will come from our compact garages, rec area basements, and pint-sized utility buildings.

With our astounding programs, the TV may become a curiosity or perhaps the snow blower will amuse a generation which cleans the drive with a laser beam unit costing $8.88 at the supermarket special.

With no immediate return involved, there was little incentive to mass produce these antiques; a fact ignored by Urho, the eccentric from Neebish Junction, as he scoured the countryside for logging tools at negligible cost. Many rural hardwares 'unloaded' their obsolete crosscut saws on the Neebish Nut, as Urho came to be known.

After accumulating sufficient inventory, Urho set up business in cahoots with the local innkeeper, Peg-Leg Swanson, who sensed a profit for his establishment which was little known beyond the narrow confines of the village limits.

They decorated the walls with an assortment of peaveys, adzes, axes, crosscuts, pickaroons, pike poles, and other trade implements. The first nibble came from someplace called Detroit, whose visiting citizen in a fit of nostalgia, forked over $95.00 for a complete set.

As a bonus, Urho threw in an unidentifiable contraption which he referred to as a "crosshawl'.

As business began to flourish, the partners began adding bits of folklore to add value to their stock. City folks would listen spellbound while Urho, who had acquired a nervous twitch in his shoulders, unfolded the legend of the lost camp.

It seems, that while trapping, Urho stumbled into this lost camp which had been mysteriously abandoned by its crew in such haste that harnesses were left to rot on pegs, dishes were left on the tables and the ladles in the pots. The number of men in this camp was never accurately determined. After spending five years selling their forsaken tools, it seems that 3000 would be a conservative estimate.

The location was kept secret, of course, as was the antiquing process by which Urho condensed decades into months. He would bury new tools, sprinkled with lime, in his backyard, and when asked by a customer for an out-of-stock item, Urho could truthfully say, "f know where I can dig one up for you."

The following day he would deliver a saw, for example, properly etched by rust and pitted with age. The wooden handle, worn by ghostly hands of the past, had the knots raised like warts to add authenticity.

Never one to lament the past, Urho changed with the times. While his supply sources, the farm buildings, were being demolished by the land developers, the Neebish Nut was hauling away the cedar fence posts which were the former boundaries of forty acre parcels. From them, he began carving decoy ducks which he sold for $25.00 to a waiting list of nimrods.

Oh yes, and for $50.00, he would obliningly 'dig up' a pair for the collectors who set great store by the cruder works of the past.

If it Fitz

Make your love public

By JIM FITZGERALD

It is not enough that a guy tells his doll he loves her. He should also tell the world. Then the doll will be his sex object forever, no matter how late he gets home for dinner.

You read about Dan Edelstein and Mary Ann Snider. He took her to see the Braves and the Phillies play baseball in Atlanta. At the end of the 3rd inning she looked up at the scoreboard and there, in the same huge letters used to count Henry Aaron's home runs, it said: "Mary Ann, f love you. Will you marry me?--Dan Edelstein."

Immediately, Mary Ann gave Dan a lingering smooch while thousands applauded. At the end of the 4th inning, the scoreboard announced that Mary Ann had accepted. More applause. By declaring his love publicly, Dan had made Mary Ann an instant celebrity. Little boys asked for her autograph and envious women learned close to sniff the scent that had turned a normal male into an adoring slave.

Mary Ann was so delighted with Dan's proposal she didn't even time his absence when he went to get a beer during the 7th inning and didn't return until the last of the 9th.

Which is what this is all about, guys. Forget Ann Landers. I am here with the best advice on how to be happy though married. If your wife does her cleaning in the nude, Ann Landers will simply advise you to close the drapes. What does she care if your wife is a street cleaner? That's not the kind of sloppy advice you get from me.

On your wedding anniversary, don't take your wife out to a candlelight dinner. That's ho-hum stuff and besides, when you light the candle the other diners laugh and honk their horns at you.

The thing to do is buy a full-page ad in the local newspaper. In big red letters say something like: "Thank you, Susie Glutz, 1854 Elm St., for 19 years of wedded bliss. You are the most wonderful, beautiful wife in the world and f love you now more than ever. If it weren't for the opening of trout season, I would certainly be with you on this anniversary of the most important day of my life--Arnold Glutz."

Another idea is to get an airplane to tow your message of love over the ballpark during a World Series game ("When you say Susie Glutz, you've said it all"). Or paint the passionate words on a freeway overpass. Use a billboard, or a disc jockey. Rent space on Howard Cosell's forehead. The possibilities are limitless.

The important thing to remember is there is no real romance in whispering. When you tell her you love her, shout and turn handsprings. Do anything to attract public attention. Your wife wants the woman next door to come over and ask to borrow a cup of aphrodisiac.

Don't ask me why women are that way. I can't know everything. It's probably some kind of backlash from closing too many drapes. Ask Ann Landers. The important thing is that all husbands learn this guaranteed formula for becoming household heroes who can get away with anything if they hire a skywriter to make their apologies.

My wife Pat likes to drive to the St. Clair River bank and watch the lake freighters go by, just a few yards away. My plan is to have my love message printed along the side of the biggest boat on the Great Lakes. Something like:

"I'll always stand Pat."

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Vince Olach

With summer just around the corner, the Charlevoix Courier thought it would be appropriate to ask the City Chamber of Commerce what's in store for the summer.

Director Vince Olach was born and raised in Charlevoix.

He attended St. Mary's School and graduated from Charlevoix High School.

He entered the service in 1946, and spent over 27 years in the military before retiring last September and assumed his chamber position.

Olach has a bachelor's degree from Hampton Institute in Hampton, Virginia in business management.

Both he and his wife, Joni, have three children.

COURIER: What is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce?

OLACH: There are many written reasons and purposes for the Chamber of Commerce but basically it all boils down to the Chamber of Commerce of Charlevoix was developed to advertise and to exploit and to make known your industrial, your commercial, your educational, your recreational, your civic, your resort, and other advantages of the City of Charlevoix.

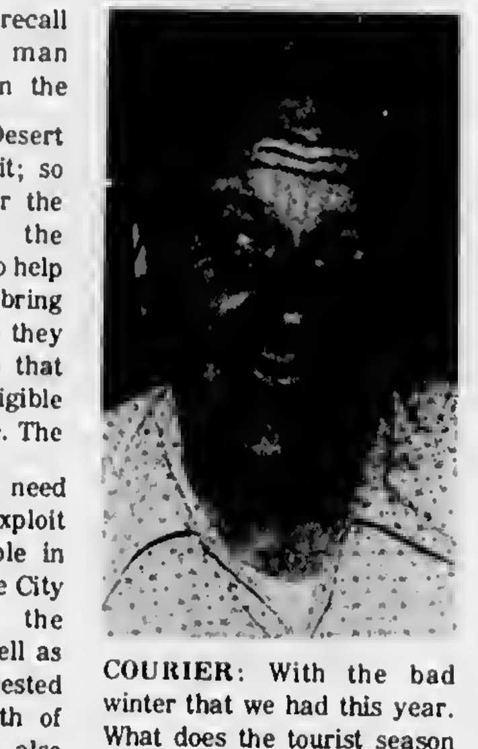
Basically we try to entice new industry into Charlevoix. Industry that we want in the city which is a non-pollutant environmentally or noise, and to entice new people to come and live with us, new businesses, to help those businesses that are here expand their trade and, of course, just basically to insure that everyone in town is getting a salary and a good one.

COURIER: Who really needs the Chamber of Commerce?

OLACH: Well, everybody needs the Chamber of Commerce regardless, not only the business and professional people but even the individuals in town. f don't suppose you can ever recall any professional man operating a business in the middle of the Sahara Desert and making a living at it; so even the professional or the service people need the Chamber of Commerce to help advertise the city, to bring new industry in here so they have a good payroll so that these people then are eligible to become their clientele. The business people in town need the Chamber to help exploit the area, to bring people in here to do business in the City of Charlevoix and the surrounding areas, as well as individuals who are interested in supporting the growth of their community can also assist the Chamber of Commerce not only monetarily but in providing their own services, their own selves to help on various committees to help beautify the city as well as exploit it, as well as to bring people in here to show them the city, and to help them get settled and get arranged and get established.

COURIER: How does the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce finance all the work that it does?

OLACH: We finance it through investments from the individual members which finance about a third of our budget, and the remaining part of it is from the various activities we hold throughout the season. The profits we make on that, of course, goes back into the Chamber for the continuation of the Chamber activity and business. Our budget is rather small, I guess, but it's large in other ways. We are operating on about a 35 to 36,000 dollar budget a year. We show black every year, just barely in the black. This year, hopefully, we will come up in the black and perhaps have a thousand or so surplus so that we can start our next year off without worrying if we are going to make it or not.



COURIER: With the bad winter that we had this year. What does the tourist season look like for this coming summer?

OLACH: The tourist season this summer will probably be one of the best we have had in quite some time and maybe even better than we have ever had. Most of the inquiries that we receive in the Chamber, and incidentally we receive some 10 to 15,000 inquiries a year about what we have available here in the city. Most of our inquiries regarding accommodations this year are revolving around what is available for 1 and 2 weeks stays and longer. It looks like we are going to have people come up and stay with us rather than just for weekends which should hopefully increase our business and bring more monies to our business people in the town.

COURIER: Talking about this summer, what are some of the major activities that you have planned for the next 3 or 4 months?

OLACH: We have 14 activities scheduled for the year. We have already had the first one as you know, our Annual Spring Dance which was quite a success. Throughout the year to help, not only the people in town, but also those who come up and spend time with us. We give them something to do, we have our fishing contest which goes from the 2nd of June through the 15th of November. Also we have our Moonlight Cruises, which are starting this year, every Saturday night. Again not only for the visitors to have something to do, but also our local people can take a look at what our skyline looks like from the water. We are again having our Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament being held here this year from June 18th-22nd, and we have a new entry--our raft race which is being held on June 15th in Round Lake--we hope that will help our local people get really unwound before the summer starts good. In addition to that, our Annual Waterfront Art Fair which is probably one of the best, if not the best in the State of Michigan, will be held on August 10, and our Lakeside Bicycle Tour in September. The Venetian Festival this year is the 46th, f think it is, is being held on July 26, 27 and 28th. We hope to have a big affair there as well as a big gala event; as well as things to do like a carnival with rides, and a little carnival atmosphere along with our fireworks and boat parade which is traditional. Then we have our spring and fall flea market, our sidewalk sales, and again our fall Color Cruise to be held on October 13. This year because of the large amount of people asking to go on these cruises in the past, we probably will run two boats on the same dates so that we can accommodate everyone. We will top it all off on October 19 with our Fall Dinner Dance. Then we will start going to work on our Mardi Gras for the winter season and hopefully perhaps we can come up with additional programs for the winter season to help our local people really enjoy what we have so much of up here.

COURIER: Do you feel that a lot of times there are situations where local people really don't get a chance to become involved with their own community.

OLACH: Most of our summer events are based on that because of the type of participation that it is, the events being held in East Park, and on occasion does allow locals to get in but during the summers when our high employment is, most of our kids that are going to school, as well as, most of the families, are either working additional jobs.

COURIER: So they really don't have time then?

OLACH: They don't have the time for it, and something like the Venetian Parade, of course, we pull in an awful lot of professionals there, so it's an awful lot of the local people being able to see what we have going on but not really participating. This is why f'm looking for more local participation in our events if we can.

COURIER: What do you think the future is for the Chamber of Commerce here in Charlevoix. It has gone through some rough roads in the past and do you have any type of projection of what it looks like in the future?

OLACH: We hope that the Chamber will become even much bigger and involved in what the City really needs than it ever has in the past, starting with parking which we need, beautification of the city, renovation of the buildings as they occur to have them in a format, and to just generally assist the people who are already here, to either enlarge or to become bigger and better and / or also rather to bring in additional industry to help our base payroll for year 'round employment for our people. I really think that the Chamber in the past three years, under Tom, laid the groundwork on it, and now I think it is just beginning to roll. In the next 3 to 4 years the Chamber will really be the thing in Charlevoix and probably for this whole northern area community.

COURIER: Do you have any specific things in mind as far as beefing up the Chamber of Commerce, any specific programs?

OLACH: None really specific at this point other than to bring in more industry of the family type variety employing 10 to 40 people. Of course, non-pollutant type variety, helping our businesses establish a year 'round base so they can operate on a year 'round basis without having to really work it all out in one summer season and then go back to hope to make it through the winter. We will hope this fall to start on the the area of bringing people to Charlevoix to shop by getting our retail merchants together, establishing regular hours of stores that will be open for certain days and perhaps some type of business, advertisement gimmick of prizes to be awarded, etc. f would like to bring the people in from Petoskey, East Jordan, Boyne City, to shop here rather than we go there because we have everything they have and more, and it would be nice to have them come and visit us for a change.

McCLELLAND'S CLEANERS & LAUNDRY
Oleson's Shopping Center
Charlevoix

Dear Friends and Customers,

It has been almost a year since I first came to Charlevoix with the idea of going into the coin-laundry business.

It was my belief that Charlevoix deserved a better break. You had only one store and most of the time its old washers were broke. When they did run, they did a very poor job of cleaning your garments.

The first thing I found out when I queried residents is that others were trying to open new facilities and were getting some resistance. So I bought the one store that you had and immediately made plans for updating the equipment.

Incidently, let me pause a moment to congratulate Puffs on their new store. We welcome them graciously as our competitors. After all, competition is what America thrives on.

Well anyway, out went our old Whirlpools and in came brand new Speed Queens and Frigidaires. If you haven't been in our store recently to try these new machines, we invite you to do so now.

The new Speed Queen top-load washer speaks well for itself. It is very dependable and has one of the fastest spin speeds in the industry. They are coined for only 30 cents.

The new Frigidaires are really new to Charlevoix. This top-loading washer has the pulsating action agitator as opposed to the revolving agitator. We find this machine to be most popular in other stores where the customer has both choices. These, too, are coined for 30 cents.

The new Speed Queen Super 20 front loading washer is unique in Charlevoix. It is very popular for throw rugs, sheets and blankets or just plain large loads. The only 20 pound front loader in town yet coined for only 50 cents.

As you can see, we have strived to give you a variety of choices and, at the same time, save you money! Our dryers give you 10 minutes drying time for 10 cents.

In addition, we also offer you dry cleaning and pressing for your non-washable garments.

New hours for the dry cleaning center are 9 A.M. til noon and 1 P.M. til 5:30 P.M. The coin store will be open 7 A.M. til 10 P.M. daily for the summer.

If you have read this far, I want to thank you. When you see me at the store, walk up and say, "Milt, I read your ad," and I'LL DRY ONE LOAD FOR YOU FREE (anytime during June).

And to all our steady customers, a very special

Thanks.

Milt Irish

NCMC Graduates 148 Sunday

One hundred forty-two North Central Michigan College students received associate degrees during the fifteenth annual commencement exercise, held at 8:00 p.m., on Friday, June 7th, at the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium.

Guest speaker was Burton H. Bouwkamp, director - domestic product planning for Chrysler Corporation. North Central Michigan College President, A.D. Shankland, introduced the speaker.

Following the address, Wendy Widener, president of the Student Senate, made a number of appreciation awards.

Dean of Instruction, Robert Vratanina, then presented the candidates to Dr. Dean C. Burns, Chairman of the Board of N.C.M.C., who awarded the degrees. Reverend John Kirkman gave the invocation; Reverend Homer Yutzy gave the benediction. Wilmer Moyer provided music for the processional and recessional.

The public was encouraged to attend this commencement ceremony for this, the largest graduation class in the history of the college.

Mr. Bouwkamp's theme for the commencement address was, "Search for the Facts". Mr. Bouwkamp joined Chrysler Corporation in 1949 as a student at Chrysler Institute of Engineering, after receiving his Bachelor of Science Degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Illinois in 1948. He earned a masters in 1951. He served in various engineering and production capacities with Chrysler after graduation. In 1968 he was named director - product planning, and in 1970, director - product and market planning. He was raised to his present post as director - domestic product planning, in February, 1972.

Mr. Bouwkamp is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers and of Pi Tau Sigma, Tau Beta Pi, and Sigma Tau honorary fraternities.

MRS. NORMAN BUMM was on hand during the special ceremony held last week by Charlevoix Elementary students.

Students Give Gift

Thursday was a special day for Mrs. Chew's Elementary Language Arts Class.

It was the day Mrs. Norman Brumm came to visit Charlevoix Elementary School.

Bt, it was more than just a visit from the well-known artist.

Thursday was the day the class was able to present some of Mrs. Brumm's artwork to the school library.

"A little while ago, Mrs. Chew's Language Arts class made a newspaper for a class project," explained Randy Schnackenberg in a theme he recently wrote.

"We had a vote for what to do with the money.

"Our class is a generous class, so we decided to get something for the school library."

Remembering Mrs. Brumm's artwork, from last summer's Charlevoix art-show; Randy said the class decided to pick a committee and visit the art studio in Norwood.

"They picked a goldfinch sitting in strawberries," he continued.

So, Thursday in a brief unrehearsed presentation, the class gave their valuable treasure to the library.

There were no special ceremonies other than the class spent nearly 20 minutes grilling Mrs. Brumm on the type of work she and her husband do.

For Mrs. Brumm, it apparently was one of the highest honors ever paid the couple.

A Woman of Many Talents

Mrs. Gilbert Loves Area

Chatting with Edith Gilbert in the gracious living room of her home on Michigan avenue, one gets the impression that she loves Charlevoix as much as any native possibly could.

The next impression one gets of this woman who has lived in many parts of the world is that her interests are many fold and her energy boundless.

Edith Gilbert and her husband, Julius, moved to Charlevoix from Detroit as permanent residents 12 years ago, after spending summers, and more and more time year around, in the area that Gilbert had known since 1910.

"We were reversing the role," she said, "spending the week in Charlevoix and weekends in Detroit."

In Detroit, Edith had been active in many civic and philanthropic groups, usually using her talents as a writer in preparing pamphlets and brochures and serving as publicity chairman for group activities.

She also had studied sculpturing at the Society of Arts and Crafts in Detroit under Gwen Lux and Walter Midener. Several of her wood carvings now grace her Charlevoix home.

It is hard to believe that this active woman was lonesome her first winter in Charlevoix, but she says she was. "There were no movies, no restaurants, no neighbors on the street," she muses.

At this point Edith began to write commercially. Her columns on party giving were syndicated by United Features and appeared in many newspapers.

She also had by-line stories on art, travel and entertaining in such publications as the New York Sunday Times, Chicago Trihune, Detroit News and Detroit Free Press.

In 1968, Ediths first book, "all about parties", was published, and in 1972 a "how-to" booklet "Let's Set the Table," printed on place-mat size paper, appeared.

Woven around and through Edith's work as a writer are her contributions to Charlevoix, its institutions and organizations.

These include: the Crooked Tree Arts Council, and the Charlevoix Historical Society, on whose boards she has served; the Charlevoix Water Front Arts Fair, for which she is publicity chairman; the Charlevoix Women's Club, of which she has been an officer; Beta Sigma Phi, of which she is a sponsor; and the Charlevoix school system, for which she served on the Citizen's School Survey Committee.

"The best thing we ever did was to move here permanently. Our roots are here now", Edith says.

Asked about the recent growth of Charlevoix, Edith replied, "We have to expect change. I hope Charlevoix grows sensibly."

She says that she was well aware of the flight from the cities ten years ago and especially welcomes retirees to the area.

"Retirement is really an industry here," Edith explained. Retirees are investing money and buying businesses here. They are not over-crowding the schools or creating pollution. They are solid, stable people who come with talent and skills, ready to give, not take."

Asked if there is anything she doesn't like about Charlevoix, Edith had to think for a minute. "Yes, I don't like the noon siren. It screaches. A whistle would be better but I'd like to hear church bells at noon."

The lack of a fire code or fire inspection of buildings in Charlevoix concerns her, as does the condition of the Middle School.

"There is no question in my mind that we desperately need a new Middle School, but we cannot ask for more millage in these times," she commented.

What is the background of this woman who writes and talks of so many things?

Edith was born in New York City at the end of World War I, the daughter of an importer-exporter. She spent the early 1920's in Germany, started school in Shanghai and lived there while Chaing Kai Shek was emerging as a war lord.

Just before the depression, Edith and her family moved to San Francisco and she graduated from high school as World War II was raging.

This is the way Edith tells it. Not what year, but what happened that year.

At the University of California, Edith worked on the college newspaper, "The Bruin", which was the start of her writing career.

Edith and Julius were married "the day Norway fell", and they moved to Detroit.

According to Edith, it was her background of travel which sparked her interest in dining and entertainment. As a child she ate often in fine continental restaurants, was entertained in European and Oriental homes, and spent many weeks at a time on ocean liners. Her life was a social life.

Edith felt there was a need for the type of information on entertaining she could give. "Most such books are written by business women", she explained. "They don't live what they are writing about. They fantasize."

About cookbooks she says, "Many are a terrific hoax on the public. There are no standards. Any ten women can get together and put out a cookbook without even testing the recipes."

What kind of parties do Edith and Julius give? They like small parties with good conversation at home–in the garden in summer and around the fire in winter.

Edith also personally helps other people with parties, receptions, even weddings. She arranges for caterers, musicians, speakers, everything needed for a particular function. She also speaks to groups on entertaining, flower arranging and other related subjects.

With all these interests, Edith's home life is very important to her. Her husband, who owns The Lodge in Charlevoix, now uses her wood carving tools and has an impressive display of his work in his studio.

Her mother, Ethel Wiesinger, has her own home in Charlevoix but joins Edith and Julius for dinner.

In the summer there are long visits from six grandchildren and their parents as well as numerous nieces, nephews, sisters and brothers. Stray cats also find a warm welcome in the Gilbert household.

Tennis in the summer and skiing in the winter round out the life of Edith Gilbert of Charlevoix.

Tennis Talk

Quite often my tennis students will say, "I can hit my forehand all right, but my backhand gives me trouble." Actually, the backhand is no more difficult than the forehand. With a few minor variations the fundamentals are the same.

One main differences is the grip. Using the basic forehand grip as the starting point, move your hand one eigth of a turn to your left or on top of the racquet. The knuckle of your index finger is then positioned on the small flat part of the grip.

This is commonly known as the Continental grip and it is used for all strokes other than the forehand. It will feel weak at first. After a little practice, however, it will feel comfortable for the backhand, serve, and volley.

The first step in hitting a backhand is early racquet preparation. As the ball approaches, turn to your left side (assuming you are a right-handed player) with your feet a comfortable distancs apart.

At the same time take the racquet back with two hands reaching for the back fence.

The racquet should be at waist level or slightly lower. You should use two hands on the backswing to give yourself more control of the racquet. When the racquet is back, your weight should be on the back foot.

As you begin your swing into the ball, your weight should move forward to your front foot. Swinging your arms directly around your body, you should meet the ball at waist level well in front of your body. Notice that your right shoulder is leading your body into the ball.

If the ball gets behind the right shoulder, then the arm carries the total impact of the shot. This is how a sore elbow, commonly known as "tennis elbow" develops.

If you make contact with the ball in front of your body, you then have your full weight behind the shot,. You have more control and accuracy with a lot less effort.

Once making contact with the ball, it is essential you continue your stroke out to where you want to hit the ball. As with the forehand, the follow through gives your ball direction and veloctiy.

Above all, be sure that you actually see the ball make contact with the racquet. All the form in the world will not help your backhand unless you watch the ball. As soon as the ball leaves your opponent's racquet, you should be getting your own racquet back as your pick up the flight of the ball.

Two additional points to be aware of: 1. the stroke begins slightly lower than the waist and ends at shoulder level, 2. your entire body (arms, hips, shoulders etc.) should move into the ball.

Often I am asked if two hands are necessary throughout the backhand stroke. You definitely should use two hands on the backswing.

1st State Bank Wins 19 To 3

First State Bank used a versatile hitting attack and a solid defense to crush Ski & Shore Properties 19-3 last Thursday in Women's Softball League action.

Scoring 5 runs in three innings, First State Bank never let Ski & Shore get started. After just two innings, the score was 10-1. Ski & Shore actually played good defense but First State Bank simply found the holes in the infield.

The first inning was a typical First State Bnnk rally. Robin Pardee led off the game with a solid single. Tammy Mann reached first on one of the few Ski & Shore errors. Kit Kieberman then grounded to second, but Patty Sitzema singled to load the bases with one out.

Julie Christiansen sent a sharp single up the middle scoring two runs. After Lilly Gallager flied out to right field for the second out, Glenda Reedy blasted a long triple scoring two more runs. Judy Elzinga singled in the fifth and final run of the inning.

Ski & Shore bounced back for a run in their half of the first, but every time they started to get a rally going, First State Bnnk would make a good defensive play.

Not only was Julie Christiansen the winning pitcher, but she also hit two home runs in the game. In the fifth, she connected for a 2 run inside-the-park homer, and she followed that with a 3 run-inside-the park blast in the sixth.

The victory allowed First State Bank to keep pace with A&W and Kentucky Fried Chicken. All three teams are undefeated after three weeks of action.

Graplers Go To Alpena

..Everybody knows that schools out and where do you find the grapplers from Charlevoix?

Nine boys spent their first free day of summer in school all day at Alpena with the U.F. Wrestling Federation Freestyle Wrestling Tournament.

The Alpena tournament saw 286 boys in competition in two divisions during the one-day event.

Mike Carland, John Ozga and Norm Probert drove the students to the match.

"This makes the eighth straight month that some of the boys have been wrestling," said Coach Probert.

He said they have had opportunities to wrestle collegiate, freestyle or Greco Roman during that time.

Tim and Pat DeYoung, Bill Belfy, Terry Drew, Mike Snizik, Gary Probert, Dane Whitley, Rex Hodge and Marc Custer made the journey.

Bringing home the only medal was Gary Probert, who took fifth place in the 165-pound class.

SCHOOL'S OUT...and so are the kids!

THINK SAFETY

...it's summer vacation!

Here they come . . . hundreds of youngsters, delighted with the prospect of summer! Because they are young, they won't always be careful—they won't always think about the danger of dashing into streets without watching traffic. That's why motorists must be doubly careful now, when so many youngsters will be out on the streets. Think of the children—think safety!

Zoom...Wow!!! What Is It?

Charlevoix's elementary students received a special treat recently when Earl Muma, of Charlevoix, gave them a close-up look at his Class B Econo-Rail dragster at the Elementary School parking lot.

As the students gathered around, Mr. Muma explained every aspect of the car and what goes on at the track.

The 1300-pound dragster is powered by a Chevrolet engine which developes between 550-600 H.P.

The chassis was purchased in Detroit from Loggie, and the rest of the car was built at his Sunoco station in Charlevoix

He estimated a total investment of close to $7000.

When asked about gas mileage, Mr. Muma explained that the gas tank holds one gallon of fuel.

After three trips down the one-quarter mile strip, the tank is empty.

At the end of one-quarter mile, he will be doing 150 mph, and it takes him 9.7 seconds to get there.

A parachute is used to stop in a distance of approximately 35-40 yards.

Participating in five races this year, he has yet to be beaten.

Considering that the National Hot Rod Association NHRA record is 8.98 seconds, it is easy to see why!

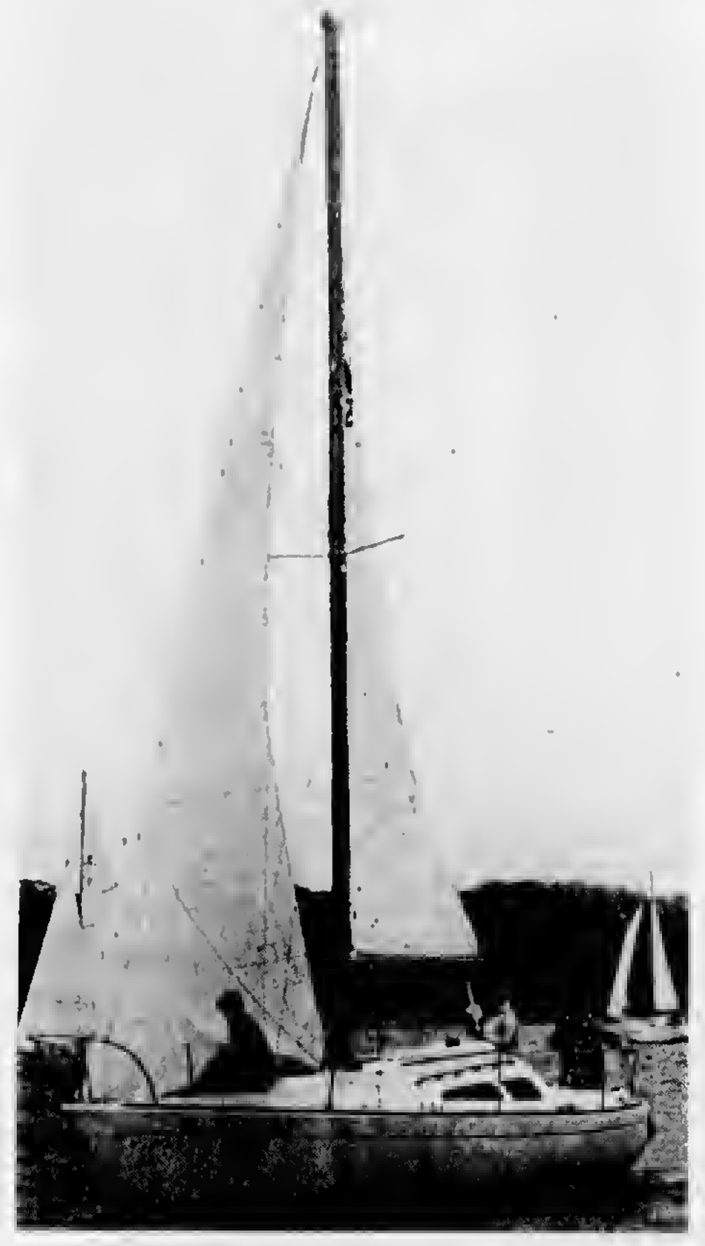
When asked if he had ever had an accident, Mr. Muma told of an incident last year at the end of a race,

His transmission is fully automatic, and when he slipped it into neutral while deploying the chute, he missed and went into "Park" instead.

A new transmission; and he was back racing.

Sponsors for the dragster are: Kendall Oil Company, Boyne Auto Supply and Sunoco.

CHARLEVOIX YACHT Club members braved brisk and rainy winds to race in the club's first seasonal race in Lake Charlevoix Wednesday night.



Learn How To Sail And Do It Free

Every Tuesday during the summer the Charlevoix Yacht Club (CYC) will hold it's sail training program. There is no charge for instruction and is open to anyone interested–members and non-members alike. The schedule calls for the youth class to begin at 2 p.m. with adult classes starting at 6 p.m.

On Mondays, any club member holding a skippers card may race club boats in the "Washday Race Series." The high point skipper of this series will receive "The Best Dam Skipper of the Year" trophy.

Thursdays, the club will hold the Novice Races, which is open to all students as well as any others which are interested.

These races will start on June 20th at 6 p.m. For forther information call Rod Stebbins, Irish Boat Shop 547-9967 or Josh Barnes, 547-2000.

Tennis Tournament June 29

Adults will compete in men's singles and doubles and women's singles and doubles.

Youngsters will be divided into three divisions: 16 years of age and under, 14 years of age and under, and 12 years of age and under.

Each divisions will compete in boy's singles and doubles and girl's singles and doubles.

Youngsters will receive medals for winners and runner-up in each division while adults will receive trophies for each winner and runner-up.

Adults interested in competing must sign-up June 17 at 4:00 p.m. at the tennis courts. A $2.00 entry fee will be required.

Youngsters interested in competing must sign-up June 17 at 4:00 p.m. at the tennis courts. A $1.50 entry fee will be required.

Matches will begin at 9:00 a.m. June 23, 24, 29, and June 30, 1974.

All contestants must furnish new balls for each match.

Sign Up For Golf Lessons

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will offer golf lessons at the Public Golf Course beginning June 24, 1974.

Lessons will be offered for children 8 years of age and older and also for adults. Childrens lessons will be held at 3:00 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Each class will meet for one hour a day for 6 weeks. Adults lessons will be offered at 4:00 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday and at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays.

These classes will also meet one hour per day for 6 weeks.

All students must be registered for classes no later than June 19, 1974. This can be done at the City Golf Course Club House.

Students will be required to pay a registration fee of $4.00 and furnish their own clubs.

The first ten students to register will be accepted. All others will be accepted if room is available.

Paper Drive

Now is a good time to get rid of that excess paper around the house.

The Charlevoix Little League will be conducting a paper drive, Thursday, June 13 to raise funds for operation of the league.

You are asked to bundle and tie, with twine or string, old newspapers-no magazines or glossy paper, please.

A truck, will be in the Bartlett and Buller parking lot at the corner of Bridge Street and Hurlbut between the hours of 9 a.m. to 4-4:30 p.m.

Persons unable to deliver paper to the parking lot are requested to call Auxiliary Members, Mrs. Sally Geer at 547-2587, or Mrs. Lorraine Kelly at 547-9409 for pickup.

John Pearl, Charlevoix, is handling the sale of paper

Participants Needed

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will sponsor a City Golf Tournament at the Public Golf Course in Charlevoix.

Golfers may sign-up for the tournament at the Golf Course Club House and must do so no later than June 19, 1974.

The tournament will be held through the month of July.

CAMPER and VAN OWNERS!
Solve your sleeping problems with the New

by World Products, Inc.
Use your Inflate-a-bed as a permanent mattress or store it away for overnight guests. Use it in a camper or trailer, or doze your way across a lake on it.

Inflate-a-bed's unique,* patented "air coil" construction makes it as stable and comfortable as expensive mattresses. No frame or innerspring is needed. Inflates in just 2 or 3 minutes by using an ordinary home vacuum cleaner and the special adapter included in the Inflate-a-bed kit. This "spare bedroom" can be quickly deflated, returned to its container and stored in a very small space.

Inflate-a-bed is constructed of rugged 20 mil. Poly Vinyl Chloride, essentially the same material used by the growing inflatable boat industry.

Inflate-a-bed is available in bright red, black and avocado green. The durable, velvet-like upper finish was produced by electrostatic impregnated rayon and is easily cleaned with soap and water. You can't wash out the color or finish.

Inflate-a-bed comes with a vacuum adapter and repair kit...and is fully guaranteed.

Inflate-a-bed -- it's your permanent mattress, your spare bed, a bed for camper or trailer, and a comfortable float for pool or lake!

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S fluoride program is used by area youngsters to prevent tooth decay in later years.

No Cavities

Look Mom...

Have you talked with your teeth lately?

Next time you sleepily stare at them in the mirror, you might try talking to them.

They'll probably tell you that there's more to caring for teeth than brushing them.

In fact, if they belong to a person under 12-years-old, they'll recommend you put them on a Topical Fluoride Program sponsored jointly by the District No. 3 Health Department and Michigan Department of Public Health.

Some 92 sets of young teeth in Charlevoix already know about the program.

They're undergoing the cavity-prevention program right now in the basement of the Charlevoix library.

"It helps reduce caries (cavity and decay)" says Debbie Distel of the State Health Department.

The dental hygienist from Detroit has been working with local second, fifth and eighth graders in the program.

Youngsters participating in the Topical Fluoride program first have their teeth polished and then on three other occasions have the application placed on their teeth.

Assisting Ms. Distel with the program on a volunteer basis is Mrs. Gertrude Schmidt.

Mrs. Schmidt said that after retiring last year from local work, she thought it would be nice to now do something for her community.

"So here I am," she quipped.

Ms. Distel, a University of Michigan dental student, says she enjoys the program.

"I think it's kind of fun working with kids," she said.

"It's something that has to be done and I'm glad to do it."

The program moves to Petoskey after it is finished this week in Charlevoix.

SOME 60 youngsters participated in the clinic that was held in the basement of the Charlevoix library. The fluoride program is jointly sponsored by District No. 3 Health Department and the Michigan Department of Public Health.

CHARLEVOIX GARDEN Club members began working on the city gardens last week on the north side. The flower's were donated by Frank's Flower Shop.

Commencement exercises were held Friday evening, May 31 for the 8th grade class of the Atwood-Ellsworth Ebenezer Christian School in the auditorium of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church. The address was given by Dr. Jerrian Van Dellen.

The graduates were Coleen Bascom, Mark Postmus, Luann De Vries, Debbie Coltson, Donald Rozema and Tom Van Stedum. Lilacs trimmed the ends of the pews and the graduation arch was decorated with daisies.

Jill Alward and Dale Vanniman were kindergarten escorts and the 6th and 7th grade students were honor guards. Mrs. Martin Rubingh played the organ for the processional and recessionals. Diplomas were given by Mr. Krause, principal of the school, and Bibles were presented as gifts from the School Society by Harry De Groot, school board president.

The class of 1974 chose the daisy as class flower, class colors were light blue and white. Bible texts were Romans 3 verse 23 and Pslam 51 verse 7. The class motto was "The love of Jesus" and the class song was, "Isn't the love of Jesus something wonderful?"

Three teachers are employed by the school-Mr. Krause and Miss Postma have renewed their contract and Miss Harlene Padding of Drenthe has been engaged to teach the middle room.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Kooyer and Mr. and Mrs. John Kooyer attended the funeral of Dewey Clapsaddle at Brown City Monday. Mr. Clapsaddle was formerly of the Echo district. He passed away in the Cadillac Hospital. They also called on Connie Bratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bratt. Connie teaches Christian School in Imlay City. She is a niece of Mrs. John Kooyer.

ALWARD ANNIVERSARY

About 120 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Alward called at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Strange, Sunday afternoon, June 2 to congratulate them on their 40th wedding anniversary. Maynard and Pearl have lived in the Ellsworth area all their married lives and are the parents of seven children, 4 daughters and 3 sons, namely Mrs. Polly Strange, Mrs. Shirley Farrell, Mrs. Betty De Young, Mrs. Donna Heeres, Bill, Jerry and Ray. There are also 18 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild.

A family supper was enjoyed Sunday evening. All the children live around in the community. Mr. and Mrs. Alward left Monday on an Eastern camping trip. Maynard served 20 years as janitor of the Community School.

Mrs. Ronald Barber

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dean Barber have returned from a wedding trip to Carmel Calif., to make their home at Lompoc. The couple was married at the Calvary Baptist church in Lompoc May 25.

The bride is the former Janice Arlene Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Green. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barber are the parents of the bridegroom. Both families are from Lompoc.

The Rev. Wallace A. Turner and the Rev. James Dahl officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 100 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a full length beige lace and taffeta empire gown for her wedding. Her beige net veil was secured by a Juliet cap of lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds, daisies and baby's breath.

Vicki Finley, as maid of honor, wore a green dotted swiss gown. Mrs. Donald Barber, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wore a yellow dotted swiss gown. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Donald Barber assisted his twin brother as best man. Douglas Barber, another brother, was groomsman. Steve Bennett, step-brother of the bride, Don Jones, Terrell Day and Dean Morris seated the guests. Sharon Miller, step-sister of the bride, lighted the candles.

Mrs. Green wore a lace trimmed gown of turquoise and white and a white rose corsage for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Barber, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and pink chiffon gown and a white rose corsage.

A reception followed at the church hall.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Pasadena (Tex.) high school. The bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Lompoc High School and is assistant manager of Happy Steak restaurant.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Cornelia Woodrich of Deerfield Fla., and the late Elmer Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray of Charlevoix. The Murrays were in Lompoc for the wedding.

Bloom

In a home wedding solemnized late Saturday afternoon, Ms. Patricia A. Bloom of Charlevoix and Robert J. Schr of Petoskey and Fort Lauderdale exchanged their marriage vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Salone of Harwood Heights, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Weinrich of Petoskey.

The Rev. John Kirkman of Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Petoskey officiated at the single ring service in the presence of their immediate families and close friends. Garden flowers arranged by Mrs. Lucien Berryer formed the setting for the ceremony at the East Bay View home of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length gown of pastel blue and white fashioned with a wide lace band at the waist for her wedding. She carried a bouquet of white roses, blue carnations and baby's breath.

Ms. Dorothy G. Lee of Indian River and Charlevoix, as her only attendant, wore a long white gown accented with baby blue trim. She carried a bouquet of blue daisies and white mums.

Mr. Weinrich assisted his son as best man.

A champagne reception followed with Mrs. John Ford of North Canton, Ohio, sister of the bride, serving the wedding cake.

After a brief northern Michigan wedding trip the couple will be at home at East Bay View, Petoskey. They plan to spend the winter at 1227 S.W. 18th Ave., Fort Lauderdale.

The bride is employed at the Charlevoix County State Bank and by Colwell, Inc., Realtors. The bridegroom is manager of Bob Baker Shoe Stores in Petoskey, Fort Lauderdale and Naples, Fla.

Wedding guests were present from Ohio, Illinois, California, Florida, and area communities.

Crain

KALAMAZOO—A Western Michigan University academic scholarships has been awarded to Connie Crain of Charlevoix who will enroll at Western this fall.

Ellsworth Commencement

Commencement exercises for the 18 seniors, who will be graduating from the Ellsworth High School, will be held in the Schools gymnasium Saturday, June 8, at 8:00 p.m.

The speaker at the commencement services will be Max Ellison, the Northern Michigan poet.

Max Ellison was raised in the Bellaire area and went to school in an area known as Frog Holler. Moved to Belleville, Michigan, raised hogs, also raised horses.

Moved back to Bellaire where his wife was employed as Social Worker with Char-Em. Now they live in Conway; she is working at Petoskey Mental Health Clinic.

Max is lecturing and writing full time - has written 3 books - has another coming out in the spring. Was named unofficially the "poet laureate of Michigan" when Gov. Milliken was inaugurated. He wrote a poem for the inauguration and read it there.

Nadine Chellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chellis, will present the Valedictory address and the Salutatory address will be give by Nancy Wynsma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wynsma.

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday with the Rev. Marvin VanderVliet of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church presenting the message.

Other members of the class include: Shelly Batten, Cynthia Boss, Colleen Donaldson, Steven Essenberg, Ann Evans, Robert Grose, Kay Harthorn, Brian Lemond, Allen McConnel, Joni Peterson, Janet Saunders, Leslie Smith, Fredrick Vail, Paulette VanderSlik, Jerry VanStedum, Dennis Way.

The Moorish Touch

YOU FIND it along the sunny Mediterranean coasts of North Africa, Italy, France and Spain. In the New World it has flourished for centuries in Mexico, California and Arizona.

AND NOW Harbor Bay Co. has brought the dazzling white stucco and graceful lines of MOORISH architecture to Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

HOMES BEARING the exquisite MOORISH TOUCH are now open for your inspection at Castle View Subdivision on Wickersham Road, just across M-66 from Castle Van Haver, and at Bay Shore West – a new 40-lot subdivision in an aromatic pine plantation overlooking Little Traverse Bay and Lake Michigan — just west of Bay Shore on U.S. 31 North, between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

IF YOU demand privacy and appreciate "something different" from the cedar shake chalets that have set the architectural tone in northern Michigan in recent years, you'll be delighted by the cheerful warmth of THE MOORISH TOUCH at both Harbor Bay Co. developments.

YOU'LL FIND a cloistered garden nestled in the corner of your own private court-yard...you'll welcome guests to your home under handsome stuccoed arches reminiscent of the Old World...summer evenings you'll entertain under the stars on a leafy patio screened from the eyes of the outside world by a free-standing wall of stucco and wood.

THE MOORISH TOUCH follows you indoors as well – massive chalk-white fireplaces; stately arches that divide rooms but leave treasured open-space in tact; hammered bronze lighting fixtures, hand-crafted in Mexico to blend with the MOORISH architectural theme.

OF COURSE, homes at Bay Shore West and Castle View are carpeted throughout and have all of the elegant appointments Charlevoix area residents demand in both their seasonal and year-'round dwellings: two-car garages, electric heat, washers and dryers (in the bedroom area where they belong), smart step-saver kitchens and plenty of room to live and love — all with THE MOORISH TOUCH. Desirable homesites are also available.

California Reform Victory Warning to Michigan

California voters' overwhelming approval last week of a tough political reform initiative has prompted Michigan Common Cause to remind state legislators that they have a similar action in mind for Michigan.

With three-quarters of the votes counted, the results are going 70 percent in favor of California Ballot Proposition 9. The proposal, which requires financial disclosure by public officials and places strong regulations on campaign financing, lobbying, and conflict of interest, has been the subject of intense campaigning on the part of opponents and advocates. An unlikely coalition of business, labor, and the Chamber of Commerce, working to defeat the proposal, was ranged against a variety of citizen groups, including: The League of Women Voters, People's Lobby, American Association of University Women, Southern California Council of Churches, Sierra Club, National Women's Political Caucus, and the California Teachers Association. Chief among the advocates groups was Common Cause, the citizens organization that has been actively working for political reform at all levels of government for more than three-and-a-half years.

John Gardner, founder and National Chairman of Common Cause, commented today on the significance of California voters' approval of the proposal. "The citizen's victory on Proposition 9 in California", Gardner said, "sounds an trumpet blast that will be heard throughout the state capitols and in the Congress of the United States. Despite efforts of the opposition to confuse the issue, the California electorate spoke decisively. They want a political and governmental system that is open, accountable and unbought." "The California action", Gardner continued, "should send a shock wave through the House of Representatives which has been putting on one of the greatest stalling acts of the century on campaign finance reform."

In a reference to Gardner's comment, Al Swerdlow, Oak Park, Chairman of Michigan Common Cause, said he thought the Michigan Legislature could qualify for a close second in any competition for stalling on campaign reform. Swerdlow said he saw little chance for enactment of any campaign legislation--good or bad--in time for this year's elections. "There has been an abundance of talk for over a year", Swerdlow continued, "about the passage of lobbying, campaign finance, conflict of interest and open meetings legislation. Today, with only a short time remaining until summer recess, and most legislators turning their attention to the annual appropriation measures and their own reelection campaigns, the scoreboard for the enactment of political reform measures is zero."

"The initiative procedure", Swerdlow said, "is intended as a tool to enable the people to act when it is felt their elected representatives have failed to respond to their needs. California is a significant example not only of the effective use of this tool, but of the determination of the people to bring about political reform." "Judging by actions of the State Legislature during the past year", he said, "it appears the people of Michigan will have to resort to the initiative procedure in order to bring about the reforms they need and deserve." Swerdlow acknowledged that Michigan Common Cause has already formed a committee which is drafting plans for ready implementation when a final decision on the petition drive is made next fall.

BOB CLOCK SHOULD HAVE COME TO KIT CARSON LUMBER FOR HIS PAINT!

Did you read "Clockwise" last week?

Poor Bob! He thought he had bought blue paint but when he began painting, he found it was a bright shade of purple.

He should have come to Kit Carson Lumber for his paint where he would have found our complete stock of "factory-mixed" colors in all paint lines.

(We can even mix exotic colors too - if that is your desire.)

competitive business, usually order their daily or weekly coin needs from a commercial bank. A bank gets its supply from two sources–the Federal Reserve bank and large commercial customers such as vending-machine operators. The Fed shipments decreased sharply a few weeks ago and the commercial supply has dried up completely, an official of one large Los Angeles bank said.

First National Bank of Dallas, which used to receive $10,000 in pennies from the Fed each week, has been cut to $2,000 to $4,000. The bank has to limit customers to a maximum of $5 in pennies daily.

In Philadelphia, Girard Bank had been getting $20,000 of pennies weekly, but now gets $6,000 worth. The bank can offer its largest customers only $50 of pennies a week.

Meanwhile, the merchants themselves have come up with new ways to generate–or eliminate–turnover of pennies.

In Detroit, William Goslce's doughnut shop raised the price of coffee to 25 cents from 20 and cut the price of doughnuts to 15 cents from 16 after Detroit Bank & Trust Co. trimmed its weekly supply of pennies to $5 from $35.

In Atlanta, the local McDonald's restaurants offer to trade an Eisenhower dollar and a regular-size soft drink for each 100 pennies customers bring in.

In Pittsburgh, the Downtown Burger King fast-food restaurant asks customers for the correct change during slack periods.

In Chicago, Jewel Cos., which operates a supermarket chain, said its stores are offering $5 food certificates for 475 pennies. The idea has kept the retailer in pennies, a spokesman said.

In Orinda, Calif., Cecil Jolley, manager of Black's Grocery Market, says that on weekends, when the penny pinch is most severe, "we just go around borrowing–service stations, restaurants, anywhere we can." The store also gives one-cent mints instead of pennies as change at the checkout counter.

Elsewhere, stores and shops are asking employes to bring in pennies, and banks are pleading with school children to empty their piggy banks. At Filene's, a chain of Boston area department stores, employes recently brought in $150 in pennies.

In San Antonio, banks were notified yesterday by the Fed there won't be any pennies available until at least July 1. Commercial banks, in turn, passed the bad news along to their retail customers. San Antonio banks now have signs posted that say: "Checks cashed for even amounts only."

The Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago said it recently has been unable to supply pennies to its member banks. One official said he doesn't see any end to the shortage.

The Pittsburgh Federal Reserve office estimates 35 billion pennies are squirreled away. While some observers blame the speculators, others aren't so sure it isn't simply a long-felt disdain the American public has for carrying around a pocketful of copper.

term was created by the resignation of the Rev. Duane Imig in March when he moved from the district. Nathan Boss was appointed to the vacancy until the June 10 election.

Mrs. Wieland is no newcomer to the school scene, having been a teacher in the Indian River and Boyne City schools prior to her marriage.

During the past 10 years she has returned to the classroom as a substitute teacher.

She is the former Ardeth Howe of Boyne City and a Michigan State University graduate.

She has been active in the Farm Bureau Women's organization on a local, regional and state basis and in various school groups including the P.T.O. She also was chairman of the High School Study Committee of the Citizens Advisor Committee.

Her husband is a dairy farmer.

They have four children.

Martin is a native of Charlevoix and a graduate of the Charlevoix high school.

In recent years he has been involved with the track program at school and during the past two years has assisted Mrs. Marie Osterberg in the girls' track program.

He owns and operates Art Dry Cleaners.

He is married to the former Elaine Taylor.

They have two sons.

Boss also is a native of Charlevoix and a graduate of the local high school.

He is presently manager of Puff's Appliance of Petoskey.

He has additional training in business management through numerous seminars.

He is married to the former Myrna Veenstra.

They have three children.

The newly-elected members will assume their duties at the first meeting in July.

Commission

English and History at North Central College.

Incumbents who have turned in petitions are Delbert Ingalls, District 1; Ira L Davis, District 4; Ralph C. Richardson, District 5; Thora Kotowich, District 8; Barney Milstein, District 9; Harry Tompkins, District 11; John Kujawski, District 12; and Donald Meggison, District 13. All are Republicans.

Most of the other incumbents are expected to file before June 18.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix during the last two weeks by District Judge Arthur Reibel:

Gregory Bowen, East Jordan, assault and battery, plead not guilty. Case continued.

Thomas Antoine, East Jordan, simple larceny. Fine and costs, $60. restitution, $60.

Carl Swanson, 22, Charlevoix, malicious distruction of property. $34 fine and costs plus work program.

Nina Kerr, 27, Boyne City, drunk and disorderly. One day in county jail, restitution for attorney.

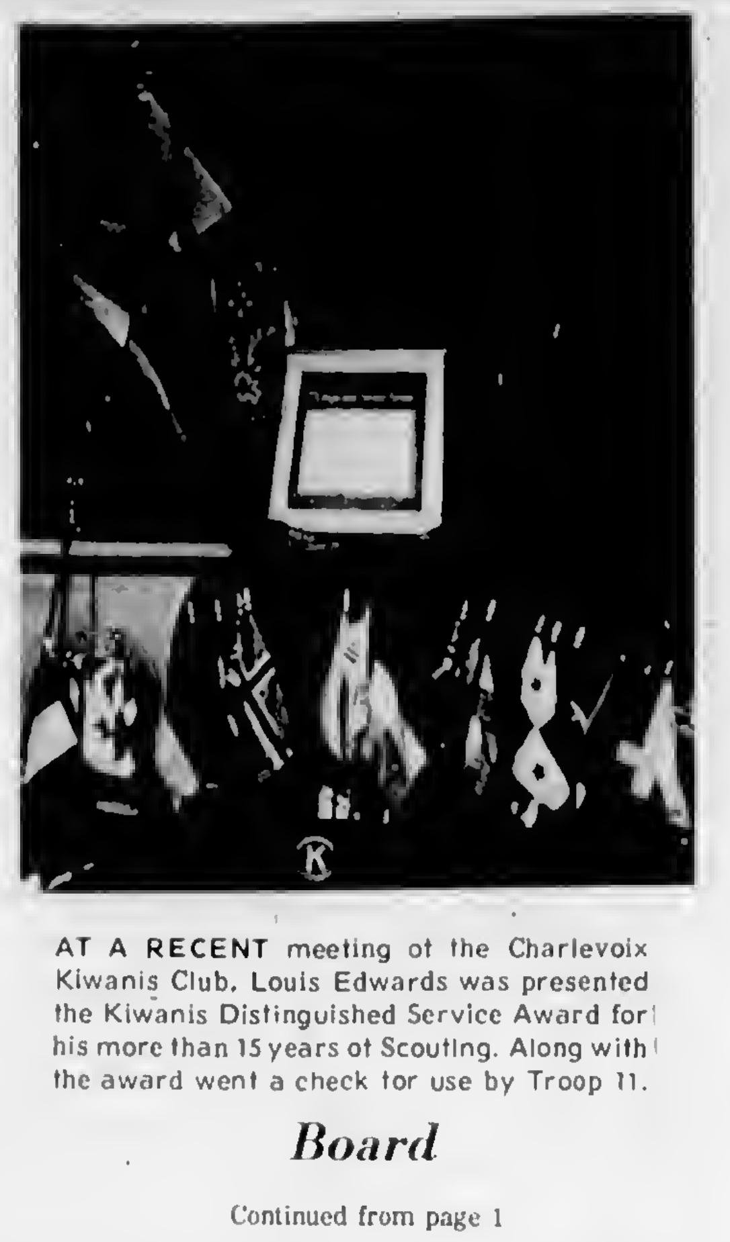
Anthony Bateman, 20, Harbor Springs, eluding police officer and defective equipment. Plead guilty, case continued.,

Roger Marker, 46, Elk Rapids, driving under the influence of liquor. $200 fine and costs plus license suspension for 90 days.

Robert Whiteloom, 28, Charlevoix, drunk and disorderly. Plead guilty, sentencing at later date.

Donald E. May, Jr., 23, Boyne City, driving under the influence of liquor. Plead not guilty, requested jury trial, case continued.

John Gregware, 23, Mount Clemens, breaking and entering, Plead not guilty, requested court appointed attorney, case continued.



AT A RECENT meeting of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, Louis Edwards was presented the Kiwanis Distinguished Service Award for his more than 15 years of Scouting. Along with the award went a check for use by Troop 11.

Board

Four other matters were tabled to await the outcome of the millage vote: the carpeting of the library area which is being transferred from its present site to the former study hall; the employment of the City Recreation Director in cooperation with the city; the purchase of three lots in Hampton Village as sites for future Building Trades houses and recommended salary raises for aides, secretaries, bus drivers and cafeteria personnel.

The board received a report by Miss Geri Stanko, Middle School principal, on textbooks that have been recommended for purchase following a study by Middle School teachers. A decision regarding the recommended books, most of them in the science area, will be made at the June 24 meeting.

Supt. McKimmy and Max Novak spoke briefly on the School Employees Retirement fund now in the legislature. A report by Mrs. Joy Mudge, school librarian, regarding expenditure of Material Center funds was circulated to board members for their information.

The next meeting of the board, the last of the fiscal year, is scheduled for June 24.

AYH
YOUTH HOSTEL

AYH--A Man's Life

The once favorite pastime of a former Charlevoix resident has been willed to the future generations of America.

It came in simple ceremonies held in grassy fields just outside of Charlevoix last Saturday.

If Albin Durance were still alive today, he probably would have been proud of his 81-year-old sister who help dedicate the Durance Youth Hostel Memorial property with 16 members of the Youth Hostel Councils from Detroit and Grand Rapids.

There wasn't too much to say. Miss Frances Durance was just doing what she thought her brother, who died a year ago, would want done with his portion of the old family homestead.

At last Saturday's dedication held on property near the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, not too much really took place.

But eventually, a Youth Hostel will be erected to accommodate one of thousands of American Youth Hostel (AYH) members who might be looking for some supervised lodging on their sojourn through Northern Michigan.

"We used it for a pasture," explained the spry-gray haired woman about the 23-acre field that has been in her family since 1919.

"It really has been used since 1929."

The wrinkled faced woman, who had a slight twinkle in her eye, began to relate how her brother became aquainted with American Youth Hostels some years ago.

"He was a very ardent AYH'er," she explained about her brother first becoming acquainted, with the organization when working in Detroit.

"I thought the property could be used for that organization probably better than for anything else."

Having come from a family of 10 children, Miss Durance said her brother always enjoyed being outdoors as a boy and AYH was just the perfect organization when moved downstate to Detroit to work.

She said her brother was able to get an opportunity to sail, as well as camp and bike.

It was catching, because when he moved back to Charlevoix 20 years later to retire, he was able to easily get his sister to join the AYH.

"A Hostel is supervised," she explained about the program.

parents and belong to the order

In addition, the international organization is for people of all ages.

"It's meant the same to me as did for my brother," she said.

"It's my recreational life."

Now there is only a sign on the location, but eventualle it the location, but eventually it will be a part of a chain of operated throughout Michigan for bicycling, horseback riding, canoeing, skiing and hiking groups.

In the U.S.A. and Canada it can be a school, camp, church, student house, mountain lodge, community center, farm home or specially built facility for overnight accommodations. Over seas, hostels can be found in old castles, villas, even retired sailing ships!

The word hostel comes from an old word meaning inn.

At the hostel, houseparents receive the hostlers when they arrive.

Usually a retired couple, houseparents, enjoy people and outdoor life.

They make travelers feel at home, and provide safe, suitable surroundings for mixed groups. Often owners of the hostel property, they take a deep personal interest in its appearance and upkeep, and in the observance of hostel customs.

Some American hostels are sponsored by a local organization or committee of townspeople. They are chartered by the National Headquarters of AYH.

They meet standards set by AYH and are inspected by Field Staff.

There are separate dorms and washrooms for fellows and girls, a common kitchen where hostelers may cook their own meals and, usually, a recreation room.

Bunks, blankets, cooking utensils and cleaning equipment are provided but everything is self-service.

Hostels are located in 47 countries, each with its own national youth hostel association. All national associations -- including the U.S. -- belong to the Individual AYH passes may use all hostels abroad.

By International agreement, each hostler carries a Youth Hostel Pass, issued by his own National Youth Hostel Organization.

The majority of hostels in the U.S.A. are located in New England, Middle Atlantic, Great Lakes and West Coast states - usually in scenic, historic and recreational areas, as well as in cities.

Often they're close enough together to hike or bike from one to another.

AYH is currently establishing a new system of hostels which will place the facilities only 350 miles apart, in strategically located areas and conductive to hosteling whether educutional or recreational in nature.

Youth hostel customs are time-honored, common-sense practices based on consideration of others and are outlined in the various Hostel Handbooks.

Reibel Blasts City

Beaver Island Boat Company's right to lease Charlevoix's city docks may be in for some rough waters next Monday night.

The challenge followed arguments made Monday night by Arthur Reibel to city council that his boat company also be allowed to bid on usage of berths A and B, now apparently committed verbally by council to the Beaver Island Company.

And if the council doesn't consider his bid next week, the Charlevoix District Court judge has threatened to take legal action against each city councilman individually for what he termed "not meeting their responsibilities."

The judge's action was apparently sparked by a certified letter he received earlier in the day from Beaver Island Boat Company Attorney John Michael of Charlevoix.

The letter advised Judge Reibel that a lease agreement has been entered into between the boat company and the City of Charlevoix for both berths A and B on Round Lake.

"Your tug, the NorthShore, has been moored at berth A for a period of several weeks without the consent of the Boat Company, and you are hereby requested to vacate the said berth A upon receipt of this notification as the lessee has an immediate need for the use of said berth," Michael wrote in his letter to Reibel.

However, Reibel pointed out Monday night that his lease on the berth didn't run out until the end of the month and that the letter was factly incorrect.

After learning that the council had verbally accepted an offer from the Beaver Island Boat Company to the lease the berth at a previous meeting, Reibel asked his bid also be considered.

"I don't think you have individually met your responsibility when you let those bids out for $2,000," he told the council.

Reibel asked how this compared to the rate pleasure crafts have to pay when using city docks and challenged the city's decision to rent to commercial docks for a much lower rate.

Bill Supernaw said this was business the city council should have taken care of much earlier, since the present leases expire at the end of the month.

Mayor Ed Hansen replied that the city had been persuing the leases quite regularly, but that they were attempting to work on costs estimates to repair the present buildings located at the dock so the costs would be picked up in the lease agreement over a 10-year period.

"You didn't give the May Street people any chance to negotiate," Supernaw retorted.

City Checks Huffords For Possible Error

City officials will be trying to determine whether or not they were mischarging Hufford Industries Inc. of Charlevoix for industrial electrical usage during the next few weeks.

The city has placed a special meter on the company's present line after charging last week that the company owed over $4,000 in electricity because of a city billing mistake that has occurred since 1968.

However, before the tooling company pays the city anything, company officials are interested in knowing if there really is a mistake.

City Administrator Robert Wexstaff had told city council that the company had paid only $182 for electricity off of the meter since it was first installed in 1968.

But City Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace along with several other councilmen indicated at last night's council meeting they were surprised to learn later that Hufford had two meters at his plant and had been averaging payments of $250 a month for electricity usage.

"I was not aware the company had two meters," she said, continuing that she had had the same impression the Charlevoix Courier had given in a story in last week's issue.

In actuality, Hufford Industries has paid over $11,000 to the city since July, 1968.

Company Vice President Walter Hufford said the majority of the money had been paid from its single phase meter that measures electrical usage for such things as lights and small hand tools.

The three-phase meter, which is in question, is used to measure large machine electrical usage and is used very little by the company, Hufford said.

"I'm not all that convinced they are right," Hufford said about the city's claim.

"I can't believe we used 40 times the amount shown on the meter."

Hufford said if the city can prove to his satisfaction they owe the money, he said they will pay.

"We have no quarrel and are trying to be good corporate citizens.

In a statement to the Courier Monday, Wexstaff said there was no intention on the part of the city to imply that Hufford Industries was trying to avoid paying its fair share of the power bill.

By FRAN MARTIN

A veteran crew of 17 headed Fletcher Campbell of Grand Rapids was the winner in the first annual Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Raft Race held here early Saturday afternoon.

They topped a field of 16 entries in the first raft race held on a 1¾ mile course on Round Lake. Their time was 22:21. They represented the Kelvinator Compressor Co. of Grand Rapids.

The Eichler brothers, Richard and Robert, of Vassar, both supervisors at General Motors, came in second with a time of 23:49 after leading the field until late in the race.

Taking third place was a raft manned by four U.S. Coastguardsmen skippered by Richard Stearn. Their time was 36:24.

Winning the prize for the most creative entry was the Grey Gables Inn skippered by Dave Phillips.

The LaBlance Agency entry, a grass shack complete with Hawaiian dancing girls, received honorable mention.

A spokesman for the judges said the LaBlance entry was pretty but the Grey Gables entry, designed by Al Breeze, which had a grill on which the crew was preparing hamburgers, the replica of an organ playing music from a tape recorder and a small cafe showed more creativeness. This category received a prize of $25.

The top three winners received prices of $100, $50 and $25, respectively.

The next five winners and their times follow: John Powell and Ned Henley, 39:36; Connie Doherty of Petoskey and her crew, 43:02; Steve Hufford with a crew of six, 44:20; Frank L. Hibbard

Council Sets Speaking Limit

Those not on the agenda and wanting to address Charlevoix City Council will be limited to five minutes.

The speaking limit, called for by Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace, came after Petoskey radio newsman Bill Supernaw grilled both the Mayor and city council for nearly an hour Monday night on city police and direction.

During the regular council session, Supernaw questioned the mayor on a variety of subjects ranging from whether or not he thought he was doing an adequate job to the capabilities of the acting city administrator.

"I object very strongly to Bill Supernaw being allowed to go on for 50 minutes," Mrs. Wallace told the council after the questioning by Supernaw.

She suggested a speaking limit be placed on those not on the agenda and continued to criticize Supernaw for his action.

"I think he took advantage of us," she said.

She said she didn't think it was fair for him to call his own press conference during a council meeting and take away from the agenda.

Mrs. Wallace said it wasn't particularly fair of Supernaw, since the other two newspaper reporters, who attend the meetings don't regularly conduct themselves that way.

The council then agreed to establish a new policy.

With recent charges that the city was raping the city electric fund, Supernaw asked the mayor to explain what transfers had taken place.

Mayor Hansen said that $18,500 had been transferred in 1972-73, while only $6,850 in 1973-74. He compared this to the three previous years when $51,000, $69,000 and between $85 and $90,000 had been transferred to the general fund.

Mayor Hansen said he had been accused of robbing the electric fund, yet last year less than 10 percent had been transferred--the lowest ever.

As far as a north side power station, Hansen said the city was told by Consumers Power to build up the lines as much as they wanted and they would be furnished all the necessary electricity.

Hansen admitted there might have previously been a problem with electrical

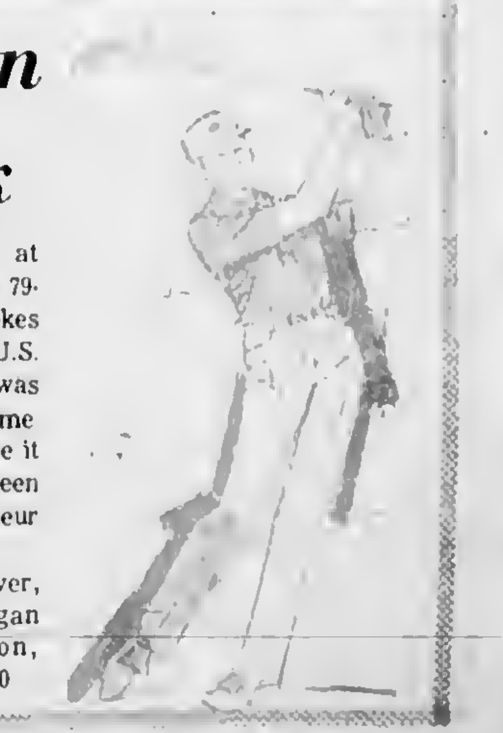
63rd Michigan Amateur Golf Open Draws More Than 280 This Week



The 53rd annual Michigan Amateur Golf Championship opened at the Belvedere course here and the Harbor Point Club at Harbor Springs when the first of a field of more than 280 golfers teed off at 8 a.m. this morning (Tuesday).

On hand for the event was the 1973 defending champion, Bob Chapman of Farmington, who was in a foursome that entered the competition at 10 a.m. Tuesday. He will play the second 18-holes of his 36-hole qualifying round at the Harbor Point course at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Other former champions in the field are three-time titlist, Melvin "Bud" Stevens of Livonia; Glenn H. Johnson of Detroit, a five-time winner of the title and Ed Flowers of Farmington who goes back 35 years to 1939 when he won his title.

Missing from the ranks will be Pete Green of Franklin, who announced Sunday from Mamaroneck, N.Y., where he had been participating as an amateur in the U.S. Open, that he would not be coming to Charlevoix for the Michigan Amateur.

He made the announcement after missing the 36-hole cut-off at Winged Foot, shooting 79-80-159 to miss by six strokes one of the toughest U.S. Opens ever played. He was among many big name players who didn't make it into the playoffs. Green won the Michigan Amateur in 1969.

One who did, however, was the 1968 Michigan Amateur Champion,

"Meet the Candidates"

Cavanagh Speaks In Boyne Sunday

Jerome P. Cavanagh, former Detroit Mayor and now candidate for Governor, will headline a "Meet-the-candidates" sponsored by Charlevoix and Emmet County Democrats Sunday in Boyne City.

Now practicing law in the City of Detroit, the former mayor is in wide demand as a speaker and lecturer before audiences throughout Michigan and the United States.

In addition to his law practice and his involvement in public affairs and community projects, Cavanagh, until this year, served as a Professor of Public Policy at the University of Michigan and as President of Urban Synergistics, Inc., an urban consulting firm, which he organized with former New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Jr.

Cavanagh was a political unknown when he scored an upset victory in 1961 over the incumbent mayor. He was reelected four years later.

At 33, the second youngest mayor in the city's history, Cavanagh quickly developed a national reputation for the imaginative and practical programs which he instituted in Detroit.

Other candidates who plan to attend are Paul Knutson, Negaunee, running for Congress in the 11th District, and, if possible, his opponent for the Democratic nomination, Francis D. Brouillette, Iron Mountain.

Fay Lee, Onaway and Michael Barnett, Alpena, both running for State Representative in the 106th District and Glen Law, Jr., running for State Representative in the 107th district will be present.

Two candidates for positions on the State Board of Education, plan to attend; Gladys Beckwith of Lansing and Roger Tilles of Flint.

Four people seeking two nominations to the U of M Board of Regents have accepted invitations to attend the picnic; Sarah G. Power of Ann Arbor, Dr. John Reed Kozxa also of Ann Arbor, and Thomas Roach and David Olmstead, both of Detroit.

Eleven other candidates have been invited in addition to local county and township candidates, who will no doubt be responding this week.

Other guests will include representatives from the Democratic State Central Committee, including Barbara Sawyer, Northern Field Staff representative.

Charles "Tony" Duerr, Charlevoix, will introduce the candidates and guests.

Admission to the picnic will be free to all members of the Michigan Democratic party. Party memberships will be sold at the picnic and there will also be admission tickets for non-members.

Janis Dietrich of Ironton is in charge of membership and ticket sales.

Martin Paul, Boyne City, who is Charlevoix County Democratic chairman, Lyle Heinz, Harbor Springs, who is Emmet County Chairman, Paul Brown of Petoskey and Margaret Duerr, Charlevoix will be on the welcoming committee.

Ken and Rosemary Glaser, Petoskey are in charge of the sale of tickets on a $250.00 Savings bond to be given away at the picnic.

Hot dogs, relishes, potato chips, coffee, soft drinks and beer will be served, with Clem Wagner, Charlevoix, in charge of refreshments.

Fran Martin Charlevoix, and Jean Rosewig, Walloon Lake are the purchasing committee for food and beverages.

Don and Joan Giem, Boyne Falls, will have charge of children's entertainment.

All Democrats and friends who live or are vacationing in this area are cordially invited to attend the picnic to get better acquainted with each other and the candidates.

Reform Needed

Aging Commission Set

TRAVERSE CITY — A University of Michigan gerontologist called for total reform on Michigan's educational system to prepare people for old age Friday.

Speaking before the Northwest Regional Planning and Economic Development Commission, Woodrow Hunter, director of U of M's Institute of Gerontology, said region-wide programs on pre-retirement should be developed in cooperation with community colleges.

"We need now to begin teaching our youngsters what it means to be old," he said about reforming elementary and secondary programs.

With the advent of more leisure time, Hunter said education should gear themselves to training people for more than one occupation.

He added that society needs to educate itself towards a belief that old age has nothing to do with usefulness.

"Our responsibility as community planning groups is to create more options for these people," he said.

Hunter was addressing both the regional planning commission and the 25 members of the newly formed Aging Council.

The council is made up of 25 members, two representatives from each Northwest's 10 counties plus one representative from each major urban area in the region.

Its members were nominated by the county boards of commissioners and city governing units and were then appointed Friday by the Planning and Development Commission.

The program planner from Northwest Regional Planning Commission will be Ron Crummel.

Hunter said gerontology research has shown that the most important thing to a person in old age is his relationship to people, not things and added that a council on aging should give carefully study to maintaining social relationship for older people.

The U of M specialist suggested that Aging Council give immediate attention to mobilizing educational services on the community level.

He also suggested the council assess the available resources for older people; work toward achieving a well-informed older citizenry possible by providing a directory of resources and providing a directory of resources and protective services.

He predicted that an increasing number of older adults would be moving to the region, promoted partly by the increase in early retirements.

Charlevoix County Council representatives include Vern Whitford, Ruth Behrens and Mary Geiken.

The Michigan Commission of Services to the Aging will hold a public hearing on Friday, June 28, at the Chalet Inn from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The purpose of the hearing will be to discuss a proposed state plan for programs on aging funded on the Older Americans Act.

A summary of the proposed plan is available for reading at libraries and other public institutions throughout the Michigan.

The act involves $2.2 million in federal funds for operation of aging programs throughout the state, in addition to a nutrition program for seniors in congregate setting and home delivery of meals to shut-ins.

The nutrition program involved $3-6 million in federal funds.

A UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN Gerontologist addressed the Northwest Economic Development and Planning Commission last Friday in Traverse City. He told the commission about a need to establish new education programs to cope with aging

Local Group Gets Underway

The new Charlevoix County Commission on Aging got off the ground at an organizational meeting held last week in Boyne City.

Officers were elected, a proposed constitution presented, and early priorities discussed.

Mrs. Ruth Behrens, Boyne City, was elected chairperson of the commission. She will be assisted by Vern Whiteford, East Jordan, vice chairperson; Margaret Sorenson, Boyne City, secretary; and Mary Geiken, Charlevoix, treasurer.

Representatives to the Northwest Regional Planning and Development Commission in Traverse City, the official administering body, are Mrs. Behrens, Mrs. Geiken and Whiteford. They attended a meeting in Traverse City last Friday to become indoctrinated with the program.

The top need of senior citizens in Charlevoix County at this time is transportation, according to Mrs. Sorenson. With that in mind, the Commission on Aging has applied to the regional commission for three mini-buses, one each for Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City. The request is now under consideration.

When fully organized, the Commission on Aging will provide services for all persons in the county who are 55 years of age or over. According to the 1970 census, there were 3,448 persons in this age group, 1,268 of whom were over 70 years of age. These numbers are probably greater now.

A check list of services and programs which might be available shows several broad categories.

They include Health, Medical Care, Rehabilitation; Mental Health; Housing; Home Services; Earning Opportunities; Education and Retirement Planning; Community Education and Information Services; Financial Assistance and Benefits; and Activities In Retirement.

A ONCE Quiet swamp area and nesting grounds for ducks living on Walloon Lake has turned into another access for some 50 residents at a near-by subdivision.

Bay Township

Development Destroys Nature

A gravel road public access to Walloon Lake could end up being a raging war between Walloon Lake Property owners and a suburban Detroit developer.

The feud started over a year ago when Walloon View Brae Developers began tearing down trees on Hemlock Point at the West Arm of Walloon Lake.

According to several sources and a sign on Eagle Island Road, the new gravel road is for those who bought property in Walloon View Brae to have access to Walloon Lake.

However, adjacent property owners are clamoring over the damage the road has brought to the area, particularly to a duck breeding area they claim exists at the road site.

At this point, no one is sure anything can be done to recover the alleged damage.

Bay Township Supervisor Carl Skornia said that the roadway was orginally in violation of the county zoning ordinance because too many trees were taken away to provide an adequate buffer strip between neighboring lot owners.

However, since the county-wide ordinance was voted out in referendum last August, Skornia said the county didn't have much legal ground to stand on.

And as far as he can determine, the road is not in violation of township zoning.

But some local residents are mad.

Mrs. Elizabeth Post, who has summered in the area for 20 years, says she's concerned about the potential danger of the road to ducks nesting in the area.

"They have come here and we have fed them for years," she said.

"I just feel the ducks must have bred here."

However, she's more concerned about the threat the road will bring to the lake with another access for more boaters.

"My concern is overusage of boater rights," she coninued.

"Overusage of what the lake can support is the way of human spoilage."

Mrs. George Hall, who has the property next to the road, said she and her husband first noticed construction of the road last summer.

"One night when they were burning, the sparks were so bad that we had to move into town," she said about the roadway construction.

She said their first impression was that the property was being cleared away for some more houses, but later found it not to be the case.

"It's kind of disturbing to know you have a 50-family access right next to you," she said.

Mrs. Hall said the developer was cited for cutting down the trees, but that the damage is already done.

"I feel it has devalued our property," she said.

Mrs. Hall, like several other residents, contacted the Department of Natural Resources, but apparently to no avail.

Unless, the road comes right to the lakeshore, state officials say they have no authority.

Charles Shick of the DNR's Wildlife Services says a need would have to be established before it could be declared a wildlife santuary and then it could only be designated if certain birds were nesting there.

He said the commission considers designation of these areas only once a year at its August meeting.

In order to be placed on the agenda for consideration, the DNR official said the district biologist in Gaylord would have to make a on-site evaluation.

Shick suggested something might be done locally with zoning, however local officials don't see how that could be accomplished.

Commission Race

It Looks Like A Hot One

By PEG OHLE

The most hotly contested seat on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in the upcoming primaries will be that of District 3, now held by Clayton A. Smith.

Smith, a Republican who represents Charlevoix and Hayes Townships, is being challenged by two other Republicans.

The latest entry into the race is John E. Haggard, local plumbing contractor. A native of Charlevoix, the 33 year old Haggard is married and the father of three children.

Earlier, Donna Jane Dove, a court reporter, had filed for the Republican nomination.

Tusco Heath, a college professor and horseman, has filed for the Democratic nomination in District 3.

Another Republican contest will take place in District 2 between incumbent Clyde Cunningham and Willis L. Peters.

Challengers for three other seats on the Board of Commissioners filed petitions last week. Theodore E. "Ted" Browe, a Democrat filed in District 15, which is now represented by Republican I. Lee Moerland, Rudolph Florenski, Democrat, filed in District 11, now represented by Republican Harry Tompkins, and Melvin Niswander, Democrat, filed in District 8, now represented by Republican Thora Kotowich.

Browe, 40, is employed by the Browe Electric Service in Charlevoix. A resident of Charlevoix County since 1940, he is married and the father of seven children.

Niswander is a self-employed carpenter. He is 48 years old, married, the father of seven children, and has lived in Charlevoix County since 1956.

Two days before the petition deadline, all but four of the incumbent commissioners had filed for the primaries. Harry Griffin, District 6; Anthony Kullik, District 7; Kenneth Staley, District 14; and I. Lee Moerland, District 15, had not turned in petitions.

With the exception of Browe in District 15, no one had filed petitions in the above districts.

The Democratic nominees for commissioners' posts have been encouraged by the Citizen's Information Service, which is spearheading a drive to break the Republican hold on county offices.

Karl Waldner of Boyne City, head of the C.I.S. is the Democratic candidate in District 5. Other running with C.I.S. blessings are Mrs. James (Patricia) Betz, District 9 and Marty Paul, District 10, as well as the above-mentioned Peters, Heath, Niswander, Florenski and Browe.

Soil Erosion Act Won't Do Any Good

Michigan's proposed rules for the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Act of 1972 are a farce.

We are glad the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners realized this last week and decided to send the matter to its planning commission for possible creation of the county's own rules.

Concerned about the state losing more than 40 million tons of soil from Michigan's 11 million acres of agricultural cropland annually, soil experts began working with state legislators to come up with some type of mandatory program several years ago.

In addition to the heavy loss of soil, Michigan is in the unique position where there is no spot in the state that is six miles from a stream.

Therefore sediment, by its volume, is the state greatest pollutant which has been interferring and destroying natural plant growth.

We agree there should be something done to prevent this serious problem, however the rules the state is now proposing show direct interference from special interest groups.

One of the biggest problems with the rules that go into effect next month is that no time was given for cities or counties to develop their own administrative agencies to enforce the rules.

And we hardly feel a two-day training session in Lansing is sufficient to prepare those who will have to enforce the rules.

Secondly, there are no requirements stating what qualifications a person must have to administer the program.

A closer examination of the state's proposed rules also reveal that many of the sections conflict and negate each other.

We feel the Department of Natural Resources should extend the July 1 enforcement date and review the rules.

As they stand now, the rules would have very little strength or effectiveness in Charlevoix County.

In the meantime, Charlevoix County should continue at a rapid rate to adopt its own rules so they will not have to follow the state guidelines.

Gasoline Purchasing Poorly Handled Here

It was quite a shock for us to learn last week that the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department did not have its own gasoline supply source.

We can hardly imagine that until this time they have had to purchase gasoline for their patrol cars from local dealors.

We are glad the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will be curbing this practive with the purchase of gasoline storage tank.

In a time when economy in governmental expenses is necessary to keep taxes down, we feel this is a good move.

Troubles Not New

Speaking of Americans' confidence, or lack of it, in their major institutions in general and business in particular, one businessman is determined to do something about it--so far as positive thinking can help, at any rate.

Warren M. Pace, president and chief executive officer of Richmond Corp., a Virginia-based financial services company, has announced that part of his form's 1974 advertising budget will be devoted to showing that "hardship and controversy are part of our American heritage. So is overcoming them."

One advertisement sponsored by the company lists 119 "great and not-so-great moments in American history," ranging from the harsh first winter in Jamestown in 1607 through all the nation's wars and crises to the more freshly remembered winter of the 1973 energy crisis.

The rationale behind the campaign, says Pace, is twofold: "First is the message itself. Each generation of Americans has been confronted with problems and discouragement. Today's generation is not unique in this respect, but there are those who would have us believe that our nation has never faced problems of such magnitude before.

"Equally important, we want to illustrate that American business is deeply concerned over the social, economic and political difficulties facing our nation. With its traditionally positive approach, business can do much to counter the efforts of the purveyors of despair."

Unfortunately, the "'purveyors of despair'' don't need to dig back 366 years to come up with a list of not-so-great moments in American history. There was surefeit of them in 1973 alone and this year promises no shortage.

But as the message shows, Americans are no strangers to adversity, and the pessimists have a job cut out for themselves to prove that we have lost our ability to overcome it.

Michigan Library Assoc. Supports State Bill

Editor:

The financial plight of small public libraries in Michigan could be alleviated through the passage of Senate Bill 831, introduced by Senator Wm. Faust (D. Westland) and now in the Senate appropriations committee.

This bill provides the framework for regionalization within which libraries can form alliances to give more economically complete library service.

According to the latest survey, made by the Michigan Library Association, of public libraries in the state, it is estimated that the average library has had a net loss of $.07 per capita in non-local revenues in the period since 1969.

This was broken down on the following basis:

	1969	1974
Penal Fines	$.41 per capita	$.13
State Aid	$.05 per capita	$.30
Federally Funded Magazine Grant (based on estimated value of $1,000 for magazines received)	$.05 per capita	$.43

Further decline in penal fine revenues for local libraries, combined with the inflation factor, will continue to erode last year's increase of 25 cents in state aid (the first since 1937).

The strengths of existing libraries play an important part in the Faust bill. Libraries will be allowed to retain their individual identities while combining into regional systems, based on population and geographic areas.

Senator Faust has emphasized that in order for libraries to get the proposed increase in state aid ($1.50 per capita for regional libraries and 50 cents per capita for local libraries) these public libraries must make certain commitments.

Local public libraries would be required by the state Board of Education to submit a plan for regionalization which would include some of the following services to all members:

"A central pool or rotating book collection; a centralized purchasing operation; audio-visual services; reference and bibliographic services in service training and centralized processing, including cataloging and marking."

Each region would be different in the kind of services given, since it would write a plan compatable to the area served.

This bill, carrying an estimated price tag of $9 million, would guarantee financial stability to existing library programs. It would enable libraries to gear up their services to meet the informational and self improvement needs of the citizens of Michigan, and would bring to closer reality the possibility of intra-regional borrowing of library materials across the state.

The Michigan Library Association has urged its members and other interested citizens to actively support immediate action for the passage of S.B. 831.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

Katie trudged into the house the other day, eyes glistening.

"Amy's dead!" she announced dolefully.

I was busy mitering corners on half-inch quarter round for framework around the kitchen heat register and my saw stopped in mid-stroke.

"Amy who?" I said, fully expecting to learn that one of Katie's little playmates had been fatally injured on the Whirly-Bird in the backyard.

"Just Amy," she replied matter-of-factly.

"She must have a last name," I persisted.

"If you don't know, Amy was Diney Tollas' moth. She caught her yesterday and all of the dust came off her wings. She didn't even live 24 hours in captivity. But we're going to have a funeral for her and we need a casket. May I use some of your wood?"

"When's the funeral?" I asked, resuming my mitering.

"Not until tomorrow," Katie answered. "But we need the casket right away. May I have some of your wood?"

"You can have what's left over when I finish," I answered magnanimously, as my mind wandered back to the days when I was 10 years old and conducted marvelous funerals for kittens, frogs, rabbits, goldfish, turtles and every little creature that had the misfortune to die in the 4200 block of Larchmont-ave. in Detroit. Archeologists will bve puzzled in some future era when they come across the bones of so many tiny creatures in one city lot. They'll probably think there used to a Chinese restaurant nearby.

And before I knew it I was 10 years old again, caught up in the grim preparations for Amy's funeral. I had about a foot of quarter-round left over when the heat register frame was finished and volunteered to help build Amy's casket. Although I had never known Amy personally, we were suddenly very close.

Katie agreed to let me help, so together we built the most magnificent casket any moth has ever used to embark upon the great unknown. The base was a block of wood three inches square, with quarter-round sides, mitered at the corners.

"I don't know what you're going to do about a lid," I told Katie as I sawed and pounded. "But this casket is going to be so fancy it won't need a lid."

"We'll think of something," Katie answered happily, hopping up and down on one foot and then the other.

"I suppose you know that Amy's a pretty lucky moth," I continued as I maneuvered another of the tiny mitered pieces into place. "Most of the moths I knew go Splat against the windshield and that's it. No funeral, no nothing. The next time I stop for gas the attendant washes them off with a sponge. Amy sure is a lucky moth."

When I finished, I handed the casket to Katie and she bolted out the front door.

Two hours later, I was summoned onto the front porch to view Amy's remains, now lovingly enshrined in the casket, which I hardly recognized under several coats of red, blue and pink paint.

"We used Diney's watercolors," Katie said proudly.

"It looks very Egyptian," I answered trying to be non-commital.

If I had been 10 years old, I would have preferred a plain wooden casket, with maybe a little varnish or shellac for class.

The top had been sealed with overlapping strips of Scotch tape. Amy was plainly visible inside, spread-eagle on a folded piece of toilet paper.

"She looks very nice," I said to Katie, who appeared to be the head mourner, although it wasn't even her moth. It's always a problem what to say to the next-of-kin.

The next two hours, Katie ransacked the house looking for Bibles, Prayer Books and religious tracts to assist her with the funeral oration she would deliver the next day. Since all of our books have been packed away in the basement pending our imminent departure for Beaver Island, her search was futile.

By suppertime, she was ready to ask for help.

"What do you say at a funeral?" she demanded.

"That's easy. 'Dearly beloved, we are gathered together to join together this man and this woman in the holy estate of...' No, No, that's for weddings. Let's see. 'From ashes to ashes and dust to dust.' That's good. They always say that."

"But what's it mean?" Katie asked.

"Well, let's try something else," I hedged. " 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed..."

But Katie had bolted out the door and was gone. She was so fed up with the ineptituce of her 10-year-old father that she didn't even invite him to the funeral the next day.

Local Group Organizing Photography Club

To The Editor:

A local group is organizing a photography club and would like to hear from persons who are interested. Meetings during June & July will be held on the first & third Tuesdays of the month in the Parlor of the First State Bank of Charlevoix. Time is 8:00 P.M.

Initial aims of the club areas follows:

1. Share & improve techniques in taking & developing pictures.
2. Promote the concept of photography as an art.
3. Lay plans for holding an outdoor photography exhibit in the summer of 1975.
4. Locate a permanent meeting place & hopefully equip a dark room for the use of members who do not have one at home. At present this is our most urgent need and we would appreciate hearing from anyone having ideas on the subject.

We sincerely hope that anyone interested in this great hobby will be at the next meeting. As yet the group has not officially organized, preferring to wait until a larger core of interested shutterbugs comes forth.

Thanks kindly
Dr. Robert Martin

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

The term 'economist' denotes a financial expert with wisdom akin to the Oracle of Delphi, and although they can tell you how to make a million bucks they are stumped by the simple question,

"With a panic price of $1.20 a pound, where can coffee be found for a dollar?"

Millions of us everyday economists, who buttered our bread with meat grease during the depression, can answer without hesitation,

"In the kitchen cupboard."

The profoundness of this answer lies in its simplicity, It fulfills the vow of those who once had nothing, never again to be caught short. If we heeded the precautions learned from their bitter lesson, shortages in our households would be the exception rather than the rule.

With a freezer compartment full of meat and shelves filled with staples we could turn a deaf ear to wall street speculators crying 'Wolf'. There would be no more mad dashes to the corner market for snacks with the arrival of unexpected guests.

Having ten pounds of coffee in reserve will eliminate the last minute need to shop twenty miles away due to the 'shortage'. Three gallons of gas ups the price of $1.20 coffee to $3.15; unless, of course, one has the foresight to purchase two pounds and shave the price to $2.68.

Bargains are not confined to the supermarkets and can often be found in country stores off the beaten path. Develop a taste for nutritious home-made soup and cook it in the largest available pot. Soup reaches its richest flavor on the third day. Crumble in some cracker bits and save those tasteless TV dinners for the free loading relatives.

I digressed momentarily a characteristic of one bordering on senility. Now, where was I? Oh yes--the soup. One time, having gnawed the last stasty shred off the shank of a 59 cent a pound picnic ham with my factory teeth, I went shopping for a couple pounds of dried peas to soak overnite as a budget helper.

Like any savings conscious shopper, I first compared the supermarket price (69 cents) against Ollie's shelf price (31 cents). The 38 cent saving resulted from an enjoyable vacation in the U.P. where I visited a vintage frame store in a town boasting a single page phone directory.

The tourist oriented price in Ma & Pa grocery was 31 cents a pound and when I plopped the bags (the entire inventory) on the counter I was favored with a look indicating that all visitors are slightly daft.

Perhaps he was right. Only a fool, even in our odd-ball society, would reflect on his sanity in the eyes of others for the saving of a mere $3.80 plus tax.

If it Fitz

The Shadowed Alumnus

By JIM FITZGERALD

A guy named Dick Sullivan just phoned and said I should write something about the St. Stephen alumni dance this year because I forgot to do it last year. Which is an unfair charge.

I did write about that dance last year, remember? It was held at the Port Huron Legion and I was the only 1940-50 graduate present who hadn't spawned at least 16 children. I danced every dance with a raincoat which, come to think of it, probably helped explain my barren state to curious classmates. A London Fog might be romantic but not when it has buttons in front and a rip in the back.

But last year's scintillating report was of no use to Sullivan because it came after the ball was over. He wants pre-party publicity to help swell the crowd. He probably has the raffle concession.

As a bona-fide graduate of St. Stephen's, Sullivan probably wants every alumnus to bring a can of peas or a bag of potatoes. As you enter the dance, you give your groceries to Sullivan. Later, his crew will sell you a $1 raffle tickets on the food. If you're lucky, you might win back your own can of peas. Which you would be well advised to donate to the starving children in China or you'll never get to heaven. Raffle profits go into the alumni bail-bond fund.

This type of raffle might sound weird to a nonalumni. But that's exactly how the nuns kept St. Stephen's afloat during the depression. An 11th commandment said: "Thou shall not scream and pound the wall when thou children swipe thou canned ham and then say onto thou that thou must purchase tickets on thou ham or Father McCormick will excommunicate thou children from all recesses from this day on."

I attended St. Stephen's in the shadow of my big sister, Terrible Jean. So did most of the students, for that matter. Jean is of such magnificent stature as to block the sun from entire cities. But my shadowed position was more than physical. It was a mental depressant for a young boy to be constantly compared to his big sister and found lacking.

She was what is usually described as a leader. She was always making speeches and leading scrap drives. I was a follower, so far behind that the scrap I collected for World War II was dropped on Cambodia.

Father McCormick always visited the school to distribute report cards. I still cringe at the memory of the day he finally wearied of handing me D's and E's. It was the same week that I'd playfully tripped a friend who crashed through the school window. Father McCormick looked at me over his glasses and gave a shattering appralsal of my worth which began like this: "You can't really be Jean Fitzgerald's brother. They must have made a mistake at the hospital...."

And it wasn't just brains. In the 9th grade I took my 90-lb. body out for football. The coach treated me warmly and I was flattered until I learned his mc'lvc. He wanted me to help him convince Terrible Jean to play fullback.

But, as usual, I digress. I merely intended to follow Dick Sullivan's order and urge all St. Stephen alumni and spouses (no matter how much they might kick and scream) to be at the Port Huron Legion Friday, July 19, from 9 p.m. to Lord knows when.

I'll be there, although you probably won't see me. I'll be wrapped in a London Fog in a shadow of Terrible Jean the Leader who will win 1st prize for selling the most raffle tickets.

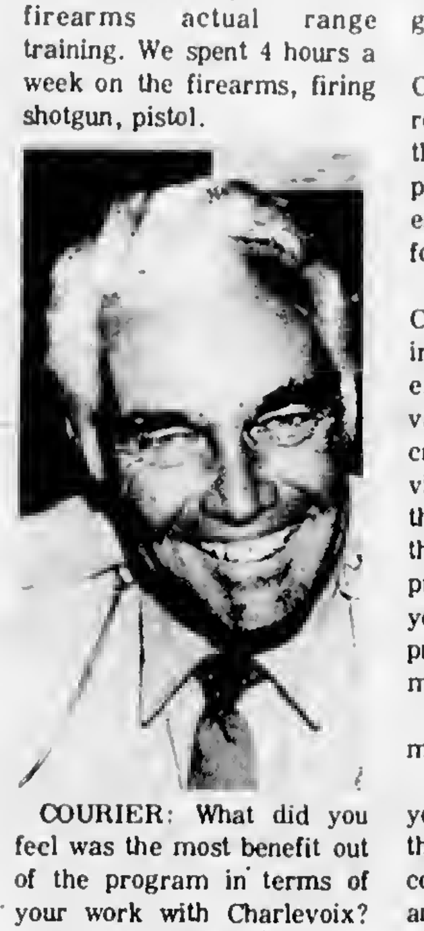
Meet Charlevoix

Meet Chief Jack Mol

COURIER: You just recently came back from the F.B.I. Academy in Washington, D.C. What was the purpose behind it?

MOL: The purpose of the National Academy in Quantico, Virginia is to update and enlighten the students there as to the present laws which rapidly change. The perspectives of Police Management, behavioral science, what makes an individual function, forensics science which is the study of art, if you will, evidence, collection, preservation, packaging and delivering to the crime lab, what the crime lab can tell you, what they can't tell you. We took a course in communications, which was, in essence, public speaking, firearms training, to better familiarize the individual with the nomenclature and functions of handguns, automatic weapons, and a good deal of firearms actual range training. We spent 4 hours a week on the firearms, firing shotgun, pistol.



COURIER: What did you feel was the most benefit out of the program in terms of your work with Charlevoix?

MOL: I think probably the behavioral science class.

COURIER: Why was that?

MOL: Behavioral science dwells on number one, sociology, number two, psychology, number three, criminology, and number four, political science. It made you better understand the people that you dealt with because the functions of a Police Department are not to just put someone back in a cage somewhere.

COURIER: What do you feel then is the function of the Police Department?

MOL: The number one function of a Police Department is crime prevention. By crime prevention, I mean a Police Officer or a Police vehicle on the street where the public can see it. That's one of the reasons that our vehicles are painted the way they are. We are not trying to hide patrol cars. We are trying to make them obvious for two reasons. Number One, the average citizen will see them. Number Two, a person who needs some help can see them more readily and that is why they are painted the way they are. Getting back to the functions. Number One is crime prevention, the people who are on the street and the people in the Police Department, employees, police officers, they are on the street, this is where they can do the job. The Number Two function of a Police Department is the public relations, and I almost question they go hand in hand. If you have got one without the other, you have got nothing.

COURIER: The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department recently released figures of the crime in the counties, particularly breaking and enterings, what is the picture for Charlevoix itself?

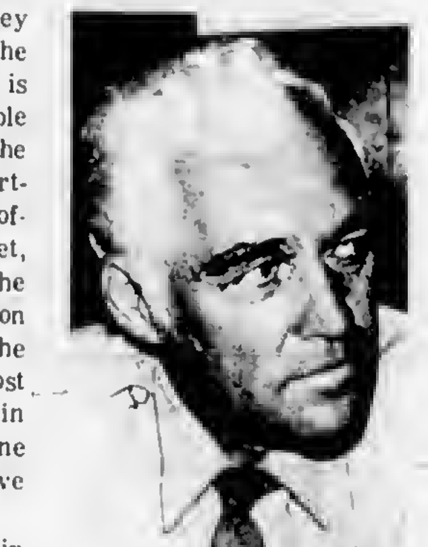
MOL: The City of Charlevoix has had a steady increase in the breaking and entering type crime, the vandalism or malicious type crime. Basically, the traffic violator has gone down, and I think this is due basically to the radar unit which was purchased by the city last year. Again, the radar unit is a preventative type device in my way of thinking.

COURIER: What do you mean by that?

MOL: If the public knows you have one and are using it, they are going to be more conscious of the speed they are traveling and that's the name of the game. I really don't care if an officer in this department ever has to write a citation if the people in the community will obey the traffic laws, we've done what we're here for.

COURIER: We were talking about breaking and enterings being up, what can people and residents in Charlevoix do to secure their homes more to prevent breakins?

MOL: When they go away on an extended period, by an extended period, I am talking of a week, 2 days even, or a longer time period. Stop number one - the mail, the newsboy, the milkman, anything that leaves visual signs of the fact that you are not home. They can buy devices that will turn their lights on in the evening on a time clock. They can be ever conscious of the fact that lock your doors, lock your windows, don't invite people to come in your home when you are not there. Just a few simple little things will greatly aid the community, the Police Department and the individual.



COURIER: Should they contact their neighbors and the Police Department if they are going away for a long period of time to sort of keep an eye out on the house.

MOL: We appreciate this. It's done to some extent but not to as great an extent as we would like to have it done. If we know that somebody has no business on a particular residence, and we see a light, a match, a flashlight, a wire, we are certainly better armed to find out why it's in there. We invite people to come in and tell us if they are going to be gone. We make a list, we keep a roster on who's gone, how long they are going to be gone, who's got keys in case a window breaks, so we can can get in and see what the problem is. If the individual who is leaving, will give us a list of their repairmen, we can tell the repairmen there is a window broke at such and such a place that should be fixed, save any water damage, other damage, whatever the case happens to be.

COURIER: One of the new programs at the Middle School has been the Open Room, could you tell us a little bit about it?

AMOL: The Open Room, to the best of my knowledge, originated in Alaska, in a large community in Alaska, to do nothing more than to show the youngsters that Police Officers are human beings.

COURIER: What do you mean by that?

MOL: We are not some type of a monster, and we are just like their fathers, just like their brothers, uncles, whatever. We conducted an Open Room in the Middle School this past year until the time that I left the community for three months. I feel a fantastic response. The youngsters would come up to the room, they could be excused from their class and come up to the room. We tried to keep it to an hour and it got away from us - it lasted a lot longer than that for the simple reason that you couldn't answer all the questions that the youngsters had in an hour period. It was nothing to have 20 to 40 youngsters in the room all at once.

COURIER: What kind of things do they talk about?

MOL: They talked about what the law is on many many type of situations such as where can I ride my minibike, where can't I ride my minibike, are you going to have a hunter's safety program this year so that we can get our hunting license can we look at the Police car, what do you have in the Police car, just a multitude of questions. We did as well as we could do answering all of these questions. We didn't feel that any question that any of them wanted to ask was so minute that we didn't want to answer because that 's what we were there for.

COURIER: Do you feel the program will be continued next year?

MOL: I sincerely hope so, yes.

COURIER: Talking about youth, what is the drug situation here in Charlevoix?

MOL: I would be an extreme optimist if I said we didn't have drugs in the community. I feel basically that the drugs that are abused in this community today are basically marijuana and alcohol. The hard chemicals, hard drugs if you will, are not existent but very low. Youngsters seem in this day and age to be going back to alcoholic beverage.

COURIER: Does there seem to be a particular explanation why?

MOL: A possibility is the fact of the 18 year old being able to purchase alcoholic beverage today. Prior to the age of majority, the 21 year old was buying it for the 18 year old. Today it seems to be that the 18 year old is buying it for the 16 year old.

COURIER: Do you have any other programs in the community besides the Open Room that are offered by the Police Departent for Charlevoix residents?

MOL: We have held gun safety programs to enable the youngsters to get a hunting license, we have had many hour lectures to youngsters in the Middle School, youngsters in the K-4 school. We have put on bicycle programs, bicycle safety programs if you will. We have talked to the various service clubs. We have had drug seminars, we put together a drug kit, if you will, or drug display, actually drugs that we have confiscated in the community, the drug paraphernalia, that type of thing. We are willing to go anywhere within the corporate limits of this community and put on any program that we are capable of putting on.

County Will Not Administer Soil Act

BY PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County will not attempt to administer the state Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control program which goes into effect July 1.

Instead, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has asked the County Planning Commission to prepare a county program based on state rules but eliminating ambiguities and setting forth rules more applicable to the local situation.

In a resolution passed by the Commissioners last week, they say that because the state rules were not made available until late May and early June, they have not had adequate time to structure an administrative staff and program.

Instructions to the Planning Commission are that they prepare a proposed county Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control program, hold necessary public hearings, and present the proposal to the Board of Commissioners for adoption as soon as possible.

The County Planning Commission is also asked to suggest a manner of administration of the proposed program, location of administrative offices, and a fee schedule.

The introduction to the state Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control program cites the fact that no spot in Michigan is more than six miles from a stream or other body of water and that eroding soils are readily deposited as sediment in these waters.

In Charlevoix County, about three-tenths of a ton, or 600 pounds, of soil per acre are lost by erosion each year, and this eroding soil eventually finds its way to a nearby body of water.

Purpose of the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation program is to regulate the acitvities of all persons and businesses engaged in earth moving so that soil erosion may be reduced.

The program will cover work done by transportation facilities such as road commissions, railroads, and airports

Subdivisions, trailer parks and multiple housing will come under rules of the program, as will industrial and commercial development, shopping centers, schools, sanitary land fills, parks, and campgrounds.

Utility companies will have to follow certain rules when laying underground pipelines and cables, and permits will be required for water impoundments and waterway construction or improvements.

Normal agricultural and land operations by owners of five acres or less are not covered by the program.

Prior to January 1, 1979, persons farming more than five acres may be exempt from the regulations by entering into agreement with the appropriate soil conservation district to pursue such agricultural practices in accordance with the rules set forth by the Water Resources Commission.

After January 1, 1979, they will be subject to enforcement.

New Home Economist Named

Julia Beard, county extension home economist, has been working with homemakers in the area for about three months. She came to Charlevoix and Emmet counties from Gaylord, where she was in charge of extension work for Otsego and Montmorency counties for over 19 years.

"Extension work has changed radically over the last decade", Julia says. "It is no longer for farmers only".

Right now there are eight active home extension groups in Charlevoix County, and Julia hopes to increase this number greatly in both the towns and rural areas.

The high cost of food, clothing and home furnishings should be an incentive for all homemakers to learn how to do things themselves, Julia says.

The extension home economist program covers everything from preserving food, providing nutritional meals, making wearing apparel and other household necessities to raising a happy family and managing family finances.

Persons interested in starting an extension group are asked to contact Julia at the Federal Building in Boyne City or phone her at 582-6232.

She would also like the names of persons who want to receive the Extension Service Newsletter.

"Young homemakers are especially welcome in the extension program," Julia states.

"It can be a social as well as educational experience and as few as six persons may start a group."

Board Meets Friday

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board will meet at the county building annex at 10 a.m. Friday for a special meeting of the group headed by Melvin Howard of Boyne City.

Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss a fixed millage or voted allocation for Charlevoix county.

Until now the Tax Allocation Board has met each spring to determine how the 15 mills allowed by law will be dispersed among the agencies which now receive allocated millage; namely, the county, school districts within the county, townships and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Group Watches Courts In Charlevoix County

A court-watching committee, formed under the sponsorship of the Anti-Crime and Drug committee of northern Michigan is now in action in the 90th District Court and 33rd Circuit Court here.

Volunteers are attending court sessions and keeping records of time spent on the bench by judges in both court, cases brought before judges and how they are disposed of and charges reduced.

Mrs. Ronald Celaschi is vice chairman of the Court Watchers group. Anyone interested in participating in the project is asked to call her at 547-2239 or Mrs. Phyllis Wojan at 9847.

Information gleaned through this service will be made available to area news media each month.

Mrs. Celaschi said again that this is a non-political and non-profit organization whose objective is seeing that laws are being enforced properly.

A meeting of the Anti-Crime and Drug Committee in Charlevoix county will meet at the community room of the city hall here at 7:30 p.m. July 9. Interested persons are encouraged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Day

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Day will reside in Saginaw when they return from a Canadian wedding trip.

The couple was married at St. Mary's church here Saturday, June 8. The bride is the former Lorraine A. Peters of Cass City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis L. Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Verne Day of Saginaw are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. E. Francis Denay and the Rev. A.B. Gumbleton of Ruth officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 75 guests. Arrangements of garden flowers formed a setting for the ceremony. Mrs. C.D. Geiken, at the organ, played traditional selections and the wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose a gown of white crepe and sheer nylon for her wedding. Heart-shaped lace accented the high neckline, the tiered sleeves, waist and hemline of the gown that had been made by her mother. She wore a picture hat and carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Mrs. Larry McKillip of Petoskey was her sister's matron of honor and Jodi Steffans of Holland was bridesmaid. They wore identical empire gowns of green and yellow crepe and matching picture hats. Their bouquets were of garden flowers.

Richard Day of Long Island, N.Y., was his brother's best man and William Reeve of Saginaw seated the guests.

Mrs. Peters selected a pink floral print street length dress and matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Day, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green and white street length dress and white accessories.

A reception followed at the Weathervane where Betty VanDyke of Coldwater, aunt of the bride, cut the wedding cake.

The bride is a teacher. Mr. Day is a salesman with Evans Products.

Wedding guests were present from New York and several Michigan communities.

A buffet was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peters on Loeb Rd. following the rehearsal Friday evening.

MRS. TIMOTHY J. DAY

Cindy Johnson Married

The United Methodist church of Petoskey was the scene recently of the wedding of Cindy W. Johnson of Charlevoix and Steve Wayne Johnecheck of Boyne City.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald N. Johnson of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnecheck, Jr., of Boyne City.

Arrangements of cream colored carnations and lavender iris formed a setting for the double ring service performed by the Rev. Charles Manker in the presence of more than 200 guests at 1 p.m. June 8. Ross Stoakes of Petoskey was the organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a bell silhouette gown of Cluny lace for her wedding. Ruffling and Venise lace accented the high neckline, the cuffs of the Victorian sleeves and created a V-effect bodice. The full skirt fell into a chapel length train. Venise lace accented the headpiece and veil. Her bouquet was of white delphinium and red roses.

Mrs. Kelvin Johnecheck of Boyne City, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Diane Kay Johnecheck of Boyne City, sister of the bridegroom, was a bridesmaid. Their identical gowns were of blue floral organza accented with Venise lace at the skirt, V-neckline and short sleeves. Delphinium in shades of blue and white roses made up their bouquets.

Kelvin Johnecheck of Boyne City was his brother's best man. Gilbert Johnson of Charlevoix brother of the bride, was groomsman. Delayne Johnecheck, another brother of the bridegroom, and Frank Leist, both of Boyne City, seated the guests.

Mrs. Johnson selected a yellow gown with a yellow floral overlay of chiffon for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Johnecheck, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green gown with matching overlay of blue and green chiffon.

A reception followed at the 4-H Center in Petoskey where Mrs. Gary Loder of Charlevoix, sister of the bride, cut the wedding cake. Melody Johnson was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will be at home in Boyne City.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnecheck, parents of the bridegroom, hosted a rehearsal dinner at their home Friday evening.

Tennis Talk

The serve is not nearly as difficult to learn as most people believe. Nobody is hitting the ball to you.

Therefore, you should take your time so you can hit a good solid serve every time.

The grip is the most difficult part of the serve for most beginners. The natural tendency is to use the forehand grip when learning to serve, but this is not correct. The backhand or Continental grip should always be used.

This will allow you to come down into the ball instead of merely pushing it into the service court.

When serving, your feet should be at about a 45 degree angle to the baseline. The amount you turn to the side depends primarily on the way each individual's arm follows through the ball.

The more you turn to the side the more spin you will have on the ball. This makes it easier to get the ball in. Make sure your feet are a comfortable distance apart.

Beginning at the waist, hold the ball and the racquet together. As you begin to toss the ball directly in front of your body, the hand holding the racquet should move at the same time in back of your head. It is the same movement as a baseball player cocking his arm to throw.

As your arms are going through these motions, your weight should move to the back foot.

When the ball arrives at the peak of the toss, your weight should move into the ball. The arm holding the racquet then reaches up to meet the ball in the middle of the racquet.

You should then follow through the ball as if you were throwing your racquet into the service court.

The entire service stroke is similar to throwing a baseball. The one real difference is that you are throwing a tennis ball up in front of the body.

The three most important factors in serving are: 1. a good toss in the same spot every time, 2. relating, and 3. watching the ball hit the racquet (of course).

The toss of the ball is the real key. You should hold the ball with your fingertips and not in the palm of your hand.

This will allow you to be much more consistent in the toss. The actual release of the ball should not occur until your hand is above your shoulder.

When moving into the ball, try to imagine the ball sitting up there just waiting to be hit.

It is like picking an apple out of a tree. You should make contact with the ball when the arm holding the racquet is fully extended above your head. This will allow for a smooth natural follow through.

Do not worry about how pretty your serve is. It is crucial that you make good contact with the ball with a minimum of movement. This decreases your chances for error.

Wild swings and enormous backswings only make it harder to develop a natural rhythm, and inconsistency results.

Your serve should become like a well-oiled machine. You have total control over the toss and the entire stroke and there is no reason why anyone should have difficulty developing a consistent serve.

Do not worry about power until you have the consistency and rhythm. But if you want more power, all that is necessary is to bring the racquet through the ball faster.

THE CHARLEVOIX LITTLE League Auxiliary members were "camera shy", but not afraid of work as they collected over four tons of old newspapers Thursday, in the parking lot of Bartletts & Butler Decorating Center. Another paper drive will be held later in the summer, so you can start saving now. Although greatly appreciated, it would help these hard-working women and Little Leaguers if the papers were bundled and tied in advance of delivery.

Shed Wins 15-13

The Shed blasted six home runs and 21 hits to nip the Coast Guard 15-13 last Friday night.

Gary Stuzman and Gale Sheldon led the attack with two home runs each.

The narrow victory allowed the Shed to remain undefeated.

It was a hitter's game from the outset.

The Coast Guard managed two runs in the top of the first and the Shed countered with three.

In the second, the Shed temporarily blew the game open.

Stan Smith, Frank Muma and Roy Fortin all singled and Stutzman hit his first homer scoring four runs with no outs.

Pete Spieles then singled and Glen Taylor followed with a home run to end the five run inning.

After a scoreless third, the Coast Guard began fighting back. With one out, Craig Trout, Dan Rester, and Terry Lybarga all singled to score one run. Jim Witham forced Lybarga at second, but Chuck Matters stroked a three-run home run.

After Joe Shark reached first on an error, Gregg Waller and Greg Rile singled scoring the fifth run of the inning.

The Shed got four of those runs back, however, in their half of the fourth. Glen Taylor doubled home one run, and Sheldon hit his first home run, a three run blast.

The only scoring in the fifth was Dave Woodrow's solo home run for the Shed.

Each team scored several times in the sixth, and going into the seventh the Shed had a commanding 15-10 lead. But the Coast Guard gave the Shed a good scare in the seventh.

File reached first on an error.

Reiher flied to left for the first out, but Oscar Goodreau walked and Trout singled.

Pinch hitter, Joe Dusseau then came through with a two run single scoring File and Goodreau.

Lybarga hit a sacrifice fly to score Trout.

The score was now 15-13 and the Coast Guard had the tying run at the plate with two outs.

Jim Witham flied to left to end the threat.

The Shed needed the victory to keep pace with the Topside. Both teams are in first place with undefeated records.

Roznoski Named Commander

In a Change of Command Ceremony scheduled for 11 a.m. Thursday, June 27, Lt. CDR. Roger R. Roznoski, U.S.C.G., will relieve Lt. CDR. P. Jeffrey Bull, U.S.C.G., as commanding officer of the U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew.

The ceremony will be held aboard the ship which is berthed at the municipal dock.

A formal Inspection will precede the actual change of command.

For the commanding officer, it will mean a return to a former billet for Lt. CDR Roznoski served as Operations Officer aboard the ship from January 1964 to May 1965 when he went to Vietnam as Executive Officer aboard the CGC Point Grey.

CDR. Roznoski comes to Charlevoix from the Marine Inspection Office at Nashville, Tenn., where he served as executive officer and alternate Captain of the Port.

Lt. CDR. Bull, who has served as commanding officer of the 180-foot cutter for the past two years, will go to Governor's Island, N.Y., where he will become administrative assistant to the Chief of Staff, Third Coast Guard District.

Lt. CDR. Roznoski is a veteran of 22 years in the U.S. Coast Guard, having enlisted Aug. 5, 1952. After being assigned to stations at San Diego, Marquette and Munising, Mich., aboard the Cutter Woodrush at Duluth and Green Bay, Wis., he attended Officers Candidate School at Yorktown, Va. where he was commissioned an Ensign in January 1964.

Following duty here and in Vietnam, he was with the Marine Inspection Office at Seattle, Wash., for three years before going to Juneau, Alaska, as executive officer aboard the CGC Sweetbrier from July 1969 to June 1971. He was at Nashville from July 1971 until coming here this month.

Lt. CDR. Roznoski was accompanied here by his wife, Carol, and four of their five children, Kelly, Linda, David and John, who will attend Charlevoix schools this fall. Another daughter, Molly, is enrolled in college in Nashville after graduating from high school this spring.

Michael Zinn is spending his summer vacation with his mother Mrs. Joan Zinn after attending school this past year at the University in Tempe, Arizona.

Several neighbors and friends attended the wedding of Enos Bacon Jr. and Mary Waller of Central Lake Saturday evening at the Wayside Chapel near Atwood and the reception at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. They have the best wishes of our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Woodbury of Grand Blanc and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Woodbury of Davison were guests of their brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woodbury this past weekend.

Local friends are extending congratulations to David Ballard on being a member of the graduating class from the Charlevoix High School Sunday evening.

We have enjoyed using the new Hymnals the past two Sundays that were given in memory of Rev. and Mrs. Guy W. Simon by their Family.

supply, but there isn't any more with the new lines being put up.

"Why it wasn't done before me, I don't know," Hansen continued.

Supernaw then asked if he thought the city administrator was competent.

Hansen said that Wexstaff was there by circumstance because somebody had to do the job and council wouldn't accept the man he offered last August.

"Will you make him permanent," Supernaw asked about Assessor Wexstaff's temporary appointment to city administrator.

"I'm waiting for the council," Hansen replied.

Hansen said if people only had any idea of the problems the city has been having trying to catch up.

"We should start trying to work together," he said.

He said we should start trying to have some harmony with the community and in the news media.

Supernaw then asked the city council if any of them would like to express their dissatisfaction with the city administrator.

"I think we need a city administrator," said Councilman Ralph McRae.

"It's really too much for one person."

Councilman George Plumm said the city needs a qualified city administrator.

"I've asked for it three times and haven't gotten anywhere," he said.

After further discussion, the council agreed to have a committee composed of McRae, Wallace and Plumm establish both a job description and guidelines for hiring a qualified city administrator.

Garden Awards

Every two weeks, members of the Charlevoix Garden Club tour the city to find the gardens they consider worthy of their Garden Club plaque.

They judge not only flowers but lawns, shrubbery, trees and vegetables. Often it is very difficult to choose one garden over another, they say.

So far this year, they have awarded the Plaque to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trost, 202 East Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. John Klooster, 1024 May; Mrs. Anna Burlin, 203 Cherry; Mr. and Mrs. L.E. McGhan, 502 West Upright; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Clifford, 300 Meech.

Honorable mention has gone to Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Wright, 107 Wood.

The McGhans, one of the present holders of the Plaque, were cited for their vegetable garden—"peas almost ready to pick" and asparagus; berries, English walnut tree soon to bear nuts; moss roses; hibiscus (unusual for this far north); the well kept lawn; and screened compost heap.

The Cliffords' garden of iris, snowball bush and neat yard also impressed the judges.

Golf

Lynn Janson, who is now assistant pro at the Country Club of Lansing and who did survive the cut-off to end up in the money though not among the top winners.

Randy Erskine of Battle Creek, the '72 winner, has also joined the pro circuit.

Bob Wallace of the Belvedere Club said not too many familiar names can be found on the list of this year's entries. "Probably 80 per cent of those who survived the handicap of four are 23 years old or younger. Because of the popularity of the sport on college campuses as well as at clubs and public links, the real contenders are to be found among the young players. As a result, you don't see many old-timers competing for the Michigan Amateur title", Wallace continued.

Among the area golfers who teed off today were Fred Zinn of Petoskey, Phillip T. Harrison of Harbor Springs and Kim Hocquard of East Jordan. Bruce Fairbanks of Grand Rapids, a former local resident, is also entered.

After 36 holes of medal play at the Belvedere and Harbor Point courses, the defending champion, Bob Chapman, and 63 other players will begin match play on Thursday, playing two matches each day with the semi-finals scheduled for Saturday morning and the finals for Saturday afternoon.

However, in case of inclement weather, the playoffs may be postponed as much as one day.

PLANNED USE REPORT
GENERAL REVENUE SHARING

General Revenue Sharing provides federal funds directly to local and state governments. The law requires each government to publish a report of its plans for the use of these funds to inform its citizens and to encourage their participation in deciding how the money ought to be spent. Within the purposes listed, your government may change this spending plan.

Ironton Ferry Still Not Completed Yet

The Ironton ferry repair work will probably not be completed by the end of June as planned.

Irvin H. Sturm, engineer-director of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, said that the work is going "slowly" and that his crews cannot do the work on the approaches until W. A. Porter, the contractor, has finished his part of the construction.

Dennis Jason, office manager for Porter, told the Courier last week that it has been a "long, involved job – different from the way it started out".

However, the ramps are in position and they are installing the winches and hooking up the cables. If the few missing parts are received as scheduled, the construction work could be finished by June 28 and the ferry in operation by July 4, according to Jason.

"It will be a fine looking structure when finished", he said, "and should serve the county for as long as they need it".

Top Contest Winners

CHARLEVOIX – Two area fishermen were the top winners in the lake trout and steelhead contest held here under the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce each week.

Bruce Bacon of Cadillac entered a 14 pound one ounce lake trout in that division and Harold Black of Charlevoix with a 13 pound five ounce steelhead was top winner in his division. In fact, Black had the only entry in the steelhead category.

The contest started June 2 and closed at 5 p.m. the following Saturday when the contest for the following week begins.

Prizes of merchandise are given for weekly winners which then become eligible for the grand prizes of $500 for the largest lake trout and $400 for the largest steelhead caught between June 2 and the time the contest closes in late fall.

Those wishing to enter the contest may enter by paying a $2 fee for the week or $5 for the season.

Ward Bros. fish market is the official weighing station.

City Greenskeeper

Warren Belding--A Poet

The sun was just beginning to peak above the tree tops as Charlevoix's Warren Belding began another day of work.

Warm gentle breezes blew across the dew-covered green grasses of the municipal golf courses when the 27-year-old slender man mounted his small riding tracotr lawn mower.

It was another day.

But, that's what Belding likes most about an early morning sunrise.

It's a new day--you keep getting a new chance, day after day.

Belding is the person you see every day if you drive past the golf course on your way to work.

However, he's not like most greenskeepers.

In fact, the Charlevoix resident is a published poet.

The son of a local artist, Belding just moved back to Charlevoix after being away from his home town the last eight years to work and go to college.

And now he's able to do one of his favorite things--be outdoors and work on a golf course.

Belding first got interested when he worked as a laborer for the Belvedere Club for part of a summer.

From there, he joined a friend in Ann Arbor and did landscape work for the rest of the summer.

"The next year, I started working at Michigan State University," he said about continuing to work on the university golf course for five years.

And then for the last two years before coming back to Charlevoix, he worked at Indian Hills Golf Course in the Lansing suburb of Okemos.

His last year there, he became the greenskeeper.

Like a poet, Belding is almost philosophical about his work.

"I guess what I'm doing is taking a natural setting, which has to do with plant life and try to make it look as attractive as it can look," he said.

"It's kind of a special thrill for me when you combine Mother Nature with a game."

"It's like turning the earth into a battleground."

Belding says he has always been interested in the out-of-doors.

As a youngster, he said a day hardly went by when he wasn't fishing.

He also constantly played basketball outside.

"It's important for me to be outdoors," he said.

As far as being a greenskeeper, Belding says it's a summer job that has turned into a business.

Keeping a golf course in good shape takes more than just hard work, he says. It requires a knowledge of growing seasons, grasses and fertilizers.

"Keeping people satisfied with golf courses is kinda of a chore," he continued.

People expect the greens to be in top condition, as well as the equipment available for their use, such as ball washers and towels at each green.

Personally, Belding says one of his biggest concerns is keeping both the woods and courses free from trash.

"I would like to see a little community cooperation as far as cleanliness," remarking that while Charlevoix's situation isn't too bad, it could be improved.

Also important with the operation of a golf course is cooperation between the maintenance people and pro-shop, which Belding says has been particularly good in Charlevoix.

"Bill Graves has done a good job," he said.

Belding said he spends most of his time mowing the lawns with the assistance of Steve Kidder.

Riding on a lawn mower for many hours at a time gives a person alot of time to think.

"You get a chance to think about family planning," Belding said. Both he and his wife, Sue, have one child.

But the time by himself, also gives him a chance to mentally work out some of his writing.

"You pick up a lot of things for writing," he said.

Belding says he writes a lot of character sketches, as well as flashbacks in time.

He has had one poem published in a California anthology.

Most of his poetry deals with the conflict between small town life and big city bureacracy.

Library notes

By ELEANOR RATIGAN

The Charlevoix County Democratic Party has presented the Library with a copy of The Presidential Transcripts, with commentary by the staff of The Washington Post. This bound edition contains the complete transcripts of the Nixon tapes, and there is important reading and study in this book for every American.

On Oct. 12, 1972, a Fairchild F-227 of the Uruguayan Air Force, chartered by an amuteur rugby team, set off from Montevideo in Uruguay for Santiago in Chile. There were reports of bad weather over the Andes, and when the control tower received no answer from Santiago, search planes were sent up, but after eight days, the search was fruitless.

It was early spring in the Andes and there had been exceptionally heavy falls of snow.

There was little chance that the plane would ever be found, and less chance still that any of the 45 passengers and crew could have survived the crash. Alive, the story of the 16 survivors, was written by Piers Paul Read, author of five novels, who was commissioned to write the authorized version of the tragic and grim experience.

For 70-odd days, this pitiful bundle of humanity formed a strange, barbaric civilization. Their rations became human flesh. Alive gets pretty gruesome, but it is especially interesting because, with one exception, the group had identical backgrounds: young, Catholic, upper middle class, friends and rugby team mates before the disaster.

It is a social study in cowardice, selfishness, heroism. A vital, savage story with enduring significance.

Either you like Philip Roth or you don't. Since Portnoy's Complaint, he has, in any case, become one of the most successful Literary figures. The reviews have been pro and con, concerning his new book My Life as a Man. It has been hailed as a work of genuis and condemned as a dismal Failure. One foremost critics said: "I hope Roth has gotten rid of his private demons by writing the book."

Actually the book is a kind of sequel to "Portney", giving a real life account of what happened to the young author when he fell into marriage and trouble in his mid-twenties. The first part of the book contains two previously published stories – one very good, the other quite tedious. The 3rd part of the book is a fictionalized autobiography. We invite Philip Roth fans to read this new book and form their own opinions.

If you want to keep your secret, don't get elected President of the United States. Thomas Jefferson was probably not much more divided between his private passions and his public professions than other politicians, but he was by temperment and philosophy a natural opponent of slavery who owned 10,000 acres and many slaves.

One of these slaves, a lovely, almost white quadroon, became, at 16, his concubine and bore him five children, all of whom knew who their father was. After his death, by his will, they were either freed or allowed to leave voluntarily.

The splendid intimate biography of Thomas Jefferson, was written by Fawn Brodie, professor of history of the Univ. of Calif. It is a fascinating and responsible book, and it is the most sensitive account yet written about this slave who belonged to Thomse Jefferson in all senses of the word, Professor Brodie has the grace to describe him, not as a hypocrite but as a self-defeating Virginian who wanted to do better than he did but did not always know what he wanted.

Even after one reads all the evidence, one has the oddest disbelief about the whole story. It hapened, yes, but, my goodness, to Thomas Jefferson!!!

County Adopts New Sanitary Code

Residents of Charlevoix County who want to install water wells in the future will have to receive permits from the District Health Department if proposed amendments to the District Sanitary code are adopted by the County Board of Commissioners.

The proposed amendments were submitted to the commissioners at their regular meeting last week by Dean Mikulski of the health department.

The section on water wells is an entirely new section of the Sanitary Code.

It provides in part, "An application for a construction permit to install a water well shall be required and signed by the applicant.

A plan of the proposed construction with such data as the Health Officer may require shall be submitted on forms supplied by the District Dept. of Health, together with a fee of $10.00 for an application to construct a water well."

The Health Officer would have the right to reject an application where a publicly operated water system is available, where the property served lacks sufficient area to isolate well from premise sewage system, or existing sewage systems, and where ponding or flooding are known to occur.

A private water supply would have to be located 50 feet from a septic tank, tile field, absorption bed or other sewer lines.

Contaminated water supplies are defined as those showing coliform organisms present in two samples of water taken by the Health Officer at least seven days apart.

"Contaminated water supplies used by tenants, employees, or other persons besides the owner and his family shall be repaired or replaced to meet the requirements of this Code within a time period specified by the Health Officer", the Code reads.

Also, "Contaminated water supplies which in the judgement of the Health Officer represent an immediate health hazard shall be posted with suitable signs at each outlet, or the outlets shall be made inoperative".

Other proposed changes in the Sanitary Code deal mainly with on site sewage disposal.

Homes with one to three bedrooms would require a septic tank of 1,000 gallon capacity.

Previously, the Code required a 750 gallon tank for homes with two or fewer bedrooms. Homes with more than three bedrooms would require a septic tank capacity of 250 gallons over 1,000 gallons for each bedroom.

There are also proposed changes in the minimum number of feet a septic tank may be placed from various natural and artificial points.

Senior Division Sign-Up

Charlevoix's 13-15 year olds will be swinging bats yet this year. Doug Wilkes, president of the Charlevoix Little League, has announced a Senior Division Sign-Up to be held Wednesday, June 19, in the Community Room, City Hall at 7:00 p.m.

All boys interested in Senior Division baseball should sign up at that time, accompanied by a parent and a birth certificate.

A great amount of effort has gove into getting a Senior Division for Charlevoix, and a good turn out if hoped for.

County Purchases Gasoline Storage

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department will soon have its own gasoline storage tank. As the result of action taken by the Board of Commissioners last week, an 1100 gallon tank will be installed near the sheriff's headquarters for use by all sheriff's vehicles.

Up to this time the fuel has been bought from various local gasoline stations, with access to at least one station on a 24-hour basis.

Having their own tank will eliminate the necessity of the sheriff's department applying for tax rebates on gasoline purchased from individual stations.

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES

JUNE 3, 1974
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Wallace, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Absent: Alderman Fochtman.

Motion was made by Alderman Timms and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the minutes of the May 20, 1974 regular meeting be accepted as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The minutes of the Special meeting held May 22, 1974 were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book: and the minutes of the Special meeting held May 28, 1974 were approved after correction was made, as to Councilwoman Wallace's explanation of her nay vote which said explanation is corrected to read as follows: "I did not object to acting on the salaries, even though I voted nay as to the salary question."

Council recessed to the Board of Appeals.

Council reconvened. Roll call was taken with Aldermen present: Wallace, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Absent: Alderman Fochtman.

Bids for a street sweeper were opened and tabulated as follows:

The representatives from R. G. Moeller and AIS Construction Equip. stated that the copies of bid documents that they had received said nothing about a trade-in. The bids were referred to committee for final tabulation and evaluation.

Mr. James Hiller was present asking for a definite answer from Council regarding repairs to his property, namely: replacement of sidewalk, shrubs and sod caused when W. A. Porter moved into Charlevoix Lumber property to work on the Bridge Street Sanitary Relief Sewer.

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Timms that the City of Charlevoix will proceed and see that the concrete sidewalk is repaired, the shrubbery and sod replaced at the Charlevoix Lumber Company, which was destroyed by the City's operation. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Fochtman.

Ralph Hess was present to explain that LaCroft was not trying to obtain City property by removing the sidewalk on West Dixon Ave., but after requesting the feasibility of removing it and planting trees and never getting an answer to his request, they went ahead with it. He agreed that they would put a 48" sidewalk up to the curb and gravel around the tree that is still standing.

Mr. Robert Cook announced his concern for children playing on the Citgo property on Ferry Avenue, which is no longer being used by the company. The administrator was asked to write Citgo (Cities Service Oil Company) stating the problem and asking their co-operation in the matter.

Alderman McRae offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace. RESOLUTION regarding the splitting of property owned by Anthony R. Stabnick and Wilma Stabniek. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Tims. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Fochtman.

Correspondence dated May 22, 1974 from the State Department of Transportation was discussed, asking the City of Charlevoix to make a statement of their intent regarding the Airport. The Acting Administrator was directed to send them a letter to this effect.

Correspondence dated May 16, 1974 from the District Health Department regarding the Norman D. Ance Industrial Park was circulated. No action was taken.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Plumm that the City hire the Chamber of Commerce in the amount of $500 to promote the City of Charlevoix in the Michigan Golf Tournament. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Fochtman.

Discussion took place over the extension of the sewer on Stover Road, East of May Street while the contractor is here working on the May Street Sewer. Also the Mayor announced that the township would like to have the sewer extended from Petoskey Avenue to the Char-Em School on Mercer Blvd - the Township being willing to install the line. These two items were put into the Committee for study, Monday June 10, 1974 at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Alvin Ranger explained the working of a "Sewer Authority" and told Council this might be a good way for the Township and City to go, since the Waste Water Treatment Plant had been planned with this in mind. He announced that at the Regional Planning meeting to be held June 7, 1974 at 12:00 at the Weathervane, organization of a Sewer Authority is to be discussed by an engineer from Williams and Works, and invited Council members to attend.

Motion was made by Alderman Timms and supported by Alderman Selph that Ralph McRae be appointed to fill the unexpired term of Richard Fochtman to the Regional Planning Commission. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Fochtman

Alderman McRae offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption supported by Alderman Plumm

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Richard Fochtman has tendered his resignation as First Ward Alderman effective immediately

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED That, the City Council regretfully accepts his resignation and convey to him an expression of its commendation and gratefully acknowledge his valued services rendered in the public interest as a member of the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Acting City Administrator was instructed to write a letter to Mr. Fochtman, conveying the Councils' regrets.

Moved by Alderman Selph and supported by Alderman Timms that Ray Wood be appointed to fill the unexpired term of Alderman Fochtman. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Plumm offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Selph.

RESOLUTION

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED That the Electric Fund cash C.D. No. 1191 for $15,000 due June 4, 1974 and loan it to the Public Improvement Fund.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Plumm offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Timms.

RESOLUTION

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED That the Electric Fund loan the Water Sanitation and Special Assessment Fund $28,830.52.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Plumm, to reconsider the question of May 6, 1974, regarding the Clerk's salary as set by the Compensation Commission Committee. Motion was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: none. Absent: None.

RESOLUTION of May 6, 1974

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Plumm to reconsider the question of May 6, 1974 regarding the Mayor's salary as set by the Compensation Commission Committee. Motion was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

RESOLUTION of May 6, 1974

BE IT RESOLVED That Council not accept the determination by the Compensation Commission Committee for the salary set for the Mayor and that Council revise it since it is too low for time spent by the Mayor during his term of office.

The Resolution was defeated by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: None. Nays: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Absent: None.

Alderman Selph offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS a vacancy has been created for the office of Mayor-protem due to the resignation of Alderman Richard Fochtman

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED That Alderman Timms be appointed to fill this vacancy.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Selph that the Little League Hardball team be granted the use of the former Vane Smith property, north of the Municipal Golf Course and that the City Attorney draw up an agreement with the Little League. Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace registered a complaint of an unkempt vacant lot on Meech Street, and asked that it be mowed and charged to the owned. She also asked that something be done about the park benches in East Park and that several bare spots be re-sodded. She questioned getting water to the garden plots and was told the faulty hydrant would be repaired soon.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $159,695.87 find them correct and recommend that the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None, Absent, None.

Moved by Alderwoman Wallace that Council adjourn.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

PUFFPAFF

SAN ANTONIO--Airman Gary L. Puffpaff, son of Mrs. Joyce E. Klein of 126 Jackson St., Saranac, Mich., has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Puffpaff is a 1968 graduate of Saranac High School. His wife, Pamella, is the daughter of Mrs. Jackie Cummings, 400 Lexington Drive, Hope Mills, N.C.

The airman's father, Fritz A. Puffpaff, resides at 109 E. Upright Ave., Charlevoix, Mich.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Chanute for specialized training in the missile electronics field.

Kirby

Ft. Knox, Ky.--Army private Leonard G. Kirby, son of Mrs. Esther Kirby, Route 1, Ellsworth, Mich., completed eight weeks of basic training at the U.S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and army history and traditions.

A graduation party was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boyer, Sr. for their son, Howard, Jr., Thursday June 6, following his graduation from the Boyne City High School. Attending were friends of the area and relatives from Saginaw and Chicago. He received several gifts. Last week, on Thursday evening, June 13, Howard celebrated his 18th birthday, at a party, with friends, at his home, hosted by his parents.

Sunday afternoon, June 2, 100 friends and relatives attended an open house at the home of Mrs. Lois Elzinga, honoring her daughter, Patty Sitzema, on her graduation Sunday evening from the Charlevoix High School. Relatives attending the open house and graduation were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hair and family of Madison Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Garver, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnecheck and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome (Marion) Kimble and daughter Gay, Mrs. Frank Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Quinton White, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Oaks and family of Williamsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Naomi) Bacon of Traverse City and Mrs. Euin Pritchard and Mrs. Jessie Lucas, both of Horton Bay.

Miss Dixie Garver of Petoskey visited a few days recently, at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Garver.

Mr. Ed Koteskey of Horton Bay will be the guest speaker, Sunday, June 23, at the 11 a.m. worship service at the Charlevoix Community Church of God, in the absence of the pastor. Rev. and Mrs. William P. Seibert, are attending the International Convocation and General Assembly of the Church of God, at Anderson, Indiana. Pastor Seibert will be meeting with the Program Committee, in Anderson, to finalize the program for Michigan General Assembly, to be held in October.

Mrs. Lawrence (Ruth) Montgomery of Oyster Bay is a patient at Beverly Manor Convalescent Center in Petoskey.

Mrs. John (Karen) Christie of Boston is visiting several days with her mother, Mrs. Betty Inman. She and her mother drove to Zanesville, Ohio for a few days' visit with relatives and returned to Charlevoix last weekend. On June 23, Mrs. Christie will be flying to Allentown, Pennsylvania, to join her husband, Dr. Christie, and they will visit his parents for a few days, before they leave on July 1 to fly to St. Lucia Islands, for a period of three years. The Doctor will work there in the laboratory, as a zoologist.

Mrs. Inman's other daughter, Beth and husband, the Gary Stewarts, visited a few days here and left on Friday to return to East Lansing to attend summer school at Michigan State University.

Wednesday evening, a family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter (Virginia) Jarvis, with her sister, Mrs. Inman, as guest of honor, celebrating her birthday. Attending the dinner were Karen Christie, Beth and Gary Stewart, Mrs. Albert (Marge) Staley and Jeff Jarvis.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Vargo of Detroit and two retired school teachers of Lincoln Park and a retired teacher of Charlevoix, attended the funeral services of Mrs. Vargo's mother, Mrs. Clara Nemeth of Bay Shore, on Monday, June 10. Friends and neighbors of the Bay Shore area served dinner to the family at the Raby home following the service.

Mr. and Mrs. David Stolt and family spent last weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Courser at Portland.
